No-Mixing Pressed In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. asked the Legislature Wednesday for a state tuition grants program to permit Virginia parents to choose immediately between private schools or sending their children to racially-mixed classrooms.

And underlying Almond's address to a special session of the General Assembly were indications that Virginia may later attempt a private schools program rather than accept racial integration. But he saw no way to stave off re-opening of schools with mixed classrooms next week.

Almond told the lawmakers that public schools in Virginia may have to be abandoned because of the integration crisis.

For the present, however, he asked only for tuition grants and repeal of compulsory school attendance laws. Federal courts have ordered integration in schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville, Arlington and Front Royal, and Virginia's earlier "massive resistance" laws, which closed some schools, have been struck down.

Almond laid a brief emergency plan before the legislators, then gave broad hints that a drastic overhaul leading to a system of private schools might be the state's long-range answer to integration orders.

Almond emphasized that Virginia has not given up its fight to maintain segregation.

"She has not surrendered and she does not surrender now," he told the hastily-summoned special session. This vow drew the biggest ovation from the lawmakers.

The governor's basic plea was for an immediate system of tuition grants for the students who do not wish them to attend integrated schools.

Program 'Practically Dead'

GI Home Loans Rate Hike Urged

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The GI Home loan program was pictured Wednesday as "practically dead."

Carl T. Mitnick, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the 4¾ per cent interest rate on government-insured GI home mortgages is inadequate to attract investment funds.

Mitnick, a Merchantville, N.J., builder, told a Senate housing subcommittee that his association favors boosting the GI interest rate to 5¼ per cent — the same as the Federal Housing Administration rate.

He also proposed creation of a central mortgage reserve facility to stabilize housing credit, particularly on lower-cost homes.

The only alternative, Mitnick said, is for Congress to provide the Federal National Mortgage Association with a billion dollars in special assistance funds for purchase of home mortgages which cannot otherwise be marketed at current interest rates.

He said that even this alternative would provide only temporary relief because the problem will arise again when the special aid fund is exhausted and if GI interest rates remain below marketable levels.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R., N.Y.), observing that the GI mortgage plan was devised as a special benefit to veterans, asked Mitnick "how would we be favoring the veterans" if interest rates were put on a par with FHA loans.

Mitnick said there still would be advantages in a GI mortgage because of no down payment and no insurance premium payment. They are required with FHA.

Ike Going To Mexico Next Month

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday accepted an invitation from Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos to visit him in Acapulco Feb. 19-20.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles relayed word of the President's acceptance to Antonio Carrillo Flores, the new Mexican ambassador to Washington.

Dulles emphasized that the visit between the two presidents at the famous Mexican beach resort would be informal.

This will preclude the ceremonies which would be involved in a state visit to the Mexican capital, Mexico City.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower plans to fly to Thomasville, Ga. next week for five or six days of quail shooting and golf.

The White House announced Wednesday that Eisenhower hopes to leave Feb. 4 or Feb. 5. He expects to return to Washington Feb. 9.

At Thomasville the President will be the guest of George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the Treasury.

Tried to Get Him Insurance, Witness Says

Hoffa Pal Aided Dio, Probers Told

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Chicago insurance man who handled Teamster Union policies tried unsuccessfully to buy life insurance for Gangster Johnny Dio, a Senate investigator testified Wednesday.

The testimony was given by John P. Findlay as the Senate Rackets Committee dug into activities of Allen Dorfman, friend of Teamster Boss James R. Hoffa.

Findlay said Dorfman even paid the first premium—$684—in an attempt to persuade Union Casualty Life to issue the policy on Dio.

But, Findlay said, the company refused the policy on grounds that Dio was a bad credit risk.

He testified that Dorfman gave the insurance company a high recommendation for Dio although Dio's check to Dorfman for the life insurance premium had bounced three times.

Findlay said another man with a criminal record got life insurance through Dorfman but never made any premium payments. The man was identified as Gus Zapes. Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Zapes had served time in the Indiana Penitentiary, had a record of 45 arrests, and was hired as an organizer for the Indiana Teamsters.

Findlay also testified that Dorfman paid premiums for Hoffa and other Teamster officials on occasion — in violation of an Illinois insurance regulation against payment of premiums for clients without charging interest. He said Hoffa and the others were expected to repay about $3,600 paid as premiums by Dorfman.

The committee was told earlier by Findlay that Dorfman deposited in his own bank account $51,461.66 of union welfare fund insurance premiums.

Findlay said that not until after the committee began an investigation did Dorfman forward the money to the insurance company for which the premiums were intended.

He said that under Illinois law Dorfman was required to turn over the premium payments within 90 days.

But, he said, instead of making the payments to the Mt. Vernon Insurance Co., Dorfman used the money to meet expenses of his business enterprises.

Findlay continued that on March 11, 1957, Dorfman wrote a check to the insurance company for $39,155.35 of the premiums.

He said another check for $12,155.31 was drawn to the company by Dorfman June 12, 1957, but that Dorfman endorsed it with a rubber stamp, then signed his own name and deposited it in his insurance agency account.

"In other words, this money had been misappropriated from the insurance company?" Chairman John McClellan (D., Ark.) asked. Findlay agreed.

The money involved, Findlay said, was paid by members of Local 1031 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for welfare and pension insurance they elected to keep in effect during periods of layoff or temporary leave from their jobs.

Under that action by the workers, he said, they paid the portion of the premiums that would have been paid by employers.

Fidel Reported Ordering New Trial for Sosa

By ROBERT GRUENBERG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

HAVANA—Fidel Castro was reported Wednesday to have ordered a completely new trial for Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who was sentenced to death last week.

An aide close to the rebel leader said Castro wants the retrial because the atmosphere created by radio-television coverage of Sosa's trial "did not constitute a full measure of justice."

Sosa, who, last Friday was sentenced to be executed, had complained that the trial was a Roman circus.

About 30,000 persons jeered and shouted at him during the trial in the Havana Sports Palace.

Castro is reported to have said that the radio-TV coverage was "unfortunate" because it stimulated witnesses to become actors.

Castro was said to have acted on the principle that a new trial for Sosa under different circumstances would be favorable to the Cuban people. No date has been set for the retrial.

Another showcase war crimes trial of Batista army officers was postponed Wednesday for celebrations of the 106th birthday of Jose Marti, Cuba's George Washington.

Ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes, also is expected to appeal the death sentence given him Tuesday.

The foreign diplomatic corps delivered a serious rebuff to Cuba's revolutionary government Wednesday for its refusal to live up to existing international agreements concerning the right of diplomatic asylum.

Castro Hit On Right Of Asylum

HAVANA, Cuba—(UPI)—In the first major departure from the friendly editorial attitude Havana newspapers had maintained so far towards Fidel Castro's revolutionary government, the leading dailies Diario de la Marina and El Mundo took the government to task Wednesday for not respecting the right of diplomatic asylum.

El Mundo said in an editorial that it supported the foreign diplomatic corps' insistence that the government live up to its agreements in the matter of asylum.

The government announced last week that the cases of 86 persons still refuged in foreign embassies here will be reviewed and decided on their individual merits. The action brought a formal protest from the diplomatic corps.

"This is not a question between right and wrong," El Mundo's editorial said. "We either comply fully with our international obligations or we turn our back on them with all attendant consequences . . . Cuba is bound to honor its international obligations."

Diario de la Marina also supported the position of the foreign diplomatic corps. "The solution of this unnecessary problem should not be delayed," it said. "Cuba should restore the full right of asylum, in conformance with existing treaties . . ."

Havana newspapers without dissent have supported the revolutionary government's trials and executions of Batista "war criminals."

The nearest any daily had come to expressing any dissent with the revolutionary government was a front-page editorial in Avance, signed by Editor Jorge Zayas, saying it was time the revolutionaries start on the less spectacular but no less necessary task of getting the administrative apparatus of government under way and giving

Miami Train Is Derailed

NORTH EAST, Md. —(AP)— The New York to Miami train Silver Meteor was delayed by a minor derailment. No one was hurt.

A railroad spokesman said the front wheels of the 17-car train's observation car derailed and delayed trains on another track. It was the last car of the train.

The spokesman said trains should not be running more than 20 to 30 minutes late because of the derailment.

North East is in the northeastern corner of Maryland.

Rolando Masferrer
. . . Tiger on the lam

RODOLFO

RAIMUNDO

Castro's No. 2 Foe Hides Here

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Rolando Masferrer, most feared man in the old Batista Cuban regime, was in hiding in Miami Wednesday along with two brothers and a pair of henchmen.

Masferrer arrived here from a U.S. detention camp at McAllen, Tex., where he had been held for safekeeping after fleeing Cuba by boat on Jan. 1.

Allowed to travel at will, Masferrer and his buddies still are "on parole," according to U.S. Immigration officials, and remain "on call" if and when the government wants them.

At Houston, en route here, Masferrer said Fidel Castro could best begin social reforms "by shaving and taking a bath."

"Perhaps after he gets himself cleaned up, I will return to Cuba," he told reporters. Masferrer said he "might be away from home for a year or two, but I'm willing to pay that price to see him shaved and clean."

There's little likelihood, however, that Masferrer or any member of his family will return to their homeland while the new revolutionary government is in power.

Rolando Masferrer is No. 2 on the Cuban rebels' wanted list, topped only by former President Fulgencio Batista himself. He's one notch ahead of Col. Esteban Ventura, former Havana police chief, more familiarly known as "The Butcher."

Masferrer was the leader of a private army known as the "Tigers," and was regarded as Batista's private executioner.

Publisher of Havana and Santiago newspapers, Masferrer's power was second only to that of Batista himself.

He claimed Wednesday that both newspapers were looted and burned by the rebels and that machinery from one had been turned over to the publishers of Havana's newspaper Hoy which he called a "Communist periodical."

Masferrer also operated, without license or payments to other than Batista himself, a chain of "penny gambling" casinos and grew wealthy on the nickel-and-dime losses of the low-income Cuban workers.

With Rolando are his brothers, Raimundo and Rodolfo, a former Army Col. Julio Laurent and Alcides Perez.

Rodolfo was attacked in Hialeah last spring by three young rebels who beat him and sent him screaming to refuge in a department store.

20-Point Proposal Would Put Unions In Goldfish Bowl

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Eisenhower urged Congress Wednesday to enact a sweeping labor reform bill to compel unions to operate in a spotlight of public scrutiny in an effort to rid the labor movement of racketeers and corrupt leaders.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), the author of a more moderate measure, promptly declared that the President went too far in demanding that the Taft-Hartley law be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts and to outlaw coercive picketing.

"For 12 or 13 years, we've tried to do too much and have accomplished nothing," Kennedy said. He said the proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley act would lessen the chances of passage this year of any bill to require unions to follow more democratic procedures.

Kennedy said his Senate labor subcommittee will consider basic changes in the Taft-Hartley law after it finishes work on his labor reform bill, which received the endorsement of the AFL-CIO at the opening of hearings Wednesday.

But the President told Congress in a special message that "complete and effective labor-management legislation, not a piecemeal program, is essential . . ."

He said hs 20-point bill would eliminate union abuses exposed by the Senate Rackets Committee, "protect the public interest, and insure the rights and economic freedom of millions of American workers."

At the same time, he said, it would not impose "arbitrary restrictions or punitive measures on the legitimate activities of honest labor and management officials."

His proposals, virtually the same as the ones he made last year, would require labor unions to make public their financial operations, to elect officers by secret ballot, and to operate otherwise in a goldfish bowl to protect the interests of rank-and-file members.

The President recommended that Taft-Hartley be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts, to extend the non-Communist affidavit requirement to employers as well as union leaders, and to outlaw "blackmail" picketing designed to force an employer to recognize a union as bargaining agent against the wishes of his employes.

He also demanded that Congress enact criminal penalties for such "wilful violations" of the law as "bribery between employers and employe representatives" and "embezzlement of union funds." He asked that the Labor secretary be granted subpena powers to enforce the law.

U.S. Inches Toward Big 4 Talks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday nudged the U.S. a step closer to a Big Four meeting with Russia that might head off an angry May 27 showdown on Berlin.

He told his news conference such talks would be useful if they "deal fruitfully" with East-West differences. He said the U.S. long had sought a broad agreement with Russia that would serve as the framework for specific pacts later.

His statement followed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remark Tuesday that a Big Four conference this spring on European problems would be timely. Dulles warned Wednesday, however, that the U.S. never would accept Russia's terms blindly.

The President gave his views after he was reminded that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan had indicated Russia might postpone or withdraw its May 27 deadline for turning East Berlin over to the German Communists if East-West talks were under way by then.

If Russia should go through with its threat, the U.S. might be faced with the problem of crashing through a Red blockade. The President has said this country will fight if necessary to maintain its position in West Berlin.

Asked if he favored starting East-West talks before the Soviet deadline, the President praised the value of talks if they promised to lead to a solution of Soviet-American differences. In effect, he took a positive attitude toward an early Big Four meeting.

Discussing GOP politics, Eisenhower said that like everyone who took a "middle of the road" position he was attacked from both sides.

He added that anyone who

Ike and Warren Deny They're on the Outs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren denied Wednesday that they were angry at each other.

The President said a newspaper story that his relationship with Warren had become "cold and distant" because of certain Supreme Court decisions was "irresponsible reporting."

The chief justice said "the story merits no comment. It is wholly without foundation."

The report attracted considerable attention because it was written by Robert J. Donovan, chief of The New York Herald Tribune's Washington staff. Donovan wrote a book about Eisenhower's first term which was considered a semi-official account.

The Donovan story said the chief justice was "pained" because he felt the President failed to take firm action to back up the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

It said the President was put out by Warren's liberal stand on recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating anti-subversive laws.

Eisenhower seemed surprised when The Herald Tribune story was brought up at the news conference, interrupting three times to make sure he was getting the sense of the questions.

But he answered quickly and in a serious tone.

"Well, so far as I am concerned, here is some irresponsible reporting," Eisenhower said.

He reminded the newsmen that he never commented on Supreme Court decisions and went on to say: "I have regarded the chief justice as my personal friend for years, and I know of no personal rift of any kind."

Battle Shapes Up In Legislature on State Printing Jobs

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE—State Rep. John E. Mathews Jr. said Wednesday that he will ask the Legislature to investigate state printing practices when it convenes in April.

Mathews lost a similar fight in 1957 when he tried to put printing under the state's central purchasing system. He said he is renewing the battle because he wants to be sure all bidders on printing jobs "get a fair shake" and that there is no waste by various state agencies.

Contracts for state printing jobs now are awarded by individual state agencies.

Mathews' chief foe two years ago was Charles Rosenberg, president of Rose Printing Co. in Tallahassee, who also has owner interests in Publishers' Press of Miami and other firms. He was a registered lobbyist for the printing industry.

The comptroller's records show that state printing costs average two million dollars a year. Rosenberg said in 1958 his company got almost $700,000 of this state business.

Rosenberg, a director of the Printing Industry of Florida (a trade association), said the group probably will discuss its position on any change in laws relating to printing bids at its meeting Feb. 1 at Boca Raton.

But he asserted that in his opinion "we have tighter laws now relating to printing bids that we would have under the purchasing council."

He said individual state agencies now are required to invite three bids on a printing job costing as little as one dollar. But, he asserted, under the central purchasing system bids would be invited only on items costing more than $1,000 and have to be advertised for only on purchases costing more than $2,000.

Mathews said he did not know what specific legislation he would propose but felt that a procedure should be set up under central purchasing to regulate printing. The lawmaker said he was not bent on criticizing any one printing firm or state agency.

Mathews referred to a check which showed that letterheads for different state agencies on the same quality paper ranged from four dollars to $17 a thousand.

"I would like to know why all of the agencies can't use the same quality of paper for letter writing and buy it at the same price," the Jacksonville legislator said.

Rosenberg said the cost differential resulted because the rate fluctuates with the volume ordered and the specifications required by the individual agency.

He added that the proximity of his Tallahassee plant and "the fact we have the largest facilities of anybody in Florida," gave his firm an edge on some jobs. He pointed to the legislative printing in which his company turns out Senate and House journals and copies overnight after each daily session.

Two years ago Gov. LeRoy Collins called for a governmental reorganization which would have set up a department of purchasing commission but would exempt printing from its control.

The governor said over the years previous attempts to set up a broad central purchasing program had met defeat because they included printing.

Mathews amended the bill to include printing. Prominent among those lobbying for the amendment was Al Block, Rosenberg's brother-in-law and former partner, who left the firm when their partnership was dissolved in a bitter legal battle.

The amended bill passed the House 67 to 9 but when it got to the Senate it was soundly defeated.

Charles Ausley, close friend and former law partner of Gov. Collins, is attorney for Rose Printing Co. and is listed as a vice president of the firm.

Ausley said he had urged defeat of the Mathews amendment because he was afraid it would kill the governor's entire purchasing program.

Rosenberg laughed at a business magazine article listing him as one of the state's most influential men and crediting him with being the capital's champion party-giver.

"We probably give five or six parties each session but there are a lot of folks who give more parties than we do. They give them year-round," he said.

Supermarket Wage Pact Negotiated

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Management and Clerks Union representatives reached agreement early Wednesday on a new five-year contract that is expected to end a 28-day strike-lockout in 1,000 supermarkets.

Operators of the markets, closed since New Year's, said they hope to reopen today. Some reportedly began restocking their counters with meats and other perishables Tuesday when agreement appeared imminent.

The agreement is subject to union membership ratification but in previous disputes the members have gone along with agreements reached by their negotiators.

Clerks will get a hike of $6 weekly, or 15½ cents an hour, the first year. Another raise of $4.60 a week, or 11½ cents an hour, will be forthcoming the second year.

Further annual raises will be received until the fifth year when the total wage hike will have reached 49 cents an hour and the base pay for journeymen clerks will be $111.60 a week.

The new pact also provides for dental and psychiatric care — described as innovations in labor contracts — and sets up insurance for retired and injured workers. In addition, the contract maintains health and welfare benefits.

Ex-Hialeah Official Dies at 86

Other Deaths, Page 23A

Services will be held today for A. L. "Pop" Rogers, 86, a Hialeah resident for 35 years and former city councilman and civic leader who died Tuesday.

MR. ROGERS

Mr. Rogers, who lived at 149 N. Poinciana Blvd., Miami Springs, was well known for his interest in Girl Scout projects. He built the Hialeah Girl Scout "Little House."

He was a Hialeah councilman for two terms and was past president of Carpenters Union Local 993. He was also a member of Hialeah-Miami Springs Elks Lodge.

Mr. Rogers is survived by his wife, Amelia; a brother, two sons, Harry L. and Robert R. of Hialeah, and a daughter, Mrs. F. E. Dewhurst of Miami Springs.

Services will be at 3 p.m. in the First Methodist Church of Hialeah. Burial will be at Southern Memorial Park.

Bert Muth, Hialeah's First Clerk

Services for Bert Muth, 81, Hialeah's first city clerk, and former operator of the clubhouse parking concession at Hialeah Race Track, will be at 2 p.m. today at Philbrick's Hialeah-Miami Springs chapel.

Burial will be in Woodlawn Park. Mr. Muth, who died Monday, lived at 3051 NW 96th St.

When he first came to this area 35 years ago from Cincinnati, he worked as a plasterer, and later became a contractor.

Mr. Muth also bought and sold property in the Hialeah area. At one time he raised race horses in the Hialeah area.

He was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge 1074, the Legion of Moose, and was a Spanish American War veteran.

Surviving are his wife Nora, and three sisters, including Mrs. Dollie Castle Morrison, Miami.

Anti-Defamation League Reports

Bias in Housing Charged in Area

See Story on Page 7A

The Miami area was singled out Wednesday as one of 15 U.S. cities where Jews face persistent discrimination in housing.

This was the major conclusion of a study by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith released in New York.

In South Florida, Paul Seiderman, chairman of the Florida district of the ADL, mentioned specifically Bal Harbour, several of the Sunset Islands, North Bay Village, Fort Lauderdale and Delray Beach as practicing discrimination.

"Bal Harbour has a club plan," he said. "In order to live there you must be admitted and passed by a membership committee.

"We have litigation in the courts now against similar practices in North Bay Village and Sunset Isle.

"Some hotels and apartment houses here," he said, "are restricted. But most of the discrimination is residential."

The mayor of Bal Harbour, Harry A. Brown, said he doubted extremely that some hotels excluded Jewish people.

"Maybe they don't cater to them," he said.

He pointed out that neither the mayor nor the City Council had anything to do with restrictions.

"According to the deeds, you have to belong to the club to live here," Mayor Brown said. "The deed doesn't say anything about Jewish people and I know of Gentiles who have been turned down.

"As mayor, all I'm interested in is seeing that the grass is cut and the lights are turned on."

In the New York ADL report, some sections of the country were described as "Christian Ghettos"—island areas of anti-Jewish prejudices amid a general pattern of intermingling between Christians and Jews.

The report will be submitted to the Federal Commission on Civil Rights at hearings next week in New York.

Besides Miami, cities mentioned specifically were New York, Chicago, Seattle, Birmingham, Houston, Washington, Detroit, Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati, and Indianapolis, Gary, Michigan City and Evansville, Ind.

2 N.Y. Papers To Hike Prices

NEW YORK —(AP)— The New York Times and The New York Herald Tribune are doubling the newsstand price of their daily editions effective Feb. 2 on sales 50 miles from New York. The price will be increased from five to 10 cents. The price remains five cents within the metropolitan area.

The Times and the Herald Tribune already have been charging 10 cents for daily editions sold beyond 100 miles from New York City.

New York City's two other morning newspapers, the News and Mirror, plan no increases immediately in their daily edition sales outside the metropolitan area. The News and The Mirror daily editions sell for five cents.

Castro Gets Beard Bid

PLANT CITY — (UPI) — The Junior Chamber of Commerce here Wednesday invited bearded Cuban Rebel Leader Fidel Castro to judge a beard-growing contest here March 7 in connection with the city's 75th anniversary.

Jaycee officials said they visited the Cuban consul in Tampa Wednesday morning and that Cuban officials there were "very encouraging" about the possibility of Castro accepting the invitation.

The beard-growing contest is being held as part of the Diamond Jubilee, which is scheduled in connection with the annual Plant City Strawberry Festival.

"We figure Castro would be a qualified judge," said Rush. "So we mailed him a letter this morning."

did not know what he had been working for apparently had not been studying his messages to Congress for the past six years.

Eisenhower also denied allegations by some Republicans that he had been copying New Deal proposals. To another questioner, he said he always had tried to meet personally with as many Republicans, and Democrats, as possible.

On other major issues, the President said:

HE HOPED the new Cuban government of revolutionary Fidel Castro "will be truly representative of the Cuban people." He refused to discuss Castro himself.

HE WOULD NOT oppose a visit to Russia by an American official, but there were no present plans for Vice President Richard M. Nixon or anyone else to go there. He said Khrushchev could not come here as informally as Mikoyan did because Khrushchev was head of the Soviet government.

UNLESS INFLATION could be curbed by self-restraint, the people eventually would demand federal controls that would be contrary to the free enterprise system. If this happened, he said, it would be "a sad day."

There has been so far no editorial discussion of what the future policies of the government should be, other than calling on it to ease the freezing of bank deposits.

Havana's noted editorial sense of humor was functioning again, however: An editorial cartoon in El Mundo depicted a citizen rubbing his chin and saying: "Now that I come to think of it, I haven't seen Fidel in 24 hours."

Strike Protests War Crime Terms

MANZANILLO, Cuba —(AP)— A general strike Wednesday shut down businesses and paralyzed communications and transport in this port city of 100,000. It was called to protest what spokesmen called leniency shown by revolutionary tribunals to some people accused of war crimes.

Before the strike began hundreds demonstrated before the City Hall because a group convicted as war criminals got prison terms instead of death sentences.

The strike was the first called since Fidel Castro's rebel forces ousted the Batista regime Jan. 1.

Crowds demonstrated before revolutionary headquarters in Manicaragua in Las Villas Province. They protested the giving of jobs to former policemen, charging the officers had mistreated residents during the Batista regime. Four men and one child were injured in the demonstrations.

RECENT COLD SNAPS may be setting the stage for lower gasoline prices by spring. The price of heating oils and kerosene has been rising with the heavy demand. But for every gallon of heating oils produced, the refiners must turn out two gallons of motor fuel and will find themselves with a big surplus.

the law would be stripped of their tax-exempt status and deprived of their right to use the services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Shortly after the President submitted his message to Congress, a bill embodying his proposals was introduced by Sen. Barry Goldwater (R., Ariz.), ranking GOP member on the Senate Labor Committee and an outspoken advocate of greater curbs on unions.

Goldwater told the Senate the President's program is a "fair and equitable one." He called for quick congressional action.

Sen Gordon Allot (R., Colo.) said the President's plan is "not a half-hearted, stop-gap gesture"—the most frequently expressed criticism of Kennedy's bill.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said the Democratic-controlled Congress would give the President's proposals "careful and thorough study." He predicted passage of an effective and satisfactory bill.

National Summary

Arctic air should carry snow into the Rockies and Plains as far south as Colorado and Nebraska and spread snow or a mixture of rain and snow on a line from New Mexico to Michigan Thursday.

Strong northerly winds are expected to cause blowing and drifting and in spite of partial clearing in the upper plains temperatures will remain near or a bit below zero in parts of Montana and North Dakota.

A warming trend will extend from the lower Plains into the mid Mississippi Valley, but the advance of cold winds should trigger thunderstorms in Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley while rain or drizzle develops to the north from Illinois into Ohio by late in the day.

Increasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures will work into the East Thursday and showers or wet snow may reach as far as New York and Pennsylvania.

Otherwise precipitation in the East will be limited to a few flurries in northern New England through the next 24 hours and some rain or drizzle in parts of the Carolinas and Florida.

EAL Machinists Here Paid $514,620

Miami members of the International Association of Machinists received $514,620 in union strike payments during the recent 38-day Eastern Air Lines strike, the union reported Wednesday.

IAM headquarters in Washington said $35 a week payments to 5,016 union members throughout the EAL system totaled $780,695. Most of the machinists working for Eastern are stationed in Miami.

EAL at the same time banked $550,420 from a mutual aid pact with five other lines to help sooth revenue losses during the strike.

Officer Denied Ruling by Court

The Florida Supreme Court Wednesday refused to rule on Miami Beach Policeman Al Hakam's demotion from lieutenant to sergeant.

A policeman is not a constitutional or state officer and the court has no jurisdiction, the Tallahassee justices said.

Hakam was promoted to lieutenant in Dec. 1956, but after nine months probation, he reverted to rank of sergeant. There had been a change of police chiefs in the meantime and Hakam sued.

Chicagoan Held In Swindle Probe

A Chicago real estate man, working in Miami as a photograph salesman, was arrested Wednesday and jailed under $25,000 bond for his alleged part in an "advance fee" swindling operation.

Melvin Crown, 45, who told U.S. Commissioner Roger Davis he lived at the Treasure Island Motel, Miami Beach, was a partner in the Interstate Exchange Company of Chicago.

A federal grand jury in Bismarck, N.D., charged the firm used the mails to defraud clients out of fees.

Cabbie Robbed Of Cab, Cash

Cab Driver Raleigh Cheuvrant, 50, of 7824 NW Fourth Ct., was robbed of his taxi and 11 dollars Wednesday by a bandit who later switched to a second stolen car for his getaway.

Cheuvrant, a driver for the Aircraft Cab Co., said a man he picked up in the northwest section asked to be taken to SW 48th St. and 97th Ave., where he forced the cabbie out of the car, took his money and fled in the cab.

Police found the cab abandoned near Homestead, but said a convertible had been stolen from the same spot.

ADL to Meet

The Anti-Defamation League statewide meeting is scheduled for Friday through Sunday at the Palm Beach Towers Hotel, Palm Beach, according to Leo Mindlin, executive editor of the Jewish Floridian, and member of the League's advisory board. About 150 persons are expected.

Zoom! Where Did Atlas Go?

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A huge Atlas ICBM has been blasted on a mysterious space flight over the Atlantic.

The 80-foot rocket performed as it never has before when it shot across the black sky Tuesday night after a beautiful launching.

The mission on this 19th Atlas test reportedly was another 4,000-mile trip, winding up beyond the island of Fernando de Norhona far off the Brazil coast in minutes.

The three mighty engines of the missile appeared to burn furiously for more than 6½ minutes, much longer than on previous flights. The rocket skipped behind some clouds and then seemed to hang in the sky like a small star.

At first there was speculation that the latest blastoff signaled another sensational shoot similar to last month's Atlas satellite, but there still was no definite report on the results of the test hours later.

On previous firings the bulky intercontinental - range missile burned no longer than 3½ minutes before starting its ballistic trajectory — even the "big A" that soared into a 35-day orbit around the globe Dec. 18.

Despite the unusual performance, the best bet still appeared to be a long-range attempt. The Air Force said only that the launching was another in the research and development series.

But Mostly For The Record

A Package Of Labor Laws

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's labor bill sent to Congress yesterday runs to 20 points and doubtless will produce as many arguments.

It is "tough" by the standards of those who would do nothing to remove labor-management abuses. But much of it, from the public viewpoint, is reasonable. For example:

It would require unions to submit complete financial reports and to conduct democratic elections. In this it is similar to but stronger than the bill proposed by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

It would restrict secondary boycotts and prohibit picketing of plants where workers have voted against unionization.

It would make the often ineffectual National Labor Relations Board a bi-partisan body politically.

It would provide criminal penalties for payments from employers to union officials.

It suggests, in these and other proposals, 10 amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act — a recommendation avoided by the Kennedy bill.

MR. EISENHOWER'S argument is plausible and persuasive though, in the present Congress, it may not persuade anyone.

The program, he says, is "essential to assure the American public that true, responsible collective bargaining can be carried on with full protection to the rights and freedoms of workers and with adequate guarantees of the public interest."

This is a well-spoken mouthful. It should appeal to all persons who do not harbor ancient illusions about labor-management relationships.

One of these is the old-fashioned "class struggle," which still has some exponents in union ranks and which is the underlying philosophy in some efforts to cripple industry. As an argument for unionization, it is archaic in an era of high wages, greater leisure and widespread enjoyment of creature comforts and luxuries—automobiles, electric appliances, paid vacations, motorboats and what-haven't-you, anyway.

Another illusion is that trade unionism is going to go away or can be legislated out of business. On occasion the idea seems appealing to the frustrated employer and the unionist who is entrapped by corrupt leadership, but it lacks reality.

So, like other institutions in a big and dynamic economy, the time comes to ask whether trade unionism shouldn't accept democratically the restraints in the public interest imposed on others.

IT'S not likely however, that "tough" legislation will be enacted in this congressional year, though the numbers of Hoffa and Kind are up.

Last November, according to Congressional Quarterly, the country elected or reelected 237 House members identified by labor's Committee on Political Education as "pro-labor." At the same time, the dominant AFL-CIO came out of the election with 64 "pro-labor" senators. The record shows union contributions to more than 250 candidates for the House and to 30 candidates for the Senate.

Legislation, like politics, is the art of the possible. Thus the chances are slim that the majority of Congress will accept a package of labor laws, especially from the opposite party. The administration knows this as well as anyone but, for the record, it is trying.

So the question of full union responsibility in a free society will remain unanswered until there are both unity and maturity of approach to a nationally frustrating problem.

What The Man Said ? ? ?

IN newspaper shops all over the country Tuesday a word was in doubt. Telegraph editors clawed at their thinning hair and cable editors burned up the wires.

The word was Nikita Khrushchev's, and it was "serijnoye." Linked with the Russian "proizvodstvo" it meant literally "mass production" — or did it? So headlines were revised from edition to edition and translators were put on time and a half.

Did Mr. K. mean "serial" production, which may be something else? Alas, no one is certain, though he was talking about the gravest of all subjects—production of missiles. One news agency simply transmitted the whole sentence in Russian and let it go at that.

But we don't know or speak Russian. And Mr. K. doesn't speak, though he may know, English. In short, the Russian word is not translatable. So stand the world's two greatest powers before one another—mute.

The Headache Of Hospitals

HEADLINES these days tell of Greater Miami's perennial headache of finding enough hospital beds for the needs of its permanent and growing population as well as its winter visitors.

This is the time of year when demand reaches the peak, when beds are crammed in corridors and sunparlors. Many who are not too sick must stay at home.

It is a situation that may never be completely solved. For if we build enough rooms for the busy period many will remain uneconomically empty in the slack.

But it is encouraging to know that our hospitals, though plagued by rising costs and shortages of trained personnel, are facing up to their peculiar problems. Every hospital has expansion plans, and no less than seven new hospitals are under construction or in the planning stage. At least one of the new institutions will be for convalescent patients who need limited care but can't be dismissed to make room for the more seriously ill.

NO OTHER metropolitan community can equal this record of expansion. We can be proud of that but we must also be realistic about the fact that we must run hard just to keep up.

Normal expansion needs, not to mention construction to take up the lag, require 20 additional beds every month.

Presently Dade County has 15 hospitals accredited by the American Hospital Association and several others, including accredited osteopathic hospitals, which provide almost 4,000 rooms. Total operating costs, administrators estimate, are just over $38 million a year.

Truly, caring for the hospitalized in Dade County is big and serious business.

Big Business, This Defense

WHAT PICTURE forms in your mind when you say "national defense?"

Soldiers marching, perhaps. Or a formation of jet bombers, trailing smoke from the fuel they gulp in vast quantities. Or warships plowing through waves.

It's all these and much more. "National defense" also is big business, as you can see from the Defense Department's new list of 100 major military contractors.

The Boeing Airplane Co. got the most defense business in the federal government's past bookkeeping year. This Seattle firm received contracts totaling $2,131,000,000.

In second place was the General Dynamics Corp. of New York, with $1,383,200,000.

Third came General Electric's $783,400,000.

A few of the rest, in descending order: Lockheed Aircraft Corp., $755,100,000; United Aircraft Corp., $661,100,000; American Telephone & Telegraph Co., $659,800,000; North American Aviation, Inc., $647,700,000.

THE TOP 100 companies and their affiliates accounted for nearly three-fourths of all military contracts, which totaled $21,794,800,000.

As these billions suggest, military hardware looms large in the cost of national defense. It is a vital part of military preparedness.

The coming debate in Congress over how much should be spent for defense will be more understandable if you keep this part of the picture in mind.

He's Needed On The Job

WE HOPE that the new United States ambassador to Cuba takes up his duties soon by presenting his credentials to the revolutionary government in Havana. Every passing day emphasizes the fact that there are misunderstandings and hurt feelings in the relationships between the two nations which are bound by ties so close. There is a great and growing need for representation of the highest order in the Cuban capital.

Every evidence indicates that Philip W. Bonsal is a wise choice for the difficult assignment. He is an experienced career diplomat with a knowledge of the Cuban people and Cuban affairs and was once connected with an American-owned company in Cuba before he entered the diplomatic service. More personally, his father, a distinguished newspaper correspondent, covered a Cuban revolution 60 years ago and instilled a regard for Cuban ideals in his son.

All this is to the good. Cuban-American diplomatic relations deteriorated in recent months and the latest United States ambassador was recalled because he did not command the confidence of the new government. Perhaps it would have been impossible for anyone to walk the narrow road between the bitternesses of the contending factions.

However, that is all behind us. The job of our representative is to rebuild and restore good relations. We are confident that Mr. Bonsal is equal to the task and we wish him God-speed.

Why The 'Weaker' Sex Lives Longer

NEARLY everybody knows that women in this country have a longer life expectancy than men. But why? One reason has been suggested by Dr. C. L. Brumback, public health director for Palm Beach County. Here's his theory:

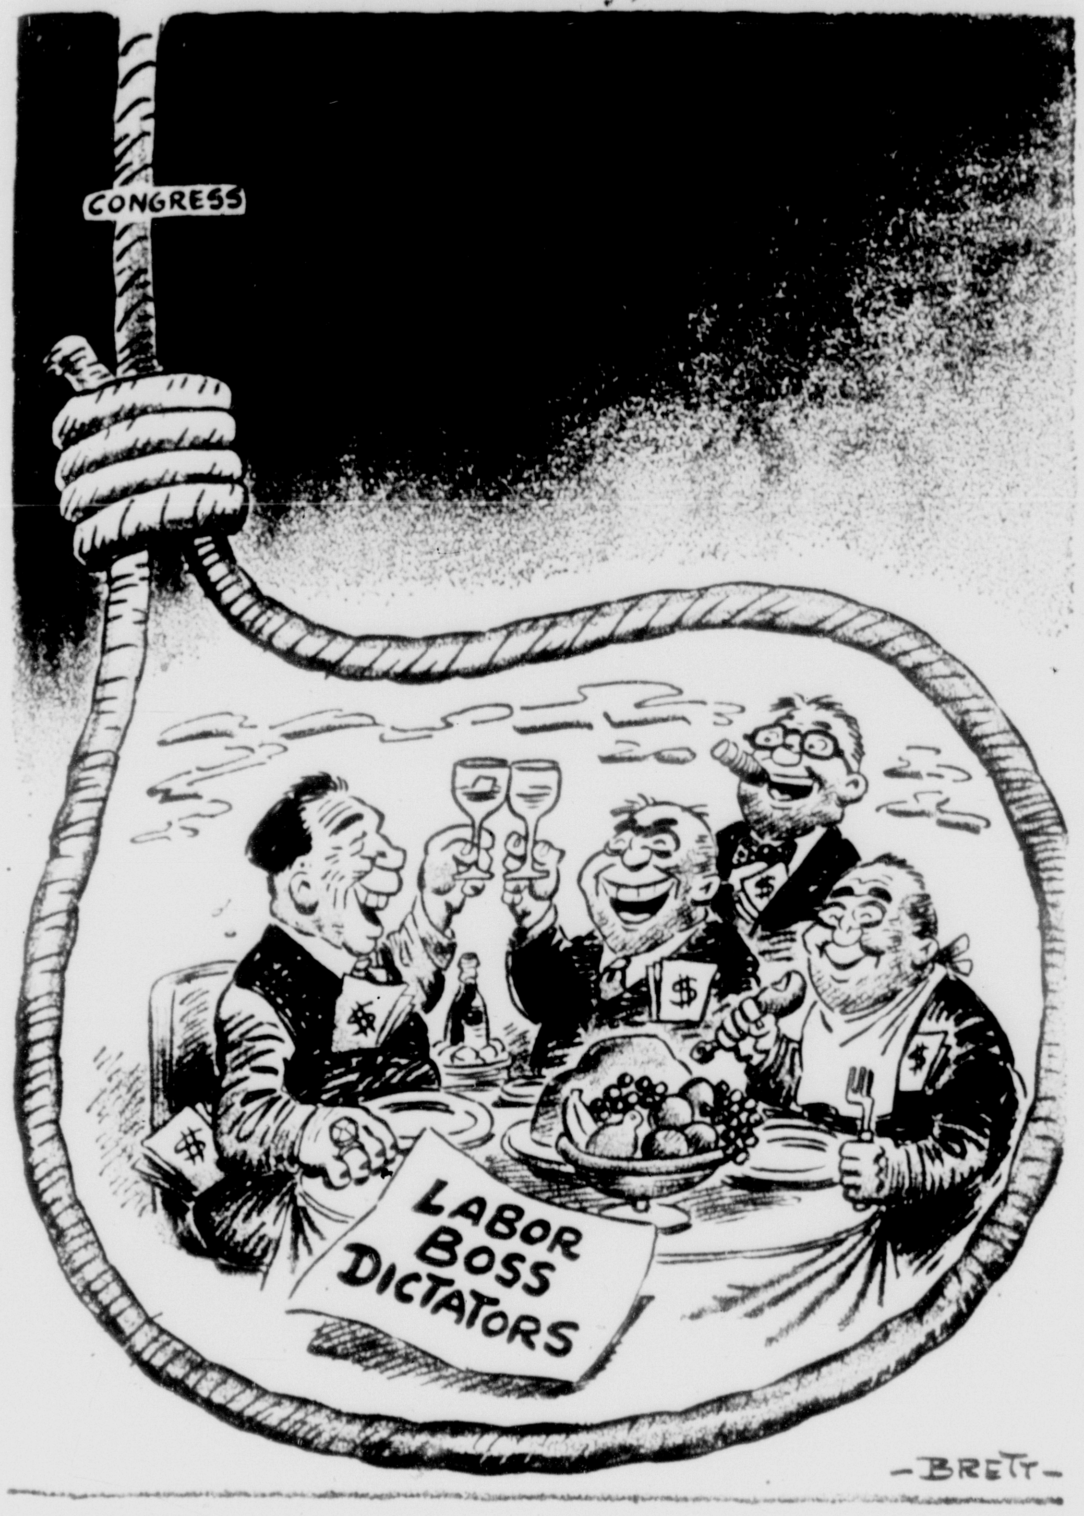
American men are imbued with the idea that they mustn't show any sign of weakness.

"If they are ill, they often try to weather it by themselves. They think if they go to a doctor, they will be considered sissy."

Women, on the other hand, are much more likely to seek proper treatment promptly, and so live longer. Result: the average wife spends her last nine years as a widow.

Men have no qualms about getting their cars greased regularly and having them repaired when anything goes wrong. Some day they may see the sense of doing as much for their own physical mechanism.

Eat, Drink and Be Merry, For Tomorrow-?



Voice Of The People

Role Of The Press On Cuba

Editor The Herald: Don Shoemaker's well balanced and fairminded article, I feel sure, will go a long way towards improving relations with Dr. Castro's Cuba.

To a reader who has the opportunity to read a varied assortment of newspapers, ranging from the London Times, New York Times and The Miami Herald to Diario de la Marina and the Daily Gleaner (Jamaica), spiced with Life and Time magazines, it is of course both very heartening and frightening to see the power of the press.

If you gentlemen do your duty and report fairly, give credit where it is due, deprecate where it is necessary, well and good. The public will know the facts and react to them according to their intelligence and convictions; the uncommitted will know the truth and all is well. If, however, you use innuendo, or twist the news to make the public think that black is white, you can do so insofar as a fair proportion of the public is concerned.

In view of the unnecessarily unfavorable publicity Dr. Castro and his 26th of July movement have received at the hands of a wide section of the press, I consider that Shoemaker's article was an act of courage, intelligence and rare diplomatic skill, worthy of the best traditions of good, honest journalism.

You have gone a long way towards reestablishing my faith in American journalism, constantly menaced by the tendentious articles I often read in Time magazine, whose coverage of Cuba fills me with macabre fascination.

GEORGE BLAINE, M. D.

Displays Courage

Editor The Herald: Don Shoemaker's interesting article, "The Duty To Protest Remains With Us," draws from this reader both acclaim and protest.

Acclaim for the courage that you display in even hinting that the press may be lacking in efficiency, or perhaps even in some integrity.

In the old days of small towns, of small populations, of little movement of the populace, it was easy for the citizen to keep tabs on what was going on in his world.

Today, so rushed is the average man that he has little time in which to do the necessary research that would allow him to reach his own decisions as to the truth of any subject. The fact that this is so is one of the ways in which the public has been led down the garden path.

Professionals look to a newspaper as being subdivided into all its branches. Each department is crystal clear as to its function, its responsibility, and its duties. Not so the average reader. To this one, the newspaper is the Bible of today. This has given birth to the cliche, "I see by the paper that . . ."

Funeral Pace More Like It

Editor The Herald: It seems that everything being planned for the future is based on the belief that the only important thing is speed, or, to put it in another way, the saving of time.

As witness the wheelless car said by your writer, Gene Miller, to be in the planning stage by Ford.

AUTOMATIC BRAKE
OH MY GOSH!

So it will go from 200 to 500 miles an hour. That's great! It will save road construction costs. That's fine! It will eliminate traffic congestion.

Say that again? Where? At Biscayne Blvd. and 79th St. during the Hialeah season?

Nope, nothing will help there, except for us all to drop dead.

Winning First At South Bend

Editor The Herald: Now that we have had all the nicely worded explanations for Terry Brennan's dismissal, let's put the record straight. Bluntly, South Bend's Main Street quarterbacks got him.

South Bend's Studebaker plant needs the Lark, but the businessmen also need a Notre Dame winner, or so they think.

Moose Krause challenged the Main Street gang when he announced that Brennan would be the coach for a long time. He has his answer and perhaps had better watch his P's and Q's, or he, too, will get what Hunk Anderson, Elmer Layden, and Brennan got.

To a Main Street quarterback, South Bend version, winning is imperative. Nothing else counts.

Goulds Corner Needs Lights

Editor The Herald: There have been many deaths of pedestrians on U. S. 1 at the intersection of Old Cutler Road in Goulds, due mainly to the fact that it is one of the darkest stretches of road.

Couldn't a few street lights at this corner and perhaps one or two others which are just as dark be erected before there is more loss of life?

MRS. REUTER

Close To Defense

Editor The Herald: It is not my intention to quarrel with The Herald, but I feel I should clear up the impression that seems to stem from our letters regarding Cuba.

If there is a misunderstanding it is not based on what we think is "the role of the newspaper." Neither is it on the North American conception of justice, nor in the "proper intentions of thoughtful Americans toward the new Cuba."

Nobody would attempt to compare the "political wars in the U.S." with what went on in my country, and I am aware of the deep concern of North Americans as to the efficacy of capital punishment. I am also among the millions who have reservations about the Nuremberg trials and executions.

But coming to what seems to be the point of your observations, I can tell you that if what has come up from the statements of certain newspapermen and legislators is not a defense of Cuba's "war criminals," there is nothing closer to it. We disagree though in interpreting them as "the voice of conscience."

We come to agreement again in the matter of "interpreting the printing of news as the expression of opinion" if it means the public opinions. If it is the opinion of the news writer that comes through, he has abused the rights of the press.

I must add in "the name of humanity" and with a complete understanding that "two wrongs do not make a right," that there was not a "protest-we-must" in the seven years of the Cuban ordeal coming from many editorial pages.

A Dog Discussion Sans Vivisection

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

HOW MUCH DOES it cost to maintain a dog per day?

At what point does enforcement of the dog licensing law end and the care of the stray dog begin?

The two questions are basic to a months' long series of discussions that have been going on between the Metropolitan government and the Humane Society of Greater Miami.

Pennekamp

Unusual in this situation is that the question of vivisection is not involved. The Metro ordinance which provides for dog licensing also forbids turning the strays over for medical and similar experimental purposes.

* * *

THE SOCIETY, which has exceptionally good facilities, would like to contract with Metro for administering the ordinance. It wants the men who now operate its trucks to be made enforcement deputies.

However, Col. George E. Leppig, chief of Metro's traffic and transportation section, opposes that.

"The ordinance," he says, "applies only to dogs while the Humane Society handles all kinds of animals, including cats, bears, snakes, monkeys, chickens and so on.

"In enforcing ordinances of this kind it must be remembered that while we deal with dogs, they are not at fault. Actually, behind any violation there is a person or persons—the people who have not attended to the licensing of the dog.

"Because we have to deal with them, it is better that we retain the enforcement control."

* * *

THE LAW REQUIRES that dogs receive anti-rabies shots before being licensed. The county retains $2 of the licensing fee, the remaining $3 going to the veterinarian.

It is estimated that there are 100,000 dogs in Dade county of which 80,000 will be licensed for an income of $160,000.

The remaining 20,000 are the dogs which will be picked up and must be boarded.

The license income would be a big help to the Humane Society which now operates on a budget of about $100,000, has spent some $140,000 in the last two years to improve its place and is pressed for further expansion.

* * *

IT NOW RECEIVES some $60,000 a year from Miami (which pays $24,000) and other cities for taking care of the stray dog problems.

After the Society's proposal to take over the enforcement of the ordinance was turned down by the county it proposed to make its facilities available for impounding the dogs at $1.25 a day.

"Too much," said the county, which hopes that a deal can be worked out at about 65 or 75 cents a day.

Meantime supporters of the Society foresee a threat to its existence through the loss of the revenues now coming from the cities and the expansion of Metro enforcement into impounding and other fields from which the Society now gets part of its income.

Lawyers, Lawyers

OTHER DAY I listed five major conventions of lawyers to be held here this year.

Committee assignments to arrange programs and to raise the needed money have reached deep into bar membership here and demanded much of their free time.

The five wasn't a complete list, I am informed by Mrs. Anna Brenner Meyers and Mrs. Mattie Belle Davis, who are co-chairman for a sixth convention, that of the National Association of Women Lawyers.

They will hold their 60th annual meeting August 20 to 23 at the Carillon Hotel, Miami Beach.

There are, the ladies tell me, 6,000 practicing women lawyers in the United States, approximately 150 in Florida and 35 here.

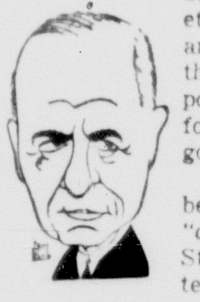
Lower Corporate Tax Would Aid Business

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What is the "mood" of American business today? Lately there has been considerable discussion as to what has to be done if America is to keep the lead in the race with the Communist system. Adlai Stevenson spoke of this country as pursuing a "fat, dumb, happy, complacent way" in the face of Soviet competition, and describes the struggle as being waged "between a chaotic, selfish, indifferent commercial society and the iron discipline of the Communist world."



Lawrence

There are other criticisms, too. Many businessmen have in their minds today the "image" of a frustrated America. They see the incentives missing for the extra push that used to be so important in the competitive arena.

A businessman, who travels around the country quite a lot, dropped in for a chat.

* * *

WHEN ASKED what he found to be the mood of businessmen generally, he said:

"I am sorry to say that I find a widespread discouragement—really a lack of incentive. Businesses try hard, in this day of competition, to increase their volume of sales, but they are face to face with the necessity of giving more than half of their profits to the government and of using more and more of their income to meet wage demands.

"Now the feeling is growing that there isn't much chance of a tax reduction for corporations, and this, more than any other factor, is killing the very incentive and stimulus we need for a growing America.

* * *

YET EVERY day in the debate over the President's budget — between the "spenders" and the "savers" — many of the Democrats are taking the position that all that is needed for national growth is for the government to spend more.

Very little thought seems to be given to the fact that a "commercial society," as Mr. Stevenson describes it, can deteriorate very rapidly without incentives and under a heavy tax burden.

Today, 52 cents out of every dollar of profit a corporation makes must go to the federal government for taxes. On top of this are state and local taxes. Even if all the remainder were paid out in dividends — which can't be done, because funds have to be set aside for new plant and equipment and future contingencies — the individual stockholders still would have to pay to the federal government in taxes anywhere from 20 to 90 per cent of their receipts from this same corporation.

* * *

AMERICA may be approaching a truly critical period in her economic history. Until the federal corporation taxes are reduced considerably, there is very little prospect that America will travel again the road of sound growth and economic progress.

Actually, if the corporation taxes were reduced from 52 per cent to 40 per cent, the federal government would collect far more total revenue than it does today, because the volume of business would be materially increased due to the incentive and stimulus given to all businesses.

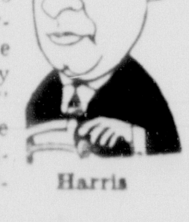
PURELY personal prejudices: Children never should be taken to cemeteries, for the simple reason that they will wonder where all the bad people are buried.

A celebrity is a person who is elated because he has millions of admirers, and despondent because he has no friends.

The penalty of a public life is generally the abandonment of private joys.



Harris

Couples who marry for anything but love may think they are "practical," but they are wildly impractical — for marriage is difficult even with much love on both sides, and impossible without it.

I like the quiet perception expressed in Jessamyn West's remark that "It is very easy to forgive others their mistakes; it takes more gumption to forgive them for having witnessed your own."

Justice is incomplete without mercy, which is why Dostoyevski once said: "You have no tenderness, nothing but truth, and so you judge unjustly."

The way most people seek to expiate their sins is by pointing to some bigger sinners elsewhere. I am sure that Bluebeard found a man who had murdered twice as many wives — and more cruelly.

More harm is done in the world by high-principled men than by scoundrels; as Lord Melbourne properly pointed out, "Nobody ever did anything very foolish except from some strong principle."

"I agree with you in theory" means I will do the exact opposite of what you propose.

Ike's Message Expected

Farm Problem Intense

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

McGAFFIN

WASHINGTON—America's farm problems have become so serious they even are discussed at White House social gatherings.

The magnitude of the situation is pointed up by the fact that the government expects to have 9 billion dollars worth of farm surpluses on its hands by next July—and to be paying 1 billion a year for storage.

At the dinner the Eisenhowers gave for the Nixons Monday night, the President got into a conversation with Rep. Cooley (D., N.C.), and Sen. Anderson (D., N.M.)

Cooley, who is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, urged the President to call a meeting of farm leaders—representatives of the Farmers Union, the American Farm Bureau the Grange, the co-ops, and so on.

Cooley pointed out that they are at loggerheads over what should be done for the worsening problem of the price-supported crops.

* * *

THE CONGRESSMAN said he thought that Mr. Eisenhower liked the idea and that it seemed to appeal also, to Sen. Anderson, a former secretary of agriculture.

Cooley said that President Roosevelt called a conference of this type in the early 1930s.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER is expected to send his special message on agriculture to Congress today.

Meanwhile, a Democratic farm bill appears to be in the works. Preliminary talks about it have been held by Sen. Humphrey (D., Minn.) and Sen. Talmadge (D., Ga.)

They plan to have some more meetings in the next few days to see if they can work out something for their joint sponsorship.

A farm specialist in Humphrey's office said they would try to come up with a bill for all basic commodities along the lines of the one Talmadge introduced recently.

This provided for a system of production quotas and compensatory payments to farmers.

Instead of supporting prices, the government would be empowered to let them find their own level.

Then the farmer would be paid for the difference between the market price and the parity price on the crop. And there would be a ceiling of $25,000 that could be paid to any one farmer.

* * *

SECRETARY Benson is on record as opposing such a plan on the grounds that in his opinion it would be even more expensive than the present system.

Both Democrats and Republicans are aghast at the present runaway situation—but each side blames the other for it.

Johnson Proposal Has Logic

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON—Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the majority leader, is offering the Senate an honest and significant piece of civil rights legislation.

Besides giving the Justice Department further power to deal with denial of voting rights, its new feature is the proposal to create a community conciliation service — somewhat parallel to the Federal Mediation Service for labor disputes — to further compliance with all civil rights laws including public school integration.

This may not be the only useful step which could be taken at this time, but it faces in the right direction. It is positive, not negative.

It doesn't merely threaten those who withhold civil rights from minorities; it aims to bring civil rights into being for more citizens.

What may be even more commendable is that the proposed civil rights conciliation agency has won the instant scorn of the extremists on both sides — those who don't want anything done ever and those who want everything done at once.

* * *

ONE MISPLACED criticism of the conciliation proposal is that it amounts to conciliating "whether the law should be observed."

That certainly sounds like a block-buster of a moral argument, but when you examine it I doubt if it is much stronger than a cap pistol under water.

Federal labor law makes collective bargaining mandatory. But it is no denial of the law to have a Federal Mediation Service to promote the faithful use of collective bargaining. It's the same with civil rights.

It is quite proper to try to punish those who have deprived others of their voting rights or other civil rights. But it isn't inconsistent to take steps to enable more citizens to possess their voting rights and other civil rights where community resistance has denied those rights.

A civil rights conciliation agency would not "conciliate whether the law should be observed"; it would conciliate ways to bring about observance. Is that bad? Is that compromising with the devil? It seems to me that it is good—and wise and realistic.

I'm not against punishing the civil rights depriver; but what is more important is to increase the civil rights users and that is why the Johnson measure is refreshingly positive and constructive.

* * *

THE CONCILIATION service would apply to the whole range of civil rights — voting, public transportation, use of public parks and playgrounds, and public school integration.

The Montgomery bus boycott would, for example, have been a good setting in which the conciliation agency could have worked.

It would have most likely brought about earlier compliance with the law.

Would it have been conciliating "whether the law should be observed?" No, it would have been conciliating ways to observe the law.

In public school integration the courts alone determine what the law is, but most judges recognize that the courts do not constitute the best means of working out the social, educational, political, and psychological questions bearing on how the law can best be applied "with all deliberate speed."

Russian Arms Being Sent To Iraq As U.S. Watches

By DREW PEARSON

PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Three Soviet freighters, loaded with arms, are steaming up the Persian Gulf toward the only part of Iraq that touches the sea — ominous evidence that that oil-rich country is slipping behind the Iron Curtain.

American intelligence has carefully followed the progress of the three Soviet ships.

They carry the first Communist arms shipment to Iraq, which hitherto has relied upon Western arms and until last summer was a member of the Baghdad Pact.

More than 200 Soviet military advisers have also arrived in Baghdad to help the Iraqi army convert from British to Russian equipment.

Yet when only nine American military advisers were stationed in Baghdad, Radio Moscow accused the former Iraqi government of being an American puppet.

* * *

THERE'S A VERY significant backstage battle going on inside the White House over civil rights.

When Gen. Wilton Persons, brother of the ex-governor of Alabama, stepped into Sherman Adams' job at the White House, he gave the staff fair warning: "I want you to remember I am wrong on the civil rights issue. I want you to fight me on it."

Today Persons is using his powerful influence to keep President Eisenhower from taking any leadership on civil rights, but the White House staff isn't following Persons' instructions. It isn't "fighting" him on it.

In fact, White House Counsel Gerald Morgan, second in power to Persons, has joined in urging Ike to keep hands off the civil rights controversy.

Persons and Morgan are willing to let the President pay lip service to civil rights but urge him not to help implement the Supreme Court integration decisions in any way.

On the other side, Atty. Gen. Bill Rogers is working behind the scenes to line up the full power and prestige of the White House behind the Supreme Court.

He would like to ban federal projects, for example, in areas that refuse to comply with the Supreme Court's integration orders.

"This sounds too punitive," objected Morgan.

As a result, the lines are drawn inside the Eisenhower administration over school integration. Ike is now following the advice of his righthand man, Gen. Persons from Alabama.

Are Students to Blame for Situation?

By ROBERT C. RUARK

RUARK

MY THIRST for knowledge has been known to lead me up strange pathways, and right now I go around mumbling. If I had a prayer wheel, like a Tibetan monk, you would be able to hear it whirr.

Education when I was a boy — class president, 20 miles a day through the snow, teacher's pet, our class won the chocolate cake — education, as I was saying, when I was slopping the hogs and milking 16 cows every morning before I split the kindling and cooked the breakfast—education was different. Yessirree Bob.

You went to school. You raised your hand to go to the little boys'. You smoked in— oh, no, that wasn't me, that was my brother — but mainly you got kept in after school if you flung spitballs or paper airplanes or dipped thy neighbor's pigtails in an inkpot.

Even the Penrods and Tom Sawyers managed to behave slightly while being forcibly subjected to the rigid trinity of the inexorable "R's."

You got cracked on the knuckles or athwart the skull with a ruler occasionally, when you tried to jack up the price of rabbit-tobacco after you found that the teacher was a secret user, but mostly they refrained from having to kill us to keep us quiet.

If we were a little rough on substitute teachers it was because they were sometime things, not terribly hep, and were only making costume-jewelry money anyhow.

I heard tell that some of them smoked and necked, too, but anyhow I was big for my age and that is quite another story.

* * *

BUT NOW I AM confronted with the theorem that in order to instill a little rudimentary Chaucer and simple subtraction into modern minds, we are faced with the necessity of either drugging the little dears or basting them briskly about the sitzplatz.

One school of thought is going to try tranquilizing pills on the unruly, hereinafter described as "hyperactive, difficult children," on the grounds they are emotionally disturbed and need a nudge of nembutal to quell the beast that dwells within.

That's in the Bronx, N.Y., where sterner things have happened.

Now, in Stamford, in the manicured acres of Connecticut, they just conducted a secret poll among teachers, and, cloaked in anonymity, the teachers ratted on the chubby little students.

The teachers reported that out of 14,000 pupils there were approximately 800 "persistent disciplinary problem pupils."

In the elementary grades there were some 350 bad hats among a rough 9,000.

They recommended that the younger footpads be paddled, and the elder pimple-bearers be expelled "when all other means of control fail."

I am with the Stamford group, in principle, since I do not see how pill-taking is going to tranquilize some little highbinder who ought to be in reform school into thinking that "Pippa Passes" might compete with a horror movie.

You start a kid off on any kind of pill that forgives him for being a little animal, and you got a candidate for a life of steady substitution of personal responsibility to other people's fancied frailties.

* * *

WHAT BAFFLES ME most, though, is how the autocrat of the classroom lost control of these hulking mischief-makers in the first place.

Whatever happened to authority, that you have to set cops to patrolling the schools, and the teachers whimpering that they can't control the overgrown oafs?

It's somebody's fault and I'm not sure you can blame it entirely on the students.

But it seems to boil down to whether you drug them or batter them into an unwilling acceptance of knowledge, and I wonder if it's worth the effort?

From what I read they seem more tailored for a stretch in the workhouse than a scholarship to college.

THE Last Word

By DR. BERGEN EVANS

QUESTION: Why when we do a favor for someone who has done something dirty to us, do we say that we are "heaping coals of fire on his head?"

ANSWER: We are quoting St. Paul (ROMANS 12:20) who was quoting PROVERBS (25:21-22):

> If your enemy is hungry, give him bread to eat; if he is thirsty, give him water to drink; for you will heap coals of fire on his head, and the Lord will reward you.

The emphasis of the Biblical passages, it need not be said, is on the hot shame of the enemy as he realizes what a heel he is and what a wonderful guy you are. But cynicism has shifted the emphasis, for many, to their own enjoyment of the enemy's burning self-reproach.

In most cases, however, this flaming remorse is more imagined than actual. There seems to be a larger amount of asbestos in the human skull than St. Paul or the author of PROVERBS was aware of. Most ingrates remain comfortably cool.

Drive Urged on Bigotry

By JOHN McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

A national leader of the Jewish Anti-Defamation League Wednesday called for police of Southern cities to crack down on "hate peddlers" just like they do on criminals.

Arthur Miller, national community service director of the ADL, said in Miami police should set up special squads and investigators who could move in on tense situations before they exploded in violence.

Miller, interviewed by The Herald, said the racial problems of the South had created a made-to-order situation for professional bigots like John Kasper to move in and try to stir up trouble.

"There 'hate' activities against one group spill over to other minorities," he declared.

He said the ADL has found no evidence of an Arab "fifth column" operating in the South.

David Lawrence, nationally syndicated columnist, and The New York Daily News have written accounts of a tie-up between "racist-hate" groups and the United Arab Republic of Egypt's Nasser.

"However, they may have more evidence than we have so far," Miller said.

He praised the Miami Police Department and the work of State Attorney Richard Gerstein in "showing the other Southern cities" the way toward preservation of law and order in race-religious situations.

"The cities of the South have excellent police departments," he declared. "They do a tremendous job of crime prevention and maintaining close watch over suspected criminals.

"In the race-religious field, however, few of them have specialists who keep a close check on tense districts and a catalogue on potential trouble-makers."

Miller reported that 98 bombings in religious or racial situations have been recorded in the South since 1955.

"You can count the numbers of convictions on your fingers," he said.

While the "hatemonger" feels secure, he will go on trying to stir up trouble, the ADL official warned.

Miller will address a luncheon in West Palm Beach Sunday during the annual meeting of the Florida Anti-defamation League.

Niemoeller Accused

BONN, Germany —(AP)— West Germany's government is taking Pastor Martin Niemoeller to court on a charge of criminally slandering its new army.

The charge was filed with the public prosecutor in Kassel Wednesday. Niemoeller denies it. The top penalty on conviction would be two years imprisonment.

The noted Evangelical (Lutheran) clergyman and the government are at odds over a reference to military training as a crime school in his address before a rally of the Union for National Freedom at Kassel last Sunday.

Defense Minister Franz Jozef Strauss brought the legal action.

Niemoeller, a U-boat commander in World War I and a Nazi concentration camp inmate in World War II, has long been a foe of German rearmament.

The defense ministry said the complaint was based on news dispatches quoting Niemoeller as telling the Kassel rally:

"The training of soldiers and the training for leading positions in the military command posts must be regarded as a higher school for professional criminals."

Pastor Niemoeller
. . . denies charge

In Wiesbaden, Niemoeller, who is president of the Evangelical Church in the state of Hesse, replied: "I did not make such a remark."

What he said, he added, was that the training of former commandos during World War II must be regarded as a high school for potential criminals. He contended that this was misinterpreted.

A government spokesman said Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's cabinet decided after examining a written statement of the pastor that the alleged utterances must be "condemned in the sharpest manner possible."

AEC Bribe Arrest Made

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— The FBI arrested Louis Isaacs, 53, in his plant in Exeter, Pa., on a charge of attempting to bribe an Atomic Energy Commission auditor.

Isaacs, manager of the Art Craft Co. and principal stockholder in the Metal Research and Development Corp. in Exeter, is accused of offering a $500 bribe to Vincent R. Hoefling, auditor from the AEC's New York Office, Carl E. Hennrich, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI office, announced.

Hoefling was at the plant going over cost of performance on a contract awarded Metal Research by the AEC.

63-Foot Cable Supports Tree

NEW ORLEANS—(UPI)—A giant oak nicknamed Josephine on the Oak Valley Plantation 58 miles from New Orleans is so huge that a cable 63-feet long was recently installed by the Davey Tree Expert Co. to help support its massive branch structure. It is believed to be the longest cable of its kind in the world.

Strike Vote Is Taken at Missile Base

By Herald Services

CAPE CANAVERAL — No walkout of 1,500 maintenance workers is expected at this missile base before mid-February, it was announced Wednesday.

News About Florida

The announcement was made by a union spokesman as members of the Transport Workers Union, took a strike vote Wednesday night. All are employed by Pan American World Airways.

Results of the vote were not immediately known but a union official said there was little doubt the local would vote for a strike.

The local strike votes aren't due at TWU headquarters until Feb. 18. That's also the deadline for results of strike votes being taken by other TWU locals in the PAA system.

The 3,000 TWU members who work for PAA in Miami vote tonight.

Mackle Gets 10,000 Acres

FORT PIERCE — The Mackle Co. has acquired control of at least 10,000 more acres in St. Lucie County to add to its Port St. Lucie development.

It is estimated that Port St. Lucie five miles south of Fort Pierce, has grown from the 9,000 acres acquired last year from the Cowles Publishing Co. interests to a point where it now comprises at least 40,000 acres.

Floating Rocket Lab at Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL —(AP)— The SS American Mariner, a floating rocket instrumentation laboratory, arrived at the Cape Wednesday on the start of a highly secret mission aimed at developing a defense against the awesome ballistic missile.

After a brief stay, the 420-foot vessel will be assigned down the Atlantic range to gather data for the Army's anti-missile missile program.

Rollins Given $300,000 Gift

WINTER PARK—Mrs. Rose Skillman of Winter Park and Bloomfield, Mich., donated $300,000 to Rollins College Wednesday night — one of the biggest gifts in the school's history.

The money was donated to finance construction of a new college dining hall. The announcement was made before some 150 college patrons at a special trustee's dinner.

Curb Is Aimed At 'Snowbirds'

TALLAHASSEE — The industrial commission said Wednesday that tighter restrictions proposed on jobless pay would cut off about seven per cent of the citrus workers now eligible.

The commission will ask the next Legislature for a law requiring a person to work at least 16 weeks before qualifying for unemployment benefits.

Jobless workers can draw it now after only five weeks on the job.

The commission said the restriction of 16 weeks would cut off a lot of "snowbirds" who come to Florida and are not really bona fide members of the labor force.

But Chairman James Vocelle said the tighter restrictions would not do any great damage to the citrus worker.

'Crime' Movies

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. —(UPI) — This is how police said Samuel R. Miller, 44, managed to learn the combination of a supermarket safe from which they charged he stole $6,500: By parking a panel truck outside the market and taking movies through a telescopic lens of an employe working the combination.

Disc Jockey Sets No-Snore Record

'Sleepless Night' Lasted 200 Hours!

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Disc Jockey Peter Tripp set a record of 200 hours without sleep Wednesday and then headed for bed.

Tripp, who started his ordeal when he awoke at 11:14 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 20, pushed a button at 7 p.m. in a glass enclosed booth at Times Square to start a March of Dimes fund-raising campaign — the purpose of the stunt.

At 7:14 p.m. his sought-after record — eight days and eight hours without sleep under scientific observation — was reached.

He walked to the nearby Astor Hotel for a final scientific test and then a big soft bed.

Dr. Louis J. West, head of a team of scientists observing Tripp, said the disc jockey "had done something no man has done before and it's fantastic."

At the end, the 32-year-old disc jockey was surprisingly energetic. He had no bags under his eyes and had gained about four pounds. His eyes were slightly bloodshot and his skin was sallow.

Haiti Needs Jobs—That's Duvalier's Aim

George Beebe, managing editor of The Herald, has just returned from a trip to the Caribbean. This is the second of two articles he wrote after an interview with Haiti's President Francois Duvalier on progress of that nation.

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti—If you were handed a poverty-stricken nation to pull out of century-long doldrums, what would be your approach?

Formula of Dr. Francois Duvalier, current president of this exciting, colorful and pathetic Caribbean island, is to make come true the fairy tale the natives have heard from a long line of rulers—JOBS.

This hungry nation is hungrier this year because of a depressed world coffee market which has slashed the price of the island's principal export by 25 per cent.

Where 600,000 bags were shipped last year, this year's coffee export may not exceed 250,000 bags.

"We need secondary industries to offset a one-crop economy," President Duvalier told this writer.

Duvalier did the obvious in tackling the problems at hand. He asked the U. S. for $6,500,000 for the Artibonite Valley irrigation and drainage project, $12,300,000 for roads, and $3,000,000 for a sugar mill.

His request undoubtedly will be heeded, if only in part.

Next move was to attract tourists and new business. Tourists could well spend $6,000,000 here this year.

As for business: "Haiti must do everything possible to make our atmosphere favorable for foreign investments," said the grey-haired leader of this Negro republic of 3,500,000 people.

"Under previous administrations, one had to pay under the table to do business in our country," said President Duvalier who emphasized that those days are gone forever.

BEEBE

"Ours is a typical underdeveloped country," he continued. "It's time we did something about it."

And something about it Dr. Duvalier is doing.

He has put into his job-producing five-year recovery program:

- A FOUR-MILLION dollar flour mill, already in production.
- A 3,000-ACRE pineapple plantation on the bauxite lands of the Reynolds Metals Co. Hope for success is based on the fact that Haiti and Hawaii are on the same latitudes.
- FIRST modern slaughter house in Haiti's history.
- A CEMENT block plant and a plywood factory, both playing a major part in building low-cost housing to replace slum shacks.
- EXPLORATION rights leased for oils and minerals, including bauxite mining.
- CONTRACTED to increase the export of bananas.
- STUDYING establishment of a frozen food plant to process native fruits.

Knowing that outside investors like to deal with a stabilized government, Dr. Duvalier has made big strides in straightening out the country's financial mess.

He recently hired Klein & Saks, Washington mortgage consultants, and Lehman Brothers, New York brokerage firm, to study the financial and economic structure of Haiti and come up with recommendations on how it can be improved.

President Duvalier explained that in order to get his recovery program launched, it was necessary to establish a policy of austerity.

"My people have accepted it because they know there is now honesty in their government and that we are trying to solve their problems," he said.

While these problems would seem insurmountable to most men in a land of too many people and too few jobs, Francois Duvalier keeps nicking away at the mountain.

U.S. Urged To Probe Latin Arms

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D., N.Y.) has called for an investigation of U.S. arms shipments to Latin America, of "the pro-Batista lobby in the U.S." and of relations by former U.S. Ambassador Earl Smith with the Batista regime in Cuba.

POWELL

Powell, just returned from Havana, praised the revolutionary Fidel Castro government and defended the trials of Batista followers. He said the trials were openly conducted with right of defense counsel.

In a speech to the House, Powell, a Baptist minister, said all the Protestant clergymen of Cuba were members of the underground movement. He said the ministers have voted to send preaching missions to this country starting this coming Sunday because "they were so aroused concerning the attitude of the American people and the press."

Powell said the revolutionaries had been able to get 25 million dollars worth of arms, mostly from Chicago, New York and Los Angeles. He demanded an investigation with the aim of halting such arms shipments in the future.

"If we could arm Castro and upset a dictator, then what is to prevent Communists from being armed to upset a democracy and what is to prevent the organizations which dwell on the lunatic fringe of our own land from obtaining arms?" he asked.

Powell quoted Castro officials as saying that former Ambassador Smith "was anti-Batista until the Nicaro mines were sold to the U.S. and then he became pro-Batista. Whether this is true and what it implies I do not know but the proper committee should go into this situation and clear it up."

Youth Fair Will Open Today

The ninth annual Dade County Youth Fair will have 1,500 exhibits ready for opening day today. And, kids, this is your fair, only adults will be charged admission.

The fair, which is scheduled from today through Monday, at 9475 SW 88th St., is sponsored by the 4-H and Future Farmer Clubs of Dade County.

The fair is open from 2 to 10 p.m. daily, and from 1 to 10 p.m. Sunday. On closing day, the fair grounds will be open from 2 to 5 p.m.

Exhibits will include animals, plants, handiwork and crafts, which are club projects of the two groups.

Plants, shrubs, shade and fruit trees will be offered as door prizes by the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association.

Outer Space—What Is Out There?

● Once, man thought, he was the center of the universe. Now in February Reader's Digest an article reports that radio waves indicate one star in ten may possess a planet on which life could exist! An astronomer states why, whatever we discover, "the universe is more miraculous than any miracle." Daughter Gets Half of DeMille Fortune

By the Associated Press

BECAUSE SHE has independent means, the widow of Cecil B. DeMille received nothing in his will, filed for probate in Los Angeles. But her name was prominently mentioned.

The famed producer-director expressed in the document his love and admiration for Mrs. DeMille. Meantime, he left more than half of his multi-million dollar estate to their daughter, Cecilia DeMille Harper.

The will, filed for probate, names Mrs. Harper and her husband, Joseph, executors.

His widow, 85, is an invalid. She was left nothing, the will explains, because she has means of her own and needs nothing from DeMille's estate.

Mrs. Harper receives all the real property with the exception of the Paradise ranch, which goes to a charitable trust set up in 1952.

A trust fund consisting of one-fourth of DeMille's securities was set up for benefit of another daughter, Katherine DeMille Quinn, wife of Actor Anthony Quinn; and sons Richard and John.

KING FREDERIK IX of Denmark has nearly recovered from the minor rupture of one lung caused last Christmas Eve by a violent coughing spell.

The 59-year-old monarch has been out of bed for a week and Wednesday took his first drive through Copenhagen. Doctors have warned him, however, not to move around too much yet.

250,000 on March To Israel, He Says

PREMIER DAVID BEN-GURION predicted in Tel Aviv that 250,000 to 300,000 Jews will come to Israel in the current immigration wave.

Most of the new immigrants are coming from Romania and other East European countries, although not from the Soviet Union. It is estimated that 100,000 will arrive in 1959 and more next year.

Mrs. Hayden Subs Her Legal Action

ACTOR STERLING HAYDEN'S 98-foot wind-jammer Wanderer is 10 days out on its way to Tahiti and his divorced wife is busy in court back home in Los Angeles. She's unhappy because her four children were taken along.

Mrs. Betty Ann Hayden withdrew one legal motion and submitted an affidavit in its place. In the latter, she claims that her ex-mate violated terms of a restraining order issued when they were divorced in 1955.

A hearing on this was ordered for Monday. Hayden's lawyers will represent him.

Mrs. Hayden maintains the Wanderer is unhealthy and unfit for the children; that it is without radio facilities; does not have adequate lifeboats; has no duly licensed master or engineer; and is lacking in medical facilities.

Machinist Gets $4,628 Surprise

ROBERT WALLACE, 67, a Kansas City machinist, picked up $4,628 which a Circuit Court at Kalamazoo, Mich., had held for him since 1947.

Wallace, reporting to The Kansas City Times by telephone, said Court Clerk Philip Hassing wrote out the check. The money was left in a court trust fund after Wallace moved to Kansas City and his Kalamazoo home was sold under a mortgage foreclosure. The sale price was $4,628 greater than the mortgage.

Wallace didn't know he had the money coming until Saturday night. He learned of it through Roger D. Kullenberg, a Kalamazoo Gazette reporter.

Draft Dodger, 30, Is Arrested

A 30-year-old draft dodger from Tampa was arrested by the FBI Wednesday as he stepped off a boat from Spain.

Joe Rodriguez was nabbed as he left the SS Santa Maria at Port Everglades. He was charged with failing to report for induction Oct. 17, 1950.

Special Agent Lee Teague said Rodriguez fled his parents' home at Tampa after receiving his induction notice and went to Cuba under the name of Armando Gonzalez Fernandez.

New Writing Class Offered

If you lost out on registration for the first two classes in creative writing being offered, here's your chance. A third class will be offered on Thursday evenings, beginning at 7 tonight at the Coral Gables Youth Center.

The classes, taught by Mrs. Julia Swart, are sponsored by the Dade County Board of Instruction. Registration fee for the 16 week course is $2.

Lawyers Pat Ben Willard

There were flowery words but no flowers in Criminal Court this week for Judge Ben C. Willard, who was celebrating his 25th year on that bench.

WILLARD

Milton Feller, president of the Miami Beach Bar Association, presented Judge Willard with a resolution citing him for a "career characterized by a vast knowledge of the law, a devotion to the principles of justice and zealousness in protecting the rights of all citizens, rich and poor alike."

State Attorney Richard E. Gerstein, flanked by 21 assistants, presented Judge Willard with a copy of the book "Anatomy of a Murder."

Metro Seeking Bay Bottoms

Metro Commissioners have voted unanimously to ask the state's Internal Improvement Board to give the county first call on use of Biscayne Bay bottoms.

Metro has firm plans to build a north-south causeway through the bay, and tentative plans to "create" lands for parks and an airport.

The Dade County Conservation Council, meanwhile, sent a telegram to the Internal Improvement Fund in Tallahassee protesting the Metro move.

UF Morals Probers Facing Counterprobe

GAINESVILLE —(UPI)— The local chapter of the American Association of University Professors has called for an investigation of a state investigating committee.

The chapter, composed of some 200 University of Florida faculty members, is complaining about methods of the group in conducting a probe of alleged irregularities among professors and students.

Dr. W. W. Ehrman, president of the local AAUP, said Wednesday the group has named an executive committee to investigate and determine if the state legislative investigating committee was conducting its probe properly and in the best interests of the university.

Prof. Dan Clark of the university law college said he doubted from information he had that the committee was acting within the limits set out by a legislative bill enacting the committee.

Some professors had complained that the state committee, headed by Sen. Charley Johns of Starke, was calling out faculty members without subpoenas or without advising them of their constitutional rights.

Johns had said last week there was "no foundation" to such complaints. He has not said what irregularities were being investigated, but Dr. Ehrman said it dealt with morals at the school.

2-County Feud Boils Over 3 Canals

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

(First of two articles)

Trumbull

STUART — Hottest sectional fight in Florida today involves Martin County here and neighboring St. Lucie County.

It is of far more than local interest, in that it involves a phase in the overall program for the 17-county Central and South Florida Flood Control District.

Stuart and Martin County don't like the plans of that agency for greatly deepening and widening three back country canals, all with control gates, and making an impounding area back of Fort Pierce. Here, they say, the plan will "ruin" them.

Fort Pierce likes the idea fine. They see in it a permanent solution for their long-time problem of too much water at times, too little water at other times.

Tempers flare on both sides. Bitter name calling goes on from both sides. Protest meetings are held.

If the injunctions and lawsuits now threatened are actually filed, it could be the first monkey wrench to be tossed into the gears since the flood control district came into being in 1948.

* * *

THERE HAVE BEEN minor squabbles before, but never a knock-down, dragout one like this.

First canal listed for widening and deepening treatment is C-25, locally known as the Rim Ditch. Starting at State Rd. 68, west of Fort Pierce, it drops southward across St. Lucie County to enter the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

That stream joins the waters of the South Fork and the big St. Lucie Canal, leading from Lake Okeechobee, to make one massive river flowing through Stuart and out to sea.

Another canal due for widening and deepening treatment is C-23, which runs along the Martin-St. Lucie county line and also joins the North Fork, to pass through Stuart.

The third canal in the plan is C-25, known as the Belcher Canal. This runs from the northern and western extremity of the Rim Ditch, straight into Fort Pierce. Each of the enlarged three canals would have a discharge capacity of 5,000 cubic feet per second — which is a lot of water.

* * *

IT'S THIS TWO-FOR-STUART and one-for-Fort Pierce phase of the plan that has Stuart fit to be tied. The assurance of the engineers that this capacity would be approached only in critical flood times and that control structures would be used at all other times, appeases Stuart battle headquarters not at all.

Now, to understand why any community would become so aroused over an added fresh water flow, the clock of history must be pushed back to 1924, when that big canal from Okeechobee was being dug.

Original plan for that link of the cross state waterway was for an outlet at Sebastian, far north of here. But, in the hope of vast benefits from passing yachts and other water traffic, Stuart interests turned on the political pressure and got the outlet for their city. It cost around 6.3 million dollars.

Present day Stuart bitterly regrets that piece of civic enterprise. In the years since, and during high waters on Lake Okeechobee, as much as 8,000 cubic feet per second of fresh water has cascaded through the waterway, leaving millions of cubic yards of silt.

* * *

BAYS HAVE BEEN SILTED in until docks are on dry land. Even worse, from the viewpoint of most of Stuart, has been the effect of fishing in a community that calls itself "the sailfish capital of the world."

Fishing, and the people brought to Stuart by fishing, is a main prop—many say the one really substantial prop—in the economy of the area.

For 35 years the discharge from one canal has meant woe and trouble here, and they want no more of it.

In the current fight, Stuart is not allowed to forget they "asked for it" in the matter of this existing flow.

Present day Stuart considers this to be something of a foul punch. Why, they ask, should they be held accountable for the goofs of another generation?

* * *

AND WHY, THEY ASK, should they now be in a position to become the outlet for two great canals in a project where St. Lucie County, chief beneficiary of the three-canal deal, gets only one of the objectional outlets.

To which FCD engineers reply, in substance—

"Because flood control is an overall project which cannot be pinned down to county lines and city boundaries. We are merely following a long-standing plan, approved by the U.S. Army Engineers, by Congress, and for which money has been appropriated."

Hershey Offers Plan

Rejected Draftees For Civil Defense?

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The director of Selective Service suggested Wednesday men not inducted into the armed services might be channeled into Civil Defense.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey mentioned the possibility in testimony before the House Armed Services Committee in support of proposed extension of the draft law four years beyond its scheduled expiration June 30.

He said the Civil Defense effort is lagging and "they will have to come to something closer to compulsion to get it off the ground."

HERSHEY

Hershey is chairman of an advisory committee to the Civil Defense Administration of suburban Montgomery County, Md., which recently clashed over policies with the National Civil Defense Administration.

The county civil defense chiefs, who include other nationally known figures, said evacuation of the area's big population would be impractical and a system of inexpensive shelters should be developed.

"We are not doing all we should in preparation against possible nuclear attack," Hershey testified Wednesday.

"Our training for civil defense lags. There are services vital to survival which do not require a man to wear a uniform.

"It will add immensely to our chances for survival if we find a way to induce our citizens to give those services, especially those who for various reasons cannot now make their contribution within the military forces."

He told a reporter he had in mind especially the more than three million men rejected by the armed services on physical or mental grounds, or deferred for dependency.

'Operator Will Move Nursery

The Lullaby Nursery, ordered by the city to move from its inadequate and unsafe quarters or close its doors, has decided to move.

The city's action came under new regulations passed a year ago following The Herald's disclosure of unlicensed and poorly maintained nurseries.

Ellis Knox, head of the building department, said the owner, Mrs. J. D. Ware, has leased property at 120 NW 27th Ave. "It's a concret block structure," Knox said, "and our inspectors' reports indicate it will be approved."

Knox said the old location at 34 Beacom Blvd. was condemned because of deterioration and as a possible fire hazard.

Sixteen infants and several adults were occupying the premises.

The City Commission will be asked to grant a variance on the 27th Ave. property, Knox said, because it is too close to a bar. "The nursery operator is trying to better the facilities and I'm sure the city will cooperate," he said.

• The Little Girl on Crutches Is Polio Victim Jo Anne Howard, 4, of 10200 N.W. 21st Court

HEED TONIGHT'S APPEAL BY GIVING ALL YOU CAN to the MOTHERS' MARCH OF DIMES!

For the 9th straight year, this great organization of 12,500 marching mothers will cover every block in Dade County tonight, accepting contributions wherever lighted porch lights shine. Please turn on your porch light at 7, and give as generously as you can to these dedicated volunteers. Remember, they will call on you between 7 and 8 p.m. tonight!

(Note—If no one calls at your home by 8:30 tonight, please phone FR 4-7335 or FR 9-9848 and a volunteer will call.)

THE MARCH OF DIMES BALL

UNDER THE CHAIRMANSHIP OF MRS. ROBERT Z. GREENE

will be held Feb. 3 at La Bastille, Surfside. This great fund-raising event, which attracts business and social leaders, will be held for the 13th straight year.

WHY YOU ARE ASKED TO GIVE TO THE MARCH OF DIMES . . . IT'S BECAUSE OF THE "THREE FACES OF CRIPPLING!"

POLIO IS STILL A SERIOUS PROBLEM! The dread crippler, polio, showed its face last summer in a devastating epidemic in Wayne County (Detroit, Michigan). Wayne County had 1,000 cases of polio. Half the population 40 and under had not received the Salk vaccine shots. Half the population of Dade County 40 and under has not received them, and should do so immediately!

BIRTH DEFECTS, the second face of crippling, is one of the new targets of the National Foundation. It is probably the largest unmet childhood health problem in the nation today. Each year 250,000 children are born with defects, and 34,000 children die from them. Birth defects are almost taboo as a subject of conversation or news . . . but the first thing every woman asks after the birth of her child is: "Doctor, is my baby all right?"

ARTHRITIS is another new target of the National Foundation. The rheumatic diseases, including arthritis, are the leading cause of disability in the United States today. They affect and cripple more people—there are about 11,000,000 cases—than any other chronic disease. Arthritis has plagued man, disfigured his joints, placed him in pain since the beginning of history, but even today virtually nothing is known about its cause or cure.

THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION CHOSE these two cripplers as initial targets because both are afflictions that cause severe crippling in both children and adults, crippling that is susceptible to rehabilitative techniques already used successfully for polio. They are largely unmet problems that cry out for research of the kind that resulted in the Salk vaccine.

TO THE PEOPLE OF DADE COUNTY

We regret that we had to ask some of our friends to sponsor this advertisement, but it is necessary to clarify the situation as to why we are not in the United Fund. We are not opposed to United Fund. The agencies it sponsors provide vital services to our people. These agencies need the money they get from United Fund and we are concerned for them. We are not in United Fund because the National Foundation can best serve our people by not joining. Our main function is to run a NATIONAL RESEARCH PROGRAM. This means making grants to the best scientists in the best laboratories and research institutions interested in the fields of polio and other virus diseases, arthritis and birth defects—regardless of location. The National Foundation scientists are outstanding in their fields.

Agencies in United Fund operate on fixed budgets. But it is impossible to budget for the unexpected, such as polio epidemics. Less than half the people of Dade County under 40 years of age, who are most subject to polio, have received the Salk vaccine shots. An epidemic could occur in Miami at any time, just as it happened in Detroit last summer.

DISASTER FUND—The National Foundation maintains a Disaster Fund to meet epidemic needs. It was the National Foundation Disaster Fund and not the United Fund of Detroit that went to the relief of the stricken people of Detroit in their epidemic disaster. SEVEN TIMES Dade County has called on the National Foundation's Disaster Fund. We always received financial assistance in addition to other assistance, such as trained personnel and instructions beyond measure in money.

SALK VACCINE—The research program supported by the March of Dimes paid off in the discovery of the Salk vaccine. Without the March of Dimes there would be no Salk vaccine. With the March of Dimes we expect to wage a successful campaign against arthritis, virus diseases and birth defects. Through the March of Dimes the American people stand on the threshold of a new era in the conquest of crippling diseases.

States Sharpen Their Teeth To Take Bigger Tax Chomp

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

In 1959 the vast majority of states from coast to coast will tax us more heavily than ever before, will spend more money than ever before, will sink deeper into debt than ever before.

SYLVIA

You'll be the lucky citizen, the exception among millions of us, if you don't pay the heaviest state taxes in your life this year.

For even in these opening weeks of the legislative sessions in 45 states it's obvious that increases in existing tax rates and imposition of new taxes will be on the biggest scale since 1955—when a staggering total of 3,000 tax changes went on our states' books. The number of tax changes this year could top the 1955 record.

Even before most legislatures get down to serious debate about spending and taxing, it's clear that many states have exhausted available sources of revenue and they must find new pools of cash.

In New York we already have the bad news. The tax on gasoline is going up two cents to six cents a gallon March 1. A rise in the cigaret tax is on schedule. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has served notice that payment of the state income tax is to be shifted to a withholding basis this spring or summer — and the major argument appears to be only over how to manage the switch to withholding of state taxes from our paychecks.

In Minnesota the search for revenue centers around a hike in the personal income tax. In California and Alabama increases in tax rates on personal and corporation income also are under consideration.

In Massachusetts the push again is for a new sales tax. In Alabama, Washington and Colorado, sales tax boosts are proposed. In Pennsylvania and Ohio broadening of the sales tax is at stake.

In Maryland the question is a rise in the beer tax rate. In Kansas the recommendation is to disallow the federal tax deduction from the state corporation income tax.

So it goes. Especially favored this year by a rising number of the 31 states which impose income taxes is a shift in the payment method to withholding. "Pay-as-you-go" is now the method used in 10 states and the District of Columbia. The informed report is that it will be considered by North Carolina, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Missouri, Massachusetts and New York as a fairly "easy" way to swell a state's tax take this year.

The big tax story of 1959 is not being written in Washington. What the President says about taxes will make headlines, but what Congress does about them will be relatively unimportant.

The big tax story is what I am reporting here—the relentless drive by the states (and cities and communities too) for more taxes from us.

What has been happening in the states is that ever since World War II spending has been skyrocketing—topping receipts, eating into war-built surpluses, steadily bringing more and more states to a precarious financial position.

Year after year, state spending on schools, health, hospitals, welfare, has zoomed as our population has zoomed. Year after year, state spending on roads has soared as ballooning ownership of autos has compelled massive road construction.

Year after year, inflation itself has forced up spending by hiking the costs of state projects. Year after year, voters have demanded increasing spending on needed activities. And last year the plight of many states was intensified when the recession slashed revenues below anticipations and added to the red-ink flood.

In the new year the Tax Foundation conservatively estimates overall state spending will approximate 25 billion dollars, more than four times the spending at the close of World War II. In the last fiscal year overall state tax collections totaled 15 billion dollars, 88 per cent more than in 1950.

What's next? What's next is not less spending by the states. So what's next is more taxing and borrowing by the states.

No matter what happens at the federal tax level, the tax load on millions of us is rising. And whether we pay the extra taxes to the U.S. Treasury, our state, our city or community, the pocketbook result is the same—a cut in what we have left to spend.

Red Blasts U.S. Foes Of Mikoyan

BUDAPEST — (AP) — Communist Hungary's official spokesman denounced refugees who demonstrated against Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U.S. He said they brought shame on themselves and decent Hungarians living in America.

Speaking to newsmen Press Chief Laszlo Gyaros quoted with approval an unnamed American newspaper which he said had described these people two years ago as "freedom fighters and glorious revolutionaries" and was now calling them a mob. He said the number of demonstrators was small.

Up to now, little has been said in the government-run press about the anti-Mikoyan demonstrations.

Gyaros said all cases arising from the revolt have now been settled.

DID SOMEBODY MENTION GASOLINE MILEAGE?

Although we deliberately engineered improved gas mileage into the '59 Buicks, we have not made much point of it in previous advertising for THE Car. People's driving habits can get very different results even from the same car. So we are now happy to report that our plans for greater economy of operation have been very successful indeed . . . in everyday owner experience.

Owners report excellent records
Most owners are naturally proud of their new cars, and may sometimes overstate a little. But even allowing for that, listen to these reports from owners! A Detroit man drove his Electra 9,000 miles around the country, and reports a little over 19 miles a gallon. A Louisiana LeSabre, with Twin Turbine Transmission, after 4,000 miles is giving its owner 17.6 miles per gallon. A St. Paul man reports 18.1. From Atlanta comes 17.5. From Pittsfield, Mass., 20. Some are even higher. Some lower. But these are typical.

Tests confirm new economy
Recently a very thorough set of tests was run, putting Buick LeSabre and another car of comparable size which is known for good economy, through identical tests under all sorts of driving conditions. The Buick came out best in every single test.

How Buick mileage was improved
It took a combination of several steps. New, more efficient Wildcat engines was one . . . compression up to 10.5, better carburetion. In the case of LeSabre there is also a new, twin-barrel economy carburetor as standard equipment. All this to get more power out of the fuel. In addition, new combinations of transmissions and rear axles put this power to work more efficiently.

Owners also report QUALITY outstanding
"My sixth Buick and the best I ever owned" . . . "Best-performing Buick ever!" . . . "Much the best Buick yet!" . . . "Best operating car I've driven in thirty years" . . . Learn for yourself why this year's Buick owners are so enthusiastic. Go to your Quality Buick Dealer and see why The Car is The Buy.

'No Time for Shots'

Polio Claims First S. Florida Victim

By EVELYN DETARDO
Herald Staff Writer

A young Fort Myers carpenter who "didn't have time to get polio shots" is South Florida's first polio death statistic this year, the Dade County Health Department reported Wednesday.

Jimmey E. Moore, 23, died of bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease, in Variety Children's Hospital Monday.

Moore began to complain of a stiff neck and loss of feeling in his hands and feet Jan. 21, and gradually began to loose feeling up to his hips. He was taken to Lee Memorial Hospital in Fort Meyers that night and then rushed to Miami the next morning.

He died five days later. During the entire year of 1958, there was only one polio death recorded in South Florida.

All of Moore's family, his wife Lotrelle, 20; and a daughter, Mellonie, 3, have had Salk vaccine shots. His son Michael, 9-months, is now completing his shots.

Members of the family said Moore "was working every day, and just didn't have time to get to a doctor's office for shots."

Dade's only other polio victim, this year, a 25-year-old truck driver, Terrell Howell, is in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. Howell made sure his two children had shots, but neglected to take them himself.

As of Jan. 28 last year, three cases of polio were recorded in Dade County, and 30 were listed for the entire year, according to T. E. Cato, county health officer.

Howell's wife Alice, 21, is now getting her shots, and booster shots for their children.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

BELL

OUR TOWN'S pretty well divided on the question of roadblocks, wherein motorists are stopped by police who keep standing long periods waiting to be checked. Abe Aronovitz really blew his stack a few days ago when he was detained.

But the factor that caused Herald readers to seethe was a photo showing a policeman at a roadblock, carrying a rifle. That one startled me, too. The urge to display firearms seems inherent in some people; and such people will use 'em.

I've collided with Judge Mitchell Goldman at coffee klatches a couple of times on his statement that "Driving is a privilege; not a right." I argue that it is a right, and has become a necessity. Of course the policeman and the judge have their problems; punishment of reckless drivers. And everybody's begging for less accidents and death.

Judge Goldman says the police roadblocks are legal. But we can't overlook the fact that a doctor hurrying to a patient, a business man with an appointment—; and what if a roadblock catches a municipal judge due at the bar of justice at a given hour to sentence violators caught in roadblocks?

I'm keen for catching reckless drivers, especially speeders and those zoomers from lane to lane. I'm not for rifles at roadblocks, and not too keen about roadblocks. They do hamper a lot of citizens who've broken no laws and have a right to drive about their business.

Also I'm ag'in discourteous officers, and it's pleasant to know that most of Miami's traffic officers are anything but. It pays off. Listen: P. H. Key, retired Army officer was stopped by Florida State Patrolman Ray Grimes. The officer politely told him his lights weren't proper and that he was going a bit too fast.

"If they all were so polite," sighed Key. They're nicer than most people think, Mr. Key.

And rest assured there'll be plenty of other matches involved.

Mrs. Paggy Finkel and a dozen of her friends in Bayshore Women's Golf Association will sell tickets, the entire gallery fee going to Variety Children's hospital. Officers of Metropolitan Amateur Golf Association will be in charge of the match.

Taxing Work

Listen to these figures, given me by a taxi driver who has a concession at Miami Springs Villas. He pays a Hialeah license of $35, Miami Springs $50, State Railroad Commission $30, automobile license $32, Dade County $4.25 (Metro wants a hike to $25); and his auto insurance just went up to $700 a year. Wow!

Uninvited Guest

This is the car that couldn't stop. It roared off a ramp at the Dupont Plaza Hotel Wednesday and hurled a bystander 15 feet through the plate glass front doors. The victim was Willis Charles O'Brien, 40, of Mattapan, Mass. The driver, Mrs. Veta Miller, 42, of 70 Palm Island, Miami Beach, suffered internal injuries and a possible fractured neck. Police said she accidentally hit the accelerator while moving across the front seat. O'Brien had just come down from the hotel's 12th story ballroom with Mrs. Miller, her husband, Albree, Peter Peters, 40, of Naponsett, Mass., and two friends. The force of the car's impact jarred O'Brien from his shoes. The car's grill slammed his head against a marble wall, fracturing his skull and killing him instantly. The car finally stopped when it rammed into a steel-encased pillar in the middle of the empty lobby about 1:15 a.m. Arrow shows victim's feet protruding from behind auto.

Hit Cost of Aviation Week Program

Commissioners Up in Air

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

TROXEL

McSHERRY

Metro commissioners charged Wednesday that a county-paid publicist had thrown their Aviation Week program into "a costly mess" without their knowledge.

And when an unexpected $5,200 insurance bill showed up, board members threatened to call off two-days of aerial acrobatics scheduled to start Friday at Masters Field, Opa-locka.

But indications were late Wednesday night that lawyers would smooth things out so that the show could go on.

The explosion broke at an informal meeting in Port Director George McSherry's office.

The insurance bill, covering the jet acrobatics show hit both the commissioners and McSherry by surprise. It was the first notice they had that the county itself had any official connection with the air show.

And they tossed the blame to publicist Dick Troxel, whom commissioners themselves had named Aviation Week chairman and for whom they had appropriated $51,000 to handle the four-day celebration. It ends with the dedication Sunday of the new airport terminal.

"If this air show runs up an extra $50,000 in bills, we'll be responsible for all of them if we pay anything," Commissioner John McLeod said. "This could be another Festival of the Americas." That's the fiasco which cost the City of Miami an unexpected $60,000.

Air Force and Navy jet teams are her ready to perform in the air show and a dozen or more private companies have set up exhibits.

Commissioners reached no conclusions on the rhubarb — except that they were angry. Several suggested that Troxel's Aviation Week committee be told to cover all air show expenses or cancel the show.

Commissioners left it up to Attorney Darrey A. Davis for the county and James Eckhart for the Port Authority —to work out a cease-fire. Troxel was not at the meeting.

"Nothing concerning the air show came across my desk before today," McSherry said. "It was planned to divert part of the crowds away from Miami International.

"Troxel said he was handling the whole thing through a private promotional firm, and there would be no expense for us to worry about," the airport chief continued.

Out of the confusion, commissioners pieced together this sequence of events:

1. Troxel secured "Exhibitors Services, Inc.," operated by Maurey Ashmann, to handle the show. There'd be no admission. The exhibitors would deduct all "normal expenses, including their fee, from parking lot and concession receipts, and split the "profits" between two charities —Variety Childrens' Hospital and the National Kidney Foundation.

2. Troxel told McSherry and Metro Commission Walter Weiss he "assumed" the county's "regular" insurance would cover the show.

3. Use of Masters Field was secured from the Defense Department Jan. 21 by Ashmann's attorney. The lease form shows the Metro Commission as show sponsor, and bears Weiss's name.

4. James G. Dunton, director of the Office of Public Services in Washington wired Ashman Tuesday that heavy liability insurance was needed before the jet stunt teams could perform.

5. Ashmann contacted L. C. Lovaas of Metro's budget office, who learned that $800,000 in liability insurance was required, and the premium would be $5,200.

Who's pay? Ashmann said that much insurance wasn't a "normal" expense and he wouldn't. The matter came to McSherry and the commission.

Not just the possible expenses bothered commissioners.

"Troxel has invited military service units here in our name without us knowing anything about it," Commissioner Arthur Patten charged.

Cabbie Confesses to $7,640 Theft

Victim's Nephew Set Up Job, Burglary Suspect Tells Police

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

North Miami police said a New York cab driver confessed Wednesday to a $7,640 fur and jewel break and told them a nephew of the victim put him up to the job.

Jailed on charges of robbing the home of Mrs. Conchita Roemermann, 15 NE 134th St., were her nephew, Michael Candela, 28, a Brentwood, N.Y., butcher; Candela's sister, Mrs. Rose Marie Brummer, 21, and her husband, Robert Brummer 23, the cabbie.

The suspects were picked up at the Miami Beach hotel at which they were staying, police said, but had already disposed of part of the loot — a white mink stole and a ring which they sold for $225.

Mrs. Roemermann is a dance instructor at the Shelbourne Hotel, Miami Beach, police said. They said her partner, Rolando Gonzalez, also lives at the ransacked house.

Police said Brummer told them Candela came here about 16 days ago looking for work, but had been unsuccessful and was broke. When Brummer and his wife came here a few days afterward, planning to make Miami their permanent home, they also were unable to find jobs.

The Brummers and Candela were staying at the Miami Beach hotel, investigators said.

Brummer said Candela told them about his "well-to-do aunt," and then arranged with his aunt to come to dinner at her home — evidently to "case" it before the robbery.

Detective Sgt. Lee Graham and Patrolman John Ford said Brummer and his wife went into the home Wednesday after making sure no one was home, then left, carrying two plastic bags filled with furs and jewels.

A chinchilla coat, a white mink stole, some 20 pairs of earrings, and other gams were taken, police said.

Neighbors noticed the couple coming from the house, however, and gave police a description. When Mrs. Roemermann heard the description, she told police it sounded like her nephew's friends, the officers said.

Speaks Tonight

The most recent archaeological excavations in southern France will be discussed during the Harvard Club of Miami annual banquet at 7:30 tonight at the Coral Gables Country Club.

Hallam L. Movius Jr., professor of anthropology and curator of Palaeolithic archaeology at Harvard's Peabody Museum will speak.

Aviation Week Is With Us!

Frondizi Here As No. 1 Guest

Miami's big Aviation Week to dedicate its new multi-million-dollar air terminal gets off the ground this morning.

Starting with an Arthur Godfrey telecast, the four-day extravaganza runs through a long series of luncheons and dinners and winds up with the traditititional ribbon-cutting. As of Thursday night a giant air show and exposition also was planned.

FRONDIZI

On hand with the shears will be the No. 1 guest of honor, Dr. Arturo Frondizi, president of Argentina.

In the U.S. at the invitation of the State Department, Frondizi will leave Sunday on the first commercial airliner to carry passengers from the new terminal.

While the new terminal is jammed with officials, according to the original plans, the public will have a chance to see an air show of all at Masters Field, on NW 27th Ave.

There the armed forces will team for both flying and ground demonstrations of new aircraft and missiles.

Open to the public free of charge from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., each day's program will feature low-level "fly-overs" of giant Air Force bombers; a demonstration by the Air Force Thunderbirds trick flying team; air-sea rescue demonstrations; mid-air refueling work and many stationary exhibits.

Meanwhile, back at the terminal and in various hotels, a host of dignitaries from throughout the Americas will be guests of various groups at lunch and dinner, with all the accompanying speeches.

Ambassadors and consuls from all the Latin American countries have been invited to take part, and the list is almost as long as the 1,500 feet of ticket counters in the new building.

Pronounced "ready and waiting" by its architects Wednesday, the 26-million-dollar terminal actually won't be used fully by the large airlines for two to four weeks. The have 30 days from today to be "in service," but most hope to shorten the time by stepped-up installation of facilities, followed by an overnight move into the new building.

* * *

And Here's Schedule . . .

THURSDAY—Arthur Godfrey TV show from new terminal, 10:30 a.m.; Dedication of Florida-Alaska 49'er Skyway, terminal, noon; Guided tour of terminal, 3-6 p.m.; Dignitary reception, terminal, 4:30-7 p.m.; OX-5 Club's dinner, Miami Springs Villas, 8 p.m.

To Pay Pension Debt

Extra Tax Bills Eyed For Miami

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

The City of Miami — faced with a sudden lump-sum pension debt—will have to tack a special tax on its next bills, four city commissioners declared Wednesday.

They held out only a slim hope that deep budget slashes elsewhere could offset the boost.

A special one-year increase of $1.92 per $1,000 was proposed by Commissioner James High and backed at an informal meeting by Commissioners B. E. Hearn and George DuBreuil.

Mayor Robert King High said he favored spreading the increase over two years.

The special tax will be used to repay 1.5 million dollars the Supreme Court says the city owes to its police and firemen's pension funds.

"Extra" cash for police and firemens' pension fund comes from fire insurance premiums and casualty insurance premiums.

The money is supposed to be put in a special account for police and firemen, but Miami has been putting the money into the general retirement fund.

Firemen and police went to court to get their cash out of the "general" fund, and won the case.

The Supreme Court ruled Miami would have to pay back the money, and segregate future payments from the regular retirement fund.

Commissioner High's proposal was backed by Commissioners DuBreuil and Hearn.

Mayor High offered an alternate proposal of paying the money over a two-year period "one mil at a time."

City Finance Director George N. Shaw noted that the city already budgets 2.08 mils for retirement and pensions — and has a legal ceiling of four mils.

The city's millage has been pegged at a little more than 16 mils the past two years. One mil produces about $777,000 in revenue.

The commissioners Wednesday said they would keep "eagle eyes" on next year's budget in an effort to cut corners on expenses to offset the increase.

Still unresolved are city plans for future tax-backed appropriations in pensions for policemen and firemen.

The firemen and policemen claim they are entitled to the basic city pension, plus the premium tax.

But the majority of commissioners said they felt it would be discriminatory to other retired city employes.

City consultants said the Supreme Court decision appeared to grant the city the right to lower the general retirement fund contribution to pensions for the two branches.

Airplane Doors Kill GI

Bomb Bay Crushes Head

By JOY WINANS
Herald Writer

The heavy bomb bay doors of a B47 jet bomber snapped suddenly shut Wednesday on a young Homestead Air Force Base ground crewman making a pre-flight inspection, crushing his head and killing him instantly.

The Air Force said Airman Peter Loncarovich, 24, of Bethlehem, Pa., was looking into the bomb racks from the ground beneath the belly of the plane when the fast-closing doors clamped on his head like steel jaws.

Three airmen were inside the six-jet bomber awaiting a checkout from Loncarovich before taxiing to the flight line, a spokesman said.

Whether a mechanical malfunction caused the doors to close while the ground crewman had his head in the bomb bay, or whether the pilot closed the doors not knowing Loncarovich was in danger was not immediately determined, officials reported.

A team of officers began an investigation of the accident shortly after it happened around noon, but had not made a report by Wednesday night.

Loncarovich was making a "visual routine pre-flight check" of the stratojet before it took off on a return flight to its home field at McConnel AFB, Kan., the spokesman said. There were no other ground crewmen in the plane parking area where the accident occurred.

Loncarovich was an assistant crew chief in the 379th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, stationed at Homestead. Survivors include his wife, Mary Lois, and their baby in Savannah, Ga.

The Air Force said Loncarovich died of a fractured skull and brain damage.

Debbie Was Thinking About Candy

Candy — that's all Deborah Nielson was thinking of.

She was heading for the store across the street.

She didn't see the small van starting up near her at SW 87th Ave. and 25th St., broke away from her sister, Nicki, nine, and ran directly into the path of the vehicle.

The six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Niels Nielson, 8580 SW 27th St., suffered internal injuries and a head concussion. She was in serious condition Wednesday at Variety Children's Hospital.

Detective Fred Fuqua, Metro accident investigator, said the van's driver, Richard J. Callahan, 18, of 11610 SW 40th St. would not face charges.

'Tourist' Label Didn't Suit Him

There was one thing wrong with Robert D. Bliffen's story — his clothes.

Caught prowling on a used car lot Wednesday, he insisted to Police Officers R. L. Kilgore and A. W. Smiley he was a "tourist."

Police took a second look at his "suit," then hauled him off to the city stockade — from where he had escaped earlier.

He had tried to hide his identity by turning his striped denim jail garb inside out.

Tech Student Scholarship Semi-Finalist

A Miami Tech High student has been named semi-finalist in national competition for five $3,000 civil engineering college scholarships.

MAYER

He is Gerard Mayer, 1875 NW Fourth St., who will compete against Michael Bethke of Nokomis and James O'Leary of Winter Haven to represent Florida in the national finals.

A Miami Herald carrier, Mayer ranks at the top of his Tech High class. In addition to his paper route, he works part-time without pay at the U.S. Weather Bureau here to gain experience in scientific methods.

The scholarship for which he is competing is sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers and Armco Co.

Subpena Issued For Harrison

A subpena was issued in Jacksonville Wednesday for James E. Harrison, 32-year-old Miami manufacturer who turned up in Arizona last week after being given up for dead.

It was expected he will be questioned extensively about his three-months disappearance.

Nightlife with George Bourke

Will Free-Show-for-Guests Plan Shift to Summer Excursion Boat?

RUMOR is that Morris Lansburgh is buying a boat — an excursion boat to be used in the summer version of the Cavalcade of Stars free shows which guests of the Deauville, Crown, Casablanca, Sans Souci, Sherry-Frontenac and Versailles hotels have been enjoying. A jazz festival (Dizzy Gillespie?) and four-figure prize contests are reported part of the free for guests package.

Has Tennessee Williams put his stamp of approval on a title change for the film version of his "Orpheus Descending" to "Snakeskin?" Marlon Brando stars . . . Producers of "The Indian," in which Gregg Sherwood Dodge was to have starred, hope to get back in production by Feb. 1, in spite of a California bank's refusal to honor a $140,000 note on which Gregg's husband, Horace Dodge, was co-signer.

Loew's Can Handle 70-mm Film

YOU'LL BE SURE to find somebody else other than owner Abby Lane minding the Abbe Lane haberdashery on Miami Beach on the night of Feb. 10. Movie star Abbe will be on the George Burns show that night. . . . Sy Nunez and his quartet, which is a musician and dancers' group — they can do concertos or cha-cha-cha — just closed at Danny's Jamaica Room in Fort Lauderdale. Sy is pondering whether to join brother Tommy in the Sands at Las Vegas or make some local operator happy. Both Tommy and Sy were bullfighters in their young days. Together they were at the Castaways last year for months and months.

The Three Suns join Nana Ramon's band as co-attraction at the Americana Hotel Carioca Room on Feb. 7 . . . Fran Stacy, one of the area's top models, will find it easy to adjust to her role in "The Fifth Season" at the Golden Gate Playhouse on Saturday and Sunday night. She'll play a model! Production is for the North Shore Jewish Temple . . . Loew's 170th St. theater management declares it is equipped to handle 70 mm film such as is used in "Sleeping Beauty" which will be shown at the Sheridan Theater only on Feb. 10 as a Lend-a-Hand benefit prior to regular run.

Amusements

Movies Night Clubs Drama

Gregg Sherwood . . . a role

Buster Keaton . . . a meal

Sy Nunez . . . available

Line over the Wometco Theaters drive-in ad has offered free admission to "all pets." But Gordon Spradley has had to clarify the offer at the 27th Ave. Drive-in. It seems a motorist showed up with a pretty blonde — said she was his pet. Now Gordon insists that the pets admitted be pets he also can pet . . . "The Buccaneer" continues at the Trail. It is at the Circle at which "Ride the Iron High" opens on Saturday, coupled with "The Last Hurrah." Incidentally there is a pirate called Scippio in "Buccaneer" — and Thomas Scippio is a porter at the Trail!

Bible Source of New Film Title

SPOTTED IN SPOTS: George DeWitt, at Cairo Shiskkebob . . . Jockey Ishmael Valenzuela at the Hangar Lounge of Miami Skyways Motel . . . Buster Keaton at the Embers . . . Nancy Donovan at the Hickory House. She sang for Jack Goldman at his Clover Club . . . Gretchen Wyler and Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom at Place Pigalle . . . Jules Bressler, of the Gaslight clubs of New York, Chicago and elsewhere, at Patsy's Place. Bistroman's holiday? . . . Comedian Paul Gray, in the thatched-hut atmosphere of Luau. Top that one, Paul! . . . Reginald Gardiner — we almost wrote Denny! — for late tiffin at Candlelight Inn.

Ever wonder where titles come from? The Bible supplies many. Such as "Some Came Running," which comes from a paragraph by St. Mark: ". . . when He was gone forth into the way there came one running and kneeled down to Him and asked Him: "Good Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

Did you know that Charles M. White, the Roney Plaza Hotel's new general manager, holds a master's degree in labor law from New York University law school? In addition to managerial posts at New York's Roosevelt Gotham and Stanhope Hotels and the Beverly Wilshire in California, he has been director of labor relations and training for the Hilton Hotels, Eastern Division . . . Victor Borge, who does a one-man show, was a satisfied visitor to the Ringling, Barnum and Bailey Circus at the Miami Beach Exhibition Hall where they stage a three-ring attraction. He marveled at the combination of "the traditional and the modern."

Ever hear of Castroville? It's in California, not Cuba, and it's the artichoke center of the world . . .The shooting of so many TV shows in our area currently has made work for a trio of pro water stars. Henry Vee, Barney Cipriani and Pete LaTona have been in everything from Brains and Brawn to Jan Murray's Treasure Hunt. Guess who will draw the TV audience's chance-to-win card in Jan Murray's show next Tuesday. A copy of last Sunday's Herald will be given to the first one to send the correct answer by carrier pigeon . . . Professor Cote, hypnotist, was featured at Le Rendezvous Canadien at Seeds Legion last week.

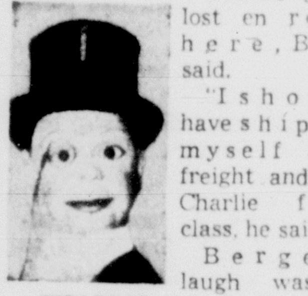
Add titles: Clover Club's Eva Christine was selected as "The Most Scanned Scandinavian" . . . Gemmo Records of Cuba has waxed three Castro and 26th of July Movement extended play records. They're 45's of course . . . Ritz Brothers biography will be labeled "Don't Holla!" Carolyn Jones proudly phoned Jerri Pollak at the Thunderbird to reveal that her hubby, Aaron Spelling, and Alan Ladd have joined forces to do a TV version of Alan's old radio series, "Box 13." Deal merges the Jaguar and Caron (CArolyn and AaRON) companies.

Bergen's Opening Canceled

That Dummy McCarthy Fails to Show

By BOB HARDIN
Herald Staff Writer

Edgar Bergen lost Charlie McCarthy Friday night — and their Miami Beach night club opening was canceled.



CHARLIE

Charlie got lost en route here, Bergen said.

"I should have shipped myself air freight and sent Charlie first class, he said.

Bergen's laugh was as wooden as Charlie's.

Bergen's laugh was as wooden as Charlie's.

"It's very embarrassing and means a financial loss to all concerned," he said.

Mortimer Snerd, one of Bergen's assortment of friends, arrived on time.

"But Charlie and Effie got lost in New Orleans," Bergen said. "And when it came time to rehearse, I didn't have anything to rehearse with."

Said Bergen:

"The management of the Eden Roc Hotel felt there was no reason to open, and I'm afraid I'll have to agree."

He laughed, adding: "I guess I haven't heard the last of this. Charlie will feel pretty cocky. He'll figure that we've found out at last where the talent is."

And about Mortimer: "He says, 'I may be stupid — but I'm here.'"

Bergen said Charlie was lost in a plane mixup at New Orleans, but was expected to arrive about 11 p.m.

"But that's just too late to try to go on," he said.

Comedian Jackie Miles was inserted in Bergen's place.

Bergen and Charlie will open tonight.

Charlie got lost once before in 1945 en route from Chicago to Hollywood when the two were on radio.

Boston Keeps Hands Off Faulkner Play

WILLIAM FAULKNER'S magic name apparently stopped the Boston censors from spoiling his new play, "Requiem For a Nun." It has lots of "strong" language . . . "Majority of One" which unveils at the Shubert Feb. 18th has a $400,000 advance sale . . . Joy Harmon of "Make a Million" was to appear in a "stunt" on the USS Independence. The Navy cancelled it at the last minute. Wouldn't let her aboard . . . Wendy Nickerson of "First Impressions" will sue the show because she broke her nose and damaged an eye during rehearsals . . . Jill St. John and Bob Evans, two priddy pipple, led the Hawaiian Room hoedown . . . "New Faces of '59" has 58 from which to select 18 . . . Lorraine Bendix, the star's daughter, and TV producer Marvin Paige had the Assembly patrons sighing, too.

Asia

ROBERTO ROSSELLINI'S latest interest is American dancer Grace Halley in Paris . . . Asia, the gal with That Walk in "Whoop-Up," weds her manager Robert Dunbar next month . . . Suzy Parker's "distinguished" friend escorted her to "The Disenchanted" the other perf, but she won't reveal his name . . . Henry Hull Jr. and his wife reconciled . . . "World of Suzie Wong" backers will be paid off in a fortnight. The big hit cost $185,000 . . . The Great Profile's daughter, Dolores Barrymore, may try changing her religious faith . . . Frank Sinatra's friend, Lady Beatty, is having a tough time getting over it . . . It's a boy for the Jack Seabrooks. The mother is Liz Toomey of United Press Int'l . . . Gwen Verdon, hurt in an accident while "Redhead" was trying out in Philly, is all right. The insurance would pay the producers $7,000 for each performance she missed.

* * *

FRANCHOT TONE, just divorced from Dolores-Dorn Heft, actress, and Dewey Martin (estranged from Peggy Lee) advertise their torches at The Living Room spot . . . The James Sheldons severed it in Smogsville, Calif. He produces the "West Point" TV series. She's a prof. at UCLA . . . Carmine DeSapio has no objection to his daughter Jeri marrying B. Ruggieri, an aide to Mayor Robert Wagner . . . Jazz star Milt Jackson (of the Modern Jazz 4) and Sandra Kay were sealed last week . . . Larry Doby, Cleveland Indian star, is keeping his nose out of everybody's business until it mends from recent surgery . . . Chums hear that the Gerry Mulligans wll try reconciling, despite all those dates with Judy Holliday . . . One of the call-girls in the Ed Murrow skewp (who co-wrote a story for UPI, which dropped her name) is initial'd C.C.

* * *

MRS. ROOSEVELT now dwells in a house on the East Side. She owns it. Rents out apartments on other floors to friends and a few carefully screened strangers . . . The Ed Landbergs (Meredith Stern of the Philly newspaper clan) secured a Nevadivision . . . Dale Ishimoto, estranged from Miiko Taka (Marlon Brando's leading lady in "Sayonara"), is dating Carole Everen, H'wood show-gal . . . The youngest bunch of dancing dolls on Broadway are those at the International. Average age is 18 . . . Marguerite Lamkin, sister of playwright Speed Lamkin, and actor Rory Harrity hide-a-woo at the Chateau-Madrid . . . Ellen McCown, leading lady of "Boy Friend" and Gerald Price, leading man of "3 Penny Opera," are merger-bound.

* * *

Linda Christian's sister (reported even prettier) prefers out-of-work actors. So many to choose from, you know . . . The DeCastro Sisters just learned that they are blossoms off Fidel's family tree. Is that good? . . . The Budd Albrights (Sharon Lee) should count ten thousand before counting ten over each other . . . Alfred Krupp, Nazi steel industrialist convicted at Nuremburg, is now the richest man in Europe . . . St. George Bryan and model Anne Takal date at Voisin to flee from the mad midtown crowd . . . The James Karens (he's in "3rd Best Sport" and she's Susan Reed, the folk singer) will greet the Stork next month . . . Jack Carter's ex-mate Joan Mann's new love is foreign hotel magnate Michel Leone.

* * *

DON'T INVITE Eartha Kitt and jazz great Miles Davis to the same soiree . . . Marlon Brando is threatening to shelve acting for directing. His damaged orb is okay . . . John Gielgud had his contract changed. His show grossed $60,000 on tour some weeks and he got only 3G's—paying his own transportation, etc. . . . Ethel Merman and the "Gypsy" management are "extremely happy with each other," says a telegram in response to reports that they weren't . . . Bob Shane will marry Atlanta socialite Louise Brandon in March . . . The CBS-TV newscasters are wearing droopy chins. Friction, etc. . . . Spotted at the Warwick's Raleigh Room: The Earl of Onslow and Mr. Justice Hugo Black's daughter June . . . Kay Coburn, ex-Latin Q. beaut, eloped with the Tropicana maitre d' in Vegas.

Tennessee Williams Drama Readied;

Brando To Get Million-Plus for 'Orpheus' Role

By LOUELLA O PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Flash! Here are two hot news items about show business:

Marlon Brando will receive $1,000,000 — plus 10 per cent of the gross to star in "Orpheus Descending," the Tennessee Williams drama being readied for the movies. This is the all-time, all-high pay envelope for a single movie.

Gina Lollobrigida is expecting a baby, according to reports from Spain. That's the real reason she is so impatient to wind up "Solomon and Sheba."

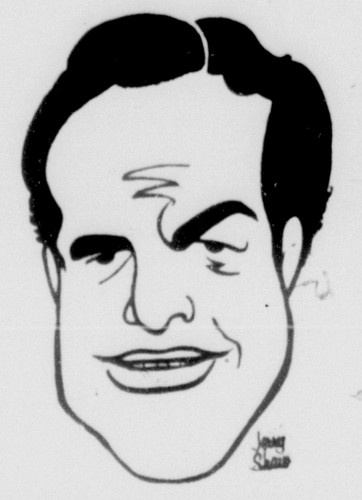
* * *

THE RUMORED suicide attempt of Inger Stevens was a shock to Y. Frank Freeman who has her under contract for the next five years.

Both Frank and Bill Miklejohn, the casting director at Paramount, have been in close touch with Inger's doctors, checking her progress. All of us who know and like her are very sorry that she was so unhappy and despondent.

The reason given for her state of mind is a romance with a well-known actor. If Inger recovers, she is so young, so pretty, and with so much to live for she should forget all this unhappiness.

ARTHUR FREED tells me that "Gigi" is much more than another brilliant musical in his movie repertoire. He really fell in love with the characters in the story and he plans a trip to Paris to huddle with the heirs of Colette to buy the rights to make a sequel.



Marlon Brando
. . . also 10 pct. of gross

Says Arthur: "The story lends itself beautifully to continuation with the mature Gigi and her husband (Louis Jourdan in the current version) presiding as young sophisticate over their circle in Paris. The roles of the aunts and grandmother would be retained — and, of course, the feeling of the Cecil Beaton sets."

I opened my mouth to ask something — but he beat me to it. "Of course, Maurice Chevalier must repeat!"

* * *

NATALIE WOOD'S troubles with Warner Bros. are 95 per cent settled. Delmer Daves wants her for Sloan Wilson's "A Summer Place," and she wants to do it because Delmer directed her in "Kings Go Forth" with Frank Sinatra.

When I questioned Delmer, he said he thought everything was in the works and he was standing by until he was told that he could have Natalie.

Jack Warner is back at his desk, but found so much to occupy his time he's trying to take one thing at a time. I'm sure Natalie is next on his list.

There's a very friendly feeling between the two and I hope to announce in a few days that she's been reinstated on her home lot.

Actor's Sideline Assures Meals

NEW YORK —(AP)— Harry Shaw Lowe is one actor who always knows where his next meal is coming from.

Lowe currently is performing as a busy tailor in "Flower Drum Song" on Broadway. A veteran of 30 years on stage, Lowe between engagements is a captain of waiters in a popular midtown Chinese restaurant.

Disney Spins a Warm Yarn of Tonka, Horse That Survived Custer's Stand

By GEORGE BOURKE
Herald Amusement Editor

Movie Review

IN BRIEF — Fine film fare for all the family, in a tale of an Indian lad and his horse.

"Tonka," at the Paramount, Colony and Coral Theaters, is a "horse opera" in that it is chiefly about an Indian and a horse, but, as is usual with Walt Disney productions, it measures high above the ordinary "horse opera" notch as a movie with family appeal.

The first three-quarters of it presents an exciting but bloodless story of a young Indian brave's adventure with a wild horse which has taken his fancy. The final quarter has enough battle and blood-letting to cover the entire footage however.

The climax, you see, is the famous, or infamous, last stand of Brig. Gen. George A. Custer in the Dakota country. The story line has it that Tonka, the horse, was the only "survivor" of the American patrol wiped out by Sitting Bull's superior forces.

Youngsters will get the biggest kick from those sequences in which Sal Mineo, as a young brave of the Comanche tribe, is seeking to prove his worth in the face of deprecating sneers from his elders.

In disrepute at the beginning, he soon earns respect by capturing the wild horse, Tonka. But he loses him to a rival in a tribal arbitration of a dispute. When the new owner is cruel Mineo returns the colt to the range.

Later, however, the horse is taken by the Army and comes under the care of Phil Carey, as an officer under Custer—and thence to the Last Stand.

Lewis R. Foster directed the film which is photographed in brilliant color. Mineo may not completely convince as an Indian lad, but that is a factor which should allow for greater ease of self-identification with the happenings on screen by his loyal teen-age followers.

Companion piece with "Tonka" is a Disney featurette, "The Seven Cities of Antarctica," a fascinating account of the United States' creation of bases in the south polar region.

'Fair Lady' Gain Hits $3,000,000

NEW YORK — (AP) — The golden glow of "My Fair Lady" has added lustre in the musical's latest financial report.

The Lerner-Loew show thus far has netted a profit of $3,000,000, with 40 per cent of that going to the show's lone financer, the Columbia Broadcasting System. CBS posted the $360,000 which brought the hit to Broadway over two years ago.

Roles Open in 2 R & H Musicals

[illegible] duction staff of Oscar Hammerstein II and Richard Rodgers is engaged on two auditioning projects.

Representatives of the Broadway hitmakers have been in London examining prospective talent for an English production of "Flower Drum Song."

O-Kaye with Germans

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — Danny Kaye has been named "best actor of the year" by German film critics for his performance in "Me and the Colonel."

Showgoers Get Service

NEW YORK — (AP) — Cooperation is off-Broadway's new watchword.

A central information exchange was established by show producers for the benefit of the public during the December newspaper strike.

The project worked so successfully that it has been made permanent. Now entertainment shoppers can learn what is playing or order tickets by either a telephone call or letter to the central boxoffice at 162 Second Ave.

Good Company

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — Charles McGraw has been pacted for a featured lead role in "Spartacus" starring Kirk Douglas and Laurence Olivier.

JACK ANDERSON—On TV

Alphabet Conspiracy Third Science Click

THE LATEST EDITION of the phone system's science series Monday night on NBC (Ch. 7) departed for the first time from an explanation of the elements to look into the nature and development of human speech.

It would have behooved the producers to have departed for this subject from the cuteness of technique they used to lead the layman through the complexities of the sun and blood in earlier programs of the series.

ANDERSON

I don't think the science of linguistics is so all-fired difficult that it needed a kindergarten treatment. A straight - forward inquiry, without the fantasy, would have made things quite clear to all of us.

For this subject, the producers enlisted a few of the "Alice in Wonderland" cast of characters—a little girl, supposedly Alice but called Judy, the Mad Hatter and the Jabberwock, the latter for their reputations as masters of the double-talk.

The Hatter and the Jabberwock served as the doubting Thomases, scoffing at the science of linguistics and challenging Dr. Frank Baxter as "Dr. Linguistics" to prove its worth. It was the contention of the Hatter and Jabberwock that the alphabet and all language are worthless.

* * *

LITTLE JUDY, apparently, was intended to represent us. I found it a little embarrassing trying to identify us with a tot only four feet high, with a cascade of hair and a pinafore.

In spite of all this fanciful nonsense, the program was an interesting and absorbing survey of a many faceted subject.

Every form of language was explored, from the grammarless cluckings of primitive peoples to the elaborately evolved speech of the civilized.

* * *

DR. BAXTER was right at home in his role for "The Alphabet Conspiracy." This is the first time the series has approached his area of interest in private life as an English and Shakespearean scholar.

The phone system has been very cunning with its series. The "Our Mr. Sun" and the cosmic rays episodes delved into the physics of its electronics.

In "Hemo the Magnificent," the nature and function of human blood was explored. The purpose here, apparently, was to explain the rising blood pressure of a phone subscriber when he gets his monthly bill.

"The Alphabet Conspiracy" could be an oblique approach to the horrors of the four-party line.

The role of Judy in Monday night's scientific confection was played sweetly by Cheryl Callaway. Hans Conreid was the Mad Hatter and although his face was obscured throughout the hour under his hat, Jack Haley was the Jabberwock.

Persons and Programs

JUNE

ZIVA

CBS has signed a high wattage cast for the Playhouse 90 two-part production March 12 and 19 of Earnest Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls" — Maria Schell, Jason Robards Jr. and Maureen Stapleton . . . Ziva Rodann has been inked by MGM for a featured role in Mickey Rooney's "The Big Operator." . . . Edmund Lowe joins the cast making Paramount's "Heller With a Gun." . . . June Lockhart is being sought for two Steel Hour TV shows following completion of shooting of her "Lassie" series . . . 20th Century Fox has picked up Pat Boone's option and will pay him $250,000 to star in a picture to be made next year.

SPEAKING OF CONREID. He's starring in a new Broadway comedy, "Tall Story," which opens next Thursday in New York. Jack Paar with whom I chatted the other day told he was flying back to New York from Cuba in hope of making the opening.

Conreid has been one of the steadies on the Paar show. Those owl stints have done more than anything else to help lift this able actor out of the spear-carrying ranks of his profession.

Paar is still muttering threats to leave the highly successful NBC show unless his demand for shorter hours and fewer shows is met when his contract expires July 31.

There are three sponsors waiting in the wings, he said, to bankroll a weekly hour-long program that would boost his present salary of $3,800 to $10,000 a week, with a corporate setup to cut down the income tax erosion.

I asked Paar which of the people who substitute for him during his periodic vacations he felt handled the assignment most proficiently. His choice was Betty White although he thinks highly of Jonathan Winters, too.

By the way, he settled the matter of the Italian golf pro who drops in on his show now and then. The guy is not Italian, as is pretty well known now. He's Pat Harrington Jr., son of the famed comedian, and he's a salesman for Dumont.

Paar, his wife, Miriam, and columnist Jim Bishop are in Cuba, shooting some human interest film for use on the show. The Paars left daughter, Randy, home and he said they were regretting every minute of it.

Goren on Bridge

Contract Actually a Cinch

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

Opening lead: Jack of clubs.

You would probably not expect to encounter the phenomenon of an optical illusion at the bridge table, but it does sometimes occur there, and todays' hand is offered as an illustration.

South's final bid is somewhat on the aggressive side, in view of his previously having made a jump shift and a feature bid in diamonds. North's two diamond bid was made as a temporary device and when it elicited a jump in hearts from South there could be no question about the small slam, inasmuch as North held better than an opening bid himself. The four club bid was routine and when South followed up with the four diamond bid I think North could be excused for going the whole way himself if he chose to do so.

The opening lead was the jack of clubs and the ace was, of course, played from dummy. Declarer immediately drew the trumps and then proceeded with the spades in the hope that that suit would break, so that dummy would obtain two diamond discards. When this failed to materialize a spade had to be ruffed in the North hand and then everything rested with the diamond finesse. When this failed declarer was sunk.

The contract was more or less a cinch and I am sure declarer would have made the hand if he had been sitting in the North seat, and South's hand had been the dummy.

After winning the opening lead declarer should cash the ace and king of trumps to see if there were four in one hand. When this comes off pleasantly, a club should be ruffed in the South hand. North should be entered with the king of spades and the last club ruffed. The ace of spades is then cashed and a low spade ruffed safely with the eight of hearts in the North hand. The last trump is drawn and South discards the two of diamonds. Spades and diamonds take the rest of the tricks. A slight case of dummy reversal.

Postal Revenue Jumps in '58

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Post Office revenues rose 18 per cent over 1957, but only part of the increase resulted from normal growth of mail volume, officials said.

The biggest factor is said to be the one-cent an ounce increase in first class, air mail and postcard rates that went into effect last Aug. 1.

Rates on second class mail rose Jan. 1, and are due to rise again on that date in 1960 and 1961.

These symbols indicate program was previewed by T.V. Ted, The Herald's Scout

7 p.m.

2 — TODAY'S GOVERNMENT — Powers of the President of the United States.

4 — LONE RANGER — Two gold lockets are instrumental in saving a boy from a life of crime.

7 — HUCK HOUND — Huck has a trying experience with the neighbor's dog while trying to barbecue a steak.

4 — WHIRLYBIRDS — Chuck's former high school teacher hires him and P.T. for her first helicopter ride.

7 — COLONEL FLACK — Flack defends the democratic process by backing Gravey for councilman in a Midwestern town.

10 — LEAVE IT TO BEAVER — The Freres Beaver get inspired by a copy of "Tom Sawyer" tonight. And they try to get the garage painted using the same dodge Tom used in white washing his fence. Naturally, there are complications and it makes a delightful half-hour of kid stuff.

8

4 — MACKENZIE'S RAIDERS — When a belligerent rancher opposes an Indian re-settlement experiment, Mackenzie sets a trap to bring him to justice.

7 — STEVE CANYON — An innocent - appearing wood carving propels Steve and a nurse Elena Verdugo into danger at the hands of narcotics smugglers.

10 — ZORRO — Don Diego is alarmed when Tornado, a jet black horse he rides as Zorro, vanishes from his secret stable.

8:30

2 — BRITISH STORY — "Impression of London."

4 — DERRINGER — A Russian duke with an eye for women and a taste for vodka goes on the rampage.

7 — IT COULD BE YOU — film.

10 — REAL MCCOYS — Grandpa's ego is deflated when he discovers that Luke and not he is the McCoy chosen for lodge honors.

2 — MONTAGE — Tonight's program will present three aspects of the musical world, classical and folk music and progressive jazz.

4 — ZANE GREY — It's Cameron Mitchell's turn to play cowboy and he's drawn a better story than most of the guest Westerners. He's a cowhand who finds a lost kid on the trail, and you take it from there. He smokes cigars — which he hates — and that may account for his grim expression throughout.

7 — BEHIND CLOSED DOORS — We're back with the undeclared war tonight as a U.S. agent slithers into Russia to destroy a secret code machine. If you can forget the whole jingoistic premise of the plot, it makes good cloak-and-grenade viewing. According to this, too, there's quite an active anti-Soviet underground within Russia.

Dennis Cross and Cameron Mitchell
. . . appear on Ch. 4 at 9

10 — PAT BOONE — Pat opens up his show to the four Crosby brothers tonight, which means plenty of music and Binglike dialogue. They'll all participate in a medley of old-time tunes and will be part of the lighthearted chatter that separates the songs, chatter mostly about girls.

9:30

2 — NEW DIMENSIONS — "Advanced Study in a New Era." Part II.

Best Bet

4 — PLAYHOUSE 90 — Reginald Rose's original for tonight is called "A Quiet Game of Cards" and it could easily be one of the best original teleplays of the season. It is certainly one of the most unusual — so unusual, in fact, that it would spoil your enjoyment to tell you the plot. It begins with five wealthy and influential citizens meeting for their weekly poker game. They realize that, after almost 25 years of this game, they are bored. While the play starts slowly, it gradually generates tremendous excitement and winds up in a blaze of suspense. The five are played by Barry Sullivan, Franchot Tone, Gary Merrill, E. G. Marshall and William Bendix.

7 — ERNIE FORD — Ernie and his guest, comedian Andy Devine, will recall the days when they played county fairs. Color.

10 — ROUGH RIDERS — When the riders stumble into an outlaw hideout they are drawn into a struggle between law abiding citizens and outlaws.

7 — GROUCHO MARX — film.

10 — MAN WITHOUT A GUN — MacLean battles with a gunman who has impressed some of the young boys of Yellowstone.

10:30

7 — MASQUERADE PARTY — One of tonight's characters is a person who shares the same name and was born in the same state as a president of the U.S. Color.

11:10

10 — MOVIE — "Fabulous Texan," (1947), William Elliott, John Carroll. Story of Texas under carpet-bagger rule and a good man who turns bandit to fight it out with the controlled police.

11:20

7 — MOVIE — Felicia Sanders, Jim Moran, Peggy Cass, guitarist Rey de La Torre and writer Boris Morris are guests.

11:25

4 — MOVIE — "Hudson's Bay," (1941), Paul Muni, Gene Tierney, Vincent Price. Story of the formation of the Hudson Bay Company.

Casey Stengel's Tirade Helps Yankees' Chances of Repeating

NO DOUBT the Yankees will be impressed by Manager Casey Stengel's warning that he will be tougher this season than in 1958. Stengel is still rankled because the Yankees played so poorly during the last two months of the past season.

His public utterances about players not observing training rules indicates he means business. Some of the boys may have thought Casey would forget because they came back to beat the Braves in the past World Series after being three down after four games.

The threat of being traded if they do not behave will have more effect upon the Yankees than anything. Sure, they'd still get the same salary, but they would be likely to miss collecting a slice of the Series melon, which nine times in the past 10 years has increased the Yankees' annual earnings.

One Yankee once told me that Stengel seldom bawled out the players when the team was losing. He said Casey was more prone to wax sarcastic when the Yankees were winning. He did this to keep the boys from becoming complacent.

But Casey doesn't like to back into a pennant, as his club did last year. So he's serving notice in advance that law and order will prevail.

Discounting Training Theories

VICKERS

THE VICTORY of Petare, Argentine-bred horse, in Hialeah's Royal Palm Handicap last week gave General Manager Elmer Vickers of Tropical Park a kick.

"Trainers have been saying they couldn't get their horses ready for big races in less than two or three weeks," Vickers said.

"Here was a horse flown into Miami five days before his race. He had one workout—at Tropical Park—and won."

Vickers also thinks horse owners who recently have been buying Irish stock will now start buying Argentine horses—particularly if Petare continues to win here.

Girl Golfers will Amaze Gallery

BESIDES Sammy Snead and Cary Middlecoff, galleryites at the Variety exhibition golf match at Bayshore today will see two of the finest girl golf pros in action . . . Mickey Wright, who won the LPGA championship and Open, is a long hitter from the tees . . . She averages 230 yards with her drives. One at Detroit, during the 1956 LPGA championship, measured 272 yards . . . The other feminine star is Marlene Bauer Hagge, who has had almost 22 years of golfing although she will not be 25 until Feb. 16 . . . This was because her father, the late Dave Bauer, started Marlene playing golf at the age of three and a half . . . When Marlene and her sister Alice first played here in the Doherty at the old Miami Country Club, they were cuter than two kittens playing with a ball of thread . . . Starting in 1956, Marlene in three seasons earned $51,461.82 . . . The golfing abilities of amateurs Frank Strafaci and Jack Penrose, who will participate in the exhibition, are well known to Miamians . . . Mickey and Marlene also will compete in the final round of the LPGA tournament at Miami Springs Sunday . . . Pro Lew Worsham and his Coral Ridge staff were a big help to the contestants and working press during the Doherty last week . . . It was nice to find a Mississippian who is a better than average golfer. . . He is Jerry Boykin . . . Other aides to Worsham are his brother Herman, Bill Downing, Johnny Blood and Walter Westcock.

UM Wanted in New Group

NEWS THAT a new conference is on the verge of being formed by 12 independent colleges without including the University of Miami is disappointing to Athletic Director Jack Harding. It did not come as too much of a surprise, because Tom Hamilton of Pittsburgh told him at Cincinnati during the NCAA meeting that UM was being omitted.

HARDING

It is possible UM might yet gain admission, as Hamilton has gone to bat for the Miami institution. Even if the presidents of the schools involved approve the organization, it cannot begin functioning before 1964 because of football schedule commitments.

One reason for the conference is to provide a higher type of college football, which has been compared unfavorably with the brand played by the pros. It is also likely the conference looks towards a tieup with the Rose Bowl, which pays its New Year's Day teams around $360,000 each.

Butts' View of Pro Coaches

GEORGIA'S WALLY BUTTS frankly concedes the colleges cannot match the type of football played by the pros. He doesn't think they have to do that to hold their followers.

"Pro mentors are more managers than coaches," Butts explained. "They get experienced talent and there isn't much they can teach them. Their jobs are similar to big league baseball managers in getting the best out of their players. Each has to be handled differently."

Butts has no quarrel with the NFL, which he says has respected the colleges' rights in not taking players until their class has been graduated.

The pros are smart in not fighting with the colleges, which eliminates the need of having minor leagues for the development of players. If the latter was necessary, the pro football teams would have problems similar to those of baseball leagues.

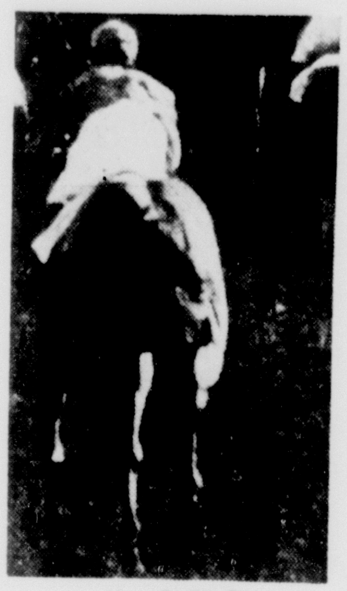
Clem Makes Move On Alhambra At 3-16 Pole As Ajaccio Falters . . .



. . . And Falters

. . . and runs last

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Clem, making his first start of 1959, came with a rush for Jockey Johnny Sellers Wednesday to win Hialeah's $25,375 Palm Beach.

Three-time conqueror of "horse of the year" Round Table in $100,000 stakes last year, the five-year-old son of Shannon 2nd-Impulsive toted his 124 pounds to a 1:23 1-5 seven furlongs.

Victory was worth $16,060 to Clem's owner.

The Argentine-bred Ajaccio, under Gustavo Avila, disappointed his South American backers by finishing last in the field of ten and failed to get in the chase at any time.

Clem, coming like a breeze on the outside of the pack, beat Fred Hooper's Alhambra by a length. Third was Mrs. Georgiana Foster's Viscount, who was just a head off Alhambra, while a length and a half back for fourth was Ada L. Rice's Talent Show.

Clem paid $5.90, $3.40 and $2.80. Alhambra was $4.10 and $3.10 while Viscount was $5.10 third.

At the start Alhambra and Chris Rogers sprinted to the fore as expected. The Hooper star increased his lead with every stride until he was four in front entering the far turn.

Olymar stayed in the thick of the fight with his mate Alhambra until reaching the stretch turn. There Sellers had Clem under way, and he disposed of Alhambra in the last 70 yards.

After Talent Show it was Slim, Olymar, Solution Admiral Vee, Arcandy and Ajaccio.

A CROWD of 17,069 wagered $1,415,601 during the afternoon.

HIALEAH stewards handed out two more suspensions, naming apprentice James Kirk and Jockey Henry Wajda. The "groundings" are for 10 days—Jan. 30 to Feb. 8 inclusive.

Kirk was "found guilty" of careless riding approaching the 3-8 pole in the fifth race Tuesday. Wajda's infraction came in the same race "approaching the first turn."

Packer Post To Lombardi

GREEN BAY, Wis. —(AP)— Vince Lombardi, whose offensive coaching wizardry helped the New York Giants to National Football League success won the nod Wednesday as head coach and general manager of the floundering Green Bay Packers.

Reached at a New York hotel, Lombardi said he had agreed to a five-year contract covering both jobs but refused to reveal his salary. He said other details would be worked out at a meeting in Green Bay with officials of the Packers on Monday.

"I'm in the unique position of being very happy to have this opportunity and very sad to be leaving the Giants," Lombardi said.

"I'm looking forward to the challenge and while I'm not as familiar with the Packers as I would be if they were in our (the Eastern) division, I know they have a nucleus of good veteran players. I intend to build around this nucleus."

LOMBARDI

Lombardi's first head coaching assignment above the high school level became a realty at a sometimes-heated luncheon meeting of the Packers' board of directors.

IL Owners Decide Cuban Fate Friday

MONTREAL —(AP)— Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy, president of baseball's International League, said Wednesday it's up to club owners to decide at the league's annual meeting Friday whether they want their teams to play in Cuba again this season.

Shaughnessy was commenting on a report that Buffalo plans to oppose games on the island, where the Havana Sugar Kings have held an IL franchise since 1954.

"The question is one for the club owners to decide," said Shaughnessy. "But I will say that major league ballplayers have been playing down there throughout the winter, if that means anything."

John Stiglmeier, president of the Bisons, said his club will go on the record against playing in Cuba if the issue comes up in the league meeting.

"I hear people are stockpiling guns down there and I understand it's still a dangerous situation," he said, referring to the recent successful revolt led by Fidel Castro against former dictator Fulgencio Batista.

A different stand was taken by Ruddie Schaffer, general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, when he was told of Stiglmeier's comments

Schaffer said the league should continue playing in Cuba unless "we are shown facts unknown to us now."

It was understood that other IL members also are in favor of continued play there.

Blackhawks Top Rangers, End Slide

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Chicago Blackhawks got moving with second period goals by Pierre Pilote and Ed Litzenberger Wednesday night and defeated the New York Rangers 3-1 to end a four game winless streak and climb into sole possession of second place in the National Hockey League.

Marlins Lose Usher To Bank, Sign Pitcher

The Miami Marlins lost an outfielder Wednesday when Bob Usher announced his retirement from baseball, but gained a pitcher when they signed 24-year-old Rudy Hernandez, a free agent.

Usher, a Marlin regular in 1958, said from his home in San Diego that he would stick to his decision to call it a career.

"I've thought this thing through," said Usher, who is employed by a San Diego bank. "I know this is the right decision. I have a good job, and I believe it offers an excellent future."

However, the Marlin management still has hopes of luring Usher back for at least one more season.

"Bob has indicated to us," said Bill Durney, Marlin public relations director, "that he might retire. But we haven't written him off as yet. There's still a good chance he'll change his mind."

Usher, who hit .280 last season, is one of five outfielders currently on the Marlin roster. The others are Bert Hamric, a returnee', Rookie Dario Rubenstein', and Chuck Oertel and Jim Pyburn, both sent to Miami on option from the Baltimore Orioles.

In signing Hernandez, a right-hander with Santiago, Cuba in the Dominican League, Marlin General Manager Joe Ryan said he hoped to add more Latin American talent.

"We're scouting the area thoroughly," said Ryan. "Hernandez has a real good fast ball and sinker. He comes highly recommended."

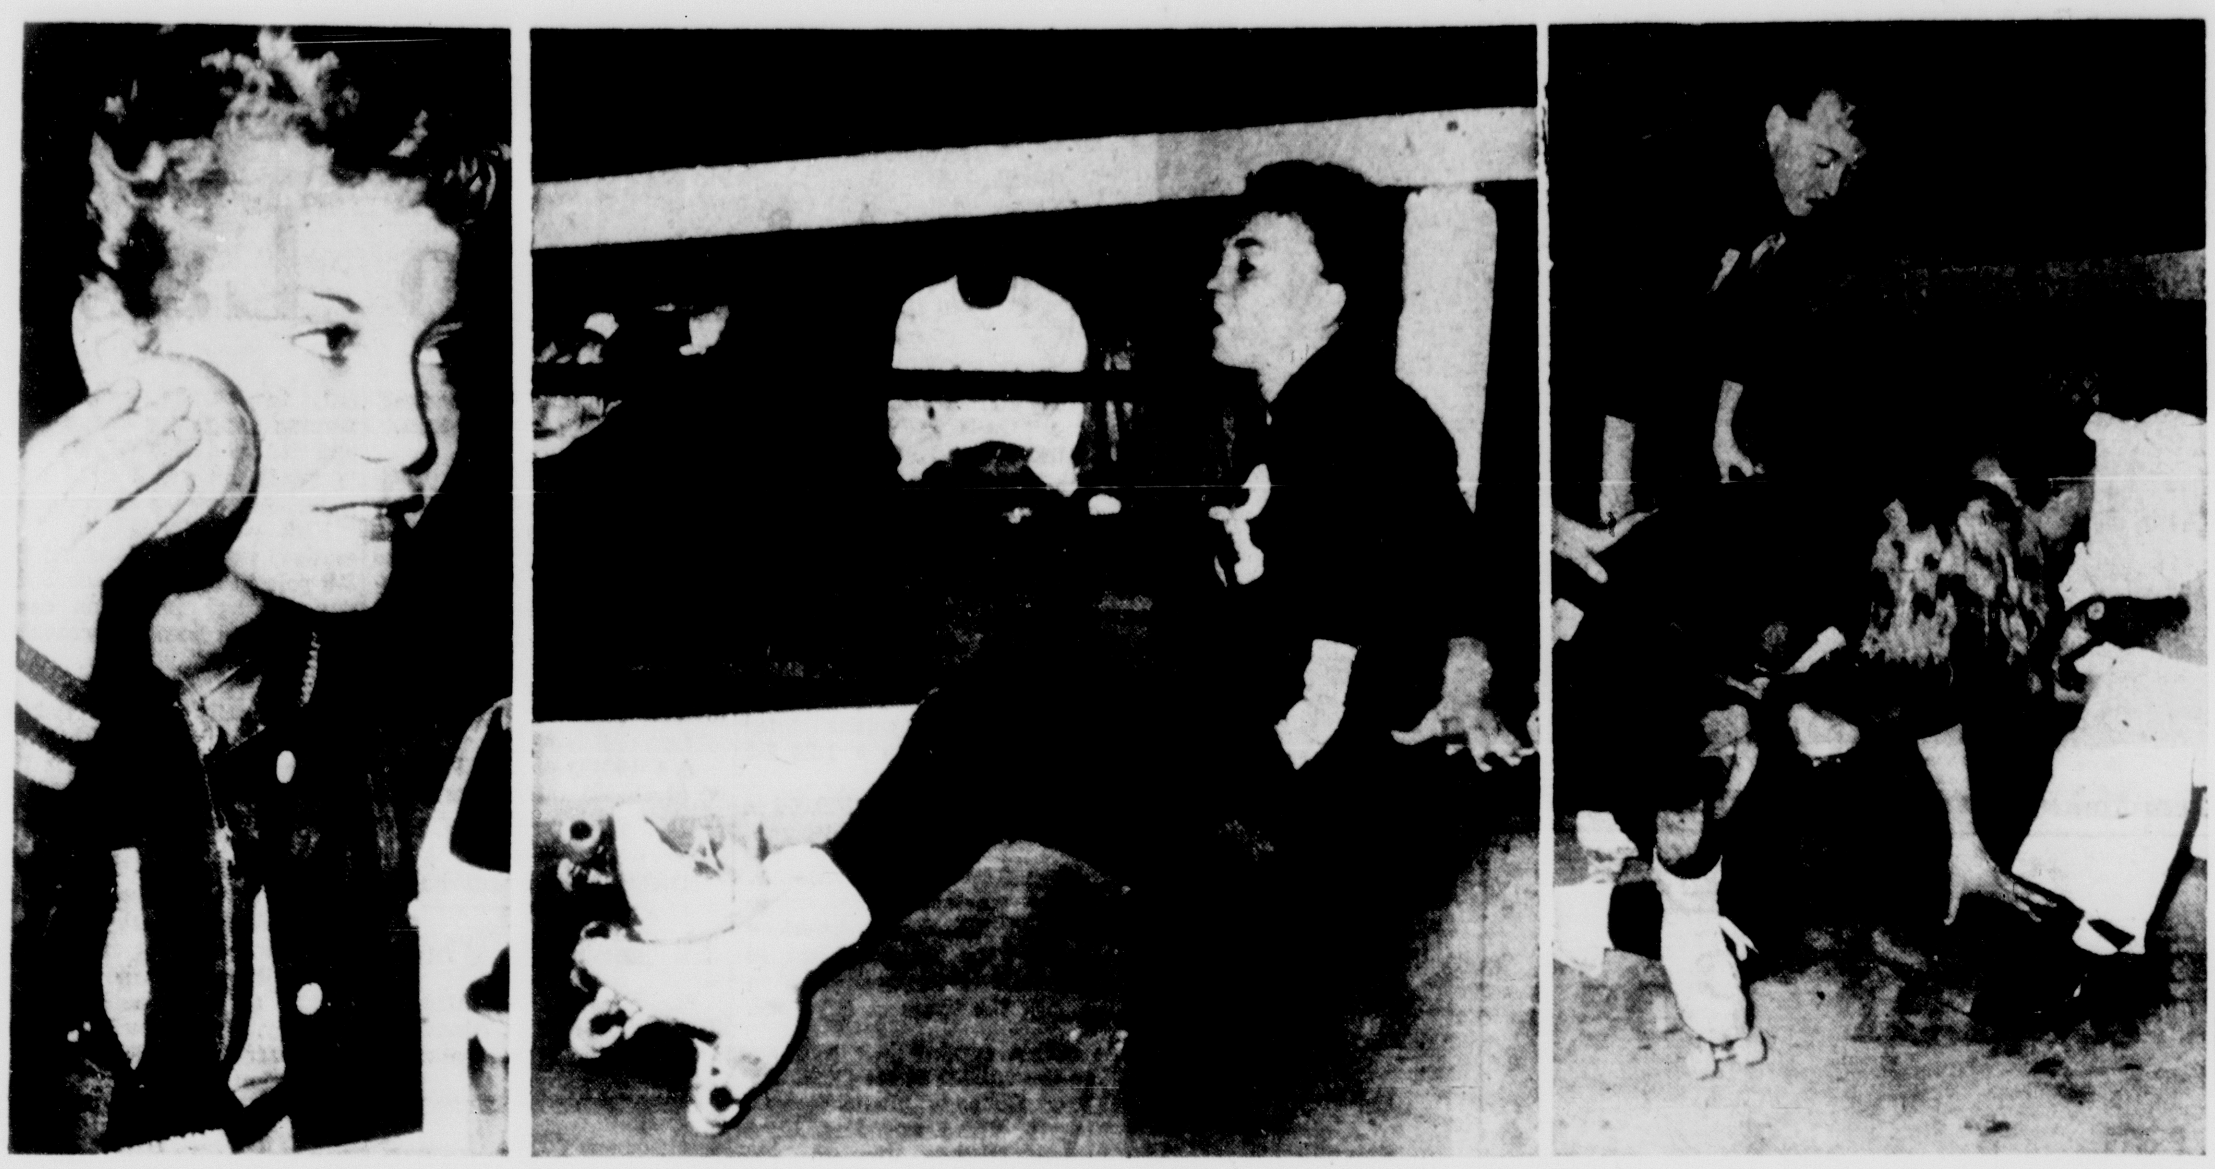
Good Skates Are The THING At Roller Derby



Action is the by-word in the Roller Derby at Miami Stadium, and it runs the gamut from nose powdering to spills to injuries. At Left: Cheila McKenna of the Florida Red Devils pretties up prior to the Wednesday night matches. Center: Shirley Hardman, also of the Devils, takes a spill. But Shirley got up and later traded punches with Ann Calvello of the Bombers. No decision was reached, but the two girls will have it out Saturday night in a six-lap-anything-goes match race for a $500 purse. At right: an injured player gets a check-over by trainer after a collision. She continued to play as the Bombers inched within a game of the Red Devils in the current series with a 19-16 victory. The girls (and boys) will go again tonight at the Stadium.

Four-Ball Golf Test Set Today

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Marlene Streit, who last Sunday realized her ambition to become Doherty golf champion, today starts bidding for the 14th Women's International Four Ball championship at Hollywood's Orange Brook Course.

Marlene will have the assistance of Anne Casey Johnstone, Mason City, Iowa, her partner in the best ball competition. Miss Johnstone won the first flight in the Doherty tournament.

Defending Champions Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, Md., and Marjorie Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., are not favored because of their individual showings in the Doherty. In the first round Marjorie will be playing against her sister, Shirley, who teams with Joan Burke.

The combination of Betty Kerby, Akron, and Joanne Goodwin, Haverhill, Mass., is also highly regarded. Miss Goodwin defeated her partner in an earlier Doherty round in advancing to the finals, where she was defeated, 2-up, by Mrs. Streit.

Mrs. George Wilcox of Miami is playing in the tournament for the 14th time, but with a new partner, Fran Emerson.

Mrs. Jack Trippe, who had teamed with Mrs. Wilcox in the past tournaments, became the mother of a five-pound, 14-ounce daughter this past Jan. 19, which was Mrs. Wilcox's birthday.

The tournament, sponsored by the Hollywood Junior Chamber of Commerce, is played over the 6,116-yard Orange Brook Course.

Pairings and starting times for the first round:

10:00 — Mary Ann Downey and Marge Lindsay, defending champions, vs. Joan Burke, Shirley Lindsay.
10:08 — Marge Burns, Evelyn Glick vs. Bobbie Hartson, Frances Rich.
10:16 — Doris Phillips, Dale Fleming vs. Tish Preuss, Ginny Ott.
10:24 — Glenda Frueham, Gerry Adamson vs Judy Bell, Barbara McIntire.
10:32 — Betty Kerby, Joanne Goodwin vs. Mrs. John Dyson, Roma Neudorf.
10:40 — Carolyn Cudone, Cookie Swift Berger vs. Paulette Lee, Ellen Gery.
10:48 — Berridge Long, Alice Dye vs. Nancy Roth, Pat Tiernan.
10:56 — Ruth Wilcox, Fran Emerson vs. Marlene Streit, Anne Casey Johnstone.

Russia Rocks U.S.

SANTIAGO, Chile — (AP) — Towering Russia crushed the United States, 62-37, Wednesday night in their showdown game of the World Amateur Basketball Championships. The loss was the first for the U.S. team after three victories in the final round robin. The victory gave Russia a 5-0 record with one game left to play.

The romping victory could sew up the title for the Russians if they decide to go through with their final game against Nationalist China Friday night.

The Russians, however, have said they will not play the team from Formosa because "They do not represent a country."

There apparently has been no change in the Russian attitude. Officials of the tournament, which is conducted by the International Basketball Federation, said they would not make a decision until the Russians actually refuse to take the floor against the Chinese.

Earlier, IBF officials had advised the Chilean Federation that Russia might lose all points earned in the tournament, forfeiting to all other five opponents they have beaten as well as the Chinese.

Berg Fires 71, Leads MAGA Pro-Am by 3

By RAY CRAWFORD
Herald Sports Writer

BOCA RATON — Veteran Patty Berg warmed up with the weather here Wednesday, firing a 71 for a three-stroke lead in the first 18 holes of the $7,500 MAGA pro-am golf tournament.

This was Miss Berg's best round of the year and was fashioned under a blazing sun that sent temperatures into the 80s.

The MAGA (Metropolitan Amateur Golf Association, Miami) and Serbin of Miami are co-sponsors of the unusual 54-hole tournament on three different courses. The second round will be played Friday at Tequesta and the final 18 at Miami Springs on Sunday.

Miss Berg's nearest challengers are Betsy Rawls and Betty Dodd, three strokes behind at 74.

In the pro-am division, best ball of twosome competition, Gloria Armstrong, who was not among the 20 low pro scorers, teamed with amateur H. Les Bryant of Lake Worth for a 62.

Miss Berg was two over par 36 on the front side, but trimmed one stroke off the par 34 back nine. She birdied the first hole with a putt of seven feet and got three more birdies on the back side. Two were three footers and one was a 16-foot putt on No. 10.

Before she started her round, Miss Berg said the weather was "pleasant and the kind I like to play golf in."

One of the all-time gallery favorites, Mrss Berg tuned up for this tournament with a 33 at Coral Gables Biltmore Monday in an exhibition round.

Mickey Wright, Patty's partner at Biltmore and one of the tourney favorities, had putting troubles and wound up with 78.

The leaders:

Patty Berg	38-33—71
Betty Dodd	36-38—74
Betsy Rawls	37-37—74

Brennan, Crawford Fight Here

Mickey Crawford, a Saginaw, Mich., Irishman who battled his way from boxing obscurity to the national fistic limelight in little more than a year, faces youthful Bimini contender Gomeo Brennan in the 10-round main event at the Miami Beach Auditorium next Tuesday night.

Crawford, who holds victories over Gil Turner, Chico Vejar and Pat Lowry, and has a draw with Gaspar Ortega, is a commercial painter — and is regularly employed in that field — during off training hours.

Brennan stopped Panama Welterweight Champion Jose Edwin in the first round in his last start here. His local record includes wins over Jimmy Archer, Tony DeCola and Wallace (Bud) Smith. He has been beaten only once in his last 15 fights and has lost but five of 44.

Both fighters are already on Miami Beach and Crawford opened his sparring drills Wednesday with a brisk four-round workout with another welter contender, Vince Martinez.

Pastrano Ranks 5th; Vince, 7th

NEW YORK —(AP)— Sadao Yaoita, the Japanese flyweight who ended Champion Pascual Perez' 48-fight streak in a non-title bout, has been named "Fighter of the Month" by Ring Magazine.

Yaoita was moved up from fifth to first among the challengers to the champion from Argentina. It was the first defeat in Perez' long career.

Miami Beach's Willie Pastrano, who meets Joe Erskin in London Feb. 24, ranks fifth among heavyweight contenders. Vince Martinez of the Beach is No. 7 on the welterweight list.

DOUBLE HONORS went to Miami High Quarterback Buddy Coleman, left, Wednesday at the annual banquet honoring the Sting football team at the Park Lane Cafeteria. Coleman was presented with the "most valuable" player award by Coach Ottis Mooney and later elected co-captain of the 1958 team. Tackle Jim McCluskey named "best blocker" is the other cò-captain.

Giardello Tumbled on TV

Stalking Tiger Wins Decision

LOUISVILLE —(AP)— Tenth-ranked Middleweight Contender Ralph (Tiger) Jones won a nationally televised 10-round split decision over fourth-ranked Joey Giardello before nearly 5,000 here Wednesday night.

Jones opened a cut over Giardello's left eye early in the fourth round and proceeded to pound away at the eye the rest of the fight. Giardello, who also suffered a cut over the other eye in the late rounds, was unable to keep away from his stalking opponent.

Giardello weighed 162½; Jones, 156½.

Referee Paul Machney scored the fight, 48-43 for Giardello. Judge Tom Nuckles had it, 46-45, for Jones and Judge Walter Beck gave it to Jones, 48-47. The Associated Press saw it, 46-45, for Jones.

It was a bruising match from the opening round. Both fighters concentrated heavily on body punches, with Jones landing more blows.

He constantly forced Giardello to the ropes and tore into his 28-year-old opponent with solid rights and lefts.

Giardello, who hasn't scored a knockout in a year, managed to stagger Jones several times in the seventh and eighth rounds, but couldn't follow up his advantage.

Stetson Slams Ky. Wesleyan

Folley, Miteff Go Tonight

DENVER —(AP)— The right kind of cheering may inspire Argentina's Alex Miteff to victory over Zora Folley in their 10-round heavyweight bout here tonight.

Miteff, the Buenos Aires butcher boy, says he wants to hear the cant of "matalo" (kill him) when he moves in on Folley, ranked No. 3 by ring and No. 4 by the National Boxing Association.

Unranked Miteff finished training in top condition — physically and mentally—for the bout which brings the Buenos Aires idol to the crossroads.

Schulman Seeks Pro Grid Team

A Miami group will seek a franchise in a proposed new professional football league, which will be organized at Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 14, Norman Schulman, coach of the amateur Miami Barracudas, said Wednesday.

Schulman, appearing at a meeting called by Fred Canel of the Maimi-Dade Chamber of Commerce, said that he will represent his backers.

Chairman A. A. Ungar of the Miami Stadium Advisory Board and Public Welfare James Hilton assured Schulman his group could have use of the Orange Bowl, except on dates allocated to the University of Miami. The Hurricanse have preference.

Hilton suggested that he could increase Miami Stadium to a seating capacity of 15,000, if Miami fields a team in the league, for a rental charge of 10 per cent. The charge at the orange Bowl is 15 per cent.

Schulman said Memphis, Atlanta, Miami and Charlotte are the southern cities proposed for the new league. The sponsors are hopeful of starting with a 12-club circuit.

Schulman said that preliminary estimates indicated the new league could play its games at a cost of $50,000 each. He said the local group was financially prepared to put over the pro sport here.

The group reasons that outstanding college players, which fail to make the grade with National Football League teams, or ones who do not even get a chance, would be available.

City Publicity Director Lew Price attended the meeting, but explained he saw no point in the City of Miami sending a representative to the Memphis meeting.

'Braves Fine For 1959' --Burdette

By DICK MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Lew Burdette sees no reason why Milwaukee shouldn't win the 1959 National League pennant, but allows that "anything can happen in the World Series."

Burdette and his wife, Mary, made a one-day stop at the Yankee Clipper Hotel Wednesday, and had dinner with Jimmy Fazio, restaurateur and avid Braves fan.

In contrast to his appearance here a year ago, when he was fresh from whipping the Yankees three times in the Series, the Sarasota resident had little to say.

"I've learned to keep my mouth shut," the 20-game winner replied upon being informed that Teammate Frank Torre told local fans Lew would "snap back" against New York in the next Series.

"Just say I'd sure like the chance to face those fellows again. I'm not making predictions—but I see no reason why we shouldn't get into the Series.

"But in any Series, anything can happen," added the man who found out the hard way last October.

The big right-hander said Red Schoendienst wrote him that he is doing well after a bout with tuberculosis.

"Well miss Red next season," Burdette said. "But he was out a long time last season, and we did pretty well."

Unlike last winter, Burdette has made practically no public appearances, but has kept busy by "working around the house" and playing golf.

Miami Not In

12-Team National Grid Tie-Up 'Set'

NEW YORK —(AP)— Twelve of the nation's leading independent football colleges have made plans for a nationwide conference, according to an article published Wednesday in Sports Illustrated.

The article, written by Tex Maule, says the plans were crystallized at a meeting in Cincinnati early this month. The outline calls for a football conference "fit to challenge the increasingly popular pros for the public's support."

Sports Illustrated says the colleges involved are Army, Navy, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Syracuse and Penn State, which will form an eastern division, and lists Southern California, UCLA, California, Washington, the Air Force Academy and possibly Stanford as members of the western division.

The University of Miami had expressed interest in the conference but was not invited to the meeting.

The article says Tom Hamilton, Pittsburgh athletic director, was unofficial chairman of the group which met in Cincinnati.

Isaacs' 66 Tops Seniors Golf

DUNEDIN — (AP) — Burly Jack Isaacs, for 20 years a pro at Langley Air Force Base, Va., set the pace with a sizzling six-under-par 66 as the Professional Golfers Association Seniors' Tournament advances through its second stage Wednesday.

Wednesday's competition was limited to the young sprouts—players in the 50-54 age group — and nine of them bettered par 72.

Hard on the heels of the 50-year-old Isaacs was tournament-seasoned Dick Metz of Fort Worth, Tex., with a 67. One stroke behind him was Charley Burkhart of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The leaders:

U-Miami's Berghoff Bounced by Grades

Dick Berghoff, U-Miami's 6-11 junior center who never measured up to advancing billing, has been dropped from school because of scholastic deficiencies, Athletic Director Jack Harding announced Wednesday.

Berghoff, who was averaging less than three points a game for the high-scoring Hurricanes, reportedly will enter a state trooper school in Indiana.

Meanwhile, a shorter UMer, 5-6 sophomore Dick Hickox, enters Saturdays' game with Western Kentucky here needing only 19 points to become the 17th player in Hurricane history to score 300 points in one season. Hickox has 281 points in 15 games for an 18.7 average.

Only three Hurricanes ever have exceeded 300 points in their first year of competition and with 10 games to play, Hickox is very likely to catch all three.

Cabo Blanco Offers Heavy Shore Action

CABO BLANCO, Peru—(AP)—You don't have to get in a cruiser and head out for marlin territory to find all the fishing action you can handle at Cabo Blanco. You can start by picking up a surf rod and strolling the short distance downhill from the Cabo Blanco Fishing Club to the beach.

DUNAWAY

The first morning I merely whetted my appetite for surf angling when I raced down to the shore for a 20-minute fling before breakfast. In that short time, a five-pound snook gobbled my bucktail-trimmed tin squid; another unidentified fish wrestled me gamely for a minute or so before releasing me; and a third fish, presumed to be a mackerel, delivered a vicious surface strike, but missed the hook.

I could spare no more time, because I was scheduled for a ride on a marlin boat.

Next morning I set the clock for dawn and took off down the hill, well pleased at my early jump. But Tom Turner had already beaten me to the station. In fact, I saw him grappling with a fish long before I reached his side.

As I strolled up, he was removing the hook from a glistening six-pound corbina—a Pacific cousin of our familiar spotted sea trout. These fish are solid silver, save for a steel-blue back and yellowish fins. Except for coloration, they are exact duplicates of the speckled trout.

* * *

Breaking Waves Help Land Catches

I WADED KNEE-DEEP out in the surf and uncorked a long cast with the light surf spinning rod and 12-pound line. A corbina nailed the squid about halfway through the retrieve.

The fish fights a trout-like battle, too. There was one surging run and then a series of thrashing activities at the surface. As I guided my prize carefully out of the waves, I noticed that Tom was fast to another fish.

I soon found that for best results, you let the fish ride in on top of a breaking wave, guiding him with only slight pressure of the tackle. Once in the pounding surf, he almost invariably follows the path of least resistance, although he saves enough energy for a frantic skittering run when his belly hits sand in the shallows.

FISHING
with Vic Dunaway

After I took the fish well above tide level, I waited for Tom to beach his and then we returned to the battle scene together. We cast at the same instant, and a corbina walloped Tom's plug without hesitation. I cranked rapidly to clear out of his way, and as my lure danced along the surface, something flashed from below and grabbed it.

By a stroke of luck, our fish kept out of each other's way. Tom took command of his situation much quicker than I did. My fish was acting strangley. He ran long and fast, but eventually I turned him and had him coming along pretty well by the time Tom had unhooked his corbina and was ready to cast again.

Not until he slid out of the last foamy breaker were we able to identify my antagonist. It was a four-pound mackerel.

* * *

Tally Mounts Fast, Though Many Lost

THEREAFTER WE PILED up fish fast—and lost many more because the hook was easily pulled out of their tender mouths.

When the score stood at something like 15, I put aside the rod and began snapping pictures of Tom in furious action. One of his succeeding catches was a whopper of a mackerel that would weigh at least seven pounds.

We quit at nine with a total tally of 19 corbina and the two mackerel. The corbina ranged from four to seven pounds and all told we had more than 100 pounds of very tasty fish. Nothing in the sea surpasses corbina for fine eating.

We killed all the fish, due to previous assurance by club personnel that they could definitely put all edible fish to good use. Now we were faced with a portage problem. There was nothing to do but clamber up the hill and get reinforcements.

Two men from the club staff responded to the call and helped us lug the catch back.

Maybe the marlin anglers snickered at our exuberance. But we could scarcely have been more pleased with a brace of billfish.

Tropical to Open Gates Saturdays

Tropical Park's grandstand and parking ground will be open to the general public during the 8:30 to 10 a.m. training hours each Saturday, beginning Jan. 31.

According to General Manager E. F. Vickers Jr., the facilities of the grandstand enclosure will be available, free of charge, to those interested in watching the thoroughbreds during the training hours.

THREE-HOUR CATCH of Lake Okeechobee bass draws a gasp of admiration from 10-year-old Randy Duncan. Adrian Whalen of Okeechobee racked up the limit on Johnson spoons with yellow skirt trailer out of Barlow's camp on U.S. 441. Six of the eight fish weighed between five and six pounds.

Berra Accepts Pay Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Yogi Berra, the New York Yankee catcher who isn't expected to see much duty behind the plate this season, Wednesday became the second member of the world champions to agree to terms for 1959. He apparently took a $2,500 cut, his second in two seasons.

Berra's appearance at Yankee offices came within 24 hours of Manager Casey Stengel's stand on the side of management with regard to a general payroll cut.

Yogi signed a contract believed to call for $42,500. Only Outfielder Hank Bauer had been signed by the Yanks before Wednesday and his estimated $25,000 contract reportedly included one of the few raises the front office had scheduled.

"I'm satisfied. I wouldn't have signed if I wasn't," Berra declared.

In his comments Tuesday, Stengel had this to say of Berra:

"He gets careless sometimes. He likes to watch the man catch the ball, and forgets to run them out sometimes. If we play him on first base, he can talk to everyone."

Budge Patty Loses

BRUSSELS — (AP) — William Knight of Britian beat Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 4-6, 8-6, 6-2, Wednesday in the indoor court tennis tournament between the International Clubs of Britain and of Belgium.

Patty was playing for the Belgian club.

Palmetto Wins, 45-40

Palmetto High made good with 17 free throws Wednesday night as it downed the South Dade B-team, 45-40, on the Panthers' home court.

South Dade outscored Palmetto in the field goal department, 16-14, but wasn't as proficient at the free throw line.

Mike McGarry led the Panther attack with 17 points—one more than Teammate Bruce Meade. Palmetto's record is now 6-4.

Hours Changed For Car Show

The International Foreign and Sports Car Show at Dinner Key Auditorium will open three hours earlier on Saturday and Sunday, and stay open a hour later on Sunday.

New opening hours are from 11 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Sunday's closing time will be 8 p.m. The move was made due to heavy attendance, which show officials said would result in a total eight-day attendance of "well in excess of 100,000 persons."

Ladle $4.90, 3.40, 2.60; Cork Screw 7.00, 4.70; The Verb 5.40.

WINNER SELECTED BY: McLaughlin, O'Neill, Castle, Brooks, Consensus, Feldman.

OWNERS: 1, Seek No Further Farm; 2, T. D. Buhl; 3, I. P. Smith; 4, Mrs. L. Wolf; 5, G. S. Colella; 6, Bajer Farm; 7, S & O Stable; 8, Neptune Stable.

LADLE dwelt at the start, entered contention on the final turn and needed only mild encouragement to wear down the leaders and increase his advantage. CORK SCREW attained a slight lead briefly between calls entering the stretch but was no match. THE VERB lacked the needed response.

SCRATCHES: Roman Rocket, John's Pal, Prime Venture, Campus Cat, Fleet Argo, Risk Again, Perfector, Royal Envoy.

479—SECOND—Purse $4,000, 4-year-olds and up,

CLEM, allowed to settle into best stride, moved outside for his challenge and responded to strong urging for the victory. ALHAMBRA rapidly attained a commanding lead, further increased his advantage on the turn and held on extremely well. VISCOUNT, after being slow to respond, was forced to alter his course while showing a good late surge. TALENT SHOW made up considerable ground. OLYMAR was without a late response. ARCANDY gave way badly. AJACCIO broke tardily and failed to reach contention.

SCRATCHES: Etonian, Backbone.

COMEBACK AT 19. That's the goal of Von McDaniel, who signed his 1959 St. Louis Cardinal contract Wednesday. The bonus baby started with the Cards last year and then skidded to Houston of the Class AA Texas League and later to Winston Salem, N.C., of the Class B Carolina League. He hurled several low-hit games in his rookie year, 1957.

Urquidi Duo Pick At Dania

Satue and Urquidi, two pelotaris with excellent win and "in the money" records at the Dania Jai-Alai Palace this season, should be heavy favorites in the third game doubles match tonight.

The two talented players have a couple of advantages which are sure to sit well with Dania fans: favorable number four post position and a knack for playing well together.

Italians Seek 4th at Miami

The strong Italian combination of Echeverria and Churruca seeks its fourth World Series triumph tonight as the doubles title race continues at Miami Fronton.

In six rounds of the Series, the Italians have been out of the money only twice. They hold only a slim two-point advantage, however, with the Mexican pair of Solozabal and Larranaga running a close second.

In Hollywood Feature

Bud Jack Tackles Two In One Again

Bud Jack, the Lillian Ryan cyclone apparently headed for an all-time win record at Hollywood Kennel Club, reaches out for victory No. 9 tonight at the Broward oval.

His challengers in the featured Grade A ninth race include Two In One, the fast-stepping Teddy Meadows dog. Two In One has beaten Bud Jack three times since the Hollywood meet opened. All defeats came over the Hollywood course, scene of tonight's clash.

Bud, however, was sent over the 3-8th mile marathon course Tuesday night without Two In One as a challenger, and ran away from the opposition.

Two In One will be going after his sixth triumph. Five last-out winners are in the ninth race field—Mill Wheel, Black Issue, True Guy, Bud Jack and Two In One.

Al Dark and Geemarie, entrants in the coming $10,000 Hollywood Silver Anniversary classic, race in tonight's secondary feature, the eighth race.

Flagler's Top 6 Race Tonight

Six of West Flagler's more consistent greyhounds will battle tonight to maintain their fine records in a pair of 5-16th mile features.

Heading the post parade in the eighth will be V. O., Doc Bill and Trifler. Opposing these three will be Mary Maru, Streamline Trail, Mar Laveon, Rebel's Joy, and Port Watch.

The ninth race features a clash between Copied, Diplomat, and Frontier Scout.

Cactus Hunter Underdog Again

Cactus Hunter, who halted Essential's string of Grade A victories his last time out, gets another shot at the five-time winner at the Miami Beach Kennel Club tonight.

Essential, despite the upset loss, is expected to go off a favorite in the featured race over the O. P. Smith Course. Bettie Bess, Alive, Bet I Can, Canadian Pacific, Miss Monica and Parnell Mary round out the field.

Oligarchy Out Of Stake Test

Trainer Elliott Burch of the Brookmeade Stable said Wednesday at Hialeah that Oligarchy, the 1958 Widener winner, will not start in Saturday's rich Bougainvillea grass event.

He indicated that Oligarchy, whose winter debut has not been decided upon, would be better suited by a fast track.

	4	El Bermejo	P. Anderson	112	20-1
367	9	Camarista 2nd	J. Contreras	112	20-1

BACKBONE is the best bet of the day; SONNY DAN is a factor on recent races; MISTY FLIGHT displayed a good effort in last; FABULOUS FOX is the next best here.

493—SEVENTH—Purse $5,000, 4-year-olds and up, allowances, 1⅛ miles. Post—4:30.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
(402)	9	aFabius	C. Rogers	115	8-5
435	4	Nah Hiss	R. Ussery	109	4-1
457	5	Wise Margin	C. Burr	109	6-1

459	8	The Collier	J. Contreras	109	20-1
314	10	Picks Choice	No Boy	109	20-1

a—Calumet Farm

FABIUS is best of the Calumet entry; NAH HISS is a stout contender; WISE MARGIN can be in the picture today; REVOQUE can be expected to be close up.

494—EIGHTH—Purse $4,500, 4-year-olds and up, claiming $10,000-8,000. 1⅛ miles. Post—5:00.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
455	1	Plain Ben	I. Valenzuela	113	5-2

413	9	Norte	I. Valenzuela	115	20-1
432	3	Daublen	C. Richmond	115	20-1

PLAIN BEN is real sharp, had no chance in last; POWDER CAP is big factor; CHRIS CROSS won last and could repeat; SUTHERN BREEZE may like this distance.

495—NINTH—Purse $4,500, 4-year-olds and up, claiming $10,000-8,000. 1⅛ miles. Post—5:30.

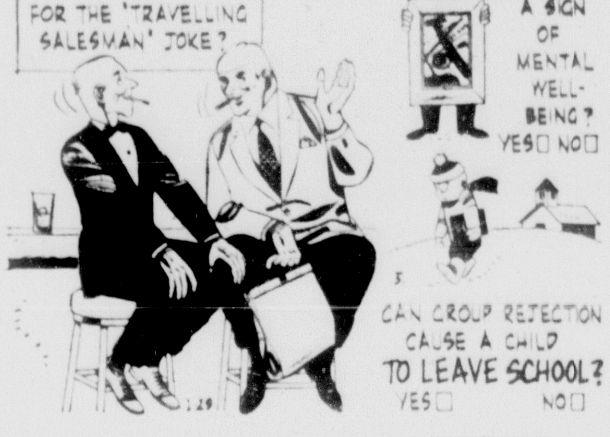
Salesmen Jokes



IS THERE A BASIS FOR THE 'TRAVELLING SALESMAN' JOKE?
YES☐ NO☐
ARE HOBBIES A SIGN OF MENTAL WELL-BEING?
3.
CAN GROUP REJECTION CAUSE A CHILD TO LEAVE SCHOOL?
YES☐ NO☐
1-29

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

The "travelling salesman" joke probably has some basis in fact or it wouldn't persist so long in so many forms. The travelling salesman is away from home a great deal. He gets lonely for companionship and attention. He puts out so much of himself in his selling that he craves comfort, reassurance and appreciation at the end of a hard day. A wife's letters and phone calls can really help. Otherwise, he may seek warmth wherever he can find it.

2. Yes. The person with absorbing hobbies has interests that lead him outside himself, and usually into the company of others. One of the first signs of mental illness is withdrawing from others and letting up on interests and activities. The person who takes on a new hobby is stretching his mental powers and keeping intellectually alive.

3. Yes, says educator Melvin W. Barnes. This is especially true when children from working class families aren't accepted by middle class children. Another cause is the lack of a good and strong example in the father. Children who feel rejected tend to act on impulse, and to pay little attention to their future welfare. Give your own child your love and be a good example if you want him to get along well with other children.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Celebrities Are People

MY WIFE is not impressed by celebrities. She thinks that people are silly when they scream for Presley, swoon for Boone, sigh for Sinatra, gush over the Gabors, moan for Marilyn, or go batty over Brando.

Such idolizing of performers, she says, is a sign of adolescence. The celebrities are just people, like everyone else, and their autographs bring nothing on the open market.

That's the way she talks, and the few times we have been at functions where Big Names were present, she has been disgusted at the way some people have pawed over and fawned over them. She has remained strictly aloof.

But the other night we went to a party for some old-time show people: Buster Keaton, Harry Richman, Fifi D'Orsay, Paul Whiteman, and Billy Gilbert.

Rudy Vallee was supposed to be there but didn't show up.

Being an impressionable fellow, I was most impressed by these famous people. Probably I was so much impressed because they were at their peak back in the days of my lost youth.

I doubt if I would have been nearly so impressed if they had been stars of current fame.

"Look!" I would whisper across the table to my wife. "There's Buster. He looks just like his pictures, except that he's almost bald. And he's smiling!"

"Why do you call him Buster?" my wife asked. "You never met him."

"No, but I feel as if I do," I said. "He was really great in Steamboat Bill. Look over there! That's Fifi with Billy!"

"I wouldn't turn around to look at any celebrity," said my wife. "After all, they're just people. And please stop pointing."

Just then Gene Hogan, the press agent, came by our table. He had a friend along, and stopped to introduce him.

"Mrs. Thompson," he said, "may I present Mr. Whiteman?"

"Oooooh!" said my wife. "Oh, goodness!"

I kicked her on a shin under the table.

"I'm very pleased to meet you," said Mr. Whiteman.

"Tee, hee!" giggled my wife, sounding like a high school girl who has just met the football captain. "Are you really?" She lowered her eyes in a coy, Grade B movie (silent era) manner.

"I am honored," said Mr. Whiteman, bowing. I was beginning to dislike him, even if he did know the Blue Danube or whatever it was he made famous.

"Heee, heee!" giggled my wife, sounding like a pony. "I'm the one who is honored. You have always been my favorite orchestra leader, Paul."

He bowed again, and I was getting tired of him taking exercises at my table. I'd never heard my wife mention any favorite orchestra leaders before, and I'd never seen her act like a stage struck teen-ager before.

I wished Whiteman hadn't gone on a diet. If he was fat and procine, my wife wouldn't be so impressed. I suddenly got self conscious about my double chin. It sagged twice as much as Whiteman's.

* * *

THERE WAS A FURTHER exchange of banalities before Hogan finally took his friend to another table.

I sat silently, a reproving, disgusted look on my face. This was wasted on my wife, who sat as in a trance, starry-eyed.

"Wasn't Paul wonderful?" she finally sighed.

"He's like all those celebrities," I said. "Just people."

"I wish I'd asked for his autograph," she said.

TOM BRANDON, Pompano Beach, has perfected a great invention.

"One thing that irritates me," he writes, "is a lady searching through her bag for something. I have corrected this. I have invented a bag with zipper on top and bottom.

"Open the bottom and let all contents drop on counter. Find desired article, close bottom. Open top and replace all contents. "Think of the saving of time and patience."

I'm surprised that Thomas Edison didn't think of that.

GIs to Get Machine Gun

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — (UPI) — American ground forces will have a new machine gun for the first time since World War I with production starting on the M-60 at the Springfield Armory.

The new weapon replaces the currently existing light and heavy machine guns. The Springfield Armory will manufacture 3,000 of the new guns, which are designed to fire the standardized 7.62mm NATO cartridge.

The 23-pound weapon is gas-operated and link belt fed, with a cyclic rate of fire of 550 rounds per minute. It can be fired from the hip, shoulder, or or from a fixed tripod ground position.

Jack Kofoed Says

Murrow Slipped Bit; Gave an Old Program

ED MURROW'S halo must have slipped down over his eyes and ears when he did his broadcast about call girls in big business.

Mr. Murrow, one of the most talented personalities in television, tried to make it appear that it's something new to hire sinful dolls to help cozen big time business men into agreements.

Contractors, who built the Roman Coliseum probably utilized slave girls for the same purpose.

The military recognizes sex as bait in wangling information from officers of the other side. Remember Mata Hara, and other accomplished courtesans?

It is related by pioneers of Our Town that, when the real estate boom, which collapsed in '26, was at its frenzied peak, experts of the oldest professions were utilized, along with free barbecues, and the speeches by William Jennings Bryan to peddle lots and acreage.

This is not an apology for such goings on, but merely to point out that the use of call girls in business is a practice which became common before the days of Julius Caesar. Mr. Murrow was interesting, but offered nothing new.

THE BILTMORE Terrace has developed an entertainment gimmick, which brings up an interesting point. Each week the hotel features a "glamor leg" contest for feminine guests over 60. There are notable exceptions, but at that age most women don't give three hoots in hades about glamor.

Somehow or other, it's different with legs. Even when chin lines sag, and waists bulge, gams hold up better than any other part of the anatomy.

I've known grandmothers . . . and not of the Marlene Dietrich type, either . . . whose stems were shapely when the rest of them had gone to pot.

I don't know why this should be so, and hope some expert on the body beautiful, or the body anything, will enlighten me. Anyway, the dolls at the Biltmore Terrace don't mind entering glamor leg competitions.

SINCE WE ARE on the subject of women, let's consider Karen Stelnitz, a German girl who lived in England. Fraulein Stelnitz walks with what might be described as a provocative wriggle. This caused so much attention her employer figured she was slowing down production, and fired her. Embittered, Miss Stelnitz left Merrie England, and returned to her native Germany.

The wriggle couldn't be blamed on her. Karen's measurements are 39-28-40. Consider that carefully before weighing judgment.

A doll with a 40 inch spread is no pencil thin specimen, and packs a fair load, as you might say, of meat. If it is not solid, a lateral, plus up-and-down motion must be expected. Miss Stelnitz claims she does not wriggle on purpose, and she was given a shabby deal when the boss cut her off the payroll. With this I agree, but it's a cinch Karen will be happier in Germany, where 39-28-40s are more common than in England, and such a wriggle as hers gains no more than passing attention.

NOTES ON A SHABBY CUFF:

Tonight the mothers march on polio, so keep the porch light on, and your wallet handy . . . Dade County Council on Community relations is holding a public meeting tonight at the Administration building, 275 NW Second St., with a "Save Our Schools" theme. It will take up the integration problem.

"Fighting 31" is a carrier-based night fighter squadron, calling itself the "Tomcatters." They'll be in Key West for the next three weeks. Back in Nov., '57 "31" was here, and wanted to meet some nice gals.

I ran an item about it, and the boys received 300 replies. Unfortunately, they were kept so busy flying they didn't have a chance to make dates. Now, they'd like to try again.

After Red Skelton finished his act at the Fontainebleau the other evening, the packed room full of spectators rose to applaud. It was a great tribute to a wonderful guy.

Jimmy Burns reports that Walter Hagen and Tommy Armour may play a golf match here this winter.

In my sports writing days, these two were magnificent performers on the links, and while, obviously, they can't hit the ball as they once did, they'd recreate many a thrill of the past.

Sammy Kaye will compete in the Winter League golf tournament at Palm Beach. Sam made a fortune with "Swing and Sway" in music, but couldn't win a thing if he swung and swayed on the course . . . Charles Tierney, new director of sales at New York's Hotel Edison, is well known to hundreds of Miamians.

Here's a switch, a ship's commander, who likes to take orders. He's C. William Bailey, top banana of the Coast Guard "Gentian." He plays trumpet in the Beach Civic Orchestra and has to obey conductor Barnett Breeskin's every sign.

Jerry Collins, featured comedian in "A Rag, a Bone and a Ponytail" at the Americana, has a soft touch. His brother, Hal, is one of the best gag writers in the business.

Frankie (Kid) Murphy, who used to campaign among the lightweights, now mixes martinis and finds it much easier on the constitution.

Circus people who dress elephants in performance finery, have headaches, too. A pachyderm can lose 100 pounds in a short time, and when this happens, unless dressers are careful, the poor thing's slip will show.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Thursday, January 29, 1959

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) One of the nicest days in some time to step out of dull routine. Study the methods of highly successful persons in important fields. P.M. read much printed matter on what most interests and begin an upswing in your affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Take the time to listen to and play the hunches which are coming through so strongly under today's fine influences. Also, be sure to analyze all and review with experts.

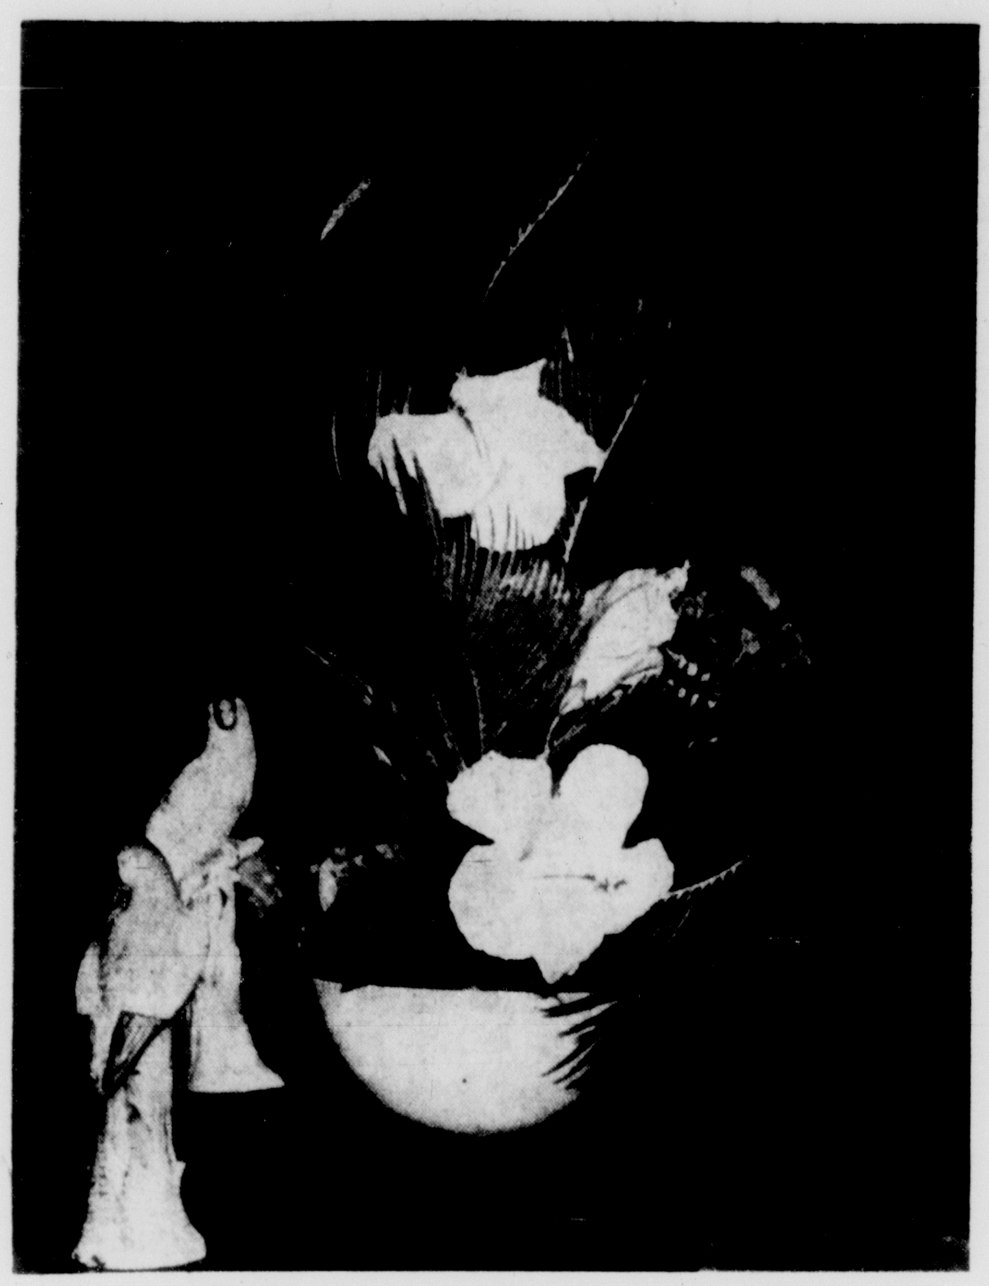
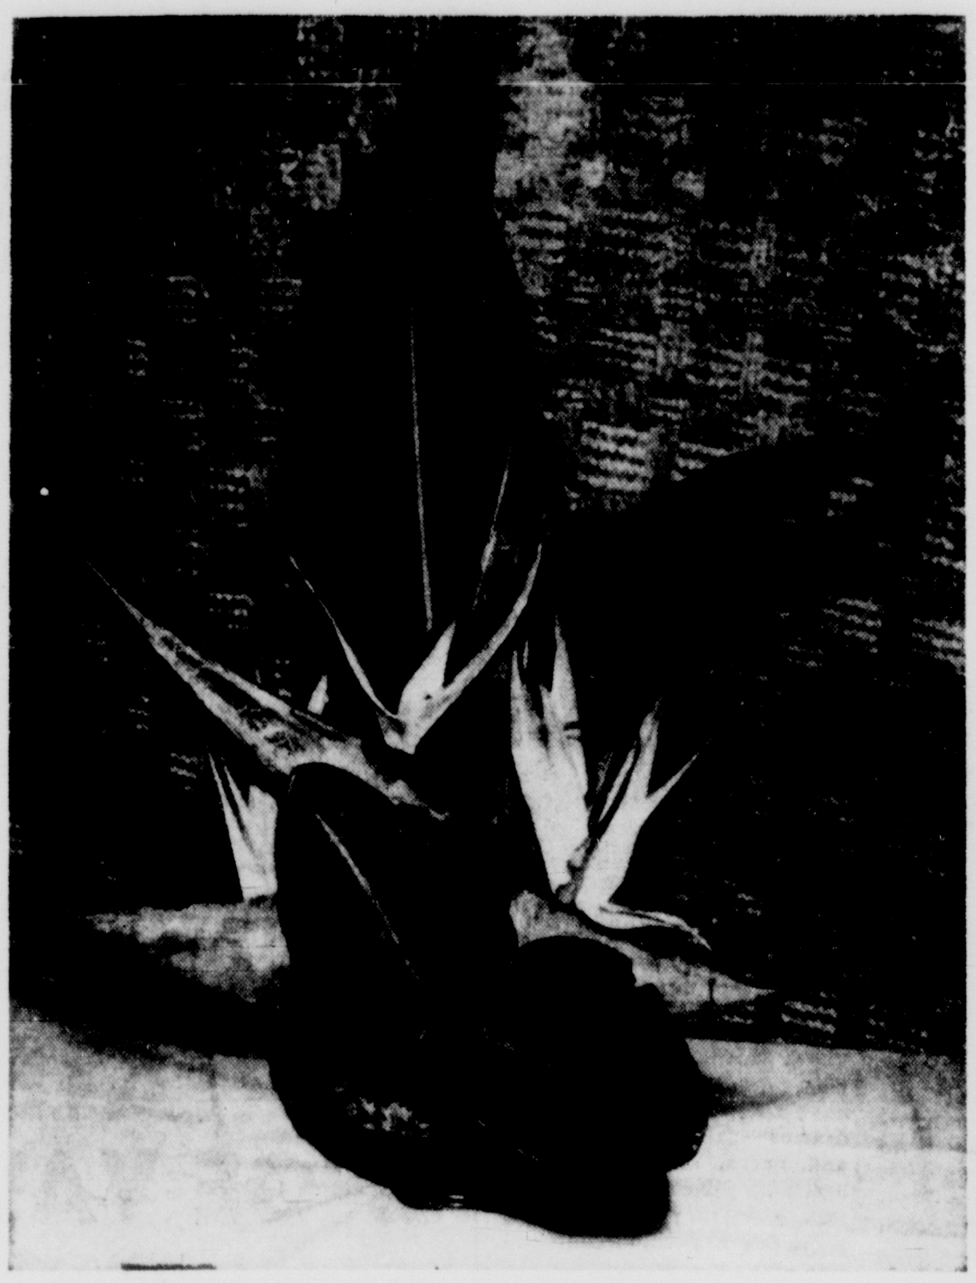
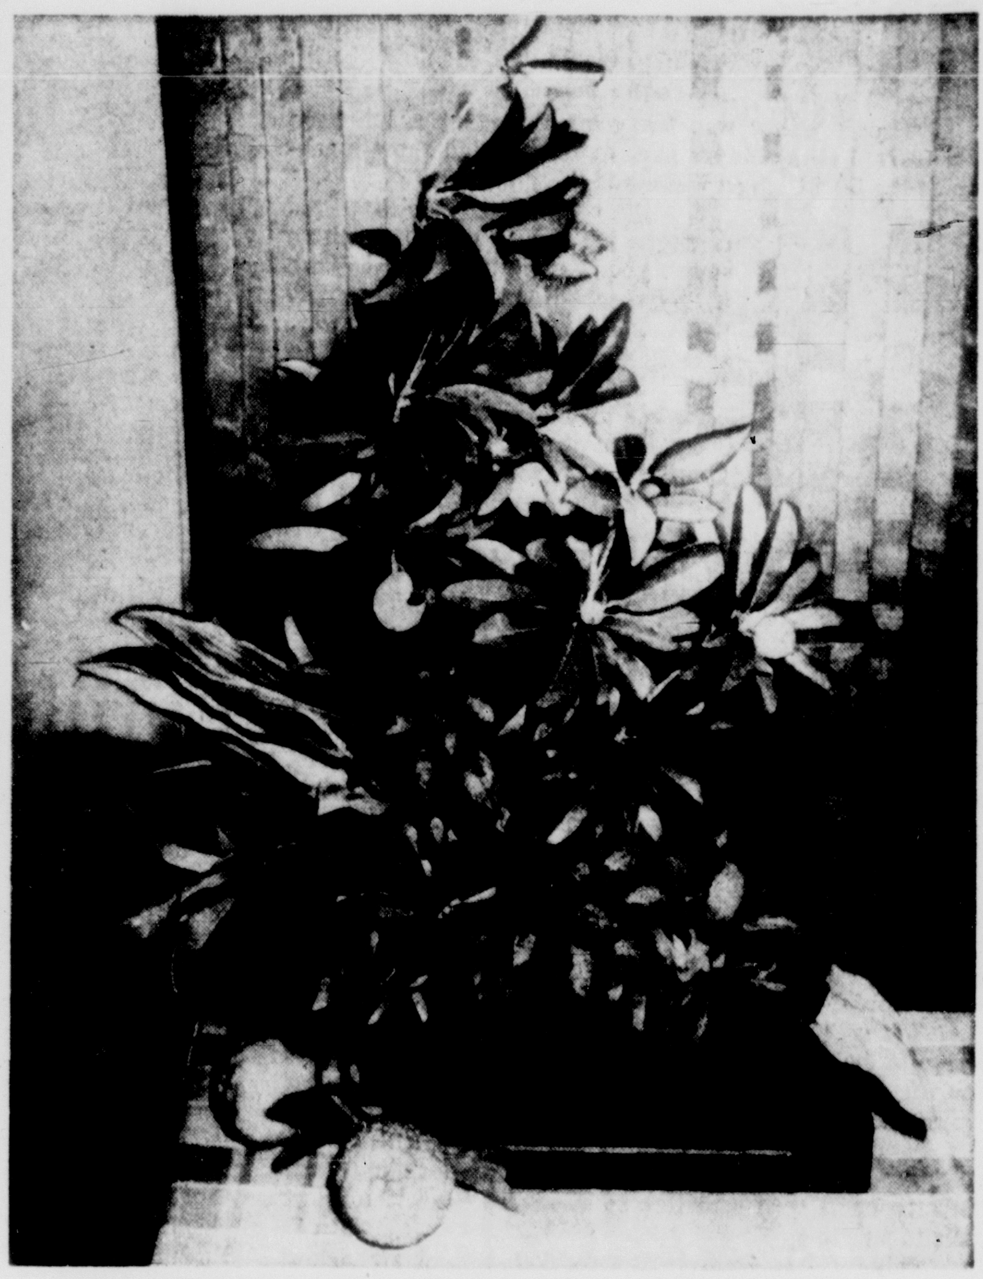
Three Floral Arrangements by an Expert



GOLDEN HIBISCUS and palm fronds make up this simple, graceful flower arrangement created by Mrs. Julia Berrall. Mrs. Berrall, a nationally recognized flower arranger from New Jersey gave a demonstration of arrangements in Fairchild Tropical Garden. She inserted the hibiscus blossoms in gladioli stems to make the blooms long enough.



BIRD-OF-PARADISE, or Strelitzia, is the center of attention in this arrangement made by Mrs. Berrall, during the program which was sponsored by the Coral Gables Garden Club. The bloom had a delicate greenish-yellow hue. Mrs. Berrall created the arrangement for the more than 500 Miami women who attended the lecture.



BRIGHT RED FRUIT of the lipstick tree is the color highlight of this arrangement. The fruit has a fuzzy surface. At the lower right is Sterculia fruit, also red. Greenery is the glossy leaves of the sapodilla. Mrs. Berrall also made this arrangement at the Fairchild Garden program.

Dior's Spring Style Secrets Are Out

PARIS — (UPI) — Yves St.-Laurent, boy wonder designer for the house of Dior, revealed Wednesday a back-to-nature spring line with bosom, waist and hips where they belong.

St.-Laurent, 22, who succeeded the late Christian Dior as the world's most influential dress designer, broke tradition in an exclusive interview with United Press International to tell how he plans to make women feminine again in their fashions.

Paris designers normally keep their collections tightly-held secrets until the actual showings. But with less than 24 hours to go, shy St.-Laurent was talkative about his.

"The bust will be in its place again," he said, "and for the first time in years woman will be simple, supple and natural. But at the same time she will have all the refinements that fashion can provide to make her elegant.

"She will be long in line, with none of the previous architectural construction surrounding her."

Thus St.-Laurent, along with most other Paris designers this year, proclaimed as passe both last year's high-waisted facade and the figure-concealing sack of yesteryear.

Then the soberly dressed young designer, blushing behind his tortoise shell glasses, said "women finally will be liberated."

All dresses will show waistlines, but not all will have belts. Shoulders will be rounded. Skirts will be "natural" in style, their length varying with the type of dress.

St.-Laurent looked serious and tired but less tense than a year ago when for the first time he replaced Dior. Then, he was an unknown quantity.

Now, the press, buyers and women around the world wait breathlessly for a glimpse of the new line emerging from the gray and gold Dior mansion off the Champs-Elysees.

LaRoche's Line Is 'Best So Far'

PARIS —(AP)— Don't throw that empire waistline into the wastebasket yet.

In one of the best collections of the Paris spring-summer showings thus far, Guy LaRoche developed a natural evolution which usually fits and belts the waist at its normal place, but lets boleros and blouses dip up in front.

Two new bright ideas are bolero blouses, worn with built-up skirts, and short-sleeved coats over dresses and suits with elbow-length sleeves.

LaRoche skirts cover the knee, but only by a hair's breadth. Only the extremists who fell for kneecap decolletage need get busy with a needle to let their hems down.

This fresh, good-looking spring collection is sure to enhance the growing reputation of young LaRoche. It has all the earmarks of the good designer who can salvage the best of last season's style while going on to new things, instead of scuttling the lot to jump on the latest fad wagon.

Lodge Elects New Officers

Oscar Laurene, 259 SW 2nd St., is the new chairman of Miami Lodge 554, Vasa Order of America. The lodge, for men and women of Swedish descent, meets at 3802 NE 2nd Ave. Miss Joyce Ludlam is the secretary.

Clubs OK Traffic Safety Plan

By MARCIE FEINGOLD

The Dade Federation of Women's Clubs voted Wednesday to support the county Citizen's Safety Council's proposed highway safety program.

A resolution urging adoption of the program was approved at the group's quarterly meeting in the Miami Woman's Club.

The basic safety plan, necessitated by the vast growth in Dade's population and the increase of vehicular traffic, includes:

HIGHER fees for licenses.

INCREASE in minimum age limit for drivers licenses

EXTENSION of licensing period from one to three years

INCREASE in number of Florida Highway Patrolmen

NEW LAWS to make drunkometer test records admissable in court.

"You are as old as you eat; and as young as you think," Mrs. C. M. Washburn, past president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, told the delegates. She is gerontology chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Diet, stressed Mrs. Washburn, is one of the most important things necessary to keeping young.

"Men begin to grow old when they look at the menu before the waitress," she quipped.

"Everyday 1,000 older people are added to the 14 million citizens over 65 in the United States. People must be taught how to live after they become old. After all most of us spend one-third of our life old."

"You must keep pretty, if you can—witty, if you must —and pleasant—if it kills you," joshed Mrs. Washburn.

Herrell Assures PTA: 'I'll Uphold School System'

State Representative W. C. (Cliff) Herrell assured the Dade County Council of Parent Teacher Associations Wednesday that though "some extremely radical" legislation will probably be introduced on integration, he would "uphold the public school system."

"I will try to preserve segregated schools, peace and tranquility," he added, "short of jeopardizing the education of any child."

Rep. Herrell discussed upcoming legislation at a meeting of the PTA council in Ponce de Leon Junior High School.

Speaking as the chairman of the appropriations committee, he said there is enough state money "even under the present tax structure" to give schools and universities "what they need, but not enough for frills."

To help finance state welfare payments, which he pointed out are lower than the national average, Mr. Herrell said he plans to introduce the Recovery Act bill "which will probably be extremely unpopular."

Two new PTAs — Riviera Junior High and Thomas Jefferson Junior High — were welcomed into the council by Mrs. Henry C. Fox, council president. This brings the total of PTAs in Dade County to 127.

Yellow Flowers Gave Spring-Like Look to Party

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

Daffodil yellow was the color theme at a luncheon Cici (Mrs. Frank) Mayer gave at the fashion show luncheon at the Surf Club on Wednesday.

Mrs. Mayer

Not only the tables and corsages for her 40 guests . . .these were a yellow carnation centered with a tiny rosebud surrounded by frilly paper . . . were yellow, but Cici, herself, was in a smart yellow shantung two piece dress.

Before joining Cici's party for a cocktail on the pool terrace, I saw Oris (Mrs. Freeland) Cresap and her so-pretty daughter, Janice in the foyer. Janice and her husband, Dr. T. Hunter Pryor Jr., and their 18 months old miss are here for a two weeks visit. The Pryors are expecting their second edition.

Discussing college for their respective daughters at Cici's party were Agnes (Mrs. Dave) White and Mrs. Philip Wood. The Whites' post deb daughter Nancy is attending UM; the Woods' two post-deb daughters, Garlin and Marilyn are at Northwestern, but are thinking of changing to UF next term. When Marilyn was asked why she joined a different sorority from Garlin's her smart answer was "I don't want to be Garlin's little sister!"

Dee Cee (Mrs. Henry) Pownell's attractive mother whom Dee Cee resembles, admitted that her name is Mary Ann Golden Wedding Anniversary Smith Calhoun! Seems she was born only 5 days before her grandparents' 50th wedding anniversary. "Better to be named for an anniversary," she said, "than as the only other Golden I've know. She was named for a golden cat!"

Phoebe Morse was wearing her red and white flowered "beau catcher" hat. She vows that this hat never fails to elicit wolf whistles so she will wear it until it falls to pieces.

Midge (Mrs. Dalby) Stonebraker looked wonderful in pink linen and wide pink straw hat; Hope Stokes was in beige and coral sweater; Judy (Mrs. Jim) Armstrong wore becoming royal blue linen; Sandra (Mrs. Harry) Brown's dress was a "coat of many colors"; Hazel (Mrs. Al) Penn looked lovely in soft violet with her new pale red brown hair.

Others glimpsed included Bess Canavan, Elizabeth (Mrs. Carl) Douglass, Mrs. Howard Roberts, Mrs. Richard Davis, Mrs. Louis Boshara, Cornelia Frazure and Eleanor Sykes who wore an intriguing ankle chain with her name inscribed on a little gold disc. Must ask her if Charlie is keeping her chained that way.

* * *

Party Dates and Places

Save your appetites, you stone crab lovers. Louise and Dr. Ben Kirkendall have set Feb. 16th as the date for their annual stone crab feast at their home on La Gorce Drive.

* * *

Another 'Major' Operation

A hearty laugh was had by surgeons who attended Ethel Kennedy when she had a recent bout with the knife in Jackson Memorial Hospital. After they had performed the surgery, Ethel's nurse "Jonesy" told them that while Mrs. K. was under the anesthetic she wanted her ears pierced!

So the doctor set to work and did this "major" bit of surgery! Now the ears and Ethel are healing nicely at her and George's home on Sunset Island II.

A dashing fella astride a white horse is a Pony Express rider (card) from the Bath Club saying that on Saturday the club is "moving some of the world renowned China Town in San Francisco" into the club. Favors, special dishes from "Fisherman's Wharf" plus charcoal broiled steaks are on the agenda.

And here's something new under Miami's moon. The Bath Club invites those who "are hunting for a cozy late spot just to sit and listen to good piano music," to visit the Nighthawk Nook at the club.

Fourth Trip Around the World

Sailing away aboard the good ship Caronia last week were the James J. McKearneys of NW 19th St., for their fourth around the world cruise. In the four months they will be gone they'll visit, South America, South Africa, India, China and Japan.

Mrs. James McKearney

* * *

Parties for Claudette Caproni, who weds Jim Branch on Saturday, include a luncheon given by Mildred Ann Charles in Burdine's tea room. Mrs. Robert N. Watts and Mrs. William McNamara gave a lingerie and linen shower for the bride-elect at Mrs. McNamara's home in the Gables.

* * *

From Paris, Kentucky not France, are the former Mary-King Koger now Mrs. Buckner Woodford and her two young sons, Buck Jr., and David. They roll in Friday to visit her mother, Mrs. David D. Koger at her home on NW Tenth St.

Mrs. Hall Moves Up To 1st Vice President

Mrs. M. Lewis Hall, Coral Gables, has become first vice president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. She succeeds Mrs. Art S. Whitmer, Lakeland, who resigned from the post of first vice president after suffering a heart attack.

Mrs. Hall

According to the federation's by-laws, Mrs. Hall, who was second vice president, moves up to the next office.

Mrs. Hall is a past president of the Coral Gables Woman's Club and the Dade County Federation of Women's Clubs. Her new office was announced at the Wednesday federation meeting in the Miami Woman's Club.

Guild Installs

New officers of the Biscayne Osteopathic Hospital Guild will be installed at luncheon Friday in the Dupont Plaza Hotel. Mrs. Norman Garson is president of the guild; Mrs. Jerome Lieberman is corresponding secretary.

Furniture for Entertaining

By CAROLYN KNUEMANN
Written for The Herald

HIGH POINT, N.C. — Today's hostess is the Queen Bee.

She is the royal personage for whom the furniture industry is doing cartwheels, to make her entertaining easy. She may be serving a ladylike tea or a teen-age romp or a sophisticated "Cocktails at Five" — there are attractive new furniture pieces to make the event effective.

She may preside in a Florida Room or a patio or a salon that would have done Madame DuBarry justice — there are correct accountrements.

Along with dips, chips, mixes and the tinned and jarred delicacies of caterers, a hostess now has at her command tea wagons, buffet bars, tiny nested cocktail tables and six-foot long banquet tables, coffee tables of endless variety, and combinations of Television-hi-fi-Refreshment Units.

Almost every major house making good Contemporary furniture, many of the Early American manufacturers, and quite a few of the firms specializing in Traditional, Transitional and other lines offer from one to several "entertainment items."

Stack-up units are showing strong. They present an evolution. First came the den, mostly for Papa and his books and slippers. Then came the Family Room, for Papa and Mama and especially the children.

Now, in the Family Room, appears a kind of party center idea, where recreation is concentrated — music, television, refreshment facilities in one corner or area.

Storage space is being provided. Hostess pieces are not only decorative, they also have an increasing amount of drawer space for silverware and linens, and sections for bottles. Functionalism isn't just a blarney of the sales boys, but a genuine contribution of the designers.

One young, talented designer, Jack Cartwright of Founders, believes there is a "settling down" in entertainment pieces.

"The rash of Danish Modern and American Modern is becoming a comfortable, easy Contemporary — which will stay awhile," he says.

"This is a style durability which is part of an over-all durability in hostess pieces. You won't tire of them so quickly. And they'll last longer.

"For example, accompanying the resistant surfaces are other durable features, like table legs with oiled finish, so they won't scuff easily if kicked. We used to just oil table tops."

Cartwright is responsible for three interesting new walnut pieces from Founders. One is a buffet bar with reversible cane (or wood) doors, black serving top, and hidden casters.

Here Is Recipe for Charlotte

Here is the correct recipe for Charlotte Russe. Proportions were listed incorrectly in Wednesday's paper.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE

- 12 lady fingers
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups milk
- 1/4 cup brandy or 1 tablespoon brandy or rum flavoring
- 2 cups heavy cream, whipped

Split lady fingers. Cut off one end to stand upright and place around sides of an 8-inch spring form pan. Mix together gelatin, sugar and salt in saucepan. Stir in milk. Place over medium heat, stirring constantly until gelatin and sugar are dissolved, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in brandy or flavoring.

Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into pan lined with lady fingers. Chill until firm. To unmold, release spring and remove sides of mold carefully. Garnish with more whipped cream forced through cake decorator and shaved chocolate. Makes 12 servings.

'Remember Your Vows'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

Anxious, who says she's headed for divorce because of her mother, forgets that not only did she and her husband promise "for better or for worse, till death do us part," but they also pledged the vow "forsaking all others cling you only unto him."

Since Anxious' mother was happily married for 29 years, I am sure the mother wouldn't break up her daughter's marriage for the world.

I don't think the problem is entirely due to the presence of the mother, but rather the attitude of Anxious. Naturally her husband resents the feeling that "mother has done more for me than my husband ever has in our marriage."

Good heavens, Anxious, how would you feel if the shoe were on the other foot? Surely, there is love enough in your heart for both your husband and your mother, but you love them in different ways.

You'd better do a quick about face and start making your husband feel he is the most important thing in your life again. Male ego is easily deflated and it sounds to me as if you have been delivering some pretty hard blows to his.

Suppose you do get a divorce. Will you and mother live happily ever after? Don't be a martyr. Your mother will not be happy if you sacrifice your marriage for her.

If your mother's presence irritates your husband, work out some arrangement where they won't be constantly thrown together.

Help your mother develop interests outside the home. Visit with each other when your husband is at work, and devote full attention to him when he comes home.

Go out by yourselves as often as you can afford. All couples need moments of privacy. If mother has habits that annoy your husband, like talkativeness, tell her about them tactfully . . . she is probably unaware of them.

Don't ever let your husband feel you and mother are ganging up against him. Try to be neutral if there are disagreements.

Do any little thing you can to make him feel special, like fixing his favorite dishes or buying an inexpensive surprise. Hang on to him, Anxious. He sounds like a great guy and they're not easy to find these days!

'Anxious Should Think a Lot'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I can't help but think Anxious was anxious to get married. Her mother has not done more for her than her husband. She just raised her to try to be a good wife and mother herself.

Anxious will not grow up as long as she has a selfish mother around. She should put herself in her husband's place. Would she like it if he had his mother around all the time, telling him what to do?

Before she heads for the divorce court, she should do a lot of thinking. I know, as I'm a mother, grandmother, stepmother and mother-in-law!

A Message From Bible

DEAR ANXIOUS:

Since you abide by phrases, have you tried the Bible? Look in St. Mark 10: 6-8.

Take it from one who knows. I've been married nearly five years. I got married at 15.

My mother caused a wonderful man to leave me and our little boy.

I now have him back, thank God, and I also have God in my life. Good luck.

A Woman's Prayer

By Josephine Robertson

I thank thee, Father, for thy gift of Love.

I thank thee for the love of little children, which is complete, uncritical, and forgiving; for the love of friends and family, which takes away loneliness; for the love of husband and wife, which can grow deeper and richer.

I thank thee for the poignancy of sharing grief and joy; for understanding in time of trouble; for moments of inspiration; for the thrill of accomplishment; for pride in those I love.

Most of all, I thank thee for the sense of thy pervading love which gives meaning to all my experience. Amen.

STUFFED MANICOTTI

Anyone can serve Italian cooking. The type of macaroni is the secret. You'll gain fame as as "Italian" cook, when you learn these secrets in February Better Homes & Gardens. Recipes are complete and ilustrated.

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup olive or salad oil
½ cup chopped onion
1 large clove garlic, minced
2 6-ounce cans (1⅓ cups) tomato paste
2 cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 teaspoons basil
1 teaspoon anise seed (optional)

• • •

¾ pound fresh RICOTTA cheese, or 1½ cups cream-style cottage cheese
⅓ cup grated Romano or Parmesan cheese
1 beaten egg
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

• • •

8 ounces MANICOTTI
Grated Romano or Parmesan cheese

Brown meat lightly in hot oil. Add next 9 ingredients. Simmer uncovered about 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, combine next 6 ingredients.

Cook manicotti in boiling salted water till tender; drain; rinse in cold water. Use pastry tube to stuff manicotti with cheese mixture (or cut lengthwise with scissors, open and fill).

Pour half the tomato-meat sauce into an 11x7x1½-inch baking dish. Arrange stuffed manicotti in a layer overlapping slightly. Top with remaining sauce. Sprinkle with Romano cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

This is just one of the 71 taste-tested recipes in February Better Homes & Gardens. And if you're planning any remodeling, you'll get ideas from the practical suggestions for remodeling and rebuilding in February Better Homes & Gardens.

Why Mimi Benzell Turned Her Back on Grand Opera

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

Celebrity Parade

"I'm not too hopeful for the immediate future of opera, or music drama I prefer to call it, in this country," said lyric soprano Mimi Benzell thoughtfully as she poured milk into her morning tea and cut carefully into poached eggs.

She was having breakfast at the hotel where she and her 5-year-old son Jonathan are vacationing. Chubby Jonathan, in fringed Western jacket, sat beside her, happily delving into a grapefruit half.

The well-known singer's mother, Mrs. Esther M. Benzell, who is visiting friends here, sat across from her.

"While I like opera," continued the singer, "I think there is so much to be done in other fields."

Miss Benzell appeared with the Metropolitan Opera for six years. Since then she has sung at countless concerts, in summer theater operettas, on television and in plush supper clubs such as Hotel Pierre's Cotillion Room, where she recently finished a five-week engagement.

She had a one-night performance here—at a convention at the Americana Hotel.

* * *

No Temperament

IF YOU EXPECT the excited temperament of an operatic artist, don't look to this unaffected young performer. She's not the star-billing-or-else type. When she's through on the stage, she comes down.

And except for her eye-catching, delicate beauty which a reviewer once called "right out of Charles Dana Gibson's sketchbook," she looked like many another Northern visitor having breakfast with her family.

Her costume was informal—pedal pushers, tailored shirt, flat shoes with ankle socks. In her dark brown hair ("I call it mahogany") she had tucked artificial daisies.

Her only "theatrical" touch was a sweep of mascara at the corner of each eye—and this was for the photographs.

About opera, Miss Benzell continued, "I've always contended that opera is bound by these rock-bound traditions. It's EXACTLY the same stage production, the same costumes, very often the same cast and even sometimes the same wrong notes that have been done for years.

"I feel opera has to become a little more pliable." She turned quickly to Jonathan and said, "No, dear, not another onion roll," and to her mother, "He'd eat a whole order of them if I'd let him."

. . . son Jonathan likes onion rolls and Florida grapefruit

"I've examined the reasons why I left the Met," she began in explaining why she hasn't done opera work for the past several years.

"I found that I might not get the chance to sing more than a half dozen roles in my entire career. For in this country, at the Metropolitan, there is very little new opera. It seemed a little stifling. You can go 20 years and never learn a new operatic role.

"I don't know her at all." Miss Benzell answered quickly when asked if she agreed with many of the tempestuous Maria Callas' comments.

"But I agree with her when she says she feels that they haven't explored enough of the operatic field. I feel that opera wouldn't have come this far in the 1st 100 years if they had just stuck to the same few operas."

* * *

'This Is Creative'

MISS BENZELL likes her present work—concerts, supper clubs, TV "because I can use my own creativity. There's great flexibility of presentation. I rise or fall on my own merits."

Singing opera and her present programs, she says, is: "the difference of being in a sure thing, like singing 'Silent Night' at Christmas, and presenting something new like 'Amahl and the Night Visitors' for the first time."

The diminutive singer's career began when she was 13 and a doctor told her: "Give up your piano. You spend too much time indoors."

The advice to cure "a violent case of bronchitis" also began her singing. For her piano teacher suggested she take up voice to continue her study of music.

Miss Benzell, born in Bridgeport of a Connecticut mother and Latvian father, then studied at the David Mannes Music School, and, through Met people whom her teacher knew, began singing with the New York company at 21.

She met her husband, music publisher Walter Gould, on a concert tour in which she sang with the orchestra of his brother, Morton Gould.

Besides Jonathan, Walter Gould and his wife have a 20-month-old daughter Jennifer.

MARY ASTOR: My Story

'I'd Have Liked Death'

After an unhappy period of doing plays on the road, Mary Astor settled for a while in New York. She had separated from her fourth husband and her mother had died, leaving her alone.

One In a Series

I fell in love with Ferris Hall on sight. He was a Greenwich Village type with blond hair and blue eyes, and although he was several years older than I was he looked surprisingly young. I soon realized he wasn't much of an actor, but I was in desperate need of a man to lean on.

I found an apartment, an old, once lovely apartment, now shabby and run-down. I signed a two-year lease. And I could unpack my trunk after — was it only six months? — of living out of a suitcase. I could stock the kitchen and not have to eat at restaurants. And the Church of Our Lady of the Sea was only a block and a half away.

Ferris helped me get settled, and came around every day, and I soon realized that he had a drinking problem, too, and I saw I could expect no help from him.

I went drearily to some Fellowship meetings. They conveyed nothing to me. I was willing to admit to Ferris that I was an alcoholic — I was willing to say anything to him — but I could not admit it to anyone else, including myself.

* * *

Miss Astor got a part in a play and went to Philadelphia for try-out performances. The play failed and Miss Astor faced an empty summer in New York.

A STRANGE, INTIMATE BOND had developed between Ferris and me. We were like people who had been married for TWENTY years, but with- so much as a gesture of affection, and without any sexual attraction at all.

There were no illicit relations between Ferris and me, but he was living in my apartment most of the time. There was not even the casual affection of theatre people who embrace and call each other "darling" meaninglessly.

We had the security of familiarity; we could safely express ourselves to each other, saying what we felt and thought — knowing it would go no further.

We were both highly antisocial, and this tie cemented us together against a hostile, jungle world. I felt that I could find safety from it only in him.

I was weary and tired and depressed. The weather added its bit of misery — it was a dreadful heat spell. Things were piling up, tensions, pressures, piling up.

Late one steaming afternoon Ferris said, quite casually, like any normal person, "Let's have a drink." I think I waited no more than half a second before I said, "All right, let's."

* * *

FERRIS WENT DOWN to the corner and came back with vodka, tonic, and limes, and nothing ever tasted so good.

Troubles vanished. The world wasn't such a bad place after all. For nearly a week we lived in a happy alcoholic mist. And of course we remembered that we loved each other . . .

From the stage of loving we progressed to the stage of hating. By the end of the week we were making no sense at all; I had just enough self-possession left to realize that I had to do something about it.

* * *

THE NEXT DAY, Ferris and I slowed down a bit. He was feeling remorseful and went out in the afternoon while I slept some more.

I was getting dinner when I heard the unmistakable "Wow!" of a Siamese cat. I ran to the door — it was Ferris with a somewhat frightened Siamese lady on his shoulder. "You've been needing this," he said, grinning.

I could have wept with pleasure. She was seven months old, with the pedigree name of "Isis All Si." The s's became just plain "Missy," and Missy at once became the focus of all the love and affection I could bestow nowhere else.

In spite of the shakes and a shattering headache I stayed sober Sunday and Monday. Monday night was unbearably hot again, and in the icebox were bottles of beer — pale, cold, and inviting.

And another week of increased drinking began. Ferris came home on afternoon and found me running a high temperature and vomiting blood.

Even he was frightened. He phoned a doctor, and I was at once taken into Lenox Hill Hospital.

There in the dark room I lay in a lethargic despair. I didn't like me. I hated me. And there was no escape from me, the person. I would have death, on my own terms — a nice, quiet release from the life I did not know how to live.

I hated my traitorous body that fought for survival and yet demanded the baffling anesthetic of alcohol to endure that survival. And more than anything else I feared pain, and the painful horrible death of the alcoholic that Ferris had described to me.

At least that fear accomplished what nothing else seemed to; after my release from the hospital I stopped drinking — for a while.

Your Income Tax: 4

New Rule Hits Expense Account Cheats

Here is the fourth in a series of articles that can help you save time and money on your 1958 income tax return.

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Staff Writer

For 37 years, Uncle Sam has been trying to ferret out chiselers who make money on expense accounts but try to escape getting taxed on their profit. This year he's trying something new.

All tax forms have been revised so every taxpayer has to give yes or no answers about expense accounts.

Ever since 1921, the law has required taxpayers to report as income all money received on expense accounts. Such income could be offset, at least in part, by deducting actual job-connected expenses.

In addition to revising the tax forms, the Internal Revenue Service this year has changed the rules for listing expense money as income. They boil down to this:

So long as you didn't make a profit on your expense account — by collecting more than you spent — you don't have to list expense money as income.

If you did make a profit, you have to report it as "excess reimbursements" on line 5 of tax form 1040 (you can't use the simple form 1040A) and pay a tax on it.

Even if you didn't make a profit, it may pay you to give IRS an accounting of your expense money. This could be the case if you spent more money in connection with your job than you collected on your expense account.

If so, you can list expense money as income and deduct your actual expenses. Some of these expenses can be deducted on page 1 of form 1040 and some can be deducted only if you itemize deductions on page 2. The different categories will be explained later.

Any taxpayer who chooses to deduct job-connected expenses must use form 1040.

Regardless of which form you use, however, you're going to have to answer at least one question about expense money.

Line 8 of form 1040A has a new box which you check if you had to account to your employer for the expense money he gave you during 1958. The accompanying instructions state that if you didn't account for expense money, or collected more than you spent, you must file form 1040.

On form 1040, two new questions have been added on page 1. They must be answered by everyone using this form. The questions:

1. "DID YOU receive an expense allowance or reimbursement, or charge expenses to your employer?"

2. "IF 'YES,' did you submit an itemized accounting of expenses to your employer?"

A "no" answer to the first question means you can forget about the problem of job expenses as far as IRS is concerned. However, if you had job-connected expenses and weren't reimbursed by your employer, you can still claim deductions for these outlays.

If you answer "no" to the second question, you have to list for IRS your actual job expenses together with expense money received from your employer.

You can make the accounting on a plain sheet of paper, which you should attach to your tax return. This statement must give the nature of your occupation and list the number of days you were away from home on business during 1958.

In listing your expenses for IRS, you break them down into broad categories such as transportation, meals, lodging and entertainment.

A statement of this type must also be submitted if you report "excess reimbursements" or claim deductions for expenses which exceeded reimbursements.

Items which you can deduct on line 5 of form 1040 are:

1. EXPENSES of business trips away from the city where you normally work, provided you stay away at least overnight. You can't include here any entertainment expenses or such personal outlays as getting a suit pressed.

2. OTHER TRANSPORTATION expenses, though not the cost of getting to and from work. This can cover taxi and streetcar fares and the use of your own auto while on business, even in the city where you work.

3. EXPENSES of outside salesmen. This includes all necessary and ordinary expenses. It applies only to full-time salesmen who solicit business for their employers away from their employers' place of business.

4. ANY OTHER job-connected expenses. These can be deducted on page 1 of form 1040, but only up to the amount for which you were reimbursed by your employer. If you weren't fully reimbursed, the additional expenses must be listed among itemized deductions on page 2 if you want to claim them.

Like job expenses, sick pay and retirement income get special tax treatment, but within strict limits.

If you were off work in 1958 because of illness or injury and your employer continued to pay you, at his expense, you can exclude up to $100 a week of such pay. If you continued to draw pay through a plan you paid for, the $100 ceiling doesn't apply.

Your sick pay exclusion begins on the first day you're absent from work if you're injured, or if you are hospitalized for even one day because of illness.

If your absence is due to illness and you aren't hospitalized, the exclusion begins after one week away from work.

Anyone making $100 a week or less excludes from his income one day's pay for each working day covered by the sick pay rules. If you make more than $100, you divide $100 by the number of days you normally work a week, then multiply this amount by the number of days you're entitled to exclude.

Sick pay exclusions are entered on line 6 of form 1040. You can't claim the exclusion on form 1040A.

You should attach to your return a statement showing the dates you were absent, the nature of your illness or injury, whether or not you were hospitalized and when, and how you figured the amount excluded.

Some income from pensions and annuities can also be excluded. The law permits retired people to get back, tax free, the amount they paid toward pension or annuity plans while working. The rules are spelled out on page 12 of the instruction booklet that goes with form 1040.

Even if some of your pension or other retirement income is taxable, you may be able to claim a tax credit of up to $240. This is discussed page page 14 of the instructions.

Tomorrow: Itemizing your deductions.

Minute Maid Claims It

Frozen Juice To Taste Like Real Thing?

By JAMES RUSSELL
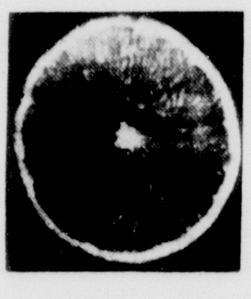
Herald Business Editor

The nation's largest producer of frozen orange juice said Wednesday it has developed a product that tastes exactly like the real thing.

The new concentrate is "literally indistinguishable from freshly-squeezed orange juice," John M. Fox, president of Minute Maid Corp., said in a report to the company's stockholders.

Will This . . .



Taste Like This?

Minute Maid plans to convert its entire production to the new process in 1960. And about 20 per cent of its 1958-59 production will consist of the "fresher-tasting" juice.

It's still in the experimental stage but enough of the concentrate has been manufactured for consumer tests in Houston, Cincinnati and Syracuse.

"Preliminary results from these market tests are most encouraging," Fox said.

Just how much the new orange juice concentrate will cost the grocery shopper is still an unknown factor.

But Fox said it should sell well and give another lift to Minute Maid's financial position. The company reported four and a half million dollars net income for the past year, a vast improvement over the two and a half million dollar loss it suffered in 1957.

Higher prices for citrus products helped achieve this, Minute Maid's executive vice president, Holman R. Cloud, said. But part of the 1957 loss was attributable to the company's disposal of the unprofitable Snow Crop frozen food line.

The new concentrate, if it lives up to its billing, could conceivably end a frequent tourist complaint that orange juice served by some Florida restaurants comes from cans instead of the groves that border the highways the visitors travel.

But Cloud says it's not likely to cut into the volume sales of oranges on produce counters.

"That's something that has remained pretty constant for the past 10 years," Cloud said.

What the new process might do, Minute Maid believes, is increase the average juice drinker's satisfaction with the product.

For the new frozen concentrate, Fox said, "looks like, tastes like and smells like fresh orange juice."

Bassett In New Bank Post

Harry Hood Bassett was elected chairman of the executive committee of the First National Bank of Miami Wednesday.

BASSETT

For the past eight years, Bassett has served as assistant to the president.

Bassett is president of the Orange Bowl Committee and a member of the University of Miami board of trustees.

J. Charles McKee Jr., the First National's auditor since 1952, was elected vice president and personnel officer.

Other new vice presidents named were Francis E. Peuser and Carl H. Bruns.

National Adding 3rd Jet Flight

National Airlines will add a third round-trip jet flight on its daily New York-Miami schedule starting Jan. 30.

In making the announcement Wednesday, the company also reported it ended the first half of fiscal 1959 with net earnings of $718,917, compared with a net loss of $1,181,266 for the same period a year ago.

AG Stores' Sales Up

Associated Grocers of Florida boosted 1958 gross sales by 17½ per cent, General Manager Tom W. Smith reported at a membership meeting. The cooperative buying organization now has 230 independent grocery owners.

Barge Lines Study Opens

TAMPA —(AP)— Three barge firms Wednesday dropped their opposition to extension of service in Florida and the Midwest by A. L. Mechling Barge Lines, Inc. But 13 objectors were listed at an Inter-state Commerce Commission hearing.

James L. Carr, ICC examiner, announced the names of 16 objectors as a three-day hearing opened here Wednesday. Mechling then announced he was eliminating his request for Missouri River service in his application.

The three barge firms—Federal, Gulf-Canal and Sioux City and New Orleans, immediately reported they were no longer opposed to extension.

Three railroads — Atlantic Coast Line, Southern and Pennsylvania — and seven barge lines are among the remaining objectors.

Many of them will present testimony at the three-day hearing here. The hearings then will move to Pittsburgh March 4, St. Louis March 9 and Washington April 11.

A Castro Man Explains

'Cuban Peso Will Hold Its Value'

By STAN JOHNSON
Herald Business Writer

No devaluation of the peso is contemplated by the new Cuban government, an official said here Wednesday.

Oscar Ramirez, director of tourism and local delegate of the 26th of July movement, said the peso will remain at par with the dollar.

Recent developments which have seen the peso trading for as little as 70 cents on the free market in this country are due to black market activity and not to any inherent weakness in Cuban money, Ramirez said.

RAMIREZ

He made the remarks following a speech at a luncheon of the International Affairs Department of the Miami-Dade County Chamber of Commerce.

Ramirez said the new Cuban government halted official exchanges in the United States to prevent "millions of pesos stolen by Batista officials" from being traded for dollars.

Although he was definite on the subject of revaluation, Ramirez said he could not speak with authority about the likelihood of a recall and reissue of Cuban money.

He said officials of the Banco Nacional de Cuba, headed by Dr. Felipe Pazos, are working "day and night" to chart the country's future monetary course.

Ramirez indicated that a determination of the number of pesos taken out of Cuba by former government officials will have to be made before normal exchange is resumed in the U.S.

The stability of Cuban currency could be seriously affected by a large quantity of pesos floating around in free markets abroad.

In his brief luncheon address, Ramirez said the new Cuban government will make an accounting of the national debt, followed by "a complete readjustment" of commercial treaties with other countries.

New customs duties applicable to U.S. trade have been approved, but are not yet in force, he said.

Scotch on The Rise

LONDON — (UPI) — Exports of Scotch whisky reached an all time high last year, the Scotch Whisky Association soberly announced. America imported the most.

A spokesman for the association said 93,320,000 gallons of Scotland's greatest export flowed out to overseas countries in 1958.

This was 1,410,000 gallons more than in 1957, and was valued at $156,800,000.

5 Railroads Begin Studies Of Merger Possibilities

Dow Jones, Associated Press, United Press International

Five New England railroads reported Wednesday they have begun studies which may lead to corporate mergers.

The railroads are the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Boston & Maine, the Maine Central, the Bangor & Aroostook and the Rutland railroads.

E. Spencer Miller, president of Maine Central, said the presidents of all five railroads met and set up and determined "certain areas of study" for mergers.

1st Store in New Center

The first of 42 stores planned for the new Carol City shopping center opened Wednesday.

Grand Union opened a new supermarket in the big shopping center at NW 27th Ave. and 183rd St.

The center will ultimately have a total store area of 175,325 square feet. Parking areas will accommodate 1,950 cars.

Research studies that led to development of the center showed there are 7,000 homes within one mile of big shopping area. By 1960, according to population estimates, there will be 9,400 homes in the same section.

Pensions Hit $13.7 Billion

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Private industry shelled out 13.7 billion dollars in pension and welfare payments and other forms of employee security in 1958, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

These supplements accounted for 6.6 per cent of the estimated $208,400,000,000 in wages and salaries paid by private employers last year, the board said in the latest of its "Road Maps of Industry."

Values Fall $2 Billion In 5 Hours

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market was pounded down Wednesday in a sharp selling wave that clipped 2.8 billion dollars from the quoted value of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The fall was the sharpest since Jan. 7.

Brokers blamed the sharp drop on technical factors. Some said the market, which had been hovering at or near historic highs, was due for a shakeout.

Losses among key issues ranged from $1 to $3 a share. Closing prices included American Tobacco off $2.25 at $104.75, Chrysler off 62 cents at $51.25; Bethlehem Steel off $1.12 at $52.25; General Foods off $2.25 at $77.50; Sears Roebuck off $1.12 at $43.75; U.S. Steel off $3.25 at $94.87; Westinghouse off $1.37 at $71.75; Royal Dutch off 75 cents at $48.50 and Gulf Oil off $2 at $124.25.

Volume totaled 4,190,000 shares vs. Tuesdays 3,480,000.

HIGHER EARNINGS SEEN FOR HIGH-YIELDING AMERICAN BRAKE SHOE

In a new Creative Research Study, our analysts recommend American Brake Shoe to investors seeking a stock with current high yield and favorable growth prospects. This strong company, which has an unbroken record of profits and annual dividend payments dating back to 1902, now offers a yield 50% higher than the average for industrial common stocks today.

On the basis of the present earnings trend, our analysts feel that 1959 earnings will provide more than adequate coverage of the current dividend, which affords a yield of close to 5% at present prices.

The Company's financial strength is considered a real plus factor in management's plans to achieve greater diversification. Be sure to read this report—available to investors—on a major industrial company now offering good income and growth prospects.

It pays to save at Miami Beach Federal!

HIGHLIGHTS FROM 1958 STATEMENT OF CONDITION

We are proud to announce that in 1958 our total assets reached $117,064,155.50 — an all-time high! This impressive growth shows the strength and security you can expect as a member of Miami Beach Federal!

What's more, Miami Beach Federal offers you another vital security—a $9,509,903.97 Surplus and Reserves fund. This unusually large reserve is additional protection for your savings!

As the second oldest Federal Savings and Loan Association in the entire U.S., we have just paid our forty-seventh consecutive dividend, bringing the total amount paid in dividends to date to $17,935,000.00!

When the choice is yours, doesn't it make good sense to save at such a successful institution? We look forward to serving you soon!

Love in a Warm Climate
Our master chefs love their work. For there is something very infatuating about our exotic dishes from the warm tropic islands of the Pacific that pacifies temperament without impairing artistry. Even the most cold-blooded of our clients have been known to lose their heads over such Cantonese delicacies as Chicken Lotus. Try it some time.

Party Dinner from a Good Cook's Kitchen Features Cornish Hens and Duck with Cinnamon Spiced Apples as Main Dish

A Dinner That Shows Your Cooking Skill

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

A woman with a reputation as extraordinary cook generally is a genius at planning menus as well as an artist at the kitchen range.

For the right go-alongs yield high dividends in eating pleasure.

The company dinner pictured above is one of those gems to prompt guests' raves. It has a few surprise notes, important to success of company meals The food is different but not outlandish. And it is good to look at.

This is a dinner, too, for a person who enjoys cooking.

It is far from a heat-and-serve affair. In fact most hostesses will appreciate help in the kitchen to produce the dinner in full.

Even if time and talent rule out such an elegant meal, you may copy parts of it for a glamorous effect.

The main dish is two birds—Cornish hens and duck. If you have wild duck in the freezer try the breasts barbecued. Or use quarters or halves of domestic duck.

With the birds are rosy cinnamon apple balls. And this is one job that can be done the day before.

There are two vegetables, beets in tangy orange sauce and creamed onions, sprinkled with parsley. A cracked wheat pilaf is more bounty on the table. A wild rice casserole might be served instead.

The salad is a particularly handsome one. For dessert, tiny tarts filled with a rich apple and cream mixture are served.

Does it sound good? It is. And here are the recipes on which you can build a reputation as a superb cook and hostess.

Marinated Duck Breasts

1 large clove garlic
1 finger fresh ginger (or 1 1/2 teaspoons ground ginger)
1 orange, grated rind and juice
1 lemon, grated rind and juice
1/4 cup soy sauce
1 cup port wine
2 cups peanut oil
1/2 teaspoon oregano
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
Freshly ground pepper to taste
6 to 8 wild ducks or 2 to 3 domestic ducks

Chop garlic and ginger very fine. Combine orange and lemon juices, garlic and ginger in a large bowl. Add grated rinds, soy sauce, wine, peanut oil, oregano, onion and pepper. Mix thoroughly and let stand to blend flavors.

If using wild ducks filet out the duck breasts by cutting away from bone and discard remainder of the bird. (This method eliminates picking the bird and gives individual servings of boneless meat.) Cut domestic ducks into halves or quarters.

Place boned breasts or cut ducks into sauce and let marinate 4 to 12 hours. Remove duck from marinade and broil to desired degree of doneness. This takes about 4 minutes on each side if you like wild duck rare, 6 to 8 minutes for well done. Domestic duck quarters require 15 to 20 minutes on each side. Baste with marinade now and then while broiling.

Duck also can be barbecued over charcoal. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Roast Cornish Hens

Cornish game hens
Celery chunks
Peeled chopped apples
Coarsely chopped onions
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 teaspoons lemon or lime juice
1 teaspoon salt

Have game hens thawed. Stuff with celery, apple and onions, about equal amounts of each. (Or use your favorite bread stuffing.) Place hens in shallow roasting pan.

Mix butter, lemon juice and salt. (This amount is enough for 3 to 4 hens.) Brush breasts with this mixture. Roast in a moderate oven (350 degrees), basting often with butter mixture. Allow 30 to 45 minutes for average size game hens.

* * *

Cinnamoned Apple Rubies

1 cup sugar
2 cups water
1 cup red cinnamon candies
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 firm, tart apples, peeled

Combine sugar, water, candies and salt in saucepan. Let come to a boil and continue boiling until candies are dissolved. With a ball cutter or rounded measuring spoon cut small balls from the apples. Drop about a dozen balls into syrup and simmer until almost transparent. Do not overcook. Remove from syrup and let drain on platter. Repeat until all apple balls are cooked. Serve as garnish for fowl or meat. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Beets With Orange Sauce

3 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup orange juice
4 cups cooked, whole beets
Grated rind of 1 orange

Blend sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon and salt in top of a double boiler. Add orange juice and cook until syrupy and clear, stirring constantly. Add beets and half the orange rind. Heat thoroughly. Place in serving dish and sprinkle remaining rind over beets. Makes 8 servings.

* * *

Pilaf and Mushroom Casserole

2 cups cracked wheat
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
4 cups chicken broth (boullion cubes can be used)
1/2 teaspoon marjoram
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1/2 teaspoon rubbed sage
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
12 large mushrooms (brown in butter if fresh)
12 strips pimiento (2x1/4 inches)

Cracked wheat can be bought as groats in markets or in Syrian groceries.

Melt butter in large skillet. Add cracked wheat and chopped onion. Cook slowly until wheat and onions are lightly browned. Stir constantly to prevent sticking or burning. Add broth which has been mixed with marjoram, salt, pepper, sage and celery salt. Cover and cook slowly about 15 to 20 minutes, until cracked wheat is tender. Turn into buttered casserole. Top with mushrooms and ring with pimiento strips. Heat through in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) about 10 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

* * *

Creamed Onions with Parsley

3 pounds small white onions
2 cups boiling water
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups Basic White Sauce
1 teaspoon lemon or lime juice
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
Dash paprika

Peel onions. Add salt to boiling water. Add onions and cook gently until tender. Drain. Add lemon juice to white sauce, heat and blend well. Combine onions and white sauce. Reheat, if necessary. Place in serving dish and top with parsley and a sprinkle of paprika. Makes 8 servings.

BASIC WHITE SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
2 cups milk

Melt butter. Add flour, salt and pepper and blend well. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened and smooth, stirring. Makes 2 cups.

* * *

Buffet Salad Bouquet

1 small head red cabbage, shredded
1 large head cauliflower, cooked and chilled
4 artichokes, halved, cooked and chilled
3/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon or lime juice
1/4 cup French dressing
1/2 teaspoon celery seed

Use a large, flat platter. Make a bed of shredded red cabbage, center the cooked cauliflower on it and surround with artichoke halves from which the "choke" has been removed. Mix mayonnaise and lemon juice. Spoon on artichokes. Mix French dressing and celery seed. Pour over cauliflower. Makes 8 servings.

* * *

Apple Chess Pies

Pastry for 2-crust pie
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 eggs, well beaten
1/4 cup cream
2 1/2 cups peeled diced apples
1 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup raisins

Line 8 individual pie tins with pastry. Mix flour, cinnamon, nutmeg, salt and sugar. Stir in butter, eggs and cream. Add chopped apples, nuts and raisins. Fill unbaked pie shells and bake 8 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees). Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 20 to 30 minutes longer, until set. Decorate with peeled apples sliced into crescents and nuts, sprinkled with sugar. If wished, return pies to oven for a few minutes to lightly brown apple slices. Makes 8 servings.

"Hi, Daddy!"

Suit Stops Phone Loss

John Charter Reed, former bookie - busting assistant state attorney general has filed a suit in Dade Circuit Court to block removal of telephones from a client's hotel in which raiders found an alleged bookie operation.

Circuit Judge Marshall C. Wisehart granted Reed, now a practicing lawyer, an emergency injunction preventing Southern Bell Telephone from yanking phone service from the Commodore Hotel, 1360 Collins Ave., Miami Beach.

Raiders led by Assistant Attorney General George Owen broke into a room in the hotel Jan. 17 and found what they said was a bookie operation. The hotel is owned by Businessman Alfred Mart, controversial bidder on Miami International Airport concessions.

Reed represented the J.M.G. Corp., operators of the hotel.

FOOD FAIR

Enjoy that EXTRA flavor and tenderness which identifies TOP quality U.S. Gov't. Graded "CHOICE" steer beef. From the heart of the great western corn country, where the finest beef in the world is grown, we bring you the beef for your table. Our experienced meat buyers who are the finickiest fussbudgets in the business reject all but the "top half" of the cattle graded "CHOICE" by U.S. Gov't. graders. They carefully select only those cattle with the finest texture and marbling (intermingling of fat and lean), which makes the eating such a satisfying pleasure. Remember, only 3 out of 10 cattle are good enough to pass their selection. That is why you are always sure of tender, juicy steaks and roasts EVERY TIME when you serve P.S.G. School Standards: How High?

By ROBERT E. HOYT
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Are the teachers of your children paid enough? Are there enough teachers in your school system?

National school experts have come up with a "Do It Yourself" plan for local school districts to tell them how much they should pay teachers and how many they should hire.

Under the formulas worked out by the Educational Policies Commission, every man can be an expert. These are the minimum standards:

1—For every 1,000 students there should be 50 "professionals," including teachers, librarians, guidance counselors, administrators.

2—Starting salary should compete with other "professional occupations" requiring bachelor's degree. This can be determined locally.

3—Teacher's beginning salary should be doubled in 10 years with some increases in later years.

4—To figure what your school's operating budget should be, take 12 per cent of that "starting salary" figure and multiply by the number of students in the system.

The Policies Commission is a 20-member group of educators operating under the auspices of the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators. It includes university presidents, teachers, school administrators, college and university personnel.

The commission members did not pull the 12 per cent figure out of a hat. It's based on the 50 "pros" per 1,000 students standard. They figured the "average" teacher salary should be 1.7 times the starting salary. They estimated that salaries represent 70 per cent of a school system's operating budget.

They fed these facts through a slide rule, and the magic answer came out: 12 per cent.

To check the formula against reality, they fed in facts from school systems in Rock Island, Ill., and Denver, Colo.

In both places they found it took a salary of about $4,500 to attract beginning teachers. The 12 per cent formula would set recommended per pupil costs a $540 a year in both cities.

Rock Island's per pupil cost now is $360.

The national average of per pupil costs is $340 a year. It would be about $540, Commission spokesmen estimated, under the new formula.

There are places where the per pupil cost is as high as $1,200 and as low as $200.

The recommended ratio of 50 "pros" to 1,000 students exists in only a few areas now chiefly wealthy suburbs of New York and Chicago, and on the West Coast.

The U.S. would need about 350,000 more teachers and other professionals to teach its roughly 35 million students if the 20-to-1 ratio were applied nation-wide. In addition, about 100,000 of the nation's 1.4 million personnel total have "emergency" certificates, indicating they do not meet present standards.

The group report, "An Essay on Quality in Public Education," added this thought: "Respect for the individual implies the fight to individual self-fulfillment. In a land which gives every individual equal claim to respect, education must be universal . . . Freedom imposes responsibilities on all; therefore all must be educated."

How Dade County System Stacks Up

Here's how the Dade County school system, with 147,147 pupils, measures up against the experts' standards:

EXPERTS SAY — Teachers should start at a yearly salary equal to other starting salaries for college graduates in the community. University of Miami placement office estimates this at $4,200.

DADE PAYS — $3,800.

EXPERTS SAY — A school system our size should hire 7,357 professional employees.

DADE HIRES — 6,500.

EXPERTS SAY — Based on the size of our school system, and the wages we should pay but don't, the size of our annual operating budget should be $74,162,088.

DADE'S BUDGET — $50,000,000.

EXPERTS SAY — A community like ours should be spending $540 to educate one child for a year.

DADE SPENDS — $337 a child.

Baby's Name? Why, Gramps!

IOWA CITY, Iowa —(AP)— A little girl was telling about the new arrival at her house.

"I think we're going to call him Gramps," she said.

The little girl had heard the baby was to be named after her grandfather.

Kept the Peace

OMAHA, Neb. — (UPI) — The B36 bomber will go down in Air Force history as the plane that "never fired a shot in anger." Called the "Peacemaker," this aircraft served as the Strategic Air Command's "heavy weapon" for 10 years. The last SAC wing to fly B36's has now been converted to B52's.

Only 10 Years, Where Is He?

PHOENIX, Ariz. —(AP)— Sheriff's Sgt. Bill Brown received a request from Frank Sabedra of New Jersey to locate a man missing in Arizona.

The missing man is Manuel Sabedra Garcia. Sabedra said the last word he received from Garcia was in 1919.

Mikoyan's Visit Should Remind Us Not to Relax Our Guard

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

My Day

MRS. F. D. R.

EVANSTON, Ill. — Since Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan of the Soviet Union left our shores, I have been trying to assess what was helpful and what was not in his two-week visit.

The mere fact that he came to the U.S. was to me a sign that the Soviets are anxious to show their friendliness. The fact that they sent Mr. Mikoyan shows that they are almost as oblivious to the reactions of people of the U.S. as we often are in our understanding of the way the Soviets feel.

For instance, the only active demonstrations against Mikoyan in this country were staged by Hungarians, most of whom were refugees from their ill-fated revolution.

In the Soviet Union visitors are told that this revolution was not representative of the people of Hungary but that it was waged by a mere few Fascists who, supported by the U.S., were trying to return to the old, pre-Soviet form of government, which the mass of people did not want.

We in the U.S. believe, however, that this was no Fascist uprising, but an expression of the genuine desire of the people of Hungary to have greater democratic freedom. So, many of the people in this country are opposed to Mikoyan because he was a member of the Soviet government that ruthlessly put down the revolution.

Under whatever guise it was done, it was done by the Soviets and not the Hungarians themselves, so it would seem that the Soviets must have been supporting a minority government.

* * *

THE FACT that Americans generally did not demonstrate against Mikoyan showed, I think, their feeling that any guest in this country must be kept safe and received courteously. It did not, however, indicate approval of Mikoyan's part in suppression of the Hungarian revolt.

Since he traveled through this country, I hope he was convinced that no one was putting on a show for him. He saw conditions as they really were, and this, therefore, must have been educational and had much value.

We do not want war, and we would like to understand the Russian people, to have them understand us, and to lessen the tension that now exists between the two countries.

But that does not mean that our memories are short. The Soviet leaders must never forget that we bear in mind past pronouncements.

* * *

FOR INSTANCE, in 1927, Manuilski from the Ukraine, in speaking at the International Institute of Higher Education in Moscow where foreign service personnel is trained, said:

"Today we are too weak to attack, but our day will come in about 30 years. Then we will put on the greatest peace campaign that the world has ever known. We will make electrifying concessions and the stupid and decadent capitalist nations of the West will let down their guard; then, with our closed fist, we will destroy them."

Now, of course, one Soviet official does not speak for the entire government any more than does one U.S. official's position represent that of the whole country.

But when you put these remarks in line with some not long ago by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev himself, they give you pause.

You then realize that peace must come because you are strong and your defenses are great. No nation must ever be permitted to believe that it is stronger in military arms than we are. We must keep a balance and disarm jointly — never alone.

Neat Operation Cleans Doctors

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. — (UPI) — Three physicians living in the same part of town were the "patients" in a neat operation that cost them a total of $280.

Thieves slipped into the homes of Drs. Herbert F. Laramore, Albert J. Dunn and Edward P. White, and, while the doctors were sleeping, cleaned out their trouser pockets.

What Ever Became of . . .

DAVID A. STEEVES—the Air Force lieutenant who parachuted from his crippled jet trainer in 1957 and survived 54 days in the snowbound California Sierras? Steeves, 23, got nationwide attention after stumbling back to civilization. The Saturday Evening Post was going to run an article about him, then suddenly canceled it because of "discrepancies" it said appeared in his account of the 54 days. Steeves was placed on inactive duty later that year at his own request.

Today, Steeves is a flight dispatch officer at Fresno, Calif., for an aircraft company. His wife Rita, a dental technician, received a divorce at Bridgeport, Conn., on grounds of intolerable cruelty.

She Didn't Want to Marry a Soldier

Mme. De Gaulle Has No Use for Politics

By PAUL GHALI
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

PARIS — If the world fails to know and understand France's new president it is certainly not from lack of publicity.

It's a different story with France's new First Lady.

Mme. Yvonne Vendroux de Gaulle shies from publicity today just as she has in the 38 years of her life with the general. Quiet, unassuming, without a vestige of those traits so often associated with the typical French woman — love of glamor, dress and admiration — she likes to stay in the shadow of her majestic husband.

Girlhood friends like to tell the story of the young Yvonne who had two dreams: To possess two cotton dresses, one to wear while the other was at the laundry; to marry anybody but a soldier.

Born of comparatively wealthy parents — she comes of a family of rich biscuit manufacturers of Calais in the extreme north of France — Yvonne always had plenty of dresses whether she wanted them or not.

As for marrying a soldier and having to move from one garrison to another, fate destined her to move more often than any other French woman of her rank.

When she was 21 a friend of her mother's introduced her to a brilliant young officer named Capt. Charles de Gaulle. It was love at first sight. Three months later they were married. Since then Yvonne has lived the life of her husband, following his political ascension as modestly and courageously as she followed his difficult steps during wartime.

She is the perfect mate for the general, perhaps one of the very few persons able to stand his taciturnity, his uneasy temper, his perpetual brooding over people and events.

She is his guardian angel as well as his shadow. He does not consult her about politics but he never makes a decision on family affairs without getting her intelligent and practical opinion.

The closest to politics Yvonne has ever come or wanted to come was listening to her husband read passages of his memoirs on long evenings at their country home.

Mme. De Gaulle dislikes everything — including political duties — that fatigues her husband or destroys the smooth rhythm of his daily life.

Besides her household tasks she loves music, movies and knitting for the poor. She is very charitable.

Mme. De Gaulle

Stung by Slights

Soviets Smarting From Early Days

By DAVID M. NICHOL
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NICHOL

BONN, Germany — Soviet leaders apparently still nurse a bitter resentment of what they feel are the slights they suffered in earlier years.

This at least is the implication of a report from Warsaw. It tells of a conversation there between Yekaterina Furtseva, the only woman to attain politburo status in Moscow, and a visitor from West Germany.

Madame Furtseva, who is known to her co-workers as Katya, said, just in passing:

"Of course people in the West for decades didn't accept us, intellectually, politically, or diplomatically."

The West German visitor had the impression that even the spectacular successes of the sputnik era haven't yet erased this deep-seated bitterness.

Noodles Tell The Story

HONOLULU —(AP)— A bowl of saimin (Japanese noodles) was the only food on the menu at a public dinner here.

The dinner marked the 10th anniversary of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights and was sponsored by the Honolulu YMCA.

The idea was to show how little food people in many parts of the world have to eat.

Mice Guarded

BETHESDA, Md. —(UPI)— A chemical, AET, protects mice against the toxic effects of nitrogen mustard, an anti-cancer drug used in the treatment of Hodgkin's disease, according to a report from the National Institutes of Health.

Don't Cheat

Husband Worth Keeping

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I'm 28 years old and married to a man 51. We've been married 11 years and have four beautiful daughters.

ANN

I was only 17 when I married — too young to know what it was all about. He's always been a traveling salesman and I had big ideas about going on the road with him, staying in fancy hotels and eating in restaurants. It didn't work out that way.

I got pregnant a few months after we married and couldn't travel. Then I had to stay home to care for the baby. The following year another baby was on the way. Before I knew it I was stuck at home with four kids and my husband was gone from Monday till Friday.

I've met a man who loves me and the children. He wants to divorce his wife (they have no family) and marry me. I want to go through with it but I'm afraid my husband will take the kids away from me and give them to his sister who is childless.

He is good to me and the kids and I buy anything I want. But I don't love him. What can I do? — VY

Dear Vy: You can stop cheating on a man who is beating his brains out to give you "anything you want." You knew how old he was and what he did for a living when you married him.

Your two oldest children are no longer babies. What must they think about a man hanging around Mama when Papa is gone?

You bet he could take the kids away from you, and he should if you carry on in this shameful manner. Get an outside job if four children aren't enough to keep you busy during your husband's absence. Marriage is for keeps. You don't just throw in the deck and ask for a new shuffle if you don't like the deal.

* * *

DEAR ANN: My question does not fall in the lovelorn category but I notice many people write to you about other things. Please answer if you can.

I was born in the Middle East and educated in England. Since coming to America four years ago I've been struck repeatedly by a curious habit of American fathers. So often when one inquires if a man has a family he says "Our son is 6'1" and weighs 200 pounds." These statistics are announced with great pride — as if it were an accomplishment of some kind.

I've been all over the world and your country is the only place where this is done. Why? —JOHN BULL

The "vital statistics" are designed to impress you. A truly intelligent parent will not mention height and weight. In the absence of something valid to brag about — such as achievement — parents mention height and weight in an unconscious effort to substitute quantity for quality.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL to bluntly speaking: I'll speak bluntly, too. If you "can't think of a good reason to wait" you'd better read this column more carefully. The tears shed by gals who learned too late why they should wait, would float the Queen Mary.

* * *

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Miami Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This Remark 'Snowed' Him

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(AP)— People are always commenting on Tom Carlile's height—6 feet 8 inches—and, Carlile, an advertising man, shrugs off most of the wisecracks.

One he remembers was: "I'll bet you have snow on your shoulders six months of the year." Carlile says: "It was not a great line, but I liked it."

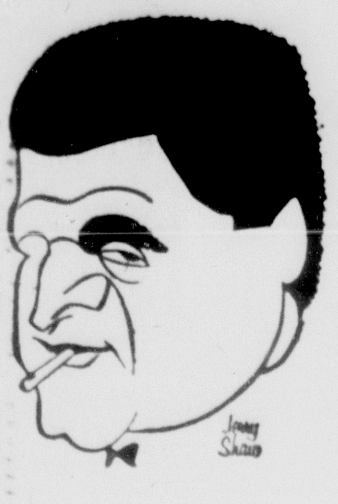
Today's Cele-Birthday

By JOY and JERRY SHAW
Of The Herald Staff



PADDY CHAYEFSKY, playwright; born: Jan. 29, 1923, in New York City.

* * *

The short, pudgy author of "Marty" claims he has written for money only once — the rest of the time for vanity. Such famed scripts as "Marty," "The Catered Affair," and "Bachelor Party" actually netted him little, he claims. Paddy hopes the future holds TV scripting — feels it is the best medium for him. The playwright won a Purple Heart as a soldier in World War II.

How to Sidestep a 'Nosey' Question

By AMY VANDERBILT

AMY

THE other day I overheard a conversation that went like this:

"That's really a beautiful dress. It looks very expensive. Of course, I don't know what you paid for it . . ."

The young woman who was thus queried was very clever. She did not allow herself to fall into the personal question trap. Her reply? "It was expensive," and with that she closed the conversation.

* * *

DEAR Miss Vanderbilt: I wish you would write on the following, as I think it is poor manners when someone comes right out and tells another to sell his older home and buy a new one. I feel that today there is too much trying to keep up with the Joneses, and, as one well knows, people differ a lot on what sort of home they like and also there are those who do not like to go into debt for a new home. Some people like to buy older homes. Also, some like to be showoffs, while others prefer to live debt-free. And what one likes best is his own business. — A. R., Pittsburgh, Pa."

It is quite true that even families with exactly the same income do not necessarily have the same standards of living. To some, education and cultural advancement are much more important than many of the material indications of success. To another family, a car seems essential and the money to pay for it and run it makes it necessary to cut elsewhere in the budget.

If unthinking people have bad taste to suggest that the way you live is not the way you should live, do not feel that you need to make any kind of a full explanation or give an apology. You can say something pleasant and final such as "We like our house and the neighborhood."

By your serenity you can imply many things—that perhaps you have savings and investments that other people who live in a flashier style may not have. And this, indeed, may be quite true.

It Was OK, Except That...

BALTIMORE —(AP)— A publicity photograph of Mrs. Louis E. Shecter, official Maryland delegate to the Brussels World's Fair, was OK except that it:

Misspelled her last name.

Misspelled the street she lives on.

Termed her a Baltimore resident, when she lives in Baltimore County.

Said the flag in her hand was "the flag of the Old Dominion," which is Virginia.

Nobody makes macaroni like Mueller's
It's more delectable...so digestible

FOR KIDS!
FUNNY-FACE CASSEROLE
Make a Macaroni-and-Cheese Casserole from 1—8 oz. pkg. of Mueller's Elbow Macaroni, according to directions on package. On top, draw a funny face with fine bread crumbs and dot with butter or pour melted butter over crumbs so that they brown to a crisp. Children adore this special-for-them treat. You can make Tic-Tac-Toe or other designs with bread crumbs and get a great reception, too.

Nobody makes macaroni like Mueller's. What makes Mueller's Elbow Macaroni so much tastier...so much more tender...so digestible? It's the blend!

Not just one wheat—but two! Not just Semolina but Semolina plus easy-to-digest Farina. Delicious! Delectable! Vitamin-enriched. High in protein, too.

Give the kids a real treat. Make a Funny-Face Macaroni-and-Cheese Casserole and watch them eat! Dad will pass the plate for more, too!

Semolina plus Farina makes

Old-Time Telegrapher Was Man Apart

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

Probably one of the few things which has remained essentially unchanged in design and function since it was invented is the old, "gooseneck" telegrapher's instrument.

It is virtually the same as when first put into use shortly after Morse developed the telegraph.

Until the advent of the teleprinter and telephone, this awkward looking, harsh-jointed instrument was the communication heart of any railroad, as well as of the nation.

The men who were experts in its use, the crack telegraphers of the old days, had a character and pride that was all their own.

Sitting in the Seaboard Hialeah passenger station with Glenn Leverette, agent-operator, we fell to talking about the old-time telegraphers. The subject stemmed from discussion of the ancient instrument which was attached to a table, and still is used on occasion.

Glenn's father was a railroad man, too, and he would often speak of the old "boomers" — those expert telegraphers who were stirred by wanderlust and worked on railroads or in Western Union stations all over the land.

"It's a lost art . . . a dying art," Glenn observed. "There's little need of it now — but I sort of hate to see it pass. There were some fabulous characters among those telegraphers."

He looked at the instrument on the table, tapped idly on the silent sending key.

"You couldn't believe what those men could do. In the Western Union offices, the larger ones, they would send four hours straight, maybe take a couple minutes break, turn around and receive messages four hours straight. And then maybe work another four hour trick.

Another Victim to the March of Time

. . . Glenn Leverette with telegrapher's key

"These men were proud of their skill.

"Rarely would a man make an error in his four hours of sending. And if the receivers ever broke in — asked for a repeat — this would be considered the mark of a novice.

"They took pride in never having either interrupt the flow of messages."

A great Diesel thundered by the station and loosed a growling deep-bellied snort.

"I miss those steam engine whistles," Glenn said. "Somehow there's no romance in railroading with those diesel horns."

Then he returned to the "boomers."

"All of them were extremely proud of their handwriting before typewriters came into use.

"Ninety per cent wrote fine, Spencerian script. As they took down the messages every I was dotted, every T crossed — and they could keep writing for hours. The messages were beautifully written.

They had phenomenal memories — an ability to stay from 10 to 50-60 words behind the sender — and hardly ever made an error when the sending was completed. Just try writing for hours while the man talking is words ahead of you — try it for five minutes and you'll see what I mean.

"My father told of one who could keep four messages behind and never miss a word."

Glenn grinned: "I can hardly keep one word behind. But I have seen some old timers who could listen on the telephone with an earphone, copy off the wire, and carry on a conversation — and never make a mistake."

He pointed to the telephone. "That and the teleprinter spelled the end of the art of telegraphy."

Land Split Is Ordered

KARACHI —(P)— President Ayub Khan has decreed the abolition of Pakistan's feudal landlord system.

In a broadcast to the nation, he said no person will in the future be allowed to hold more than 500 acres of irrigated and 1,000 acres of unirrigated land.

He said all jagirs (free holdings) will be taken over by the government and distributed among landless persons and tenants.

About 6,000 landlords affected by the decree will be compensated by the government in installments payable over 25 years, the president said.

Mates Must Work and Play Together

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I am very interested in a young woman who comes from one of the society families in our city. She says she is in love with me, and I am with her, but we both are afraid of our social differences. Would you have any particular advice that would make our decision a wise one?

GRAHAM

ANSWER: In America, there should be no such thing as social classes and class distinction. It would be very unwise to marry a woman who did not share your interests, who is either definitely inferior or superior to you in intellect and education. But the greatest blunder would be to marry one who does not understand your religious convictions and who is lacking in complete agreement with you.

My Answer

For lifelong fellowship, there must be many things you share in common. This makes for a rich relationship that is above the physical compatability you may have.

If these factors are present, the social differences are mainly superficial and should not constitute a barrier between you. Discuss these factors with her, and make certain that there is no area of your life or hers from which the other must be shut out.

If you can work together, play together and Worship together, you have then a workable combination. The question of the Bible is always, "Can two walk together except they be agreed?"

Jaycees Name Their 'Top Man'

The North Miami Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce has named Newton Greene its outstanding young man of 1958, over 20 other contestants.

GREENE

He will receive a distinguished service award from Jack Germain, past president of that area's Jaycees at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Thunderbird Motel.

Greene, 31, was chosen for his leadership as president of the Community Blood Bank of North Miami Beach, chairman and founder of the Presidents Council, co-chairman of the proposed North Dade County Hospital, City Library, and other government and civic activities.

A North Miami Beach resident four years, he is president of the New-Len Speicalty Co., and an advertising specialty counselor. He received a doctor of optometry degree from Monroe College, is married and has two children.

Take Care When Picking Name for Junior

It's all in the name, mothers. At least, that's what an "onomatologist" thinks. Your son may grow up to be president—or an outlaw—depending on the tab you stick on him. You're advised to shun such "blood-and-thunder" labels as Fidel and Anastas in favor of more pleasant names, such as Walter or Josiah.

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

Take care, mother, when you name that son of yours.

If you pick the wrong name, he may grow up to be an outlaw.

But if you choose the right one, he could become president.

That, at least, is the belief of Frank A. Vargas of 1617 NW 15th St. Vargas calls himself an onomatologist. That's a fellow who can tell what's in your character by what's in your name.

"Your name is the most important thing you have," says Vargas. "Your name is you."

A 70-year-old retired bookkeeper, Vargas has practiced at onomatology since he was 16. His biggest success came when he analyzed a name for a skeptical librarian. The name belonged to a friend of hers, and when Vargas heard it he perked up his ears because he knew right away it signified good character.

The more he analyzed it, the more impressed he became. He was so impressed that he looked the girl up and married her.

Turned out he was right, she said. It's all in a name.

How can you tell what to name your child so it will have good character?

It's complicated, said Vargas. You have to take the syllables apart and look for hidden symbols.

Take a name like Robert King High, for example. He happens to have ended up as Miami's mayor. The first four letters spell "robe," and this signifies a holder of office. Drop out certain letters, and you get "rting," which indicates a person quick to see errors and to correct them.

It's more complex than this, however. Vargas juggles syllables, studies initials, and probes into the original literal meanings of each name.

This takes some skill, he said, but generally you can't go too far wrong in naming your child if you pick "a pretty name."

He approves of names like Walter Weiss or Josiah Calvin Hall, to name some hypothetical examples. Walter is old English for "mighty army" and Weiss comes from the German word for white.

"The double W's emphasize the ability to balance things," Vargas said. "This indicates one outstanding as an arbitrator."

Josiah, he said, indicates a "happy, able executive." The "siah" part is especially important because it indicates some one who is religious.

On the other hand, if your last name happens to be Castro, don't name your boy Fidel, Vargas warned. Anyone with a name like Fidel Castro is "born to be mixed up with fire and blood and thunder," he said dramatically. The Fidel Castros of this world are men who "mean well, but can be influenced to detour from high ideals."

And if your last name happens to be Mikoyan, don't if you please name him Anastas. Notice the way the n's and the a's are mixed? That signifies "death by violence," Vargas said.

Now you take a name like O. W. Campbell, Vargas said. Right away you think of a good provider, a family man. If anyone named O. W. Campbell isn't married, he ought to be.

Or George McSherry. Vargas doesn't advise McSherrys to name any of their sons George. A boy with this name would grow up to be "a builder of things but there'd be nothing affable about him," he said.

Vargas, who likes to lecture to "intelligent groups" on onomatology is confident that names can be used to predict the future. Any doubts he had on that score were erased when he predicted Harry S. Truman's upset presidential victory in 1948.

He claims it was that S in the middle that did the trick.

What about the next president?

"Can't beat a name like Rockefeller," he said.

Rag Doll Put In Cornerstone

MILWAUKEE —(P)— When officials of Children's Hospital planned the dedication of a new wing they decided one of the things to be placed in the cornerstone would be a rag doll.

One of the institution's small patients was selected to put the doll in the block of stone.

They Help Educate Each Other

Set Your Goal at Two to Four Children

Timmy needs a sibling more than a $5,000 college insurance policy! If you young married couples can afford both, well and good, but brothers and sisters help socialize an "only" child and whet his wits, too. Space your babies about 18 months apart.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

TIMMY T., two, is the center of his parents' attention.

"Dr. Crane, I suppose we ought to give him a baby brother or sister," his doting mother began.

"But life is so uncertain nowadays and living costs are so high, we feel we will have a hard time just saving enough money to put Timmy through college.

"Do you think we ought to have more children? My husband says so, but I think it is better to rear one child right, than to do only a half-way job on two or three."

Timmy's mother is offering "excuses" instead of sound "reasons."

I used to warn my students against such excuses.

Prospects who ignore logical sales reasons with fabricated excuses are usually holding out on the salesman.

There is some hidden motives they haven't brought into the open.

* * *

AND A YOUNG WIFE who tries to argue that one child is enough is usually trying to hide from the fact that another pregnancy is a burden.

She wants to take the easy road. But the easy road is seldom the most successful highway to happiness.

True enough, a bulging abdomen with an extra 25 pounds of cumbersome weight are a chore for the expectant mother.

But they are part of the price of a happier home life and a better environment for little Timmy.

It requires hours of work, plus the drudgery of washing dishes and pans, just to furnish a 30-minute jolly dinner for your husband and some guests.

* * *

SET YOUR goal at from two to four children. It is well to bear them about 18 months apart, so they are near enough in age to be pals and playmates.

If you let 5 or 10 years intervene, the older is so far removed from the younger in size and play interests, that they live much like strangers.

Children educate children if they are near together in age, for then they provide new ideas to each other.

Someone Saw You Shaving

NEW YORK—(UPI)—The average man shaves once a day, in the morning, in front of the bathroom mirror, before cleaning his teeth, combing his hair or taking his shower. He wears his pajamas and shaves his right cheek first and his neck last.

Anyway, that's what the North American Philips Co. found during a recent survey among new purchasers of its electric razor. The survey also showed that the average shave lasts two to six minutes and that most men use this time either listening to the radio or TV or doing what they described as "nothing."

PATIENCE PAID OFF for William Frank Knight, 16-year-old Miami High junior of 420 W. San Marino Dr., Miami Beach, selected as page boy for the House of Representatives. He applied when he was 14. Rep. Dante B. Fascell chose Knight "on the enthusiasm" of his letter.

Most Girls Know Mom Knows Best

By Science Service

ITHACA, N.Y. — The young teenage miss prefers to follow Mom's advice rather than the advice of friends, a Cornell University study indicates.

Researchers tested 194 ninth and 10th grade girls at Ithaca High School. The students were instructed to write eight stories in which the wishes of their mother conflicted with the wishes and behavior of their friends. In addition, each girl was given a test of home and family adjustment.

Conflicts in the stories centered on choice of boy friends, girl companions, types of evening activity, hour of returning home at night, clothes, smoking, use of earned money and use of allowance.

The results also showed that, in general, girls from better educated families do not follow their mothers' advice as frequently as girls from families with less education. No relationship was found between the number of brothers and sisters of the girls and the frequency with which they did what their mothers wished.

The research project, carried out by Virginia S. Bersohn under the chairmanship of Prof. Harry Levin, also indicated that older girls take their mothers' advice more often than younger girls.

How to Make a Paper Morning Glory Vine

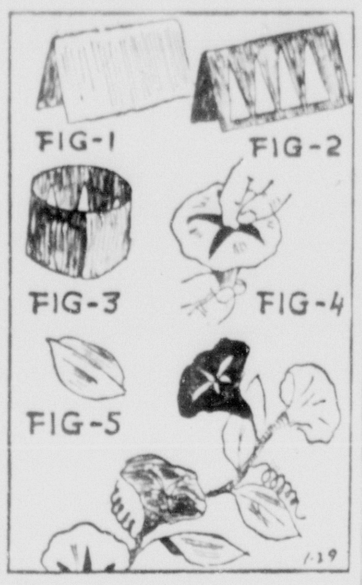
By CAPPY DICK

Here's something which is fun to make: a vine of paper morning glories to pin on a window curtain so the flowers seem to be growing up to the top.

Hobby Club

You need a few soda straws, a yard of fine picture wire and some crepe paper of various colors — preferably pink, blue, purple and green.

Start with a purple morning glory with pink points inside. Fold in half a piece of purple crepe paper five inches square with the grain of the paper at right angles to the fold as in Figure 1. From the pink crepe paper cut five triangular pieces, each two inches long. Paste them on one side of the purple paper with the points toward the fold (Figure 2).



Paste the two ends of the purple paper together to form a tube as in Figure 3, with the pink triangles inside. When the paste has dried, hold the seam so it will not come apart and with your fingers gently stretch the paper at the fold until it is two or three times as big as the bottom of the tube. With a flat knife, curl the flared folded edge outward by pulling the paper between the blade and your thumb.

Use a three-inch piece of soda straw for a stamen. Cut slits an inch long in one end of it and then place the straw in the flower as in Figure 4, gathering the purple paper together at the bottom and binding it with a couple of turns of the yard-long picture wire.

Wrap a narrow strip of green crepe paper around the wire for a distance of three or four inches, then fasten on another morning glory of a different color. Continue until the wire is full of flowers.

Add some heart-shaped leaves of green paper folded in the center as in Figure 5 to make the mid-rib. To make curled tendrils as in Figure 4, twist a short piece of green-wrapped wire around a knitting needle.

Aluminum Deal Has Canada in Quandary

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

OTTAWA, Canada — Efforts of Communist China to "Buy Canadian" have trade officials puzzled. They can't make up their minds whether the Chinese are trying to stir up trouble between Canada and the U.S. or whether Peiping is having trouble getting what it wants from Russia.

FLAHERTY

Recently the Aluminum Company of Canada announced it was turning down a Chinese bid for 2,200 tons of metal, worth about 1 million dollars because it might "work to the eventual disadvantage of our business and to the disadvantage of Canada as a whole."

The company's meaning was clear. It sells about 200 million dollars worth of aluminum in the U.S. every year. American aluminum producers have been asking Washington to cut down on Canadian imports which hurt their business.

American aluminum producers are unable to sell to China, because of U.S. government policy. If the Canadian company started doing so they would have a new lever to apply against Canadian sales in the U.S. The company was not going to risk 200 million dollars worth of business for the sake of a possible one-shot sale worth a million.

There is also the fact that Russian aluminum has been selling freely in Europe at prices below those which the Canadian company can quote.

Ottawa doesn't know whether the Chinese can't get aluminum from Russia or whether they want to show up another Canadian company as taking orders from the U.S., thereby exploiting Canadian nationalism.

A year ago a reputed Chinese order for cars from the Ford Motor Co. of Canada stirred up a fuss althought it was less of an order than an inquiry.

The Ford Co. said it couldn't supply the cars because under American law the officers of its parent company would be subject to prosecution.

Canada registered objections to a Canadian company being denied a chance to carry on export business which was proper under Canadian law because of a threat against an American company.

Eventually President Eisenhower agreed with Prime Minister Diefenbaker on a deal whereby the U.S. government, on request of the Canadian government, would stay action in respect of particular sales of Canadian goods to countries such as China. Nothing more was heard of the car deal.

Fidel Reported Ordering New Trial for Sosa

By ROBERT GRUENBERG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

HAVANA—Fidel Castro was reported Wednesday to have ordered a completely new trial for Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who was sentenced to death last week.

An aide close to the rebel leader said Castro wants the retrial because the atmosphere created by radio-television coverage of Sosa's trial "did not constitute a full measure of justice."

Sosa, who, last Friday was sentenced to be executed, had complained that the trial was a Roman circus.

About 30,000 persons jeered and shouted at him during the trial in the Havana Sports Palace.

Castro is reported to have said that the radio-TV coverage was "unfortunate" because it stimulated witnesses to become actors.

Castro was said to have acted on the principle that a new trial for Sosa under different cricumstances would be favorable to the Cuban people. No date has been set for the retrial.

Another showcase war crimes trial of Batista army officers was postponed Wednesday for celebrations of the 106th birthday of Jose Marti, Cuba's George Washington.

Ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes, also is expected to appeal the death sentence given him Tuesday.

The foreign diplomatic corps delivered a serious rebuff to Cuba's revolutionary government Wednesday for its refusal to live up to existing international agreements concerning the right of diplomatic asylum.

Masferrer, No. 2 On Castro Wanted List, Hides Here

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Rolando Masferrer, most feared man in the old Batista Cuban regime, was in hiding in Miami Wednesday along with two brothers and a pair of henchmen.

Masferrer arrived here from a U.S. detention camp at McAllen, Tex., where he had been held for safekeeping after fleeing Cuba by boat on Jan. 1.

Rolando Masferrer
. . . Tiger on the lam

Allowed to travel at will, Masferrer and his buddies still are "on parole," according to U. S. Immigration officials, and remain "on call" if and when the government wants them.

At Houston, en route here, Masferrer said Fidel Castro could best begin social reforms "by shaving and taking a bath."

"Perhaps after he gets himself cleaned up, I will return to Cuba," he told reporters. Masferrer said he "might be away from home for a year or two, but I'm willing to pay that price to see him shaved and clean."

There's little likelihood, however, that Masferrer or any member of his family will return to their homeland while the new revolutionary government is in power.

Rolando Masferrer is No. 2 on the Cuban rebels' wanted list, topped only by former President Fulgencio Batista himself. He's one notch ahead of Col. Esteban Ventura, former Havana police chief, more familiarly known as "The Butcher."

Masferrer was the leader of a private army known as the "Tigers," and was regarded as Batista's private executioner, operating from one end of the island to the other.

Publisher of Havana and Santiago newspapers, Masferrer's power was second only to that of Batista himself.

He claimed Wednesday that both newspapers were looted and burned by the rebels and that machinery from one had been turned over to the publishers of Havana's newspaper Hoy which he called a "Communist periodical."

Masferrer also operated, without license or payments to other than Batista himself, a chain of "penny gambling" casinos and grew wealthy on the nickel-and-dime losses of the low-income Cuban workers.

With Rolando are his brothers, Raimundo and Rodolfo, a former Army Col. Julio Laurent and Alcides Perez.

It was Rodolfo who was attacked in Hialeah last spring by three young rebels who beat

Cuba Press Slaps Castro On Asylum

HAVANA, Cuba—(UPI)—In the first major departure from the friendly editorial attitude Havana newspapers had maintained so far towards Fidel Castro's revolutionary government, the leading dailies Diario de la Marina and El Mundo took the government to task Wednesday for not respecting the right of diplomatic asylum.

El Mundo said in an editorial that it supported the foreign diplomatic corps' insistence that the government live up to its agreements in the matter of asylum.

The government announced last week that the cases of 86 persons still refuged in foreign embassies here will be reviewed and decided on their individual merits. The action brought a formal protest from the diplomatic corps.

"This is not a question between right and wrong," El Mundo's editorial said. "We either comply fully with our international obligations or we turn our back on them with all attendant consequences . . . Cuba is bound to honor its international obligations."

Diario de la Marina also supported the position of the foreign diplomatic corps. "The solution of this unnecessary problem should not be delayed," it said. "Cuba should restore the full right of asylum in conformance with existing treaties . . ."

'Virginia Will Not Give Up'

Governor Asks Tuition Grants

RICHMOND, Va.—(UPI)—Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. asked the Legislature Wednesday for a state tuition grants program to permit Virginia parents to choose immediately between private schools or sending their children to racially-mixed classrooms.

And underlying Almond's address to a special session of the General Assembly were indications that Virginia may later attempt a private schools program rather than accept racial integration. But he saw no way to stave off re-opening of schools with mixed classrooms next week.

Almond told the lawmakers that public schools in Virginia may have to be abandoned because of the integration crisis.

For the present, however, he asked only for tuition grants and repeal of compulsory school attendance laws. Federal courts have ordered integration in schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville, Arlington and Front Royal. And Virgnia's earlier "massive resistance" laws, which closed some schools, have been struck down.

Almond laid a brief emergency plan before the legislators, then gave broad hints that a drastic overhaul leading to a system of private schools might be the state's long-range answer to integration orders.

Almond emphasized that Virginia has not given up its fight to maintain segregation.

"She has not surrendered and she does not surrender now," he told the hastily-summoned special session. This vow drew the biggest ovation from the lawmakers.

The governor's basic plea was for an immediate system of tuition grants for the students whose parents do not wish them to attend integrated schools, repeal of the compulsory attendance law and repeal of the "massive resistance" plan permitting the state to shut off funds to integrated schools.

Almond said the 140 legislators, after clearing the emergency plan then should recess and wait for a special committee to formulate a stronger program to "withstand the attacks of those crazed by power and armed with the edicts of the federal judiciary."

Even as Almond spoke, new legal pressure for integration mounted.

Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan denied a request by the Arlington School Board for a stay of integration. Attorneys said they would seek a delay from the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Negro attorneys announced they would also ask Bryan to specifically direct admission of 14 Negroes to white Alexandria schools. However, legal arguments and appeals would likely consume too much time to enroll the Negroes in the second semester next week.

Almond dismissed demands from more outspoken segregationists that he invoke his police powers to close the schools that face integration in only four days. The governor said he was helpless to do so but intended to maintain law and order.

U.S. Sentry Shoots Two

SEOUL — (UPI) — An American Army sentry shot and seriously wounded two Korean civilians Wednesday when they ignored his orders to halt.

The U.S. Army said Pvt. Carl B. Mick, 19, of Clendenin, W. Va., challenged the two men when he saw them trying to leave the compound of an artillery unit attached to the First Cavalry Division.

Mick ordered the men to halt in both Korean and English, the Army said, and fired a round into the air when that didn't stop them.

Senators Hear of Dorfman Acts

Hoffa Friend Tried To Get Dio Insured, Probe Told

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Chicago insurance man who handled Teamster Union policies tried unsuccessfully to buy life insurance for Gangster Johnny Dio, a Senate investigator testified Wednesday.

The testimony was given by John P. Findlay as the Senate Rackets Committee dug into activities of Allen Dorfman, friend of Teamster Boss James R. Hoffa.

Findlay said Dorfman even paid the first premium—$684—in an attempt to persuade Union Casualty Life to issue the policy on Dio.

But, Findlay said, the company refused the policy on grounds that Dio was a bad credit risk.

He testified that Dorfman gave the insurance company a high recommendation for Dio although Dio's check to Dorfman for the life insurance premium had bounced three times.

Findlay said another man with a criminal record got life insurance through Dorfman but never made any premium payments. The man was identified as Gus Zapes. Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Zapes had served time in the Indiana Penitentiary, had a record of 45 arrests, and was hired as an organizer for the Indiana Teamsters.

Findlay also testified that Dorfman paid premiums for Hoffa and other Teamster officials on occasion — in violation of an Illinois insurance regulation against payment of premiums for clients without charging interest. He said Hoffa and the others were expected to repay about $3,600 paid as premiums by Dorfman.

The committee was told earlier by Findlay that Dorfman deposited in his own bank account $51,461.66 of union welfare fund insurance premiums.

Findlay said that not until after the committee began an investigation did Dorfman forward the money to the insurance company for which the premiums were intended.

He said that under Illinois law Dorfman was required to turn over the premium payments within 90 days.

But, he said, instead of making ~~the~~ payments to the Mt. Vernon Insurance Co., Dorfman used the money to meet expenses of his business enterprises.

Findlay continued that on March 11, 1957, Dorfman wrote a check to the insurance company for $39,155.35 of the premiums.

He said another check for $12,155.31 was drawn to the company by Dorfman June 12, 1957, but that Dorfman endorsed it with a rubber stamp, then signed his own name and deposited it in his insurance agency account.

"In other words, this money had been misappropriated from the insurance company?" Chairman John McClellan (D., Ark.) asked. Findlay agreed.

The money involved, Findlay said, was paid by members of Local 1031 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for welfare and pension insurance they elected to keep in effect during periods of layoff or temporary leave from their jobs.

Under that action by the workers, he said, they paid the portion of the premiums that would have been paid by employers.

Negro Lad's Trip in Vain

When's a Page Boy Not a Page at All?

WASHINGTON—(AP)—James A. Johnson Jr., 14-year-old Negro, arrived here Wednesday from Chicago to accept a page-boy job to which, the head of the House Patronage Committee said, he had never been appointed.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), head of the three-man committee which doles out patronage in the House, said he regretted that Johnson had made the trip.

"His race had nothing to do with it," Walter told a reporter. "We didn't even know what his race was. There are many Negroes on the patronage rolls. There just wasn't a vacancy for the Johnson boy because the Chicago appointment already had been given to a boy recommended by Tom O'Brien (Rep. Thomas J. O'Brien of Chicago)." There is only one page position available for the Chicago area.

Johnson had the endorsement of Rep. Barratt O'Hara, a Chicago Democrat.

"I told O'Hara not to send the boy here because there was no job open for him," Walter said.

Miss Ethel Payne, an aunt with whom Johnson had planned to live while in Washington, said she asked the boy's parents to send him here after O'Hara told her the appointment had been approved.

Look Out, Bird! Here Comes Ike

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower plans to fly to Thomasville, Ga. next week for five or six days of quail shooting and golf.

The White House announced Wednesday that Eisenhower hopes to leave Feb. 4 or Feb. 5. He expects to return to Washington Feb. 9.

At Thomasville the President will be the guest of George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the Treasury.

20-Point Proposal Would Put Unions In Goldfish Bowl

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Eisenhower urged Congress Wednesday to enact a sweeping labor reform bill to compel unions to operate in a spotlight of public scrutiny in an effort to rid the labor movement of racketeers and corrupt leaders.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), the author of a more moderate measure, promptly declared that the President went too far in demanding that the Taft-Hartley law be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts and to outlaw coercive picketing.

"For 12 or 13 years, we've tried to do too much and have accomplished nothing," Kennedy said. He said the proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley act would lessen the chances of passage this year of any bill to require unions to follow more democratic procedures.

Kennedy said his Senate labor subcommittee will consider basic changes in the Taft-Hartley law after it finishes work on his labor reform bill, which received the endorsement of the AFL-CIO at the opening of hearings Wednesday.

But the President told Congress in a special message that "complete and effective labor-management legislation, not a piecemeal program, is essential . . ."

He said hs 20-point bill would eliminate union abuses exposed by the Senate Rackets Committee, "protect the public interest, and insure the rights and economic freedom of millions of American workers."

At the same time, he said, it would not impose "arbitrary restrictions or punitive measures on the legitimate activities of honest labor and management officials."

His proposals, virtually the same as the ones he made last year, would require labor unions to make public their financial operations, to elect officers by secret ballot, and to operate otherwise in a goldfish bowl to protect the interests of rank-and-file members.

The President recommended that Taft-Hartley be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts, to extend the non-Communist affidavit requirement to employers as well as union leaders, and to outlaw "blackmail" picketing designed to force an employer to recognize a union as bargaining agent against the wishes of his employes.

He also demanded that Congress enact criminal penalties for such "wilful violations" of the law as "bribery between employers and employe representatives" and "embezzlement of union funds." He asked that the Labor secretary be granted subpena powers to enforce the law.

U.S. Inches Toward Big 4 Talks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday nudged the U.S. a step closer to a Big Four meeting with Russia that might head off an angry May 27 showdown on Berlin.

He told his news conference such talks would be useful if they "deal fruitfully" with East-West differences. He said the U.S. long had sought a broad agreement with Russia that would serve as the framework for specific pacts later.

His statement followed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remark Tuesday that a Big Four conference this spring on European problems would be timely. Dulles warned Wednesday, however, that the U.S. never would accept Russia's terms blindly.

The President gave his views after he was reminded that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan had indicated Russia might postpone or withdraw its May 27 deadline for turning East Berlin over to the German Communists if East-West talks were under way by then.

If Russia should go through with its threat, the U.S. might be faced with the problem of crashing through a Red blockade. The President has said this country will fight if necessary to maintain its position in West Berlin.

Asked if he favored starting East-West talks before the Soviet deadline, the President praised the value of talks if they promised to lead to a solution of Soviet-American differences. In effect, he took a positive attitude toward an early Big Four meeting.

Discussing GOP politics, Eisenhower said that like everyone who took a "middle of the road" position he was attacked from both sides.

He added that anyone who

Ike and Warren Deny They're on the Outs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren denied Wednesday that they were angry at each other.

The President said a newspaper story that his relationship with Warren had become "cold and distant" because of certain Supreme Court decisions was "irresponsible reporting."

The chief justice said "the story merits no comment. It is wholly without foundation."

The report attracted considerable attention because it was written by Robert J. Donovan, chief of The New York Herald Tribune's Washington staff. Donovan wrote a book about Eisenhower's first term which was considered a semi-official account.

The Donovan story said the chief justice was "pained" because he felt the President failed to take firm action to back up the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

It said the President was put out by Warren's liberal stand on recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating anti-subversive laws.

Eisenhower seemed surprised when The Herald Tribune story was brought up at the news conference, interrupting three times to make sure he was getting the sense of the questions.

But he answered quickly and in a serious tone.

"Well, so far as I am concerned, here is some irresponsible reporting," Eisenhower said.

He reminded the newsmen that he never commented on Supreme Court decisions and went on to say: "I have regarded the chief justice as my personal friend for years, and I know of no personal rift of any kind."

Pilot on a Holiday Killed As Car Rams Hotel Lobby

AROUND MIAMI

A 40-year-old pilot on a holiday was crushed to death early Wednesday when a runaway car — parked on a ramp — rammed his body 15 feet through the inch-thick plate glass doors of the Dupont Plaza Hotel.

He was Willis Charles O'Brien of Mattapan, Mass.

Miami Police Accident Investigator E. E. Bergquist and Homicide Detective W. P. McClure said the driver, Mrs. Veta Miller, 42, of 70 Palm Island, Miami Beach, accidentally hit the accelerator while moving across the front seat.

Her husband, Albree — an executive in the Howard Johnson restaurant chain — was waiting nearby to take the wheel.

Mrs. Miller was in fair condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital Wednesday with a possible fractured neck and internal injuries.

Police said the Millers had left an evening of dancing at the hotel's 12th-story ballroom a little after 1 a.m. Included in their party were O'Brien, his life-long friend, Peter Peters, 40, of Naponsett, Mass., and their dates.

In the lobby, Miller handed hotel Doorman Maurice Freedman parking stubs for the group's two rental cars.

The Millers waited at the side of the ramp, O'Brien by the front doors nearby. Peters and the girls were passing through the doors to the side of him.

"There was a rush of air . . . You couldn't see it . . . I grabbed . . . punched the girls out of the way . . . and then it flew by me," said Peters, sobbing and shaking.

The impact knocked O'Brien out of his shoes. The car's grill slammed his skull against a marble wall, then roared into a steel-ribbed pillar in the middle of the empty lobby.

Biggest increase under Kelly's proposal would be quadrupling of the Dade Fire Department from 86 to 408. The plan would also boost the number of police personnel, including detectives, and add an internal security and criminal intelligence section to the department.

Launching Looked Perfect

Huge Atlas Zips Off On Mystery Errand

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A huge Atlas ICBM has been blasted on a mysterious space flight over the Atlantic.

The 80-foot rocket performed as it never has before when it shot across the black sky Tuesday night after a beautiful launching.

The mission on this 19th Atlas test reportedly was another 4,000-mile trip, winding up beyond the island of Fernando de Norhona far off the Brazil coast in minutes.

The three mighty engines of the missile appeared to burn furious for more than 6½ minutes, much longer than on previous flights. The rocket skipped behind some clouds and then seemed to hang in the sky like a small star.

At first there was speculation that the latest blastoff signaled another sensational shoot similar to last month's Atlas satellite, but there still was no definite report on the results of the test hours later.

On previous firings the bulky intercontinental - range missile burned no longer than 3½ minutes before starting its ballistic trajectory — even the "big A" that soared into a 35-day orbit around the globe Dec. 18.

Despite the unusual performance, the best bet still appeared to be a long-range attempt. The Air Force said only that the launching was another in the research and development series.

dissent have supported the revolutionary government's trials and executions of Batista "war criminals."

The nearest any daily had come to expressing any dissent with the revolutionary government was a front-page editorial in Avance, signed by Editor Jorge Zayas, saying it was time the revolutionaries start on the less spectacular but no less necessary task of getting the administrative apparatus of government under way and giving the country's economic bloodstream a shot in the arm.

"In other words," Zayas said, "the glorious bearded ones can now hang their rifles, shave and become 'fruitful administrators' and no longer be 'ferocious men,' in order to bring this battered people the abundance, tranquility and happiness it is entitled to."

There has been so far no editorial discussion of what the future policies of the government should be, other than calling on it to ease the freezing of bank deposits.

Havana's noted editorial sense of humor was functioning again, however: An editorial cartoon in El Mundo depicted a citizen rubbing his chin and saying: "Now that I come to think of it, I haven't seen Fidel in 24 hours."

Another cartoon in Diario de la Marina showed a citizen on the 'phone asking, "What spectacle are you showing today?"

did not know what he had been working for apparently had not been studying his messages to Congress for the past six years.

Eisenhower also denied allegations by some Republicans that he had been copying New Deal proposals. To another questioner, he said he always had tried to meet personally with as many Republicans, and Democrats, as possible.

On other major issues, the President said:

U.S. production and development of intercontinental ballistic missiles was showing "remarkable progress. He said it should be a matter of pride for Americans, not one of "hangdog humiliation." As for Nikita S. Khrushchev's boast that Russia was mass-producing such missiles, he said some people were too quick to accept Soviet claims.

HE HOPED the new Cuban government of revolutionary Fidel Castro "will be truly representative of the Cuban people." He refused to discuss Castro himself.

HE WOULD NOT oppose a visit to Russia by an American official, but there were no present plans for Vice President Richard M. Nixon or anyone else to go there. He said Khrushchev could not come here as informally as Mikoyan did because Khrushchev was head of the Soviet government.

HE MIGHT MEET former President Truman for the first time since the 1953 inauguration at a dinner here next month celebrating the 150th birthday of Abraham Lincoln. There has been a coolness between the two since Eisenhower took office.

UNLESS INFLATION could be curbed by selfrestraint, the people eventually would demand federal controls that would be contrary to the free enterprise system. If this happened, he said, it would be "a sad day."

HE WOULD LIKE to go to Mexico soon. Definite plans have not been made.

The East-West talks foreseen by the President would be assigned to lead toward later detailed pacts. These pacts would include provisions for lessening the danger of surprise attack, plus suspension of atomic tests.

The President said the pacts must include inspection, controls and other self-enforcing features. But first, he said, the U.S. wanted to reach general basic agreement on broad political questions.

Arctic air should carry snow into the Rockies and Plains as far south as Colorado and Nebraska and spread snow or a mixture of rain and snow on a line from New Mexico to Michigan Thursday.

Strong northerly winds are expected to cause blowing and drifting and in spite of partial clearing in the upper plains temperatures will remain near or a bit below zero in parts of Montana and North Dakota.

A warming trend will extend from the lower Plains into the mid Mississippi Valley but the advance of cold winds should trigger thunderstorms in Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley while rain or drizzle develops to the north from Illinois into Ohio by late in the day.

Increasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures will work into the East Thursday and showers or wet snow may reach as far as New York and Pennsylvania.

Otherwise precipitation in the East will be limited to a few flurries in northern New England through the next 24 hours and some rain or drizzle in parts of the Carolinas and Florida.

May Throw Wrench in Big Flood Control Project

2-County Feud Boils Over 3 Big Ditches

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer
(First of two articles)

STUART — Hottest sectional fight in Florida today involves Martin County here and neighboring St. Lucie County.

It is of far more than local interest, in that it involves a phase in the overall program for the 17-county Central and South Florida Flood Control District.

Stuart and Martin County don't like the plans of that agency for greatly deepening and widening three back country canals, all with control gates, and making an impounding area back of Fort Pierce. Here, they say, the plan will "ruin" them.

Fort Pierce likes the idea fine. They see in it a permanent solution for their longtime problem of too much water at times, too little water at other times.

Tempers flare on both sides. Bitter name calling goes on from both sides. Protest meetings are held.

If the injunctions and lawsuits now threatened are actually filed, it could be the first monkey wrench to be tossed into the gears since the flood control district came into being in 1948.

* * *

THERE HAVE BEEN minor squabbles before, but never a knock down, dragout one like this.

First canal listed for widening and deepening treatment is C-25, locally known as the Rim Ditch. Starting at State Rd. 68, west of Fort Pierce, it drops southward across St. Lucie County to enter the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

That stream joins the waters of the South Fork and the big St. Lucie Canal, leading from Lake Okeechobee, to make one massive river flowing through Stuart and out to sea.

Another canal due for widening and deepening treatment is C-23, which runs along the Martin-St. Lucie county line and also joins the North Fork, to pass through Stuart.

The third canal in the plan is C-25, known as the Belcher Canal. This runs from the northern and western extremity of the Rim Ditch, straight into Fort Pierce. Each of the enlarged three canals would have a discharge capacity of 5,000 cubic feet per second — which is a lot of water.

* * *

IT'S THIS TWO-FOR-STUART and one-for-Fort Pierce phase of the plan that has Stuart fit to be tied. The assurance of the engineers that this capicity would be approached only in critical flood times and that control structures would be used at all other times, appeases Stuart battle headquarters not at all.

Now, to understand why any community would become so aroused over an added fresh water flow, the clock of history must be pushed back to 1924, when that big canal from Okeechobee was being dug.

Original plan for that link of the cross state waterway was for an outlet at Sebastian, far north of here. But, in the hope of vast benefits from passing yachts and other water traffic, Stuart interests turned on the political pressure and got the outlet for their city. It cost around 6.3 million dollars.

Present day Stuart bitterly regrets that piece of civic enterprise. In the years since, and during high waters on Lake Okeechobee, as much as 8,000 cubic feet per second of fresh water has cascaded through the waterway, leaving millions of cubic yards of silt.

* * *

BAYS HAVE BEEN SILTED in until docks are on dry land. Even worse, from the viewpoint of most of Stuart, has been the effect of fishing in a community that calls itself "the sailfish capital of the world".

Fishing, and the people brought to Stuart by fishing, is a main prop—many say the one really substantial prop—in the economy of the area.

For 35 years the discharge from one canal has meant woe and trouble here, and they want no more of it.

In the current fight, Stuart is not allowed to forget they "asked for it" in the matter of this existing flow.

Present day Stuart considers this to be something of a foul punch. Why, they ask, should they be held accountable for the goofs of another generation?

* * *

AND WHY, THEY ASK, should they now be in a position to become the outlet for two great canals in a project where St. Lucie county, chief beneficiary of the three-canal deal, gets only one of the objectional outlets.

To which FCD engineers reply, in substance—

"Because flood control is an overall project which cannot be pinned down to county lines and city boundaries. We are merely following a long-standing plan, approved by the U.S. Army Engineers, by Congress, and for which money has been appropriated."

In a concluding article tomorrow we will attempt to go deeper into the pros and cons in this inter-county scrap, and present in more detail the views of standard bearers for both camps.

Feelings are so touchy here that we probably will do that under the Fort Pierce dateline, just to avoid an added charge of bias.

New Skirmish Shaping Up Over State Printing Jobs

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE—State Rep. John E. Mathews Jr. said Wednesday that he will ask the Legislature to investigate state printing practices when it convenes in April.

Mathews lost a similar fight in 1957 when he tried to put printing under the state's central purchasing system. He said he is renewing the battle because he wants to be sure all bidders on printing jobs "get a fair shake" and that there is no waste by various state agencies.

Contracts for state printing jobs now are awarded by individual state agencies.

Mathews' chief foe two years ago was Charles Rosenberg, president of Rose Printing Co. in Tallahassee, who also has owner interests in Publishers' Press of Miami and other firms. He was a registered lobbyist for the printing industry.

The comptroller's records show that state printing costs average about two million dollars a year. Rosenberg said in 1958 his company got almost $700,000 of this state business.

Rosenberg, a director of the Printing Industry of Florida (a trade association), said the group probably will discuss its position on any change in laws relating to printing bids at its meeting Feb. 1 at Boca Raton.

But he asserted that in his opinion "we have tighter laws now relating to printing bids that we would have under the purchasing council."

He said individual state agencies now are required to invite three bids on a printing job costing as little as one dollar. But, he asserted, under the central purchasing system bids would be invited only on items costing more than $1,000 and have to be advertised for only on purchases costing more than $2,000.

Mathews said he did not know what specific legislation he would propose but felt that a procedure should be set up under central purchasing to regulate printing. The lawmaker said he was not bent on criticizing any one printing firm or state agency.

Mathews referred to a check which showed that letterheads for different state agencies on the same quality paper ranged from four dollars to $17 a thousand.

"I would like to know why all of the agencies can't use the same quality of paper for letter writing and buy it at the same price," the Jacksonville legislator said.

Rosenberg said the cost differential resulted because the rate fluctuates with the volume ordered and the specifications required by the individual agency.

He added that the proximity of his Tallahassee plant and "the fact we have the largest facilities of anybody in Florida," gave his firm an edge on some jobs. He pointed to the legislative printing in which his company turns out Senate and House journals and copies overnight after each daily session.

Two years ago Gov. LeRoy Collins called for a governmental reorganization which would have set up a department of purchasing commission but would exempt printing from its control.

The governor said over the years previous attempts to set up a broad central purchasing program had met defeat because they included printing.

Mathews amended the bill to include printing. Prominent among those lobbying for the amendment was Al Block, Rosenberg's brother-in-law and former partner, who left the firm when their partnership was dissolved in a bitter legal battle.

The amended bill passed 67 to 9 but when it got to the Senate there was only one vote, that of Sen. Verle Pope of St. Augustine, in support of the amendment.

Charles Ausley, close friend and former law partner of Gov. Collins, is attorney for Rose Printing Co. and is listed as a vice president of the firm.

Ausley said he had urged defeat of the Mathews amendment because he was afraid it would kill the governor's entire purchasing program.

Rosenberg laughed at a business magazine article listing him as one of the state's most influential men and crediting him with being the capital's champion party-giver.

"We probably give five or six parties each session but there are a lot of folks who give more parties than we do. They give them year-round," he said.

Elevator Balks As Boyles Boils

TALLAHASSEE — John Boyles, chief of the capital bureau of The Miami Herald, was 35 minutes late for lunch Wednesday. He spent 35 minutes, trapped in a balky self-service elevator in the Capitol.

Repeated ringing of an alarm bell and pounding on the door finally brought a maintenance man, who released the famished Boyles.

UF Morals Probers Facing Counterprobe

GAINESVILLE —(UPI)— The local chapter of the American Association of University Professors has called for an investigation of a state investigating committee.

The chapter, composed of some 200 University of Florida faculty members, is complaining about methods of the group in conducting a probe of alleged irregularities among professors and students.

Dr. W. W. Ehrman, president of the local AAUP, said Wednesday the group has named an executive committee to investigate and determine if the state legislative investigating committee was conducting its probe properly and in the best interests of the university.

Prof. Dan Clark of the university law college said he doubted from information he had that the committee was acting within the limits set out by a legislative bill enacting the committee.

Some professors had complained that the state committee, headed by Sen. Charley Johns of Starke, was calling out faculty members without subpoenas or without advising them of their constitutional rights.

Johns had said last week there was "no foundation" to such complaints. He has not said what irregularities were being investigated, but Dr. Erhmann said it dealt with morals at the school.

Missile Defense Unit Set to Start At Cape

Ship Ready To Collect Hard Facts

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — A key part of the development of a defense against the now "invincible" ballistic missile is about to start here, The Herald learned Wednesday.

Reliable sources said the program will start as soon as a special missile-tracking ship sails from Port Canaveral for the South Atlantic.

The ship, the SS American Mariner, an Army craft, docked early Wednesday. Its departure time was not announced.

But sources said the ship will work on Project Damp — Downrange Anti-Missile Project.

Aboard the 420-foot ship are instruments capable of charting the final oceanward plunge of American ballistic missiles more accurately than ever before — a capability vital to scientists designing weapons to intercept the swift-moving, atom-tipped warbirds.

Information obtained by the ship will be fed into an Army program, aimed at development of the Nike-Zeus, which may be the world's first anti-ballistic-missile missile.

Later phases of the program call for firing Nike-Zeus missiles — which carry atomic warheads — from downrange stations of the Atlantic Missile range. They will try to bring down swift-moving missiles fired from Cape Canaveral, sources said.

It development is successful, the Nike-Zeus could become America's most important defensive weapon of the missile age.

The Nike-Zeus is to be capable of overcoming the enormous speed — sometimes as high as 17,000 mph — which has made ballistic missiles immune from attack by defensive weapons.

No anti-ballistic-missile missiles have ever been developed, and the ballistic missile has been considered an "invincible" weapon since Nazi Germany starting raining its silent V-2's on England during the closing days of World War II.

Officially, there was silence here Wednesday about the American Mariner's connection with project damp.

The Air Force said the ship would take station in the South Atlantic, 1,500 to 6,000 miles from here, where American missiles rain down after swift flights from Cape Canaveral.

The missile flights take only minutes.

In its announcement the Air Force said the ship will obtain information vital to the development of American missiles.

The ship, commissioned last week, is being run by the missile and surface radar department of the Radio Corp. of America.

The ship can spend 40 days at sea.

Plan Means To Retain Professors

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — State Budget Director Harry G. Smith and Comptroller Ray E. Green found themselves 10 million dollars apart Wednesday in revenue estimates for the next two years.

The state's two top fiscal officers disagreed on the need for a treasury reserve.

Smith estimated that existing tax sources will produce $726,500,000 during the biennium beginning July 1. Two months ago Green came up with a preliminary figure of 716 million dollars.

Smith, meanwhile, disclosed that a new system of budget building has been developed for the state universities which will help in retaining top professors.

Smith said the system was worked out at conferences between his office and the Board of Control. It is designed to aid the universities in meeting the competition for quality instructors among the nation's big universities.

Under the system, Smith said, instead of providing a rigid salary structure in the budget, in which each member of the instructional staff is pegged to a specified salary, each university and the budget director's office reach a total salary figure based on such factors as teacher-student ratio.

The Board of Control is left the discretion of allocating the total salary figure among the individual instructors.

There would be no way under the old system for the board to retain the instructor if he received an offer of $11,000 from another university.

But under the new system, the board would have the discretion of meeting the $11,000 salary if it felt loss of the professor's services would hamper the university's instructional program.

Smith said that while some people have painted his revenue estimates as "highly optimistic" he regarded them as sound based on favorable economic trends.

He said that increasing state population, rising incomes, continuing industrialization and growth of urbanized areas all contribute their share to the strong upward trend for the Florida economy.

Smith's estimate comes to 145 million dollars more than estimated revenue for the current two-year period.

Green told the cabinet he hoped it would adopt a budget within his 716 million dollar estimate.

"It will be better to wind up with a 10 million dollar surplus than to fall 10 or 20 million dollars short," he said.

The Comptroller said that unless the legislature provides a reserve of unappropriated money from the anticipated revenues "we will be in trouble. We cannot operate on current collections."

Polio Claims First South Florida Death

By EVELYN DETARDO
Herald Staff Writer

A young Fort Myers carpenter who "didn't have time to get polio shots" is South Florida's first polio death statistic this year, the Dade County Health Department reported Wednesday.

Jimmey E. Moore, 23, died of bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease, in Variety Children's Hospital Monday.

Moore began to complain of a stiff neck and loss of feeling in his hands and feet Jan. 21 and gradually began to loose feeling up to his hips. He was taken to Lee Memorial Hospital in Fort Meyers that night and then rushed to Miami the next morning.

He died five days later. During the entire year of 1958, there was only one polio death recorded in South Florida.

All of Moore's family, his wife Lotrelle, 20; and a daughter, Mellonie, 3, have had Salk vaccine shots. His son Michael, 9-months, is now completing his shots.

Members of the family said Moore "was working every day, and just didn't have time to get to a doctor's office for shots."

Dade's only other polio victim, this year, a 25-year-old truck driver, Terrell Howell, is in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. Howell made sure his two children had shots, but neglected to take them himself.

Howell's wife Alice, 21, is now getting her shots, and booster shots for their children.

As of Jan. 28 last year, three cases of polio were recorded in Dade County, and 30 were listed for the entire year, according to T. E. Cato, county health officer.

Moore, who was born in Frink, Fla., Calhoun County, moved to Fort Myers with his family when he was two. He lived on Redlin Rd. in North Fort Myers, and was a member of the North Fort Myers Baptist Church.

Besides his wife and two children, he leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Moore, and three sisters, including Miss Sarah Moore, Fort Myers.

Services will be at 2 today at the Engelhardt Funeral Home, Fort Myers, with burial in Fort Myers Cemetery.

Jury to Get King Case Late Today

BARTOW —(AP)— Judge Roy Amidon set closing arguments for today in Harry E. King's perjury retrial, after denying a plea for a directed verdict in the widely-publicized $10,000 payoff case. Testimony was completed Wednesday.

King, former State Senator from Winter Haven, went on trial Jan. 20 for the second time on charges of procuring two former deputy sheriffs to lie to a grand jury investigating a payoff by King to an opponent in a 1956 State Senate race.

Defense Attorney Chester Bedell of Jacksonville moved for a directed verdict. Amidon heard the motion, after sending the jury from the room. He denied the motion after Bedell completed his plea.

The trial, which dragged to almost a standstill Tuesday, quickened in tempo at the opening of the eighth day.

Special Prosecutor Charles H. Nugent Jr., of West Palm Beach called a Circuit Court reporter to the stand for the fourth time.

The state rested after completion of Kelley's testimony. Then the defense rested without calling any witnesses, as it had done in the first trial 32 months ago.

The judge reserved the afternoon session for technical arguments by the defense on points Bedell wants included in Amidon's charges to the jury.

Steiger, Claire Bloom Star in Enchanting Drama

'Rashomon' Weaves an Oriental Charm

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK — There is a fantastic, fairyland quality about "Rashomon," the Oriental bedevilment which opened this week at the Music Box Theater on Broadway. It has charm, enchantment and enticement. Each quality you must interpret yourself.

With a diamond embellishment of stars including Claire Bloom, Rod Steiger, Oscar Homolka, and Akim Tamiroff, this exciting production by Peter Glenville, surprisingly, begins to make sense as it moves further into the story by Fay and Michael Kanin.

You have to get into the mood of the drama, with accompanying bells and music, to understand it. Appreciate is probably a better word than understand, for the analysis of the play has to do with the emotional reactions of four people who are caught in rape and murder in a sacred place in Japan.

This was in Kyoto, Japan, about 1,000 years ago.

The story has to do with a ruthless bandit (played with ruthless vigor by Rod Steiger) who comes to rob a Japanese family. Instead, he chooses the gentle wife, as played with wistful tenderness by Claire Bloom, as his booty.

The dignified husband is tied up, and he is given several chances to cut his bonds and save his wife's honor. Each time his dignity will not permit him to do so. The wife is then free to choose her future love, and that is the bandit.

While this realistic tale is being spoken, sung and performed, there is a side scene in which a priest, a woodcutter, and a wigmaker are making commentaries about the problems of husband, wife and more attractive (to the wife) bandit.

"Rashomon" is a beautifully performed treasure land of theater, and Glenville has given it the suave touch in direction.

With the splendid players, this production in particular should be saluted for the settings of Oliver Messel, lighting by Jo Mielzeiner, and music by Laurence Rosenthal.

Although "Rashomon" is a play with music, there are no musical numbers from which you can sing a tune. But there are plenty sword duels which clash with thunder and bang.

No-Mixing Pressed In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. asked the Legislature Wednesday for a state tuition grants program to permit Virginia parents to choose immediately between private schools or sending their children to racially-mixed classrooms.

And underlying Almond's address to a special session of the General Assembly were indications that Virginia may later attempt a private schools program rather than accept racial integration. But he saw no way to stave off re-opening of schools with mixed classrooms next week.

Almond told the lawmakers that public schools in Virginia may have to be abandoned because of the integration crisis.

For the present, however, he asked only for tuition grants and repeal of compulsory school attendance laws. Federal courts have ordered integration in schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville, Arlington and Front Royal, and Virginia's earlier "massive resistance" laws, which closed some schools, have been struck down.

Almond laid a brief emergency plan before the legislators, then gave broad hints that a drastic overhaul leading to a system of private schools might be the state's long-range answer to integration orders.

Almond emphasized that Virginia has not given up its fight to maintain segregation.

"She has not surrendered and she does not surrender now," he told the hastily-summoned special session. This vow drew the biggest ovation from the lawmakers.

The governor's basic plea was for an immediate system of tuition grants for the students who do not wish them to attend integrated schools.

In St. Lucie County

Mackle Acquires 10,000-Acre Tract

More State News 23A, 1B, 7B, 2D

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — The big real estate secret is out.

Although company officials still refuse to officially confirm or deny it — The Herald has learned that the Mackle Co. has acquired control of at least 10,000 more acres in St. Lucie County to add to their Port St. Lucie development.

It is reliably estimated that Port St. Lucie, five miles south of Fort Pierce, has grown from the 9,000 acres acquired last year from the Cowles Publishing Co. interests to a point where it now comprises at least 40,000 acres.

The tip-off and confirmation of the Mackle's latest, and in many ways most important, acquisition has come from an advance copy of a national magazine advertisement scheduled for publication Feb. 21.

It reveals that Port St. Lucie now extends from the Indian River to the Sunshine State Turnpike and beyond, and that the development has 7½ miles frontage on U.S. 1.

This is the first inkling of the real size of Port St. Lucie and the first time their property has been shown to reach the Indian River.

The ad also shows Port St. Lucie to have 14 miles frontage on the toll turnpike and eight miles along the St. Lucie River.

This means that the Mackles and the General Development Co.'s Port St. Lucie development now measures 11 miles across at the widest point and on the west side of the St. Lucie River extends nine miles southward to the Martin County line — to a point only a few miles from Stuart.

There is good reason to believe that this latest acquisition of 10,000 acres — providing access to the Indian River and extending U.S. 1 frontage from a half mile to seven and a half miles—also puts the Mackles into Martin County for the first time.

No deeds have yet been filed on the vast new additions to Port St. Lucie — but several local Mackle officials, when confronted with the information that there was only one 10,000 acre tract (held by Palm Beach interests) that could give them seven and one-half miles on U.S. 1, said: "OK you're on the right track — just put two and two together." In this case two and two add up to more acreage than any other land owner holds in St. Lucie county.

Ike Going To Mexico

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday accepted an invitation from Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos to visit him in Acapulco Feb. 19-20.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles relayed word of the President's acceptance to Antonio Carrillo Flores, the new Mexican ambassador to Washington.

Dulles emphasized that the visit between the two presidents at the famous Mexican beach resort would be informal.

This will preclude the ceremonies which would be involved in a state visit to the Mexican capital, Mexico City.

Tried to Get Him Insurance, Witness Says

Hoffa Pal Aided Dio, Probers Told

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Chicago insurance man who handled Teamster Union policies tried unsuccessfully to buy life insurance for Gangster Johnny Dio, a Senate investigator testified Wednesday.

The testimony was given by John P. Findlay as the Senate Rackets Committee dug into activities of Allen Dorfman, friend of Teamster Boss James R. Hoffa.

Findlay said Dorfman even paid the first premium—$684—in an attempt to persuade Union Casualty Life to issue the policy on Dio.

But, Findlay said, the company refused the policy on grounds that Dio was a bad credit risk.

He testified that Dorfman gave the insurance company a high recommendation for Dio although Dio's check to Dorfman for the life insurance premium had bounced three times.

Findlay said another man with a criminal record got life insurance through Dorfman but never made any premium payments. The man was identified as Gus Zapes. Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Zapes had served time in the Indiana Penitentiary, had a record of 45 arrests, and was hired as an organizer for the Indiana Teamsters.

Findlay also testified that Dorfman paid premiums for Hoffa and other Teamster officials on occasion — in violation of an Illinois insurance regulation against payment of premiums for clients without charging interest. He said Hoffa and the others were expected to repay about $3,600 paid as premiums by Dorfman.

The committee was told earlier by Findlay that Dorfman deposited in his own bank account $51,461.66 of union welfare fund insurance premiums.

Findlay said that not until after the committee began an investigation did Dorfman forward the money to the insurance company for which the premiums were intended.

He said that under Illinois law Dorfman was required to turn over the premium payments within 90 days.

But, he said, instead of making the payments to the Mt. Vernon Insurance Co., Dorfman used the money to meet expenses of his business enterprises.

Findlay continued that on March 11, 1957, Dorfman wrote a check to the insurance company for $39,155.35 of the premiums.

He said another check for $12,155.31 was drawn to the company by Dorfman June 12, 1957, but that Dorfman endorsed it with a rubber stamp, then signed his own name and deposited it in his insurance agency account.

"In other words, this money had been misappropriated from the insurance company?" Chairman John McClellan (D., Ark.) asked. Findlay agreed.

The money involved, Findlay said, was paid by members of Local 1031 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for welfare and pension insurance they elected to keep in effect during periods of layoff or temporary leave from their jobs.

Under that action by the workers, he said, they paid the portion of the premiums that would have been paid by employers.

Fidel Reported Ordering New Trial for Sosa

By ROBERT GRUENBERG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

HAVANA—Fidel Castro was reported Wednesday to have ordered a completely new trial for Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who was sentenced to death last week.

An aide close to the rebel leader said Castro wants the retrial because the atmosphere created by radio-television coverage of Sosa's trial "did not constitute a full measure of justice."

Sosa, who, last Friday was sentenced to be executed, had complained that the trial was a Roman circus.

About 30,000 persons jeered and shouted at him during the trial in the Havana Sports Palace.

Castro is reported to have said that the radio-TV coverage was "unfortunate" because it stimulated witnesses to become actors.

Castro was said to have acted on the principle that a new trial for Sosa under different circumstances would be favorable to the Cuban people. No date has been set for the retrial.

Another showcase war crimes trial of Batista army officers was postponed Wednesday for celebrations of the 106th birthday of Jose Marti, Cuba's George Washington.

Ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes, also is expected to appeal the death sentence given him Tuesday.

The foreign diplomatic corps delivered a serious rebuff to Cuba's revolutionary government Wednesday for its refusal to live up to existing international agreements concerning the right of diplomatic asylum.

The entire diplomatic corps boycotted a scheduled meeting with Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Castro Hit On Right Of Asylum

HAVANA, Cuba—(UPI)—In the first major departure from the friendly editorial attitude Havana newspapers had maintained so far towards Fidel Castro's revolutionary government, the leading dailies Diario de la Marina and El Mundo took the government to task Wednesday for not respecting the right of diplomatic asylum.

El Mundo said in an editorial that it supported the foreign diplomatic corps' insistence that the government live up to its agreements in the matter of asylum.

The government announced last week that the cases of 86 persons still refuged in foreign embassies here will be reviewed and decided on their individual merits. The action brought a formal protest from the diplomatic corps.

"This is not a question between right and wrong," El Mundo's editorial said. "We either comply fully with our international obligations or we turn our back on them with all attendant consequences . . . Cuba is bound to honor its international obligations."

Diario de la Marina also supported the position of the foreign diplomatic corps. "The solution of this unnecessary problem should not be delayed," it said. "Cuba should restore the full right of asylum, in conformance with existing treaties . . ."

Havana newspapers without dissent have supported the revolutionary government's trials and executions of Batista "war criminals."

The nearest any daily had come to expressing any dissent with the revolutionary government was a front-page editorial in Avance, signed by Editor Jorge Zayas, saying it was time the revolutionaries start on the less spectacular but no less necessary task of getting the administrative apparatus of government under way and giving

All Ready For Work But No Job

WASHINGTON —(AP)— James A. Johnson Jr., 14-year-old Negro, arrived here Wednesday from Chicago to accept a page-boy job to which, the head of the House Patronage Committee said, he had never been appointed.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), head of the three-man committee which doles out patronage in the House, said he regretted that Johnson had made the trip.

"His race had nothing to do with it," Walter told a reporter. "We didn't even know what his race was. There are many Negroes on the patronage rolls. There just wasn't a vacancy for the Johnson boy because the Chicago appointment already had been given to a boy recommended by Tom O'Brien (Rep. Thomas J. O'Brien of Chicago)." There is only one page position available for the Chicago area.

Johnson had the endorsement of Rep. Barratt O'Hara, a Chicago Democrat.

"I told O'Hara not to send the boy here because there was no job open for him," Walter said.

Miss Ethel Payne, an aunt with whom Johnson had planned to live while in Washington, said she asked the boy's parents to send him here after O'Hara told her the appointment had been approved.

Castro's No. 2 Foe Hides Here

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Rolando Masferrer, most feared man in the old Batista Cuban regime, was in hiding in Miami Wednesday along with two brothers and a pair of henchmen.

Masferrer arrived here from a U.S. detention camp at McAllen, Tex., where he had been held for safekeeping after fleeing Cuba by boat on Jan. 1.

Allowed to travel at will, Masferrer and his buddies still are "on parole," according to U. S. Immigration officials, and remain "on call" if and when the government wants them.

At Houston, en route here, Masferrer said Fidel Castro could best begin social reforms "by shaving and taking a bath."

"Perhaps after he gets himself cleaned up, I will return to Cuba," he told reporters. Masferrer said he "might be away from home for a year or two, but I'm willing to pay that price to see him shaved and clean."

There's little likelihood, however, that Masferrer or any member of his family will return to their homeland while the new revolutionary government is in power.

Rolando Masferrer is No. 2 on the Cuban rebels' wanted list, topped only by former President Fulgencio Batista himself. He's one notch ahead of Col. Esteban Ventura, former Havana police chief, more familiarly known as "The Butcher."

Masferrer was the leader of a private army known as the "Tigers," and was regarded as Batista's private executioner.

Publisher of Havana and Santiago newspapers, Masferrer's power was second only to that of Batista himself.

He claimed Wednesday that both newspapers were looted and burned by the rebels and that machinery from one had been turned over to the publishers of Havana's newspaper Hoy which he called a "Communist periodical."

Masferrer also operated, without license or payments to other than Batista himself, a chain of "penny gambling" casinos and grew wealthy on the nickel-and-dime losses of the low-income Cuban workers.

With Rolando are his brothers, Raimundo and Rodolfo, a former Army Col. Julio Laurent and Alcides Perez.

Rodolfo was attacked in Hialeah last spring by three young rebels who beat him and sent him screaming to refuge in a department store.

20-Point Proposal Would Put Unions In Goldfish Bowl

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Eisenhower urged Congress Wednesday to enact a sweeping labor reform bill to compel unions to operate in a spotlight of public scrutiny in an effort to rid the labor movement of racketeers and corrupt leaders.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), the author of a more moderate measure, promptly declared that the President went too far in demanding that the Taft-Hartley law be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts and to outlaw coercive picketing.

"For 12 or 13 years, we've tried to do too much and have accomplished nothing," Kennedy said. He said the proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley act would lessen the chances of passage this year of any bill to require unions to follow more democratic procedures.

Kennedy said his Senate labor subcommittee will consider basic changes in the Taft-Hartley law after it finishes work on his labor reform bill, which received the endorsement of the AFL-CIO at the opening of hearings Wednesday.

But the President told Congress in a special message that "complete and effective labor-management legislation, not a piecemeal program, is essential . . ."

He said hs 20-point bill would eliminate union abuses exposed by the Senate Rackets Committee, "protect the public interest, and insure the rights and economic freedom of millions of American workers."

At the same time, he said, it would not impose "arbitrary restrictions or punitive measures on the legitimate activities of honest labor and management officials."

His proposals, virtually the same as the ones he made last year, would require labor unions to make public their financial operations, to elect officers by secret ballot, and to operate otherwise in a goldfish bowl to protect the interests of rank-and-file members.

The President recommended that Taft-Hartley be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts, to extend the non-Communist affidavit requirement to employers as well as union leaders, and to outlaw "blackmail" picketing designed to force an employer to recognize a union as bargaining agent against the wishes of his employes.

He also demanded that Congress enact criminal penalties for such "wilful violations" of the law as "bribery between employers and employe representatives" and "embezzlement of union funds." He asked that the Labor secretary be granted subpena powers to enforce the law.

U.S. Inches Toward Big 4 Talks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday nudged the U.S. a step closer to a Big Four meeting with Russia that might head off an angry May 27 showdown on Berlin.

He told his news conference such talks would be useful if they "deal fruitfully" with East-West differences. He said the U.S. long had sought a broad agreement with Russia that would serve as the framework for specific pacts later.

His statement followed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remark Tuesday that a Big Four conference this spring on European problems would be timely. Dulles warned Wednesday, however, that the U.S. never would accept Russia's terms blindly.

The President gave his views after he was reminded that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan had indicated Russia might postpone or withdraw its May 27 deadline for turning East Berlin over to the German Communists if East-West talks were under way by then.

If Russia should go through with its threat, the U.S. might be faced with the problem of crashing through a Red blockade. The President has said this country will fight if necessary to maintain its position in West Berlin.

Asked if he favored starting East-West talks before the Soviet deadline, the President praised the value of talks if they promised to lead to a solution of Soviet-American differences. In effect, he took a positive attitude toward an early Big Four meeting.

Discussing GOP politics, Eisenhower said that like everyone who took a "middle of the road" position he was attacked from both sides.

He added that anyone who

Ike and Warren Deny They're on the Outs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren denied Wednesday that they were angry at each other.

The President said a newspaper story that his relationship with Warren had become "cold and distant" because of certain Supreme Court decisions was "irresponsible reporting."

The chief justice said "the story merits no comment. It is wholly without foundation."

The report attracted considerable attention because it was written by Robert J. Donovan, chief of The New York Herald Tribune's Washington staff. Donovan wrote a book about Eisenhower's first term which was considered a semi-official account.

The Donovan story said the chief justice was "pained" because he felt the President failed to take firm action to back up the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

It said the President was put out by Warren's liberal stand on recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating anti-subversive laws.

Eisenhower seemed surprised when The Herald Tribune story was brought up at the news conference, interrupting three times to make sure he was getting the sense of the questions.

But he answered quickly and in a serious tone.

"Well, so far as I am concerned, here is some irresponsible reporting," Eisenhower said.

He reminded the newsmen that he never commented on Supreme Court decisions and went on to say: "I have regarded the chief justice as my personal friend for years, and I know of no personal rift of any kind."

Battle Shapes Up In Legislature on State Printing Jobs

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE—State Rep. John E. Mathews Jr. said Wednesday that he will ask the Legislature to investigate state printing practices when it convenes in April.

Mathews lost a similar fight in 1957 when he tried to put printing under the state's central purchasing system. He said he is renewing the battle because he wants to be sure all bidders on printing jobs "get a fair shake" and that there is no waste by various state agencies.

Contracts for state printing jobs now are awarded by individual state agencies.

Mathews' chief foe two years ago was Charles Rosenberg, president of Rose Printing Co. in Tallahassee, who also has owner interests in Publishers' Press of Miami and other firms. He was a registered lobbyist for the printing industry.

The comptroller's records show that state printing costs average two million dollars a year. Rosenberg said in 1958 his company got almost $700,000 of this state business.

Rosenberg, a director of the Printing Industry of Florida (a trade association), said the group probably will discuss its position on any change in laws relating to printing bids at its meeting Feb. 1 at Boca Raton.

But he asserted that in his opinion "we have tighter laws now relating to printing bids that we would have under the purchasing council."

He said individual state agencies now are required to invite three bids on a printing job costing as little as one dollar. But, he asserted, under the central purchasing system bids would be invited only on items costing more than $1,000 and have to be advertised for only on purchases costing more than $2,000.

Mathews said he did not know what specific legislation he would propose but felt that a procedure should be set up under central purchasing to regulate printing. The lawmaker said he was not bent on criticizing any one printing firm or state agency.

Mathews referred to a check which showed that letterheads for different state agencies on the same quality paper ranged from four dollars to $17 a thousand.

"I would like to know why all of the agencies can't use the same quality of paper for letter writing and buy it at the same price," the Jacksonville legislator said.

Rosenberg said the cost differential resulted because the rate fluctuates with the volume ordered and the specifications required by the individual agency.

He added that the proximity of his Tallahassee plant and "the fact we have the largest facilities of anybody in Florida," gave his firm an edge on some jobs. He pointed to the legislative printing in which his company turns out Senate and House journals and copies overnight after each daily session.

Two years ago Gov. LeRoy Collins called for a governmental reorganization which would have set up a department of purchasing commission but would exempt printing from its control.

The governor said over the years previous attempts to set up a broad central purchasing program had met defeat because they included printing.

Mathews amended the bill to include printing. Prominent among those lobbying for the amendment was Al Block, Rosenberg's brother-in-law and former partner, who left the firm when their partnership was dissolved in a bitter legal battle.

The amended bill passed the House 67 to 9 but when it got to the Senate it was soundly defeated.

Charles Ausley, close friend and former law partner of Gov. Collins, is attorney for Rose Printing Co. and is listed as a vice president of the firm.

Ausley said he had urged defeat of the Mathews amendment because he was afraid it would kill the governor's entire purchasing program.

Rosenberg laughed at a business magazine article listing him as one of the state's most influential men and crediting him with being the capital's champion party-giver.

"We probably give five or six parties each session but there are a lot of folks who give more parties than we do. They give them year-round," he said.

the country's economic bloodstream a shot in the arm.

"In other words," Zayas said, "the glorious bearded ones can now hang their rifles, shave and become 'fruitful administrators' and no longer be 'ferocious men,' in order to bring this battered people the abundance, tranquility and happiness it is entitled to."

There has been so far no editorial discussion of what the future policies of the government should be, other than calling on it to ease the freezing of bank deposits.

Havana's noted editorial sense of humor was functioning again, however: An editorial cartoon in El Mundo depicted a citizen rubbing his chin and saying: "Now that I come to think of it, I haven't seen Fidel in 24 hours."

Another cartoon in Diario de la Marina showed a citizen on the 'phone asking, "What spectacle are you showing today?"

Miami Train Is Derailed

NORTH EAST, Md. — (AP) — The New York to Miami train Silver Meteor was delayed by a minor derailment. No one was hurt.

A railroad spokesman said the front wheels of the 17-car train's observation car derailed and delayed trains on another track. It was the last car of the train.

The spokesman said trains should not be running more than 20 to 30 minutes late because of the derailment.

North East is in the northeastern corner of Maryland.

Rate Hike Urged on GI Loans

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The GI Home loan program was pictured Wednesday as "practically dead."

Carl T. Mitnick, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the 4¾ per cent interest rate on government - insured GI home mortgages is inadequate to attract investment funds.

Mitnick, a Merchantville, N.J., builder, told a Senate housing subcommittee that his association favors boosting the GI interest rate to 5¼ per cent — the same as the Federal Housing Administration rate.

He also proposed creation of a central mortgage reserve facility to stabilize housing credit, particularly on lower - cost homes.

The only alternative, Mitnick said, is for Congress to provide the Federal National Mortgage Association with a billion dollars in special assistance funds for purchase of home mortgages which cannot otherwise be marketed at current interest rates.

He said that even this alternative would provide only temporary relief because the problem will arise again when the special aid fund is exhausted and if GI interest rates remain below marketable levels.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R., N.Y.), observing that the GI mortgage plan was devised as a special benefit to veterans, asked Mitnick "how would we be favoring the veterans" if interest rates were put on a par with FHA loans.

Mitnick said there still would be advantages in a GI mortgage because of no down payment and no insurance premium payment. They are required with FHA.

Launching Looked Perfect

Huge Atlas Zips Off On Mystery Errand

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A huge Atlas ICBM has been blasted on a mysterious space flight over the Atlantic.

The 80-foot rocket performed as it never has before when it shot across the black sky Tuesday night after a beautiful launching.

The mission on this 19th Atlas test reportedly was another 4,000-mile trip, winding up beyond the island of Fernando de Norhona far off the Brazil coast in minutes.

The three mighty engines of the missile appeared to burn furiously for more than 6½ minutes, much longer than on previous flights. The rocket skipped behind some clouds and then seemed to hang in the sky like a small star.

At first there was speculation that the latest blastoff signaled another sensational shoot similar to last month's Atlas satellite, but there still was no definite report on the results of the test hours later.

On previous firings the bulky intercontinental - range missile burned no longer than 3½ minutes before starting its ballistic trajectory — even the "big A" that soared into a 35-day orbit around the globe Dec. 18.

Despite the unusual performance, the best bet still appeared to be a long-range attempt. The Air Force said only that the launching was another in the research and development series.

Castro Gets Beard Bid

PLANT CITY — (UPI) — The Junior Chamber of Commerce here Wednesday invited bearded Cuban Rebel Leader Fidel Castro to judge a beard-growing contest here March 7 in connection with the city's 75th anniversary.

Jaycee officials said they visited the Cuban consul in Tampa Wednesday morning and that Cuban officials there were "very encouraging" about the possibility of Castro accepting the invitation.

The beard-growing contest is being held as part of the Diamond Jubilee, which is scheduled in connection with the annual Plant City Strawberry Festival.

"We figure Castro would be a qualified judge," said Rush. "So we mailed him a letter this morning."

NEW YORK —(AP)— The New York Times and The New York Herald Tribune are doubling the newsstand price of their daily editions effective Feb. 2 on sales 50 miles from New York. The price will be increased from five to 10 cents. The price remains five cents within the metropolitan area.

The Times and the Herald Tribune already have been charging 10 cents for daily editions sold beyond 100 miles from New York City.

New York City's two other morning newspapers, the News and Mirror, plan no increases immediately in their daily edition sales outside the metropolitan area. The News and The Mirror daily editions sell for five cents.

did not know what he had been working for apparently had not been studying his messages to Congress for the past six years.

Eisenhower also denied allegations by some Republicans that he had been copying New Deal proposals. To another questioner, he said he always had tried to meet personally with as many Republicans, and Democrats, as possible.

On other major issues, the President said:

HE HOPED the new Cuban government of revolutionary Fidel Castro "will be truly representative of the Cuban people." He refused to discuss Castro himself.

HE WOULD NOT oppose a visit to Russia by an American official, but there were no present plans for Vice President Richard M. Nixon or anyone else to go there. He said Khrushchev could not come here as informally as Mikoyan did because Khrushchev was head of the Soviet government.

UNLESS INFLATION could be curbed by self-restraint, the people eventually would demand federal controls that would be contrary to the free enterprise system. If this happened, he said, it would be "a sad day."

East-West Religious Talk Asked

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Boston bishop Wednesday advocated a series of East-West church conferences in an effort to overcome differences "in a world motivated by half-truths and half-lies."

"Churchmen from Communist nations would come to the West and churchmen from the West would go to the Communist nations," said Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord.

Bishop Lord, president of the Methodist Board of Temperance, advanced his proposal in a talk at the opening session of the board's three-day annual meeting.

"We must create world community — this is the great task of our age," the Bishop said. He added:

"We live in a world that is motivated by half-truths and half-lies. There are two main sources of the darkness that engulfs us — the first is religious and the second is political.

"We are engulfed by a religion that is routine, sterile and often irrelevant to the issues of the day. Too often the gospel we preach answers questions that people have long since ceased to ask.

"Our faith should be creative, hopeful and powerful . . . A gospel that has little leadership to give in the great corporate problems of our nation and world is unfit for the battle."

Warmer Weather to Bring Showers or Wet Snow to Northeastern U.S.

Forecasts For Today

INDIAN RIVER AREA — Early morning fog followed by generally fair and warm through Friday. High Today 75 to 80, low tonight 58 to 64. Variable winds 5 to 12 miles per hour today and tonight.

INDIAN RIVER, NAPLES AND LAKE OKEECHOBEE AREAS—Early morning fog followed by generally fair and warm through Friday. High Thursday 75-80, low Thursday night 58-64. Variable winds 5-12 mph Thursday and Thursday night.

FORT LAUDERDALE, PALM BEACH AND KEYS AREAS —Mostly fair and warm through Friday. Early morning fog Thursday. High Thursday 77-82. Low Thursday night 65-70. Variable winds 5-12 mph Thursday and Thursday night.

MARINE — Jacksonville through the Florida Straits and East Gulf. Variable winds at five to 12 miles an hour. Fair weather, except foggy early today.

SMALL BOAT BULLETIN — Variable five to 12 mile an hour winds. Seas smooth to slight and inland waters smooth. Visibilities poor early today because of fog, otherwise mostly fair weather.

WESTERN CARIBBEAN — Easterly winds at 10 to 20 miles an hour. Widely scattered showers.

National Summary

Arctic air should carry snow into the Rockies and Plains as far south as Colorado and Nebraska and spread snow or a mixture of rain and snow on a line from New Mexico to Michigan Thursday.

Strong northerly winds are expected to cause blowing and drifting and in spite of partial clearing in the upper plains temperatures will remain near or a bit below zero in parts of Montana and North Dakota.

A warming trend will extend from the lower Plains into the mid Mississippi Valley but the advance of cold winds should trigger thunderstorms in Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley while rain or drizzle develops to the north from Illinois into Ohio by late in the day.

Increasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures will work into the East Thursday and showers or wet snow may reach as far as New York and Pennsylvania.

Otherwise precipitation in the East will be limited to a few flurries in northern New England through the next 24 hours and some rain or drizzle in parts of the Carolinas and Florida.

May Throw Wrench in Big Flood Control Project

2-County Feud Boils Over 3 Big Ditches

By STEVE TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer
(First of two articles)

STUART — Hottest sectional fight in Florida today involves Martin County here and neighboring St. Lucie County.

It is of far more than local interest, in that it involves a phase in the overall program for the 17-county Central and South Florida Flood Control District.

Stuart and Martin County don't like the plans of that agency for greatly deepening and widening three back country canals, all with control gates, and making an impounding area back of Fort Pierce. Here, they say, the plan will "ruin" them.

Fort Pierce likes the idea fine. They see in it a permanent solution for their longtime problem of too much water at times, too little water at other times.

Tempers flare on both sides. Bitter name calling goes on from both sides. Protest meetings are held.

If the injunctions and lawsuits now threatened are actually filed, it could be the first monkey wrench to be tossed into the gears since the flood control district came into being in 1948.

★ ★ ★

THERE HAVE BEEN minor squabbles before, but never a knock down, dragout one like this.

First canal listed for widening and deepening treatment is C-25, locally known as the Rim Ditch. Starting at State Rd. 68, west of Fort Pierce, it drops southward across St. Lucie County to enter the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

That stream joins the waters of the South Fork and the big St. Lucie Canal, leading from Lake Okeechobee, to make one massive river flowing through Stuart and out to sea.

Another canal due for widening and deepening treatment is C-23, which runs along the Martin-St. Lucie county line and also joins the North Fork, to pass through Stuart.

The third canal in the plan is C-25, known as the Belcher Canal. This runs from the northern and western extremity of the Rim Ditch, straight into Fort Pierce. Each of the enlarged three canals would have a discharge capacity of 5,000 cubic feet per second — which is a lot of water.

★ ★ ★

IT'S THIS TWO-FOR-STUART and one-for-Fort Pierce phase of the plan that has Stuart fit to be tied. The assurance of the engineers that this capacity would be approached only in critical flood times and that control structures would be used at all other times, appeases Stuart battle headquarters not at all.

Now, to understand why any community would become so aroused over an added fresh water flow, the clock of history must be pushed back to 1924, when that big canal from Okeechobee was being dug.

Original plan for that link of the cross state waterway was for an outlet at Sebastian, far north of here. But, in the hope of vast benefits from passing yachts and other water traffic, Stuart interests turned on the political pressure and got the outlet for their city. It cost around 6.3 million dollars.

Present day Stuart bitterly regrets that piece of civic enterprise. In the years since, and during high waters on Lake Okeechobee, as much as 8,000 cubic feet per second of fresh water has cascaded through the waterway, leaving millions of cubic yards of silt.

★ ★ ★

BAYS HAVE BEEN SILTED in until docks are on dry land. Even worse, from the viewpoint of most of Stuart, has been the effect of fishing in a community that calls itself "the sailfish capital of the world."

Fishing, and the people brought to Stuart by fishing, is a main prop—many say the one really substantial prop—in the economy of the area.

For 35 years the discharge from one canal has meant woe and trouble here, and they want no more of it.

In the current fight, Stuart is not allowed to forget they "asked for it" in the matter of this existing flow.

Present day Stuart considers this to be something of a foul punch. Why, they ask, should they be held accountable for the goofs of another generation?

★ ★ ★

AND WHY, THEY ASK, should they now be in a position to become the outlet for two great canals in a project where St. Lucie County, chief beneficiary of the three-canal deal, gets only one of the objectional outlets.

To which FCD engineers reply, in substance—

"Because flood control is an overall project which cannot be pinned down to county lines and city boundaries. We are merely following a long-standing plan, approved by the U.S. Army Engineers, by Congress, and for which money has been appropriated."

In a concluding article tomorrow we will attempt to go deeper into the pros and cons in this inter-county scrap, and present in more detail the views of standard bearers for both camps.

Feelings are so touchy here that we probably will do that under the Fort Pierce dateline, just to avoid an added charge of bias.

Missile Defense Is Ship's Mission

Vessel To Collect Hard Facts

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — A key part of the development of a defense against the now "invincible" ballistic missile is about to start here. The Herald learned Wednesday.

Reliable sources said the program will start as soon as a special missile-tracking ship sails from Port Canaveral for the South Atlantic.

The ship, the SS American Mariner, an Army craft, docked early Wednesday. Its departure time was not announced.

But sources said the ship will work on Project Damp — Downrange Anti-Missile Project.

Aboard the 420-foot ship are instruments capable of charting the final oceanward plunge of American ballistic missiles more accurately than ever before — a capability vital to scientists designing weapons to intercept the swift-moving, atom-tipped warbirds.

Information obtained by the ship will be fed into an Army program, aimed at development of the Nike-Zeus, which may be the world's first antiballistic missle missle.

Later phases of the program call for firing Nike-Zeus missiles — which carry atomic warheads — from downrange stations of the Atlantic Missile range. They will try to bring down swift-moving missiles fired from Cape Canaveral, sources said.

If development is successful, the Nike-Zeus could become America's most important defensive weapon of the missile age.

The Nike-Zeus is to be capable of overcoming the enormous speed — sometimes as high as 17,000 mph — which has made ballistic missiles immune from attack by defensive weapons.

No anti-ballistic-missile missiles have ever been developed, and the ballistic missile has been considered an "invincible" weapon since Nazi Germany started raining its silent V-2's on England during the closing days of World War II.

The Air Force said the ship would take station in the South Atlantic, 1,500 to 6,000 miles from here, where American missiles rain down after swift flights from Cape Canaveral.

The missile flights take only minutes.

STUART — William A. Oughterson, 33, son of Stuart attorney T. T. Oughterson was named Man of the Year for 1958 by the Stuart Jaycees Wednesday night.

Oughterson, a member of his father's law firm, Oughterson Scott and Oughterson is a graduate of the local high school, University of Miami and the University of Florida.

He received his law degree at the University of Florida in 1950, and has practiced law since 1951.

He was a member of Sigma Chi and the University of Florida tennis team. He is a juvenile councilor of the Martin County Juvenile court, a lieutenant commander of the naval reserve and commander of the local naval reserve unit.

Active in church and civic affairs, Oughterson is vice president of Kiwanis Club, chairman of the county TB drive, and a state director of the TB association.

He is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church, a member of the choir and the mens club and teaches a junior group in the Sunday School.

3-County Health Unit Approved By Martin Board

STUART—A new three-county health setup was approved by the Martin county Commission Tuesday.

Dr. Hubert King, assistant director of the Florida Board of Health, Jacksonville, told the commission that a shift in county groups necessitated the change.

Brevard county, which was formerly with Osceola now is a one county unit. A second county unit then was set up with Osceola and Indian River.

Indian River County was formerly one of four counties in this area. The others were Okeechobee, St. Lucie and Martin.

The new three-county health group includes Martin, St. Lucie and Okeechobee.

Dr. King said that Dr. Neil Miller would be able to spend an additional half day here as would A. Richards, the sanitarian.

Changes OKd

MELBOURNE — The Brevard County Zoning Board Wednesday approved zoning changes to permit two large house trailer communities in the Melbourne area.

Gaines Construction Co. of Miami, developer of Haven Green at nearby Micco, received approval to change a 13-acre section in its sprawling development from an agricultural classification to permit a trailer park.

The board also agreed on changing a large tract of land in South Melbourne Beach from multiple dwelling classification to allow development of a trailer subdivision.

Engineer Hired

STUART — Ben O. Bryant, 52, was hired as Martin county road construction engineer at a special meeting held by the county commissioners Tuesday night.

Four board members, with Commissioner Seymour Gideon absent, hired Bryant at a salary of $450 a month. His duties will start as soon as he can be released from the Greenlees and DeBerry Engineering firm of Stuart where he has been employed for the past two years as a surveyor.

Opinions Asked

VERO BEACH — The opinions of real estate developers, engineers and others interested have been asked by the Vero Beach City Council on the proposed subdivision ordinance.

It was decided by the councilmen Tuesday night to distribute copies of the 23-page ordinance to those most concerned.

The council voted Tuesday night to incorporate in the ordinanace a provision that no canals or excavations be made below mean sea level west of a line extending from the Merrill P. Barber Bridge over the Indian River to the north city limits.

At Eau Gallie Meeting Friday

South Brevard Cities Will Discuss Metro

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — Municipal, civic and business leaders of South Brevard County are planning initial action on exploring the possibility of consolidating all or portions of this vast area of many cities into a single metropolitan government.

At the citizen level, a dozen of the top civic and business leaders of Melbourne, Eau Gallie and Indialantic have scheduled their first meeting on governmental consolidation on Friday night at the home of Hal Gettings, Eau Gallie.

The city of Melbourne also is studying the consolidation idea, and could be a leader in any future action along this line.

Melbourne's chief executive, Mayor J. J. (Jeff) Spitznogle, was the first government official in South Brevard to publicly take a solid stand for governmental consolidation.

This proposition often has been kicked around in this area, but current plans reported by the various interests marks the first concrete move forward on at least giving consolidation some serious study.

Cocoa area leaders also have mulled over the idea in their area for a number of years.

A spokesman for the group meeting at the Gettings' home told The Herald Wednesday "We want to feel out the interest on setting up an organization, to take a close look at the advantages and disadvantages of a Metro government."

Following meetings are expected to dig deeper into the Metro idea and how it might be used in South Brevard, this spokesman said.

After Mayor Spitznogle told a joint Melbourne-Eau Gallie city commission meeting early this week "We should have area governmental consolidation, at any cost," Melbourne's planning and zoning board was charged with the responsibility of looking into the matter and preparing a plan on how to encourage such action.

Prior to this, a delegation of Melbourne officials met with representatives of the west Melbourne area to discuss consolidation.

The officials were Mayor Spitznogle, Commissioners E. W. (Bill) Buss, Carl Schmidt and James W. Rossetter, City Attorney Jackson Vaughn, and Karl Kahn, public relations chief.

City officials say that "much planning will go into this, and it will be tried only under a mutual benefit deal — without any forcing." This is the general feeling of all persons interested in pushing consolidation.

Several years ago Melbourne had a bitter experience when it tried to take in the West Melbourne section. Voters turned the proposition down.

Repairs Due Half Wharf

COCOA — Port Canaveral engineer Ted Jenson Wednesday said 200 feet of the 400-foot port wharf may have to be rebuilt because of damage which had caused it to start slipping into the harbor.

He told the Port Authority that temporary repairs started Monday have halted the dock's slide toward the harbor.

The authority told Jenson to go ahead with permanent repairs for the dock under unit cost contracts. Cost of the repairs hasn't been determined although Port Manager George King estimated they will cost "more than $50,000, possibly even $100,000."

Jenson told the port board that engineers have determined the damage was caused by a 1958 steamship collision with the fill-and-bulkhead wharf.

Silas Krueger Dies In Martin Hospital

FORT PIERCE — Mrs. Mildred Ruby Hardy, 66, a winter visitor from Rochester, N.Y. died Monday. Services will be in Rochester.

Dispute Sparked By Clock

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

STUART — A time clock sparked a dispute among members of the Martin County Commission Tuesday.

Board chairman Marvin H. Rowell proposed that the time clock be purchased and installed for road department employes.

Backing Rowell in his proposal was Commission member E. J. Arnold of Hobe Sound.

Rowell said that the county, which is in poor financial condition, was going in the "red" on its labor. He revealed that a total of $74,950 was budgeted for the department for 52 weeks of work.

"We've only got $47,167 to last for the next 30 weeks," said Rowell and we have to do something about it."

"The something" was first started by cutting the men's half days on Saturdays off, and establishing a five-day work week of eight hours a day.

The other three commissioners, Guy E. Boyd of Indiantown, Charles Leighton of Palm City and Seymour Gideon of Jensen Beach opposed Rowell and Arnold in the purchase of the time clock.

Boyd whipped out, "It's regrettable that you Rowell and Arnold are making a whipping boy out of the road department. You're classing the men as bums and stealing from the county, and they can't defend themselves."

Arnold answered with, "If Rowell and I want to do something good for the county, we can't. You three are against it."

Ole Almegord of Palm City asked the commission to do something about wild dog packs roaming in the area and destroying cattle. The matter was referred to William R. Scott, county attorney who is also state representative to see if a law could be drawn up requiring all dogs to be licensed.

The three Delray Beach residents who were accused of robbing Indian mounds on Hutchison Island, wrote Attorney Scott that bones and articles removed from the mound would be returned.

Melbourne Man Faces Charge of Assault

MELBOURNE — A coroner's jury Wednesday ruled that Carl H. Hill's III "death was due to natural causes, subsequent to assault and battery by William E. Washington."

Hill, 43, a Micco visitor, died during the early morning hours of Jan. 17 and his body was found beside the Flemming-Grant Road, at Micco.

Washington, a Melbourne resident, and Paul Withrow of Eau Gallie, told the jury that Hill had been with them on a drinking bout on Jan. 16.

"I was loaded and didn't know where we went . . . but me and Hill had a fist fight near Eau Gallie," Washington testified.

Withrow said Washington knocked Hill to the ground, and when he began kicking Hill, "I stepped in and stopped them."

Both men testified that Hill was alive when they dumped him out of their car at Micco. They said they though he had "passed out" from heavy drinking.

Washington was taken into custody following the jury's verdict by Sheriff James Dunn, who said he will be charged with assault and battery.

The maximum sentence on conviction of this charge is a $500 fine, six months in jail, or both.

Vero Beach Man to Give It Up

Florida Land Ads Discontinued

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — The disapproval of Secretary of State R. A. Gray of the type of mail-order state-owned-land-information business he conducts have caused a Vero Beach man to give it up.

Ralph W. Green, owner of several buildings and other property in Vero Beach, admitted through his attorney Wednesday that he has been operating the Florida Lands Service as a sideline.

Under that name he advertised in northern newspapers that information on state-owned lands in Florida would be sent upon receipt of $3.00 which was to be addressed to Box 575, Vero Beach.

It was reported Tuesday the State Cabinet had decided to look into the advertising practices of a Vero Beach woman, known as J. D. Hall, who was doing a mail-order business in state-owned land information with lists that could be obtained free from the State Capitol.

J. D. Hall was not found here, but the fact that the Florida Lands Service had been conducting the same sort of business from here was revealed and the investigation led to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Green on Ocean Dr., just south of Bouganvillea Lane.

Mrs. Green apparently was the only one there. She didn't know a J. D. Hall, she said, but volunteered that they also had information on state-owned lands. Mr. Green was the one to see about it though, and he wasn't there.

When telephoned Tuesday night Green refused to say if he had any connection with the Florida Lands Service. He preferred an interview in person.

Upon arriving at the Green apartment Wednesday we were sent to their attorney, John Gould, who was to speak for them.

Gould said he had just found out about it that morning, when Green decided, after reading the Wednesday Miami Herald, that he would give up his mail-order sideline.

Mrs. Donovan's Funeral Friday

COCOA — Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Wylie Funeral Home for Mrs. Marjorie Donovan, wife of Cocoa City Comptroller Roy Donovan. Mrs. Donovan, 48, of 414 Fiske Blvd., died Monday.

Mrs. Donovan, a native of Heywood, Ill., had lived in Cocoa for two years. In addition to her husband, survivors include: two daughters, Mrs. Richard Bright of Puerto Rico and Miss Syntia Donovan of Cocoa, a brother and two sisters.

Steiger, Claire Bloom Star in Enchanting Drama

'Rashomon' Weaves an Oriental Charm

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK — There is a fantastic, fairyland quality about "Rashomon," the Oriental bedevilment which opened this week at the Music Box Theater on Broadway. It has charm, enchantment and enticement. Each quality you must interpret yourself.

With a diamond embellishment of stars including Claire Bloom, Rod Steiger, Oscar Homolka, and Akim Tamiroff, this exciting production by Peter Glenville, surprisingly, begins to make sense as it moves further into the story by Fay and Michael Kanin.

You have to get into the mood of the drama, with accompanying bells and music, to understand it. Appreciate is probably a better word than understand, for the analysis of the play has to do with the emotional reactions of four people who are caught in rape and murder in a sacred place in Japan.

This was in Kyoto, Japan, about 1,000 years ago.

The story has to do with a ruthless bandit (played with ruthless vigor by Rod Steiger) who comes to rob a Japanese family. Instead, he chooses the gentle wife, as played with wistful tenderness by Claire Bloom, as his booty.

The dignified husband is tied up, and he is given several chances to cut his bonds and save his wife's honor. Each time his dignity will not permit him to do so. The wife is then free to choose her future love, and that is the bandit.

While this realistic tale is being spoken, sung and performed—there is a side scene in which a priest, a woodcutter, and a wigmaker are making commentaries about the problems of husband, wife and more attractive (to the wife) bandit.

"Rashomon" is a beautifully performed treasure land of theater, and Glenville has given it the suave touch in direction.

With the splendid players, this production in particular should be saluted for the settings of Oliver Messel, lighting by Jo Mielzeiner, and music by Laurence Rosenthal.

Although "Rashomon" is a play with music, there are no musical numbers from which you can sing a tune. But there are plenty sword duels which clash with thunder and bang.

Walkout Unlikely Till Mid-February

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — The 1,500 maintenance workers of this missile base appeared to be on the verge of voting to strike Wednesday, but union spokesmen said the men won't walk off their jobs until mid-February.

Ernest Mitchell, an international representative of the Transport Workers Union, said the Cape local strike vote is one of many the TWU is calling throughout the world.

The vote is directed against all divisions of Pan American World Airways including the guided missiles range division which runs Cape Canaveral and the 6,000-mile Atlantic missile range for the Air Force.

Mitchell said a union negotiating committee recommended a strike last Friday when it broke off contract negotiations with the airline. The committee had the power to call a strike, but decided to turn PAA's "last offer" over to the membership instead, he said.

The local strike votes aren't due at TWU headquarters until Feb. 18. The TWU represents about 8,000 PAA ground crewmen and flight service employes.

Mitchell said there was little doubt the Cape local would vote to strike during a Wednesday night meeting because the negotiating committee is dissatisfied with PAA's "last offer" and has urged all members to vote for a strike.

The 3,000 TWU members who work for PAA in Miami will vote Thursday night. Employes at most PAA installations will also vote Thursday.

PAA's "last offer" features a 25-cent-per-hour raise for mechanics in the next two years.

PAA Vice President Franklin Gladhill said Tuesday that the offer would make PAA wages higher than those paid by most airlines.

Mitchell said the union doesn't believe the offer will push its members' wages above those paid by other airlines.

State Maps Plans To Hold Professors

TALLAHASSEE — (P) — State Budget Director Harry G. Smith and Comptroller Ray E. Green found themselves 10 million dollars apart Wednesday in revenue estimates for the next two years.

The state's two top fiscal officers disagreed on the need for a treasury reserve.

Smith estimated that existing tax sources will produce $726,500,000 during the biennium beginning July 1. Two months ago Green came up with a preliminary figure of 716 million dollars.

Smith, meanwhile, disclosed that a new system of budget building has been developed for the state universities which will help in retaining top professors.

Smith said the system was worked out at conferences between his office and the Board of Control. It is designed to aid the universities in meeting the competition for quality instructors among the nation's big universities.

Under the system, Smith said, instead of providing a rigid salary structure in the budget, in which each member of the instructional staff is pegged to a specified salary, each university and the budget director's office reach a total salary figure based on such factors as teacher-student ratio.

The Board of Control is left the discretion of allocating the total salary figure among the individual instructors.

There would be no way under the old system for the board to retain the instructor if he received an offer of $11,000 from another university.

But under the new system, the board would have the discretion of meeting the $11,000 salary if it felt loss of the professor's services would hamper the university's instructional program.

Smith said that while some people have painted his revenue estimates as "highly optimistic" he regarded them as sound based on favorable economic trends.

He said that increasing state population, rising incomes, continuing industrialization and growth of urbanized areas all contribute their share to the strong upward trend for the Florida economy.

Smith's estimate comes to 145 million dollars more than estimated revenue for the current two-year period.

Green told the cabinet he hoped it would adopt a budget within his 716 million dollar estimate.

"It will be better to wind up with a 10 million dollar surplus than to fall 10 or 20 million dollars short," he said.

The Comptroller said that unless the legislature provides a reserve of unappropriated money from the anticipated revenues "we will be in trouble. We cannot operate on current collections."

Jury to Get King Case Late Today

BARTOW —(P)— Judge Roy Amidon set closing arguments for today in Harry E. King's perjury retrial, after denying a plea for a directed verdict in the widely-publicized $10,000 payoff case. Testimony was completed Wednesday.

King, former State Senator from Winter Haven, went on trial Jan. 20 for the second time on charges of procuring two former deputy sheriffs to lie to a grand jury investigating a payoff by King to an opponent in a 1956 State Senate race.

Defense Attorney Chester Bedell of Jacksonville moved for a directed verdict. Amidon heard the motion, after sending the jury from the room. He denied the motion after Bedell completed his plea.

The trial, which dragged to almost a standstill Tuesday, quickened in tempo at the opening of the eighth day.

Special Prosecutor Charles H. Nugent Jr., of West Palm Beach called a Circuit Court reporter to the stand for the fourth time.

The state rested after completion of Kelley's testimony. Then the defense rested without calling any witnesses, as it had done in the first trial 32 months ago.

The judge reserved the afternoon session for technical arguments by the defense on points Bedell wants included in Amidon's charges to the jury.

Cocoa Offers College Site

COCOA —City councilmen have offered 40 acres of city land as a site for the Brevard County Junior College.

The decision came Tuesday night after the council received a 700-voter petition which urged it to offer the site and heard from the Brevard County Junior College Committee.

Earlier councilmen had said they were reluctant to give away the city-owned property unless Cocoa's citizens wanted it donated as a college site.

The land is part of a 131-acre tract on Clear Lake which had been set aside as a wilderness park.

Florida's Education Department has authorized a junior college for Brevard, but no site has been approved for one. Cocoa and Eau Gallie are competing for the college.

Distributor Wins Award

PALMETTO — Anthony T. Rossi, of Bradenton, president of Tropicana Products, Inc., orange juice distributors, received a county citizenship award Wednesday for "quiet ceaseless philanthropy, outstanding participation in church and civic work and interest in promoting the entire county."

JACK ANDERSON—On TV

Alphabet Conspiracy Third Science Click

THE LATEST EDITION of the phone system's science series Monday night on NBC (Ch. 7) departed for the first time from an explanation of the elements to look into the nature and development of human speech.

It would have behooved the producers to have departed for this subject from the cuteness of technique they used to lead the layman through the complexities of the sun and blood in earlier programs of the series.

ANDERSON

I don't think the science of linguistics is so all-fired difficult that it needed a kindergarten treatment. A straight - forward inquiry, without the fantasy, would have made things quite clear to all of us.

For this subject, the producers enlisted a few of the "Alice in Wonderland" cast of characters—a little girl, supposedly Alice but called Judy, the Mad Hatter and the Jabberwock, the latter for their reputations as masters of the double-talk.

The Hatter and the Jabberwock served as the doubting Thomases, scoffing at the science of linguistics and challenging Dr. Frank Baxter as "Dr. Linguistics" to prove its worth. It was the contention of the Hatter and Jabberwock that the alphabet and all language are worthless.

* * *

LITTLE JUDY, apparently, was intended to represent us. I found it a little embarrassing trying to identify us with a tot only four feet high, with a cascade of hair and a pinafore.

In spite of all this fanciful nonsense, the program was an interesting and absorbing survey of a many faceted subject.

Every form of language was explored, from the grammarless cluckings of primitive people to the elaborately evolved speech of the civilized.

* * *

DR. BAXTER was right at home in his role for "The Alphabet Conspiracy." This is the first time the series has approached his area of interest in private life as an English and Shakespearean scholar.

The phone system has been very cunning with its series. The "Our Mr. Sun" and the cosmic rays episodes delved into the physics of its electronics.

In "Hemo the Magnificent," the nature and function of human blood was explored. The purpose here, apparently, was to explain the rising blood pressure of a phone subscriber when he gets his monthly bill.

"The Alphabet Conspiracy" could be an oblique approach to the horrors of the four-party line.

The role of Judy in Monday night's scientific confection was played sweetly by Cheryl Callaway. Hans Conreid was the Mad Hatter and although his face was obscured throughout the hour under his hat, Jack Haley was the Jabberwock.

ZIVA

CBS has signed a high wattage cast for the Playhouse 90 two-part production March 12 and 19 of Earnest Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls" — Maria Schell, Jason Robards Jr. and Maureen Stapleton . . . Ziva Rodann has been inked by MGM for a featured role in Mickey Rooney's "The Big Operator." . . . Edmund Lowe joins the cast making Paramount's "Heller With a Gun." . . . June Lockhart is being sought for two Steel Hour TV shows following completion of shooting of her "Lassie" series . . . 20th Century Fox has picked up Pat Boone's option and will pay him $250,000 to star in a picture to be made next year.

SPEAKING OF CONREID. He's starring in a new Broadway comedy, "Tall Story," which opens next Thursday in New York. Jack Paar with whom I chatted the other day told he was flying back to New York from Cuba in hope of making the opening.

Conreid has been one of the steadies on the Paar show. Those owl stints have done more than anything else to help lift this able actor out of the spear-carrying ranks of his profession.

Paar is still muttering threats to leave the highly successful NBC show unless his demand for shorter hours and fewer shows is met when his contract expires July 31.

There are three sponsors waiting in the wings, he said, to bankroll a weekly hour-long program that would boost his present salary of $3,800 to $10,000 a week, with a corporate setup to cut down the income tax erosion.

I asked Paar which of the people who substitute for him during his periodic vacations he felt handled the assignment most proficiently. His choice was Betty White although he thinks highly of Jonathan Winters, too.

By the way, he settled the matter of the Italian golf pro who drops in on his show now and then. The guy is not Italian, as is pretty well known now. He's Pat Harrington Jr., son of the famed comedian, and he's a salesman for Dumont.

Paar, his wife, Miriam, and columnist Jim Bishop are in Cuba, shooting some human interest film for use on the show. The Paars left daughter, Randy, home and he said they were regretting every minute of it.

Goren on Bridge

Contract Actually a Cinch

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

Opening lead: Jack of clubs.

You would probably not expect to encounter the phenomenon of an optical illusion at the bridge table, but it does sometimes occur there, and todays' hand is offered as an illustration.

South's final bid is somewhat on the aggressive side, in view of his previously having made a jump shift and a feature bid in diamonds. North's two diamond bid was made as a temporary device and when it elicited a jump in hearts from South there could be no question about the small slam, inasmuch as North held better than an opening bid himself. The four club bid was routine and when South followed up with the four diamond bid I think North could be excused for going the whole way himself if he chose to do so.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	6 ♥	Pass
7 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

The opening lead was the jack of clubs and the ace was, of course, played from dummy. Declarer immediately drew the trumps and then proceeded with the spades in the hope that that suit would break, so that dummy would obtain two diamond discards. When this failed to materialize a spade had to be ruffed in the North hand and then everything rested with the diamond finesse. When this failed declarer was sunk.

The contract was more or less a cinch and I am sure declarer would have made the hand if he had been sitting in the North seat, and South's hand had been the dummy.

After winning the opening lead declarer should cash the ace and king of trumps to see if there were four in one hand. When this comes off pleasantly, a club should be ruffed in the South hand. North should be entered with the king of spades and the last club ruffed. The ace of spades is then cashed and a low spade ruffed safely with the eight of hearts in the North hand. The last trump is drawn and South discards the two of diamonds. Spades and diamonds take the rest of the tricks. A slight case of dummy reversal.

Postal Revenue Jumps in '58

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Post Office revenues rose 18 per cent over 1957, but only part of the increase resulted from normal growth of mail volume, officials said.

The biggest factor is said to be the one-cent an ounce increase in first class, air mail and postcard rates that went into effect last Aug. 1.

Rates on second class mail rose Jan. 1, and are due to rise again on that date in 1960 and 1961.

Details, Previews of Tonight's TV

7 p.m.

2 — TODAY'S GOVERNMENT — Powers of the President of the United States.

4 — LONE RANGER — Two gold lockets are instrumental in saving a boy from a life of crime.

7 — HUCK HOUND — Huck has a trying experience with the neighbor's dog while trying to barbecue a steak.

10 — TV READER'S DIGEST — True story of a tennis player's life-long battle against diabetes.

4 — WHIRLYBIRDS — Chuck's former high school teacher hires him and P.T. for her first helicopter ride.

7 — COLONEL FLACK — Flack defends the democratic process by backing Gravey for councilman in a Midwestern town.

10 — LEAVE IT TO BEAVER — The Freres Beaver get inspired by a copy of "Tom Sawyer" tonight. And they try to get the garage painted using the same dodge Tom used in white washing his fence. Naturally, there are complications and it makes a delightful half-hour of kid stuff.

8

4 — MACKENZIE'S RAIDERS — When a belligerent rancher opposes an Indian re-settlement experiment, Mackenzie sets a trap to bring him to justice.

7 — STEVE CANYON — An innocent - appearing wood carving propels Steve and a nurse Elena Verdugo into danger at the hands of narcotics smugglers.

10 — ZORRO — Don Diego is alarmed when Tornado, a jet black horse he rides as Zorro, vanishes from his secret stable.

8:30

2 — BRITISH STORY — "Impression of London."

4 — DERRINGER — A Russian duke with an eye for women and a taste for vodka goes on the rampage.

7 — IT COULD BE YOU — film.

10 — REAL MCCOYS — Grandpa's ego is deflated when he discovers that Luke and not he is the McCoy chosen for lodge honors.

2 — MONTAGE — Tonight's program will present three aspects of the musical world, classical and folk music and progressive jazz.

4 — ZANE GREY — It's Cameron Mitchell's turn to play cowboy and he's drawn a better story than most of the guest Westerners. He's a cowhand who finds a lost kid on the trail, and you take it from there. He smokes cigars — which he hates — and that may account for his grim expression throughout.

7 — BEHIND CLOSED DOORS — We're back with the undeclared war tonight as a U.S. agent slithers into Russia to destroy a secret code machine. If you can forget the whole jingoistic premise of the plot, it makes good cloak-and-grenade viewing. According to this, too, there's quite an active anti-Soviet underground within Russia.

Dennis Cross and Cameron Mitchell
. . . appear on Ch. 4 at 9

10 — PAT BOONE — Pat opens up his show to the four Crosby brothers tonight, which means plenty of music and Binglike dialogue. They'll all participate in a medley of old-time tunes and will be part of the lighthearted chatter that separates the songs, chatter mostly about girls.

9:30

2 — NEW DIMENSIONS — "Advanced Study in a New Era." Part II.

4 — PLAYHOUSE 90 — Reginald Rose's original for tonight is called "A Quiet Game of Cards" and it could easily be one of the best original teleplays of the season. It is certainly one of the most unusual — so unusual, in fact, that it would spoil your enjoyment to tell you the plot. It begins with five wealthy and influential citizens meeting for their weekly poker game. They realize that, after almost 25 years of this game, they are bored. While the play starts slowly, it gradually generates tremendous excitement and winds up in a blaze of suspense. The five are played by Barry Sullivan, Franchot Tone, Gary Merrill, E. G. Marshall and William Bendix.

Best Bet

7 — ERNIE FORD — Ernie and his guest, comedian Andy Devine, will recall the days when they played county fairs. Color.

10 — ROUGH RIDERS — When the riders stumble into an outlaw hideout they are drawn into a struggle between law abiding citizens and outlaws.

10

7 — GROUCHO MARX — film.

10 — MAN WITHOUT A GUN — MacLean battles with a gunman who has impressed some of the young boys of Yellowstone.

10:30

7 — MASQUERADE PARTY — One of tonight's characters is a person who shares the same name and was born in the same state as a president of the U.S. Color.

11:10

10 — MOVIE — "Fabulous Texan," (1947), William Elliott, John Carroll. Story of Texas under carpet-bagger rule and a good man who turns bandit to fight it out with the controlled police.

11:20

7 — MOVIE — Felicia Sanders, Jim Moran, Peggy Cass, guitarist Rey de La Torre and writer Boris Morris are guests.

11:25

Misleading Land Ads Under Fire

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — The Cabinet will ask the State Real Estate Commission to use its broad powers to reduce misleading advertising of land sales in Florida.

The Cabinet will also push for an investigation of school bus overloading.

Secretary of State R. A. Gray told Cabinet members Tuesday he received letters from several persons questioning whether a series of newspaper advertisements offering lands for sale were true.

Gray said he found the ads were "adroitly worded" to mislead prospective buyers into believing the state was in the sale. He added that the ads "do not convey a good impression of Florida."

Land Agent Van Ferguson said the ads, which appeared in northern, midwestern and Florida papers, offered Florida lands for $3, many of which cannot be sold.

BAKE-OFF

$25,000 WINNER

First Grand Prize,

Mrs. Don DeVault, Delaware, Ohio

SPICY APPLE TWISTS

2 large apples, pared and cored, each sliced into 8 wedges
1½ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 tsp. Morton Salt
⅔ cup shortening
4 to 5 tbsp. cold water
⅓ cup melted butter
⅔ cup sugar
1 to 1½ tsp. French's Cinnamon
½ cup water

Prepare apples. Sift flour with salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Sprinkle cold water over mixture stirring with fork until dough is just moist enough to hold together. Form into ball. Flatten to about ½-in. thickness; smooth edges.

Roll out on floured surface to 16x10-in. rectangle. Cut into sixteen 10x1-in. strips. Wrap one strip around each apple wedge. Arrange in 13x9x2-in. pan. Brush with butter; sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Pour ½ cup water over pastries. Bake in hot oven (450°) 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. Serve warm or cold, plain or with whipped cream. Makes 16.

This 12-page recipe "Printacular" includes the $25,000 Grand Prize Winner Spicy Apple Twists the most delicious dessert idea since apple pie!

Three Floral Arrangements by an Expert

GOLDEN HIBISCUS and palm fronds make up this simple, graceful flower arrangement created by Mrs. Julia Berrall. Mrs. Berrall, a nationally recognized flower arranger from New Jersey gave a demonstration of arrangements in Fairchild Tropical Garden. She inserted the hibiscus blossoms in gladioli stems to make the blooms long enough.

BIRD-OF-PARADISE, or Strelitzia, is the center of attention in this arrangement made by Mrs. Berrall, during the program which was sponsored by the Coral Gables Garden Club. The bloom had a delicate greenish-yellow hue. Mrs. Berrall created the arrangement for the more than 500 Miami women who attended the lecture.

BRIGHT RED FRUIT of the lipstick tree is the color highlight of this arrangement. The fruit has a fuzzy surface. At the lower right is Sterculia fruit, also red. Greenery is the glossy leaves of the sapodilla. Mrs. Berrall also made this arrangement at the Fairchild Garden program.

Dior's Spring Style Secrets Are Out

PARIS — (UPI) — Yves St.-Laurent, boy wonder designer for the house of Dior, revealed Wednesday a back-to-nature spring line with bosom, waist and hips where they belong.

St.-Laurent, 22, who succeeded the late Christian Dior as the world's most influential dress designer, broke tradition in an exclusive interview with United Press International to tell how he plans to make women feminine again in their fashions.

Paris designers normally keep their collections tightly-held secrets until the actual showings. But with less than 24 hours to go, shy St.-Laurent was talkative about his.

"The bust will be in its place again," he said, "and for the first time in years woman will be simple, supple and natural. But at the same time she will have all the refinements that fashion can provide to make her elegant.

"She will be long in line, with none of the previous architectural construction surrounding her."

Thus St.-Laurent, along with most other Paris designers this year, proclaimed as passe both last year's high-waisted facade and the figure-concealing sack of yesteryear.

Then the soberly dressed young designer, blushing behind his tortoise shell glasses, said "women finally will be liberated."

All dresses will show waistlines, but not all will have belts. Shoulders will be rounded. Skirts will be "natural" in style, their length varying with the type of dress.

St.-Laurent looked serious and tired but less tense than a year ago when for the first time he replaced Dior. Then, he was an unknown quantity.

Now, the press, buyers and women around the world wait breathlessly for a glimpse of the new line emerging from the gray and gold Dior mansion off the Champs-Elysees.

LaRoche's Line Is 'Best So Far'

PARIS —(P)— Don't throw that empire waistline into the wastebasket yet.

In one of the best collections of the Paris spring-summer showings thus far, Guy LaRoche developed a natural evolution which usually fits and belts the waist at its normal place, but lets boleros and blouses dip up in front.

Two new bright ideas are bolero blouses, worn with built-up skirts, and short-sleeved coats over dresses and suits with elbow-length sleeves.

LaRoche skirts cover the knee, but only by a hair's breadth. Only the extremists who fell for kneecap decolletage need get busy with a needle to let their hems down.

This fresh, good-looking spring collection is sure to enhance the growing reputation of young LaRoche. It has all the earmarks of the good designer who can salvage the best of last season's style while going on to new things, instead of scuttling the lot to jump on the latest fad wagon.

Lodge Elects New Officers

Oscar Laurene, 259 SW 2nd St., is the new chairman of Miami Lodge 554, Vasa Order of America. The lodge, for men and women of Swedish descent, meets at 3802 NE 2nd Ave. Miss Joyce Ludlam is the secretary.

Clubs OK Traffic Safety Plan

By MARCIE FEINGOLD

The Dade Federation of Women's Clubs voted Wednesday to support the county Citizen's Safety Council's proposed highway safety program.

A resolution urging adoption of the program was approved at the group's quarterly meeting in the Miami Woman's Club.

The basic safety plan, necessitated by the vast growth in Dade's population and the increase of vehicular traffic, includes:

HIGHER fees for licenses.

INCREASE in minimum age limit for drivers licenses

EXTENSION of licensing period from one to three years

INCREASE in number of Florida Highway Patrolmen

NEW LAWS to make drunkometer test records admissable in court.

"You are as old as you eat; and as young as you think," Mrs. C. M. Washburn, past president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, told the delegates. She is gerontology chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Diet, stressed Mrs. Washburn, is one of the most important things necessary to keeping young.

"Men begin to grow old when they look at the menu before the waitress," she quipped.

"Everyday 1,000 older people are added to the 14 million citizens over 65 in the United States. People must be taught how to live after they become old. After all most of us spend one-third of our life old."

"You must keep pretty, if you can—witty, if you must—and pleasant—if it kills you," joshed Mrs. Washburn.

Herrell Assures PTA: 'I'll Uphold School System'

State Representative W. C. (Cliff) Herrell assured the Dade County Council of Parent Teacher Associations Wednesday that though "some extremely radical" legislation will probably be introduced on integration, he would "uphold the public school system."

"I will try to preserve segregated schools, peace and tranquility," he added, "short of jeopardizing the education of any child."

Rep. Herrell discussed upcoming legislation at a meeting of the PTA council in Ponce de Leon Junior High School.

Speaking as the chairman of the appropriations committee, he said there is enough state money "even under the present tax structure" to give schools and universities "what they need, but not enough for frills."

To help finance state welfare payments, which he pointed out are lower than the national average, Mr. Herrell said he plans to introduce the Recovery Act bill "which will probably be extremely unpopular."

Two new PTAs — Riviera Junior High and Thomas Jefferson Junior High — were welcomed into the council by Mrs. Henry C. Fox, council president. This brings the total of PTAs in Dade County to 127.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

House and Garden Tour to Call at Four Show Places

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

THE PALM BEACHES — As January draws to a close, some of us are just getting accustomed to writing it 1959. It's now the season of hearts and flowers and paper lace valentines. There are also valentines to send to all your friends, family, relatives inlaws and outlaws.

MRS. SMITH

And speaking of flowers, they will be fragrantly featured in the House and Garden tour Saturday, Feb. 7, sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of Bethesda Church in Palm Beach.

Four Palm Beach show places will be open on this date: "Allegro," home of the Louis E. Marrons, 960 S. Ocean Blvd., "Inside Out," home of Mrs. Antoinette Johnson, 1507 N. Ocean Way; the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Chapman, 271 El Vedado; and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Horton, 255 Via Bellaria.

Formerly the Alfred P. Sloan residence, "Allegro," reflects throughout its luxurious interior the extensive travels of the Marrons. The entire house is papered in silk and various combinations. Japanese silk wall paper in lime yellow, brocaded in velvet is seen in the foyer and living room.

In the dining room a handsome chandelier of waterford glass from the palace of a Maharaja will intrigue visitors while in the library the Chinese motif prevails. The game room salutes Haiti, with vivid colors contrasting with the white marble floor.

The modern living room is softly carpeted in off-white. Bedrooms are in French provincial. The pool house highlights Haiti.

Mrs. Marron, whose "fish safaris" are famous, is a writer, sculptor, and painter. The Marrons acquired the former Sloan estate last spring.

"Inside Outside" aptly describes Mrs. Antoinette Johnson's home, designed for modern year around Florida living. Blending beautifully with the landscape, it features an oriental decor.

Tea will be served from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Chapman house, where outdoor interest will center about the pool. This is one of the original Mizner houses. The F. N. Horton garden is one of the prides of Palm Beach, so symmetrically planned and planted that its beauty is breathtaking.

For those who'd rather not drive their own cars, or for strangers in town minus cars, buses will leave Bethesda Church at 2, 2:30 and 3 p.m. Tour tickets are available at the church.

Rain Couldn't Keep Them Away

IT WAS A COLD AND RAINY NIGHT. The Palm Beach Historical Association was meeting in the Bethesda Church Parish Hall. The Henry Burkhardts — Henry's father was a pioneer merchant — called me to say they'd be by to take me to the meeting. So I said if tney were crazy enough to drive that far out of their way, I'd be crazy enough to go.

We thought perhaps we should swell the crowd. But we needn't have worried. We might have been crazy but so were several hundred others.

Speaker was Banker Charles L. Pierce of Pierce of Fort Lauderdale, whose grandfather came to Hypoluxo 87 years ago and whose father was one of the famous "barefoot mailmen."

He told many pioneer stories taken from memoirs left by his late father.

His father, the late Charles W. Pierce, and the late Andrew W. Garnett had gone bond for the unfortunate man Hamilton, who lost his life on the lonesome trip between Hypoluxo and Miami. So when Hamilton was either drowned, or, as generally thought, devoured by alligators, the two men took over, alternating the trip.

No one knew exactly when Hamilton was lost. His body was never recovered, and in this connection Mr. Pierce told a story that he had heard from his father many times. "And my father was a very truthful man."

Walking the sandy beach, he stopped for the night at the House of Refuge in Fort Lauderdale. The keeper was away. It was early in the afternoon but the clock on the mantel said 7:30. Consulting his own watch, Pierce adjusted the clock, and then took a nap. When he woke up the clock again said it was "7:30." So once again he turned the hands of the clock to the right time, and went about preparing his supper.

When he was through eating, that clock once again pointed to 7:30. He turned the clock hands again and washed his supper dishes. Same thing happened.

Then he sat down and watched the clock. It ticked away merrily and normally, but when Pierce turned his back on it, it once again registered 7:30. Then he realized what it meant. The lost mailman was trying to tell just what time it was that the tragedy befell.

Mrs. Dunkle Identifies Pioneers

AFTER THE TALK, coffee and cakes were served in the guild room. Mrs. Kohl was hostess at the refreshment hour. Mrs. Charles B. Watkins and Mrs. Marshall B. Wood poured tea and coffee.

Many of those attending were descendants of pioneers. Judge James L. Knott, association president, had pinned copies of several old pictures on the walls, asking that they be identified, if possible. Mrs. D. F. Dunkle, daughter of prominent pioneer E. M. Brelsford, gave the who's who on many.

Sons of the Mr. Garnett who alternated with Pierce on the mailman "run" are Roy Garnett of Lake Worth and Irl Garnett of Hypoluxo.

Holding court during the social hour and examining the pictures, relics, and documents, was novelist Ted Pratt, who fictionized the story of the Barefoot Mailman. Ted says another novel is due Feb. 4.

On display was a chair used by the actor Joe Jefferson. It's a convertible piece of furniture, its back folding down over metal arms to form a table. The Burkhardts also brought a handsome steel engraving of Jefferson. The actor lived here for a number of winters. He gave West Palm Beach its first light plant and built a number of houses and a hotel in the city.

Interest in the Historical Association has greatly increased since Judge Knott took over the presidency. A permanent place for the relics will soon be announced.

No-Mixing Pressed In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. asked the Legislature Wednesday for a state tuition grants program to permit Virginia parents to choose immediately between private schools or sending their children to racially-mixed classrooms.

And underlying Almond's address to a special session of the General Assembly were indications that Virginia may later attempt a private schools program rather than accept racial integration. But he saw no way to stave off re-opening of schools with mixed classrooms next week.

Almond told the lawmakers that public schools in Virginia may have to be abandoned because of the integration crisis.

For the present, however, he asked only for tuition grants and repeal of compulsory school attendance laws. Federal courts have ordered integration in schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville, Arlington and Front Royal, and Virginia's earlier "massive resistance" laws, which closed some schools, have been struck down.

Almond laid a brief emergency plan before the legislators, then gave broad hints that a drastic overhaul leading to a system of private schools might be the state's long-range answer to integration orders.

Almond emphasized that Virginia has not given up its fight to maintain segregation.

"She has not surrendered and she does not surrender now," he told the hastily-summoned special session. This vow drew the biggest ovation from the lawmakers.

The governor's basic plea was for an immediate system of tuition grants for the students who do not wish them to attend integrated schools.

Mackle Acquires 10,000-Acre Tract

More State News 23A, 1B, 7B, 2D

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — The big real estate secret is out.

Although company officials still refuse to officially confirm or deny it — The Herald has learned that the Mackle Co. has acquired control of at least 10,000 more acres in St. Lucie County to add to their Port St. Lucie development.

It is reliably estimated that Port St. Lucie, five miles south of Fort Pierce, has grown from the 9,000 acres acquired last year from the Cowles Publishing Co. interests to a point where it now comprises at least 40,000 acres.

The tip-off and confirmation of the Mackle's latest, and in many ways most important, acquisition has come from an advance copy of a national magazine advertisement scheduled for publication Feb. 21.

It reveals that Port St. Lucie now extends from the Indian River to the Sunshine State Turnpike and beyond, and that the development has 7½ miles frontage on U.S. 1.

This is the first inkling of the real size of Port St. Lucie and the first time their property has been shown to reach the Indian River.

The ad also shows Port St. Lucie to have 14 miles frontage on the toll turnpike and eight miles along the St. Lucie River.

This means that the Mackles and the General Development Co.'s Port St. Lucie development now measures 11 miles across at the widest point and on the west side of the St. Lucie River extends nine miles southward to the Martin County line — to a point only a few miles from Stuart.

There is good reason to believe that this latest acquisition of 10,000 acres — providing access to the Indian River and extending U.S. 1 frontage from a half mile to seven and a half miles—also puts the Mackles into Martin County for the first time.

No deeds have yet been filed on the vast new additions to Port St. Lucie — but several local Mackle officials, when confronted with the information that there was only one 10,000 acre tract (held by Palm Beach interests) that could give them seven and one-half miles on U.S. 1, said: "OK you're on the right track — just put two and two together." In this case two and two add up to more acreage than any other land owner holds in St. Lucie county.

Ike Going To Mexico

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday accepted an invitation from Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos to visit him in Acapulco Feb. 19-20.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles relayed word of the President's acceptance to Antonio Carrillo Flores, the new Mexican ambassador to Washington.

Dulles emphasized that the visit between the two presidents at the famous Mexican beach resort would be informal.

This will preclude the ceremonies which would be involved in a state visit to the Mexican capital, Mexico City.

Tried to Get Him Insurance, Witness Says

Hoffa Pal Aided Dio, Probers Told

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Chicago insurance man who handled Teamster Union policies tried unsuccessfully to buy life insurance for Gangster Johnny Dio, a Senate investigator testified Wednesday.

The testimony was given by John P. Findlay as the Senate Rackets Committee dug into activities of Allen Dorfman, friend of Teamster Boss James R. Hoffa.

Findlay said Dorfman even paid the first premium—$681—in an attempt to persuade Union Casualty Life to issue the policy on Dio.

But, Findlay said, the company refused the policy on grounds that Dio was a bad credit risk.

He testified that Dorfman gave the insurance company a high recommendation for Dio although Dio's check to Dorfman for the life insurance premium had bounced three times.

Findlay said another man with a criminal record got life insurance through Dorfman but never made any premium payments. The man was identified as Gus Zapes. Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Zapes had served time in the Indiana Penitentiary, had a record of 45 arrests, and was hired as an organizer for the Indiana Teamsters.

Findlay also testified that Dorfman paid premiums for Hoffa and other Teamster officials on occasion — in violation of an Illinois insurance regulation against payment of premiums for clients without charging interest. He said Hoffa and the others were expected to repay about $3,600 paid as premiums by Dorfman.

The committee was told earlier by Findlay that Dorfman deposited in his own bank account $51,461.66 of union welfare fund insurance premiums.

Findlay said that not until after the committee began an investigation did Dorfman forward the money to the insurance company for which the premiums were intended.

He said that under Illinois law Dorfman was required to turn over the premium payments within 90 days.

But, he said, instead of making the payments to the Mt. Vernon Insurance Co., Dorfman used the money to meet expenses of his business enterprises.

Findlay continued that on March 11, 1957, Dorfman wrote a check to the insurance company for $39,155.35 of the premiums.

He said another check for $12,155.31 was drawn to the company by Dorfman June 12, 1957, but that Dorfman endorsed it with a rubber stamp, then signed his own name and deposited it in his insurance agency account.

"In other words, this money had been misappropriated from the insurance company?" Chairman John McClellan (D., Ark.) asked. Findlay agreed.

The money involved, Findlay said, was paid by members of Local 1031 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for welfare and pension insurance they elected to keep in effect during periods of layoff or temporary leave from their jobs.

Under that action by the workers, he said, they paid the portion of the premiums that would have been paid by employers.

Fidel Reported Ordering New Trial for Sosa

By ROBERT GRUENBERG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

HAVANA—Fidel Castro was reported Wednesday to have ordered a completely new trial for Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who was sentenced to death last week.

An aide close to the rebel leader said Castro wants the retrial because the atmosphere created by radio-television coverage of Sosa's trial "did not constitute a full measure of justice."

Sosa, who, last Friday was sentenced to be executed, had complained that the trial was a Roman circus.

About 30,000 persons jeered and shouted at him during the trial in the Havana Sports Palace.

Castro is reported to have said that the radio-TV coverage was "unfortunate" because it stimulated witnesses to become actors.

Castro was said to have acted on the principle that a new trial for Sosa under different circumstances would be favorable to the Cuban people. No date has been set for the retrial.

Another showcase war crimes trial of Batista army officers was postponed Wednesday for celebrations of the 106th birthday of Jose Marti, Cuba's George Washington.

Ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes, also is expected to appeal the death sentence given him Tuesday.

The foreign diplomatic corps delivered a serious rebuff to Cuba's revolutionary government Wednesday for its refusal to live up to existing international agreements concerning the right of diplomatic asylum.

The entire diplomatic corps boycotted a scheduled meeting with Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Castro Hit On Right Of Asylum

HAVANA, Cuba—(UPI)—In the first major departure from the friendly editorial attitude Havana newspapers had maintained so far towards Fidel Castro's revolutionary government, the leading dailies Diario de la Marina and El Mundo took the government to task Wednesday for not respecting the right of diplomatic asylum.

El Mundo said in an editorial that it supported the foreign diplomatic corps' insistence that the government live up to its agreements in the matter of asylum.

The government announced last week that the cases of 86 persons still refuged in foreign embassies here will be reviewed and decided on their individual merits. The action brought a formal protest from the diplomatic corps.

"This is not a question between right and wrong," El Mundo's editorial said. "We either comply fully with our international obligations or we turn our back on them with all attendant consequences . . . Cuba is bound to honor its international obligations."

Diario de la Marina also supported the position of the foreign diplomatic corps. "The solution of this unnecessary problem should not be delayed," it said. "Cuba should restore the full right of asylum, in conformance with existing treaties . . ."

Havana newspapers without dissent have supported the revolutionary government's trials and executions of Batista "war criminals."

The nearest any daily had come to expressing any dissent with the revolutionary government was a front-page editorial in Avance, signed by Editor Jorge Zayas, saying it was time the revolutionaries start on the less spectacular but no less necessary task of getting the administrative apparatus of government under way and giving

Castro's No. 2 Foe Hides Here

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Rolando Masferrer, most feared man in the old Batista Cuban regime, was in hiding in Miami Wednesday along with two brothers and a pair of henchmen.

Masferrer arrived here from a U.S. detention camp at McAllen, Tex., where he had been held for safekeeping after fleeing Cuba by boat on Jan. 1.

Allowed to travel at will, Masferrer and his buddies still are "on parole," according to U.S. Immigration officials, and remain "on call" if and when the government wants them.

At Houston, en route here, Masferrer said Fidel Castro could best begin social reforms "by shaving and taking a bath."

"Perhaps after he gets himself cleaned up, I will return to Cuba," he told reporters. Masferrer said he "might be away from home for a year or two, but I'm willing to pay that price to see him shaved and clean."

There's little likelihood, however, that Masferrer or any member of his family will return to their homeland while the new revolutionary government is in power.

Rolando Masferrer is No. 2 on the Cuban rebels' wanted list, topped only by former President Fulgencio Batista himself. He's one notch ahead of Col. Esteban Ventura, former Havana police chief, more familiarly known as "The Butcher."

Masferrer was the leader of a private army known as the "Tigers," and was regarded as Batista's private executioner.

Publisher of Havana and Santiago newspapers, Masferrer's power was second only to that of Batista himself.

He claimed Wednesday that both newspapers were looted and burned by the rebels and that machinery from one had been turned over to the publishers of Havana's newspaper Hoy which he called a "Communist periodical."

Masferrer also operated, without license or payments to other than Batista himself, a chain of "penny gambling" casinos and grew wealthy on the nickel-and-dime losses of the low-income Cuban workers.

With Rolando are his brothers, Raimundo and Rodolfo, a former Army Col. Julio Laurent and Alcides Perez.

Rodolfo was attacked in Hialeah last spring by three young rebels who beat him and sent him screaming to refuge in a department store.

All Ready For Work But No Job

WASHINGTON —(AP)— James A. Johnson Jr., 14-year-old Negro, arrived here Wednesday from Chicago to accept a page-boy job to which, the head of the House Patronage Committee said, he had never been appointed.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), head of the three-man committee which doles out patronage in the House, said he regretted that Johnson had made the trip.

"His race had nothing to do with it," Walter told a reporter. "We didn't even know what his race was. There are many Negroes on the patronage rolls. There just wasn't a vacancy for the Johnson boy because the Chicago appointment already had been given to a boy recommended by Tom O'Brien (Rep. Thomas J. O'Brien of Chicago)." There is only one page position available for the Chicago area.

Johnson had the endorsement of Rep. Barratt O'Hara, a Chicago Democrat.

"I told O'Hara not to send the boy here because there was no job open for him," Walter said.

Miss Ethel Payne, an aunt with whom Johnson had planned to live while in Washington, said she asked the boy's parents to send him here after O'Hara told her the appointment had been approved.

20-Point Proposal Would Put Unions In Goldfish Bowl

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Eisenhower urged Congress Wednesday to enact a sweeping labor reform bill to compel unions to operate in a spotlight of public scrutiny in an effort to rid the labor movement of racketeers and corrupt leaders.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), the author of a more moderate measure, promptly declared that the President went too far in demanding that the Taft-Hartley law be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts and to outlaw coercive picketing.

"For 12 or 13 years, we've tried to do too much and have accomplished nothing," Kennedy said. He said the proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley act would lessen the chances of passage this year of any bill to require unions to follow more democratic procedures.

Kennedy said his Senate labor subcommittee will consider basic changes in the Taft-Hartley law after it finishes work on his labor reform bill, which received the endorsement of the AFL-CIO at the opening of hearings Wednesday.

But the President told Congress in a special message that "complete and effective labor-management legislation, not a piecemeal program, is essential . . ."

He said hs 20-point bill would eliminate union abuses exposed by the Senate Rackets Committee, "protect the public interest, and insure the rights and economic freedom of millions of American workers."

At the same time, he said, it would not impose "arbitrary restrictions or punitive measures on the legitimate activities of honest labor and management officials."

His proposals, virtually the same as the ones he made last year, would require labor unions to make public their financial operations, to elect officers by secret ballot, and to operate otherwise in a goldfish bowl to protect the interests of rank-and-file members.

The President recommended that Taft-Hartley be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts, to extend the non-Communist affidavit requirement to employers as well as union leaders, and to outlaw "blackmail" picketing designed to force an employer to recognize a union as bargaining agent against the wishes of his employes.

He also demanded that Congress enact criminal penalties for such "wilful violations" of the law as "bribery between employers and employe representatives" and "embezzlement of union funds." He asked that the Labor secretary be granted subpena powers to enforce the law.

U.S. Inches Toward Big 4 Talks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday nudged the U.S. a step closer to a Big Four meeting with Russia that might head off an angry May 27 showdown on Berlin.

He told his news conference such talks would be useful if they "deal fruitfully" with East-West differences. He said the U.S. long had sought a broad agreement with Russia that would serve as the framework for specific pacts later.

His statement followed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remark Tuesday that a Big Four conference this spring on European problems would be timely. Dulles warned Wednesday, however, that the U.S. never would accept Russia's terms blindly.

The President gave his views after he was reminded that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan had indicated Russia might postpone or withdraw its May 27 deadline for turning East Berlin over to the German Communists if East-West talks were under way by then.

If Russia should go through with its threat, the U.S. might be faced with the problem of crashing through a Red blockade. The President has said this country will fight if necessary to maintain its position in West Berlin.

Asked if he favored starting East-West talks before the Soviet deadline, the President praised the value of talks if they promised to lead to a solution of Soviet-American differences. In effect, he took a positive attitude toward an early Big Four meeting.

Discussing GOP politics, Eisenhower said that like everyone who took a "middle of the road" position he was attacked from both sides.

He added that anyone who

Ike and Warren Deny They're on the Outs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren denied Wednesday that they were angry at each other.

The President said a newspaper story that his relationship with Warren had become "cold and distant" because of certain Supreme Court decisions was "irresponsible reporting."

The chief justice said "the story merits no comment. It is wholly without foundation."

The report attracted considerable attention because it was written by Robert J. Donovan, chief of The New York Herald Tribune's Washington staff. Donovan wrote a book about Eisenhower's first term which was considered a semi-official account.

The Donovan story said the chief justice was "pained" because he felt the President failed to take firm action to back up the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

It said the President was put out by Warren's liberal stand on recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating anti-subversive laws.

Eisenhower seemed surprised when The Herald Tribune story was brought up at the news conference, interrupting three times to make sure he was getting the sense of the questions.

But he answered quickly and in a serious tone.

"Well, so far as I am concerned, here is some irresponsible reporting," Eisenhower said.

He reminded the newsmen that he never commented on Supreme Court decisions and went on to say: "I have regarded the chief justice as my personal friend for years, and I know of no personal rift of any kind."

Battle Shapes Up In Legislature on State Printing Jobs

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE—State Rep. John E. Mathews Jr. said Wednesday that he will ask the Legislature to investigate state printing practices when it convenes in April.

Mathews lost a similar fight in 1957 when he tried to put printing under the state's central purchasing system. He said he is renewing the battle because he wants to be sure all bidders on printing jobs "get a fair shake" and that there is no waste by various state agencies.

Contracts for state printing jobs now are awarded by individual state agencies.

Mathews' chief foe two years ago was Charles Rosenberg, president of Rose Printing Co. in Tallahassee, who also has owner interests in Publishers' Press of Miami and other firms. He was a registered lobbyist for the printing industry.

The comptroller's records show that state printing costs average two million dollars a year. Rosenberg said in 1958 his company got almost $700,000 of this state business.

Rosenberg, a director of the Printing Industry of Florida (a trade association), said the group probably will discuss its position on any change in laws relating to printing bids at its meeting Feb. 1 at Boca Raton.

But he asserted that in his opinion "we have tighter laws now relating to printing bids that we would have under the purchasing council."

He said individual state agencies now are required to invite three bids on a printing job costing as little as one dollar. But, he asserted, under the central purchasing system bids would be invited only on items costing more than $1,000 and have to be advertised for only on purchases costing more than $2,000.

Mathews said he did not know what specific legislation he would propose but felt that a procedure should be set up under central purchasing to regulate printing. The lawmaker said he was not bent on criticizing any one printing firm or state agency.

Mathews referred to a check which showed that letterheads for different state agencies on the same quality paper ranged from four dollars to $17 a thousand.

"I would like to know why all of the agencies can't use the same quality of paper for letter writing and buy it at the same price," the Jacksonville legislator said.

Rosenberg said the cost differential resulted because the rate fluctuates with the volume ordered and the specifications required by the individual agency.

He added that the proximity of his Tallahassee plant and "the fact we have the largest facilities of anybody in Florida," gave his firm an edge on some jobs. He pointed to the legislative printing in which his company turns out Senate and House journals and copies overnight after each daily session.

Two years ago Gov. LeRoy Collins called for a governmental reorganization which would have set up a department of purchasing commission but would exempt printing from its control.

The governor said over the years previous attempts to set up a broad central purchasing program had met defeat because they included printing.

Mathews amended the bill to include printing. Prominent among those lobbying for the amendment was Al Block, Rosenberg's brother-in-law and former partner, who left the firm when their partnership was dissolved in a bitter legal battle.

The amended bill passed the House 67 to 9 but when it got to the Senate it was soundly defeated.

Charles Ausley, close friend and former law partner of Gov. Collins, is attorney for Rose Printing Co. and is listed as a vice president of the firm.

Ausley said he had urged defeat of the Mathews amendment because he was afraid it would kill the governor's entire purchasing program.

Rosenberg laughed at a business magazine article listing him as one of the state's most influential men and crediting him with being the capital's champion party-giver.

"We probably give five or six parties each session but there are a lot of folks who give more parties than we do. They give them year-round," he said.

the country's economic bloodstream a shot in the arm.

"In other words," Zayas said, "the glorious bearded ones can now hang their rifles, shave and become 'fruitful administrators' and no longer be 'ferocious men,' in order to bring this battered people the abundance, tranquility and happiness it is entitled to."

There has been so far no editorial discussion of what the future policies of the government should be, other than calling on it to ease the freezing of bank deposits.

Havana's noted editorial sense of humor was functioning again, however: An editorial cartoon in El Mundo depicted a citizen rubbing his chin and saying: "Now that I come to think of it, I haven't seen Fidel in 24 hours."

Another cartoon in Diario de la Marina showed a citizen on the 'phone asking, "What spectacle are you showing today?"

Miami Train Is Derailed

NORTH EAST, Md. — (AP) — The New York to Miami train Silver Meteor was delayed by a minor derailment. No one was hurt.

A railroad spokesman said the front wheels of the 17-car train's observation car derailed and delayed trains on another track. It was the last car of the train.

The spokesman said trains should not be running more than 20 to 30 minutes late because of the derailment.

North East is in the northeastern corner of Maryland.

Rate Hike Urged on GI Loans

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The GI Home loan program was pictured Wednesday as "practically dead."

Carl T. Mitnick, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the 4¾ per cent interest rate on government - insured GI home mortgages is inadequate to attract investment funds.

Mitnick, a Merchantville, N.J., builder, told a Senate housing subcommittee that his association favors boosting the GI interest rate to 5¼ per cent — the same as the Federal Housing Administration rate.

He also proposed creation of a central mortgage reserve facility to stabilize housing credit, particularly on lower - cost homes.

The only alternative, Mitnick said, is for Congress to provide the Federal National Mortgage Association with a billion dollars in special assistance funds for purchase of home mortgages which cannot otherwise be marketed at current interest rates.

He said that even this alternative would provide only temporary relief because the problem will arise again when the special aid fund is exhausted and if GI interest rates remain below marketable levels.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R., N.Y.), observing that the GI mortgage plan was devised as a special benefit to veterans, asked Mitnick "how would we be favoring the veterans" if interest rates were put on a par with FHA loans.

Mitnick said there still would be advantages in a GI mortgage because of no down payment and no insurance premium payment. They are required with FHA.

Launching Looked Perfect

Huge Atlas Zips Off On Mystery Errand

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A huge Atlas ICBM has been blasted on a mysterious space flight over the Atlantic.

The 80-foot rocket performed as it never has before when it shot across the black sky Tuesday night after a beautiful launching.

The mission on this 19th Atlas test reportedly was another 4,000-mile trip, winding up beyond the island of Fernando de Norhona far off the Brazil coast in minutes.

The three mighty engines of the missile appeared to burn furiously for more than 6½ minutes, much longer than on previous flights. The rocket skipped behind some clouds and then seemed to hang in the sky like a small star.

At first there was speculation that the latest blastoff signaled another sensational shoot similar to last month's Atlas satellite, but there still was no definite report on the results of the test hours later.

On previous firings the bulky intercontinental - range missile burned no longer than 3½ minutes before starting its ballistic trajectory — even the "big A" that soared into a 35-day orbit around the globe Dec. 18.

Despite the unusual performance, the best bet still appeared to be a long-range attempt. The Air Force said only that the launching was another in the research and development series.

Castro Gets Beard Bid

PLANT CITY — (UPI) — The Junior Chamber of Commerce here Wednesday invited bearded Cuban Rebel Leader Fidel Castro to judge a beard-growing contest here March 7 in connection with the city's 75th anniversary.

Jaycee officials said they visited the Cuban consul in Tampa Wednesday morning and that Cuban officials there were "very encouraging" about the possibility of Castro accepting the invitation.

The beard-growing contest is being held as part of the Diamond Jubilee, which is scheduled in connection with the annual Plant City Strawberry Festival.

"We figure Castro would be a qualified judge," said Rush. "So we mailed him a letter this morning."

NEW YORK — (AP) — The New York Times and The New York Herald Tribune are doubling the newsstand price of their daily editions effective Feb. 2 on sales 50 miles from New York. The price will be increased from five to 10 cents. The price remains five cents within the metropolitan area.

The Times and the Herald Tribune already have been charging 10 cents for daily editions sold beyond 100 miles from New York City.

New York City's two other morning newspapers, the News and Mirror, plan no increases immediately in their daily edition sales outside the metropolitan area. The News and The Mirror daily editions sell for five cents.

Eisenhower also denied allegations by some Republicans that he had been copying New Deal proposals. To another questioner, he said he always had tried to meet personally with as many Republicans, and Democrats, as possible.

On other major issues, the President said:

HE HOPED the new Cuban government of revolutionary Fidel Castro "will be truly representative of the Cuban people." He refused to discuss Castro himself.

HE WOULD NOT oppose a visit to Russia by an American official, but there were no present plans for Vice President Richard M. Nixon or anyone else to go there. He said Khrushchev could not come here as informally as Mikoyan did because Khrushchev was head of the Soviet government.

UNLESS INFLATION could be curbed by self-restraint, the people eventually would demand federal controls that would be contrary to the free enterprise system. If this happened, he said, it would be "a sad day."

East-West Religious Talk Asked

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Boston bishop Wednesday advocated a series of East-West church conferences in an effort to overcome differences "in a world motivated by half-truths and half-lies."

"Churchmen from Communist nations would come to the West and churchmen from the West would go to the Communist nations," said Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord.

Bishop Lord, president of the Methodist Board of Temperance, advanced his proposal in a talk at the opening session of the board's three-day annual meeting.

"We must create world community — this is the great task of our age," the Bishop said. He added:

"We live in a world that is motivated by half-truths and half-lies. There are two main sources of the darkness that engulfs us — the first is religious and the second is political.

"We are engulfed by a religion that is routine, sterile and often irrelevant to the issues of the day. Too often the gospel we preach answers questions that people have long since ceased to ask.

"Our faith should be creative, hopeful and powerful . . . A gospel that has little leadership to give in the great corporate problems of our nation and world is unfit for the battle."

Warmer Weather to Bring Showers or Wet Snow to Northeastern U.S.

Forecasts For Today

INDIAN RIVER AREA — Early morning fog followed by generally fair and warm through Friday. High Today 75 to 80, low tonight 58 to 64. Variable winds 5 to 12 miles per hour today and tonight.

INDIAN RIVER, NAPLES AND LAKE OKEECHOBEE AREAS—Early morning fog followed by generally fair and warm through Friday. High Thursday 75-80, low Thursday night 58-64. Variable winds 5-12 mph Thursday and Thursday night.

FORT LAUDERDALE, PALM BEACH AND KEYS AREAS—Mostly fair and warm through Friday. Early morning fog Thursday. High Thursday 77-82. Low Thursday night 65-70. Variable winds 5-12 mph Thursday and Thursday night.

MARINE — Jacksonville through the Florida Straits and East Gulf: Variable winds at five to 12 miles an hour. Fair weather except foggy early today.

SMALL BOAT BULLETIN — Variable five to 12 mile an hour winds. Seas smooth to slight and inland waters smooth. Visibilities poor early today because of fog, otherwise, mostly fair weather.

WESTERN CARIBBEAN — Easterly winds at 10 to 20 miles an hour. Widely scattered showers.

National Summary

Arctic air should carry snow into the Rockies and Plains as far south as Colorado and Nebraska and spread snow or a mixture of rain and snow on a line from New Mexico to Michigan Thursday.

Strong northerly winds are expected to cause blowing and drifting and in spite of partial clearing in the upper plains temperatures will remain near or a bit below zero in parts of Montana and North Dakota.

A warming trend will extend from the lower Plains into the mid Mississippi Valley but the advance of cold winds should trigger thunderstorms in Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley while rain or drizzle develops to the north from Illinois into Ohio by late in the day.

Increasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures will work into the East Thursday and showers or wet snow may reach as far as New York and Pennsylvania.

Otherwise precipitation in the East will be limited to a few flurries in northern New England through the next 24 hours and some rain or drizzle in parts of the Carolinas and Florida.

Will Extend Lines To Business

Property Assessments Part Of Naples Sewer Bond Issue

Shopping Center Would Be Served

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — A $550,000 sanitary sewer revenue bond issue to extend lines through the business section and the proposed Gallahue Shopping Center was approved Wednesday by City Council.

The issue will meet most of the costs of the construction and re-financing, totalling $682,557, with the balance to be met by assessing all benefitted property at $3.50 to $4 a front foot.

The assessment would be in addition to the regular $235 connection and inspection charges.

Fiscal Agent Chester A. Lucas said the bonds might be sold by March 18 and funds delivered in time to pay the $200,000 outstanding sewer revenue issue by March 30. Latest predictions have the Gallahue Shopping Center construction starting May. 1.

"We have in mind assessing improved and unimproved property along the route," said Lucas. "We would give them the right to pay cash and save five per cent, or extend the payments over 10 years at six per cent."

Lucas said he hoped most property owners would pay cash "and make up the difference between the issue and the amount needed." He cited similar issues with assessments in Indian Rocks, Miami Beach, Hollywood, and Coral Gables.

Mayor W. Roy Smith suggested the new sanitary sewers might be built without requiring refunding of the present $200,000 issue.

But Dr. Francis Ford protested the bond houses would never agree, and Lucas added such action would make the new issue an unsaleable second lien.

Lucas agreed to a suggestion by Councilman Arnie Haynes that the assessments, proposed by City Manager Fred Lowdermilk, be as small as possible.

The new issue would mature from 1960 to 1982 and be callable after 10 years. The city could sell additional bonds, under certain conditions.

The new issue would refund the $200,000 issue, repay the general fund $136,000 loaned for sewer work, and take care of $346,557 in other expenses.

Lowdermilk detailed the sewer costs as $199,000 for lines, $86,150 for two lift stations, $44,250 for engineering fees and contingencies, and $7,500 bond sale costs.

The sewer would run on both sides of Fifth Ave. South, the main business street, down Eighth St. to Crayton Cove, west on 12th Ave., south to Third St., and back to Fifth Ave., forming a rectangle.

The mayor suggested an alternate route, to cross north of Crayton Cove along Broad Ave. South, through the Gallahue Shopping Center area.

Vessel To Collect Hard Facts

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — A key part of the development of a defense against the now "invincible" ballistic missile is about to start here. The Herald learned Wednesday.

Reliable sources said the program will start as soon as a special missile-tracking ship sails from Port Canaveral for the South Atlantic.

The ship, the SS American Mariner, an Army craft, docked early Wednesday. Its departure time was not announced.

But sources said the ship will work on Project Damp — Downrange Anti-Missile Project.

Aboard the 420-foot ship are instruments capable of charting the final oceanward plunge of American ballistic missiles more accurately than ever before — a capability vital to scientists designing weapons to intercept the swift-moving, atom-tipped warbirds.

Information obtained by the ship will be fed into an Army program, aimed at development of the Nike-Zeus, which may be the world's first anti-ballistic missle missle.

Later phases of the program call for firing Nike-Zeus missiles — which carry atomic warheads — from downrange stations of the Atlantic Missile range. They will try to bring down swift-moving missiles fired from Cape Canaveral, sources said.

If development is successful, the Nike-Zeus could become America's most important defensive weapon of the missile age.

The Nike-Zeus is to be capable of overcoming the enormous speed — sometimes as high as 17,000 mph — which has made ballistic missiles immune from attack by defensive weapons.

No anti-ballistic-missile missiles have ever been developed, and the ballistic missile has been considered an "invincible" weapon since Nazi Germany started raining its silent V-2's on England during the closing days of World War II.

The Air Force said the ship would take station in the South Atlantic, 1,500 to 6,000 miles from here, where American missiles rain down after swift flights from Cape Canaveral.

The missile flights take only minutes.

Ask Liaison Officer

Navy At Station? Police Ponder It

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Chief of Police George Gomez Wednesday took under consideration a recommendation a Navy "liaison officer" stand by at the police station each night.

The recommendation came from Capt. Sam Loomis, Navy base chief of staff, at the initial meeting Tuesday night of the new Navy-City advisory board. The group's purpose is to improve military-civilian relations in this area.

The liaison officer would remain in the station from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. His function would be strictly that of "an observer" to witness the handling of cases involving Navy personnel, Loomis said.

The recommendation met with immediate resistance, particularily from Chief Gomez and city Commissioner Louis Eisener.

Gomez bluntly said he "saw no need" for such an observer, and expressed concern that such an arrangement could pave the way for "encroachments" by the Navy on police department operation.

The police chief also asked if the Navy felt its men were not getting a "fair shake" from the police department.

Capt. Loomis stressed that, in 99 per cent of police cases involving Navy men, they "get all they deserve and maybe even less, but the feeling among Naval officers and men is becoming more and more anti-police," he said.

The Naval officers diagnosed this contradiction as resulting from one-sided accounts relayed by Navy people by some who have brushes with the police.

The proposed liaison officer in the police station would be the third side of the story, Loomis explained. He would be able to "give his shipmates an impartial, accurate account" of any incidents.

"This would clear much of the misunderstanding about these so-called raw deals. The liaison officer would be in a position to state the facts," Capt. David L. Harris commander Destroyer Division 601 said.

Eisner asked how such an arrangement would affect morale of police, and whether the civilian population wouldn't resent it.

"The civilians are resentful now that Navy men are released without posting bond. Actually the Navy people are getting a fairer deal than civilians," he declared.

Commissioner Bill Chappell emphasized the police department can show no distinction in the treatment of military personnel and civilians.

Additional discussion appeared to allay Gomez' objections to the recommendation, but he declined to make an immediate decision. He said he wanted to think it over first.

The board, of five civilians and six Naval officers, made organizational plans for its operation.

Tax Refund Dismissal Is Sought

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — Defendents of Monroe County in a lawsuit for tax refunds, filed by Stockton, Whatley, Davin & Co., housing management concern, have asked the Circuit Court to dismiss the case.

The dismissal motion, filed by Attorneys J. Lancelot Lester and Paul Sawyer, stated the suit fails to show "a cause of action on which relief can be granted."

It claims the complaint "fails to join indispensable parties defendent," namely members constituting the Board of Public Instruction of Monroe County, members of the county anti-mosquito district board, the State Board of Health, and the sheriff.

Both the county and the city of Key West ~~are being~~ sued in twin suits by Sigsbee Park, Inc., and Peary Court, Inc., for money allegedly paid as taxes "under protest" since 1953.

Naples OKs Water for School

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — The city of Naples can't legally put water mains in East Naples to serve the new Shadowlawn Elementary School, but it can deliver water to the city limits, Mayor W. Roy Smith said Wednesday.

The mayor was answering a request made by the school bond advisory committee.

Pitt Orick, presenting the suggestion, said such arrangements would "put the school board in the water business."

Councilman Bill Berry suggested county cooperation might provide the connection along county road rights-of-way, and with this the city would go along.

County Commissioner Dick Goodlette said his understanding at a previous meeting was that the city would supply water to the county, but City Manager Fred Lowdermilk corrected this to say the city would do so "if it were assured of a source of raw water."

The estimated $20,000 cost of the line could be repaid by sale of water in East Naples at a rate suggested by Lowdermilk as one and a half times Naples' city rates.

A conference of city, county and school officials next Tuesday may work out an agreement.

It was suggested a solution might be found to city street requirements at the new Naples High School site by closing at least one street that would cut the through tract. Councilman Archie Turner promised cooperation of Dudley Gallahue, his employer, in building an access street.

In other business the council approved spending $220 in excess Negro Recreation Center funds to furnish a day nursery for children of working Negro mothers. The rest of the estimated $350 cost was met by donations of $50 from Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Wallingford and $20 each from Councilmen Haynes, Ford, Turner and Manager Lowdermilk.

White House Yacht Sails To Junkyard

JACKSONVILLE, — (AP) — The U. S. S. Sylph — which Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft used as a yacht — is ready for the junk pile.

The craft is tied up alongside the Rawls Bros. drydock, having been bought from the Carl Sawyer Steamship Co. in Miami for scrap.

The deck is teak and the handrails mahogany. Her pipes are brass. Her baths are tiled and the bulkheads are of walnut. She displaces 152 tons and was purchased during the war with Spain for $50,000. She is 123 feet, 8 inches long, with a beam of 20 feet.

The Norfolk Navy Yard put her in commission in 1898 and assigned her to the White House.

After the Mayflower became the presidential yacht, the Sylph remained in Washington for the Secretary of the Navy. She was taken out of service in 1919, and sold.

Parents Told To Pay Store

Youngsters Get Probation For Thefts from Supermart

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Children and parents alike heard stern words Wednesday from Juvenile Judge Eva Gibson Warner at a hearing on the activities of a juvenile theft gang.

The judge termed the sneak pilfering by seven boys, aged eight to 14, "wholesale, deliberate, organized theft, which amounts to grand larceny."

Most of the articles stolen by the boys came from the Food Fair supermarket, Sheriff's Investigator Bobby Brown testified. Recovered articles — fishing reels, lines, knives — amounted in value to $397, the investigator said.

Officials of the market estimated foodstuffs and other non - recoverable merchandise stolen by the boys came to $93.46.

Judge Gibson assessed the parents of each child $14 to pay the store for its loss. Some of the parents had two children implicated.

Some of the boys tearfully denied participation in the gang's theft activities. But one eight-year-old freely described the ring's stealing methods.

"We've been going to Food Fair for stuff for about three weeks. We went almost every day . . . sometimes twice a day," the crew cut, freckled-faced youngster admitted.

Testimony in court brought out that the boys may have been responsible for other thefts in their neighborhood.

The court ruled the seven youngsters juvenile delinquents and placed them on probation, the five youngest for two months and two older ones — 11 and 14 — indefinitely.

Judge Gibson declared they would be responsible to the court for going to church regularly, causing no trouble at school, and reporting regularly to the court during probation.

"You get nothing free, everything costs. You pay with money, or with tears, or with loss of confidence." The judge admonished the children.

'No Time for Shots'

Polio Claims First South Florida Death

By EVELYN DETARDO
Herald Staff Writer

A young Fort Myers carpenter who "didn't have time to get polio shots" is South Florida's first polio death statistic this year, the Dade County Health Department reported Wednesday.

Jimmey E. Moore, 23, died of bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease, in Variety Children's Hospital Monday.

Moore began to complain of a stiff neck and loss of feeling in his hands and feet Jan. 21, and gradually began to loose feeling up to his hips. He was taken to Lee Memorial Hospital in Fort Meyers that night and then rushed to Miami the next morning.

He died five days later. During the entire year of 1958, there was only one polio death recorded in South Florida.

All of Moore's family, his wife Lotrelle, 20; and a daughter, Mellonie, 3, have had Salk vaccine shots. His son Michael, 9-months, is now completing his shots.

Members of the family said Moore "was working every day, and just didn't have time to get to a doctor's office for shots."

Dade's only other polio victim, this year, a 25-year-old truck driver, Terrell Howell, is in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. Howell made sure his two children had shots, but neglected to take them himself.

As of Jan. 28 last year, three cases of polio were recorded in Dade County, and 30 were listed for the entire year, according to T. E. Cato, county health officer.

Howell's wife Alice, 21, is now getting her shots, and booster shots for their children.

Collins Appoints

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Gov. LeRoy Collins Wednesday appointed Rupert H. Gillespie of West Palm Beach to the Florida State Board of Dental Examiners. He reappointed Frank T. Scott of Jacksonville, to the board.

V. E. Merritt of Tarpon Springs was reappointed to the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission.

Stadium Gets Lighting System

KEY WEST — A new lighting system has been installed and put into operation at Wicker Stadium by the City Electric System as a public service.

Total value of the improvement is estimated at $10,000.

Gulls Still Safe

Birds Aired, Then Get Air

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — This item's for the birds.

Dr. Francis Ford pointed out to City Council Wednesday that flocks of seagulls feeding on garbage at the sanitary landfill operation at the airport are endangering planes and have already damaged some.

"They're coming where there's food," said City Manager Fred Lowdermilk.

"If you could get the Chamber to bring in extra good weather we'd have baitfish along the beach for them and there'd be no problem," explained Archie Turner.

The discussion came when the Naples Mosquito Control District asked for $3,600 budgeted for the sanitary landfill.

"What have they done to earn it?" asked Ford.

"Nothing," said Arnie Haynes. "We give it to them."

"I don't mean to be particularly ornery," said Ford, "but how come?"

"This is my brainchild," said Lowdermilk.

"Thats put me on my guard," said Ford, smiling.

Lowdermilk explained then that the state pays most of the $10,000 annual landfill garbage disposal cost. If the city pays $3,600 as its share, "It's a good deal," concluded the manager.

Nobody ever figured out what to do with the seagulls.

Vero Beach Man to Give It Up

Florida Land Ads Discontinued

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — The disapproval of Secretary of State R. A. Gray of the type of mail-order state-owned-land-information business he conducts have caused a Vero Beach man to give it up.

Ralph W. Green, owner of several buildings and other property in Vero Beach, admitted through his attorney Wednesday that he has been operating the Florida Lands Service as a sideline.

Under that name he advertised in northern newspapers that information on state-owned lands in Florida would be sent upon receipt of $3.00 which was to be addressed to Box 575, Vero Beach.

It was reported Tuesday the State Cabinet had decided to look into the advertising practices of a Vero Beach woman, known as J. D. Hall, who was doing a mail-order business in state-owned land information with lists that could be obtained free from the State Capitol.

J. D. Hall was not found here, but the fact that the Florida Lands Service had been conducting the same sort of business from here was revealed and the investigation led to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Green on Ocean Dr., just south of Bouganvillea Lane.

Mrs. Green apparently was the only one there. She didn't know a J. D. Hall, she said, but volunteered that they also had information on state-owned lands. Mr. Green was the one to see about it though, and he wasn't there.

When telephoned Tuesday night Green refused to say if he had any connection with the Florida Lands Service. He preferred an interview in person.

Upon arriving at the Green apartment Wednesday we were sent to their attorney, John Gould, who was to speak for them.

Gould said he had just found out about it that morning, when Green decided, after reading the Wednesday Miami Herald, that he would give up his mail-order sideline.

Will Free-Show-for-Guests Plan Shift to Summer Excursion Boat?

RUMOR is that Morris Lansburgh is buying a boat — an excursion boat to be used in the summer version of the Cavalcade of Stars free shows which guests of the Deauville, Crown, Casablanca, Sans Souci, Sherry-Frontenac and Versailles hotels have been enjoying. A jazz festival (Dizzy Gillespie?) and four-figure prize contests are reported part of the free for guests package.

Steiger, Claire Bloom Star in Enchanting Drama

'Rashomon' Weaves an Oriental Charm

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK — There is a fantastic, fairyland quality about "Rashomon," the Oriental bedevilment which opened this week at the Music Box Theater on Broadway. It has charm, enchantment and enticement. Each quality you must interpret yourself.

With a diamond embellishment of stars including Claire Bloom, Rod Steiger, Oscar Homolka, and Akim Tamiroff, this exciting production by Peter Glenville, surprisingly, begins to make sense as it moves further into the story by Fay and Michael Kanin.

You have to get into the mood of the drama, with accompanying bells and music, to understand it. Appreciate is probably a better word than understand, for the analysis of the play has to do with the emotional reactions of four people who are caught in rape and murder in a sacred place in Japan.

This was in Kyoto, Japan, about 1,000 years ago.

The story has to do with a ruthless bandit (played with ruthless vigor by Rod Steiger) who comes to rob a Japanese family. Instead, he chooses the gentle wife, as played with wistful tenderness by Claire Bloom, as his booty.

The dignified husband is tied up, and he is given several chances to cut his bonds and save his wife's honor. Each time his dignity will not permit him to do so. The wife is then free to choose her future love, and that is the bandit.

While this realistic tale is being spoken, sung and performed, there is a side scene in which a priest, a woodcutter, and a wigmaker are making commentaries about the problems of husband, wife and more attractive (to the wife) bandit.

"Rashomon" is a beautifully performed treasure land of theater, and Glenville has given it the suave touch in direction.

With the splendid players, this production in particular should be saluted for the settings of Oliver Messel, lighting by Jo Mielzeiner, and music by Laurence Rosenthal.

Although "Rashomon" is a play with music, there are no musical numbers from which you can sing a tune. But there are plenty sword duels which clash with thunder and bang.

Kennedy Says Measure Goes Too Far

Stiff Curbs on Labor Asked by Eisenhower

20-Point Proposal Would Put Unions In Goldfish Bowl

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Eisenhower urged Congress Wednesday to enact a sweeping labor reform bill to compel unions to operate in a spotlight of public scrutiny in an effort to rid the labor movement of racketeers and corrupt leaders.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), the author of a more moderate measure, promptly declared that the President went too far in demanding that the Taft-Hartley law be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts and to outlaw coercive picketing.

"For 12 or 13 years, we've tried to do too much and have accomplished nothing," Kennedy said. He said the proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley act would lessen the chances of passage this year of any bill to require unions to follow more democratic procedures.

Kennedy said his Senate labor subcommittee will consider basic changes in the Taft-Hartley law after it finishes work on his labor reform bill, which received the endorsement of the AFL-CIO at the opening of hearings Wednesday.

But the President told Congress in a special message that "complete and effective labor-management legislation, not a piecemeal program, is essential . . ."

He said hs 20-point bill would eliminate union abuses exposed by the Senate Rackets Committee, "protect the public interest, and insure the rights and economic freedom of millions of American workers."

At the same time, he said, it would not impose "arbitrary restrictions or punitive measures on the legitimate activities of honest labor and management officials."

His proposals, virtually the same as the ones he made last year, would require labor unions to make public their financial operations, to elect officers by secret ballot, and to operate otherwise in a goldfish bowl to protect the interests of rank-and-file members.

The Presiden' recommended that Taft-Hartley be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts, to extend the non-Communist affidavit requirement to employers as well as union leaders, and to outlaw "blackmail" picketing designed to force an employer to recognize a union as bargaining agent against the wishes of his employes.

He also demanded that Congress enact criminal penalties for such "wilful violations" of the law as "bribery between employers and employe representatives" and "embezzlement of union funds." He asked that the Labor secretary be granted subpena powers to enforce the law.

U.S. Inches Toward Big 4 Talks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday nudged the U.S. a step closer to a Big Four meeting with Russia that might head off an angry May 27 showdown on Berlin.

He told his news conference such talks would be useful if they "deal fruitfully" with East-West differences. He said the U.S. long had sought a broad agreement with Russia that would serve as the framework for specific pacts later.

His statement followed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remark Tuesday that a Big Four conference this spring on European problems would be timely. Dulles warned Wednesday, however, that the U.S. never would accept Russia's terms blindly.

The President gave his views after he was reminded that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan had indicated Russia might postpone or withdraw its May 27 deadline for turning East Berlin over to the German Communists if East-West talks were under way by then.

If Russia should go through with its threat, the U.S. might be faced with the problem of crashing through a Red blockade. The President has said this country will fight if necessary to maintain its position in West Berlin.

Asked if he favored starting East-West talks before the Soviet deadline, the President praised the value of talks if they promised to lead to a solution of Soviet-American differences. In effect, he took a positive attitude toward an early Big Four meeting.

Discussing GOP politics, Eisenhower said that like everyone who took a "middle of the road" position he was attacked from both sides.

He added that anyone who

Fidel Reported Ordering New Trial for Sosa

By ROBERT GRUENBERG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

HAVANA—Fidel Castro was reported Wednesday to have ordered a completely new trial for Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who was sentenced to death last week.

An aide close to the rebel leader said Castro wants the retrial because the atmosphere created by radio-television coverage of Sosa's trial "did not constitute a full measure of justice."

Sosa, who, last Friday was sentenced to be executed, had complained that the trial was a Roman circus.

About 30,000 persons jeered and shouted at him during the trial in the Havana Sports Palace.

Castro is reported to have said that the radio-TV coverage was "unfortunate" because it stimulated witnesses to become actors.

Castro was said to have acted on the principle that a new trial for Sosa under different circumstances would be favorable to the Cuban people. No date has been set for the retrial.

Another showcase war crimes trial of Batista army officers was postponed Wednesday for celebrations of the 106th birthday of Jose Marti, Cuba's George Washington.

Ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes, also is expected to appeal the death sentence given him Tuesday.

The foreign diplomatic corps delivered a serious rebuff to Cuba's revolutionary government Wednesday for its refusal to live up to existing international agreements concerning the right of diplomatic asylum.

The entire diplomatic corps boycotted a scheduled meeting with Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Castro Hit On Right Of Asylum

HAVANA, Cuba—(UPI)—In the first major departure from the friendly editorial attitude Havana newspapers had maintained so far towards Fidel Castro's revolutionary government, the leading dailies Diario de la Marina and El Mundo took the government to task Wednesday for not respecting the right of diplomatic asylum.

El Mundo said in an editorial that it supported the foreign diplomatic corps' insistence that the government live up to its agreements in the matter of asylum.

The government announced last week that the cases of 86 persons still refuged in foreign embassies here will be reviewed and decided on their individual merits. The action brought a formal protest from the diplomatic corps.

"This is not a question between right and wrong," El Mundo's editorial said. "We either comply fully with our international obligations or we turn our back on them with all attendant consequences . . . Cuba is bound to honor its international obligations."

Diario de la Marina also supported the position of the foreign diplomatic corps. "The solution of this unnecessary problem should not be delayed," it said. "Cuba should restore the full right of asylum, in conformance with existing treaties . . ."

Havana newspapers without dissent have supported the revolutionary government's trials and executions of Batista "war criminals."

The nearest any daily had come to expressing any dissent with the revolutionary government was a front-page editorial in Avance, signed by Editor Jorge Zayas, saying it was time the revolutionaries start on the less spectacular but no less necessary task of getting the administrative apparatus of government under way and giving

Truckers Told Future Looks Bright

Herald Bureau

HOLLYWOOD — The motor truck is on the threshold of its greatest functional use in the American economy, the president of the American Trucking Association predicted Wednesday.

He was addressing 400 representatives to the 18th annual convention of Truck-Trailer Manufacturers Association, meeting at Hollywood Beach Hotel.

By 1975 present trends of people and industries away from cities will put "centers of living and human activity" out where they will be almost wholly dependent on truck transportation," said J. Robert Cooper of Detroit.

"This country is growing away from all fixed transport installations and especially away from our friends, the railroads. Their rights of way are inflexible fixed. Ours are completely flexible."

He said railways want to get into the trucking business. He claimed this would wreck the independent trucking industry. As an alternative, Cooper suggested joint rate and service agreements between railroads and trucking companies.

C. W. Alexander of Lufkin, Tex., was elected president of the association. He replaces Harry Eyler of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Castro's No. 2 Foe Hides Here

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Rolando Masferrer, most feared man in the old Batista Cuban regime, was in hiding in Miami Wednesday along with two brothers and a pair of henchmen.

Masferrer arrived here from a U.S. detention camp at McAllen, Tex., where he had been held for safekeeping after fleeing Cuba by boat on Jan. 1.

Allowed to travel at will, Masferrer and his buddies still are "on parole," according to U. S. Immigration officials, and remain "on call" if and when the government wants them.

At Houston, en route here, Masferrer said Fidel Castro could best begin social reforms "by shaving and taking a bath."

"Perhaps after he gets himself cleaned up, I will return to Cuba," he told reporters. Masferrer said he "might be away from home for a year or two, but I'm willing to pay that price to see him shaved and clean."

There's little likelihood, however, that Masferrer or any member of his family will return to their homeland while the new revolutionary government is in power.

Rolando Masferrer is No. 2 on the Cuban rebels' wanted list, topped only by former President Fulgencio Batista himself. He's one notch ahead of Col. Esteban Ventura, former Havana police chief, more familiarly known as "The Butcher."

Masferrer was the leader of a private army known as the "Tigers," and was regarded as Batista's private executioner.

Publisher of Havana and Santiago newspapers, Masferrer's power was second only to that of Batista himself.

He claimed Wednesday that both newspapers were looted and burned by the rebels and that machinery from one had been turned over to the publishers of Havana's newspaper Hoy which he called a "Communist periodical."

Masferrer also operated, without license or payments to other than Batista himself, a chain of "penny gambling" casinos and grew wealthy on the nickel-and-dime losses of the low-income Cuban workers.

With Rolando are his brothers, Raimundo and Rodolfo, a former Army Col. Julio Laurent and Alcides Perez.

Rodolfo was attacked in Hialeah last spring by three young rebels who beat him and sent him screaming to refuge in a department store.

Broward Board Opposed

Officials Condemn U.S. School Aid

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Three high ranking Broward County school officials expressed strong opposition Wednesday to a federal aid-to-education proposal.

Referring to a plan in which the federal government would match $30,000 in local funds for science, arithmetic and foreign language equipment, School Supt. Raymond Maxwell declared:

"I think it's tragic that the people of any county ask the federal government to help educate their children. Education should be financed from local sources."

School Board Member John Calvin commented:

"I think it's ridiculous. Once the federal government steps in we're licked."

Mrs. Virginia Young, also a board member, observed:

"We have a county school system and it should remain that way. We'll get more for our money by doing the job ourselves."

Board Chairman Wesley Parrish favored the aid proposal "if there are no strings attached."

His comment brought this remark from Maxwell:

"The federal government already has attached strings in telling us how we can spend the money. We need construction money. That's our big need today."

Maxwell contended a program financed by the federal government "will cost 10 times as much as we could do it locally."

Dade County voted to participate in the program last week, and Dr. Thord Marshall, an assistant school superintendent here, recommended that Broward do the same.

Calvin criticized federal aid received for school cafeteria programs, and added:

"I'm bitterly opposed to any form of federal aid to education. A basic function of any state is to educate its children."

Board Members Dean Dessenberger and D. H. Don Moore did not commit themselves.

After discussing the proposal at length, the board voted to table action until its Feb. 11 meeting.

No-Mixing Pressed In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. asked the Legislature Wednesday for a state tuition grants program to permit Virginia parents to choose immediately between private schools or sending their children to racially-mixed classrooms.

And underlying Almond's address to a special session of the General Assembly were indications that Virginia may later attempt a private schools program rather than accept racial integration. But he saw no way to stave off re-opening of schools with mixed classrooms next week.

Almond told the lawmakers that public schools in Virginia may have to be abandoned because of the integration crisis.

For the present, however, he asked only for tuition grants and repeal of compulsory school attendance laws. Federal courts have ordered integration in schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville, Arlington and Front Royal, and Virginia's earlier "massive resistance" laws, which closed some schools, have been struck down.

Almond laid a brief emergency plan before the legislators, then gave broad hints that a drastic overhaul leading to a system of private schools might be the state's long-range answer to integration orders.

Almond emphasized that Virginia has not given up its fight to maintain segregation.

"She has not surrendered and she does not surrender now," he told the hastily-summoned special session. This vow drew the biggest ovation from the lawmakers.

The governor's basic plea was for an immediate system of tuition grants for the students who do not wish them to attend integrated schools.

Ike Going To Mexico

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday accepted an invitation from Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos to visit him in Acapulco Feb. 19-20.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles relayed word of the President's acceptance to Antonio Carrillo Flores, the new Mexican ambassador to Washington.

Dulles emphasized that the visit between the two presidents at the famous Mexican beach resort would be informal.

This will preclude the ceremonies which would be involved in a state visit to the Mexican capital, Mexico City.

Tried to Get Him Insurance, Witness Says

Hoffa Pal Aided Dio, Probers Told

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Chicago insurance man who handled Teamster Union policies tried unsuccessfully to buy life insurance for Gangster Johnny Dio, a Senate investigator testified Wednesday.

The testimony was given by John P. Findlay as the Senate Rackets Committee dug into activities of Allen Dorfman, friend of Teamster Boss James R. Hoffa.

Findlay said Dorfman even paid the first premium—$684—in an attempt to persuade Union Casualty Life to issue the policy on Dio.

But, Findlay said, the company refused the policy on grounds that Dio was a bad credit risk.

He testified that Dorfman gave the insurance company a high recommendation for Dio although Dio's check to Dorfman for the life insurance premium had bounced three times.

Findlay said another man with a criminal record got life insurance through Dorfman but never made any premium payments. The man was identified as Gus Zapes. Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Zapes had served time in the Indiana Penitentiary, had a record of 45 arrests, and was hired as an organizer for the Indiana Teamsters.

Findlay also testified that Dorfman paid premiums for Hoffa and other Teamster officials on occasion — in violation of an Illinois insurance regulation against payment of premiums for clients without charging interest. He said Hoffa and the others were expected to repay about $3,600 paid as premiums by Dorfman.

The committee was told earlier by Findlay that Dorfman deposited in his own bank account $51,461.66 of union welfare fund insurance premiums.

Findlay said that not until after the committee began an investigation did Dorfman forward the money to the insurance company for which the premiums were intended.

He said that under Illinois law Dorfman was required to turn over the premium payments within 90 days.

But, he said, instead of making the payments to the Mt. Vernon Insurance Co., Dorfman used the money to meet expenses of his business enterprises.

Findlay continued that on March 11, 1957, Dorfman wrote a check to the insurance company for $39,155.35 of the premiums.

He said another check for $12,155.31 was drawn to the company by Dorfman June 12, 1957, but that Dorfman endorsed it with a rubber stamp, then signed his own name and deposited it in his insurance agency account.

"In other words, this money had been misappropriated from the insurance company?" Chairman John McClellan (D., Ark.) asked. Findlay agreed.

The money involved, Findlay said, was paid by members of Local 1031 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for welfare and pension insurance they elected to keep in effect during periods of layoff or temporary leave from their jobs.

Under that action by the workers, he said, they paid the portion of the premiums that would have been paid by employers.

Ike and Warren Deny They're on the Outs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren denied Wednesday that they were angry at each other.

The President said a newspaper story that his relationship with Warren had become "cold and distant" because of certain Supreme Court decisions was "irresponsible reporting."

The chief justice said "the story merits no comment. It is wholly without foundation."

The report attracted considerable attention because it was written by Robert J. Donovan, chief of The New York Herald Tribune's Washington staff. Donovan wrote a book about Eisenhower's first term which was considered a semi-official account.

The Donovan story said the chief justice was "pained" because he felt the President failed to take firm action to back up the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

It said the President was put out by Warren's liberal stand on recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating anti-subversive laws.

Eisenhower seemed surprised when The Herald Tribune story was brought up at the news conference, interrupting three times to make sure he was getting the sense of the questions.

But he answered quickly and in a serious tone.

"Well, so far as I am concerned, here is some irresponsible reporting," Eisenhower said.

He reminded the newsmen that he never commented on Supreme Court decisions and went on to say: "I have regarded the chief justice as my personal friend for years, and I know of no personal rift of any kind."

Battle Shapes Up In Legislature on State Printing Jobs

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE—State Rep. John E. Mathews Jr. said Wednesday that he will ask the Legislature to investigate state printing practices when it convenes in April.

Mathews lost a similar fight in 1957 when he tried to put printing under the state's central purchasing system. He said he is renewing the battle because he wants to be sure all bidders on printing jobs "get a fair shake" and that there is no waste by various state agencies.

Contracts for state printing jobs now are awarded by individual state agencies.

Mathews' chief foe two years ago was Charles Rosenberg, president of Rose Printing Co. in Tallahassee, who also has owner interests in Publishers' Press of Miami and other firms. He was a registered lobbyist for the printing industry.

The comptroller's records show that state printing costs average two million dollars a year. Rosenberg said in 1958 his company got almost $700,000 of this state business.

Rosenberg, a director of the Printing Industry of Florida (a trade association), said the group probably will discuss its position on any change in laws relating to printing bids at its meeting Feb. 1 at Boca Raton.

But he asserted that in his opinion "we have tighter laws now relating to printing bids that we would have under the purchasing council."

He said individual state agencies now are required to invite three bids on a printing job costing as little as one dollar. But, he asserted, under the central purchasing system bids would be invited only on items costing more than $1,000 and have to be advertised for only on purchases costing more than $2,000.

Mathews said he did not know what specific legislation he would propose but felt that a procedure should be set up under central purchasing to regulate printing. The lawmaker said he was not bent on criticizing any one printing firm or state agency.

Mathews referred to a check which showed that letterheads for different state agencies on the same quality paper ranged from four dollars to $17 a thousand.

"I would like to know why all of the agencies can't use the same quality of paper for letter writing and buy it at the same price," the Jacksonville legislator said.

Rosenberg said the cost differential resulted because the rate fluctuates with the volume ordered and the specifications required by the individual agency.

He added that the proximity of his Tallahassee plant and "the fact we have the largest facilities of anybody in Florida," gave his firm an edge on some jobs. He pointed to the legislative printing in which his company turns out Senate and House journals and copies overnight after each daily session.

Two years ago Gov. LeRoy Collins called for a governmental reorganization which would have set up a department of purchasing commission but would exempt printing from its control.

The governor said over the years previous attempts to set up a broad central purchasing program had met defeat because they included printing.

Mathews amended the bill to include printing. Prominent among those lobbying for the amendment was Al Block, Rosenberg's brother-in-law and former partner, who left the firm when their partnership was dissolved in a bitter legal battle.

The amended bill passed the House 67 to 9 but when it got to the Senate it was soundly defeated.

Charles Ausley, close friend and former law partner of Gov. Collins, is attorney for Rose Printing Co. and is listed as a vice president of the firm.

Ausley said he had urged defeat of the Mathews amendment because he was afraid it would kill the governor's entire purchasing program.

Rosenberg laughed at a business magazine article listing him as one of the state's most influential men and crediting him with being the capital's champion party-giver.

"We probably give five or six parties each session but there are a lot of folks who give more parties than we do. They give them year-round," he said.

the country's economic bloodstream a shot in the arm.

"In other words," Zayas said, "the glorious bearded ones can now hang their rifles, shave and become 'fruitful administrators' and no longer be 'ferocious men,' in order to bring this battered people the abundance, tranquility and happiness it is entitled to."

There has been so far no editorial discussion of what the future policies of the government should be, other than calling on it to ease the freezing of bank deposits.

Havana's noted editorial sense of humor was functioning again, however: An editorial cartoon in El Mundo depicted a citizen rubbing his chin and saying: "Now that I come to think of it, I haven't seen Fidel in 24 hours."

Another cartoon in Diario de la Marina showed a citizen on the 'phone asking, "What spectacle are you showing today?"

Rate Hike Urged on GI Loans

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The GI Home loan program was pictured Wednesday as "practically dead."

Carl T. Mitnick, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the 4¾ per cent interest rate on government-insured GI home mortgages is inadequate to attract investment funds.

Mitnick, a Merchantville, N.J., builder, told a Senate housing subcommittee that his association favors boosting the GI interest rate to 5¼ per cent — the same as the Federal Housing Administration rate.

He also proposed creation of a central mortgage reserve facility to stabilize housing credit, particularly on lower-cost homes.

The only alternative, Mitnick said, is for Congress to provide the Federal National Mortgage Association with a billion dollars in special assistance funds for purchase of home mortgages which cannot otherwise be marketed at current interest rates.

He said that even this alternative would provide only temporary relief because the problem will arise again when the special aid fund is exhausted and if GI interest rates remain below marketable levels.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R., N.Y.), observing that the GI mortgage plan was devised as a special benefit to veterans, asked Mitnick "how would we be favoring the veterans" if interest rates were put on a par with FHA loans.

Mitnick said there still would be advantages in a GI mortgage because of no down payment and no insurance premium payment. They are required with FHA.

Launching Looked Perfect

Huge Atlas Zips Off On Mystery Errand

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A huge Atlas ICBM has been blasted on a mysterious space flight over the Atlantic.

The 80-foot rocket performed as it never has before when it shot across the black sky Tuesday night after a beautiful launching.

The mission on this 19th Atlas test reportedly was another 4,000-mile trip, winding up beyond the island of Fernando de Norhona far off the Brazil coast in minutes.

The three mighty engines of the missile appeared to burn furiously for more than 6½ minutes, much longer than on previous flights. The rocket skipped behind some clouds and then seemed to hang in the sky like a small star.

At first there was speculation that the latest blastoff signaled another sensational shoot similar to last month's Atlas satellite, but there still was no definite report on the results of the test hours later.

On previous firings the bulky intercontinental-range missile burned no longer than 3½ minutes before starting its ballistic trajectory — even the "big A" that soared into a 35-day orbit around the globe Dec. 18.

Despite the unusual performance, the best bet still appeared to be a long-range attempt. The Air Force said only that the launching was another in the research and development series.

The Times and the Herald Tribune already have been charging 10 cents for daily editions sold beyond 100 miles from New York City.

New York City's two other morning newspapers, the News and Mirror, plan no increases immediately in their daily edition sales outside the metropolitan area. The News and The Mirror daily editions sell for five cents.

Eisenhower also denied allegations by some Republicans that he had been copying New Deal proposals. To another questioner, he said he always had tried to meet personally with as many Republicans, and Democrats, as possible.

On other major issues, the President said:

HE HOPED the new Cuban government of revolutionary Fidel Castro "will be truly representative of the Cuban people." He refused to discuss Castro himself.

HE WOULD NOT oppose a visit to Russia by an American official, but there were no present plans for Vice President Richard M. Nixon or anyone else to go there. He said Khrushchev could not come here as informally as Mikoyan did because Khrushchev was head of the Soviet government.

UNLESS INFLATION could be curbed by self-restraint, the people eventually would demand federal controls that would be contrary to the free enterprise system. If this happened, he said, it would be "a sad day."

East-West Religious Talk Asked

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Boston bishop Wednesday advocated a series of East-West church conferences in an effort to overcome differences "in a world motivated by half-truths and half-lies."

"Churchmen from Communist nations would come to the West and churchmen from the West would go to the Communist nations," said Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord.

Bishop Lord, president of the Methodist Board of Temperance, advanced his proposal in a talk at the opening session of the board's three-day annual meeting.

"We must create world community — this is the great task of our age," the Bishop said. He added:

"We live in a world that is motivated by half-truths and half-lies. There are two main sources of the darkness that engulfs us — the first is religious and the second is political.

"We are engulfed by a religion that is routine, sterile and often irrelevant to the issues of the day. Too often the gospel we preach answers questions that people have long since ceased to ask.

"Our faith should be creative, hopeful and powerful . . . A gospel that has little leadership to give in the great corporate problems of our nation and world is unfit for the battle."

Warmer Weather to Bring Showers or Wet Snow to Northeastern U.S.

Forecasts For Today

INDIAN RIVER AREA — Early morning fog followed by generally fair and warm through Friday. High Today 75 to 80, low tonight 58 to 64. Variable winds 5 to 12 miles per hour today and tonight.

INDIAN RIVER, NAPLES AND LAKE OKEECHOBEE AREAS—Early morning fog followed by generally fair and warm through Friday. High Thursday 75-80, low Thursday night 58-64. Variable winds 5-12 mph Thursday and Thursday night.

FORT LAUDERDALE, PALM BEACH AND KEYS AREAS—Mostly fair and warm through Friday. Early morning fog Thursday. High Thursday 77-82. Low Thursday night 65-70. Variable winds 5-12 mph Thursday and Thursday night.

MARINE — Jacksonville through the Florida Straits and East Gulf: Variable winds at five to 12 miles an hour. Fair weather except foggy early today.

SMALL BOAT BULLETIN — Variable five to 12 mile an hour winds. Seas smooth to slight and inland waters smooth. Visibilities poor early today because of fog, otherwise, mostly fair weather.

WESTERN CARIBBEAN — Easterly winds at 10 to 20 miles an hour. Widely scattered showers.

National Summary

Arctic air should carry snow into the Rockies and Plains as far south as Colorado and Nebraska and spread snow or a mixture of rain and snow on a line from New Mexico to Michigan Thursday.

Strong northerly winds are expected to cause blowing and drifting and in spite of partial clearing in the upper plains temperatures will remain near or a bit below zero in parts of Montana and North Dakota.

A warming trend will extend from the lower Plains into the mid Mississippi Valley but the advance of cold winds should trigger thunderstorms in Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley while rain or drizzle develops to the north from Illinois into Ohio by late in the day.

Increasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures will work into the East Thursday and showers or wet snow may reach as far as New York and Pennsylvania.

Otherwise precipitation in the East will be limited to a few flurries in northern New England through the next 24 hours and some rain or drizzle in parts of the Carolinas and Florida.

Who Paid For Cruise?

The visit of the cruiser USS Newport News to Fort Lauderdale and the ride which some of our public officials and business leaders had on the ship from Norfolk didn't set well with everyone, apparently.

One reader takes this position: "This is going on all over the country, and it must cost millions of dollars. There's no reason why the Navy should ride civilians around like that. People want economy, and they're getting fed up."

Well, the estimate of the cost may be somewhat high, but it's a thought. Probably many people would agree.

We're Loaded With Living History

SOMEONE SHOULD TAKE TAPE recordings of the memoirs of the county's pioneer residents before they all pass away, Georgiana (Mrs. Rex) Lowen suggests, reiterating a concern which others have voiced in recent years. Many people feel it's a shame that nothing is being done to record the history of the county from the lips of the people who lived it.

Broward is so young that this "living history" could go back practically to the beginning of it. There are people still alive who remember Capt. Dennis O'Neill, who according to the only available county history, was the first white man to settle here after the Colee family massacre in 1842. He came in 1888 to operate the house of refuge on the beach for the Coast Guard.

This history book, the only one on Broward County in the local library, is a thin, 5,000-word volume written in 1936 under the federal writers project, a division of the WPA. Frances H. Miner was the editor.

Storekeeper Frank Stranahan came in 1893 and the railroad in 1896.

We've Rest, Quiet—and Whoopee!

ONCE UPON A TIME it was widely agreed that one of the special appeals of the Fort Lauderdale area as a place to live was the absence of fast night life. Some people still consider that to be true, but to others it appears that we now have the night life on a scale proportionate to that of Miami and Miami Beach.

When syndicated Columnist Jim Bishop recently wrote his article about a retired couple in Pompano Beach and noted that "the bright lights" are available in Palm Beach and Miami, some Broward countians grumbled: "We have bright lights, too!"

Now comes a clipping of a column by Florida Writer Russell Kay. He implies that the Lower West Coast will develop more rapidly than the Palm Beach-Miami strip because it appeals to "homeseekers who seek rest, quiet and comfort rather than night life, racing and cavorting."

We still have much to offer the settler looking for rest and quiet. Nevertheless, it must be admitted that the cavorting is getting pretty good around here.

Report Under Study

Tight Port Security Urged by Committee

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Strict security regulations for Port Everglades were recommended Wednesday by a committee headed by Commissioner Fred Stevens.

The board accepted its report for study at next week's meeting. The committee will meet with taxpayers' representatives at 4 p.m. Monday.

Stevens predicted some of the 14 proposals will run into stiff opposition.

"It's an expensive program," he said. "But from talking with civic groups and individuals, I think it's what the people want."

Manager R. T. Spangler and Security Chief Julius Straub were also on the three-man board. They recommended:

PUTTING up a $10,000 fence east of Sliphead Dr. to protect and control wharves and docks.

ERECTING a control tower to observe the port on a 24-hour basis, and equipping it with loudspeakers and searchlights.

HIRING a qualified fire inspector and five additional men for the security department; buying a new $32,000 fire truck and 10,000 gallons of foam; and constructing a new security building.

REQUIRING fences, foam equipment and roof tanks for petroleum bulk plants, and regular night-watchman service at all plants.

MAKING Forest Products Corp. install "proper" sprinkler systems from a new eight-inch water line.

MEETING with Fort Lauderdale, Dania and Hollywood officials to plan joint disaster action.

ARRANGING at least one annual inspection of the port by the state fire marshals' office.

Ex-Official McGraw Dies At Pompano

LIGHTHOUSE POINT — Former City Commissioner Claud T. DeGraw, 71, died at Holy Cross Hospital Wednesday. He had served on the commission from 1956 to 1958.

He organized the Pompano Beach Chamber of Commerce and supervised construction of the present building while the chamber's executive secretary.

DeGraw also organized the Pompano Beach Kiwanis and Optimist Clubs, was a past president of the Optimists. He was also active in the Boy Scouts, and he was a member of the First Methodist Church of Pompano Beach, a former trustee there.

Survivors include his wife, Elizabeth; three daughters, Mrs. Charlotte Cunningham, Pompano Beach; Mrs. Doris Lover, Syracuse; Mrs. Claudia Wavle, Syracuse; two brothers, a sister, and six grandchildren. Kraeer Funeral Home is in charge.

Mary Sidebottom Rogers

POMPANO BEACH — Mary Sidebottom Rodgers, 88, of 2540 SE Second St., died Tuesday at a Fort Lauderdale nursing home. She came here two years ago from Philadelphia. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church. Survivors include two sons, Richard, and Maurice D., Pompano; two grandsons and one granddaughter. Services will be at 3 p.m. Friday at Kraeer Funeral Home.

Melrose Park and Two Rivers

Two Areas Plan Separate Paths To Incorporation

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—Melrose Park and New Rivers leaders teamed up Wednesday to fight annexation to Fort Lauderdale, but decided to pursue separate paths toward incorporation of their own communities.

Melrose Park Homeowners' Association officials turned down a tentative proposal by the New Rivers Businessmen's Association that the two areas try to incorporate as one city.

"If we go in with New Rivers we might as well go with the city," said William F. Simpson of the MPHA.

He said Melrose Park homeowners would object to being tied in with New Rivers because the New Rivers section would require much of the potential city's income for improvements.

Joint incorporation was advocated by Bob Janes, president of the New Rivers Association, who said it is the traditional position of state officials to frown on incorporation of small municipalities.

Representatives of both groups said their cities could be self-supporting without real estate taxes.

"But we must defeat annexation or what we want will be merely academic," Simpson said.

They plan to ask the New Rivers Improvement Association to join them in an appearance before the City Commission Feb. 10 protesting the city's plans to annex them.

Col. Ralph Wiltsey, president of the MPHA, said he got a "runaround from City Hall" in attempting to make an appointment for an appearance last Tuesday "but they (the commissioners) listened to the Broward Estates Civic Association," he said. The Broward Estates group favors annexation.

The New Rivers and Melrose Park groups said Wednesday their battle against incorporation will be directed from a campaign headquarters and include newspaper and radio advertisements and personal contacts with voters.

The City Commission wants to let Fort Lauderdale residents vote April 14 on the annexation question and, if the vote is favorable, follow it with a legislative act annexing territory to the west. The legislative act would be effective only following a favorable vote on annexation in the area to be annexed.

Commissioners will discuss the plan with the legislative delegation next week.

Mothers March Tonight

FORT LAUDERDALE— An anticipated 2,000 women will be following paths of porch lights from door to door in the county tonight, carrying out the Mothers March on Polio.

It will begin at 7 p.m. with a blast of horns and whistles from police cars and fire equipment, boats and ambulances.

Fort Lauderdale's city vehicles will join in, and those of Hollywood and Pompano Beach have been asked to do so. Local yacht bases have asked boat owners to sound their horns at the designated hour.

The canvass is intended as a "mop up" of the county March of Dimes campaign, which began Jan. 1.

Mrs. Gail Cheatwood, chairman, said she expects at least 1,500 and perhaps 2,000 mothers to assist.

Sewer Project Rejected

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — Soon after the city denied permission for a sewage effluent outfall line to the Intracoastal Waterway, a state health official warned, "You have set a precedent. When you build your sewer plant, where will you put the effluent line?"

After an all-day public hearing attended by 125 persons, the City Commission rejected an application from Broward Utilities, Inc., to run an effluent line across a northeast corner of the city.

Objections of the crowd, which represented numerous civic groups, was that the odors and sediment from the outfall line would pollute waterways and canals and cause the "entire area to become a cesspool."

FORT LAUDERDALE — Fort Lauderdale's City Hall and Police Departments have new telephone numbers.

All City Hall departments may be reached by dialing JAckson 5-2772. The number to dial for police emergencies is JAckson 5-1311. Calls to the Police Department that are not emergency in nature should be made to JAckson 5-2772.

Delegation To Survey Fields

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — Federal and state aid is being requested by 85 pepper growers who face the prospect of being wiped out by a double-pronged pepper blight attack, on which research was abandoned last year by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Cong. Paul Rogers has pledged his help, and the state legislative delegation plans an in-the-field inspection today to determine what aid they could seek at the state level.

Already some 75 per cent of the county's 2,000-acre pepper crop has been wiped out by the soil-borne disease which attacks the plants at any stage of growth.

The disease has affected large bean plantings, too, but in a different manner. Rather than killing the plants off, the disease weakens them, and the resulting crops are meager and of poor quality.

Under normal conditions the pepper crop — second largest in the county — would be at the peak of its season now, and harvest would continue through May. As it is, many fear the crop is at an end now.

During the last good season, 1955-56, 2,581,056 bushels of peppers brought a total of $6,934,066 on the Pompano State Farmers Market. Some were from the Palm Beach agricultural area, but the volume has dropped considerably since that season.

Five years ago 3,200 acres of peppers were grown in Broward, according to an estimate by Robert Pryor, county agricultural agent. This year there were 2,000 acres.

Where normal yields, under good conditions, range upward from 1,000 bushels per acre, the disease damage the past two seasons has resulted in an average yield of only 400 bushels to the acre.

'Secret' Sessions Attacked

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

WEST HOLLYWOOD — The City Committee Wednesday turned to contributions as a method of financing an incorporation brochure after the Chamber of Commerce tabled a request to foot the bill.

During the discussion, the chamber also got into a dispute over closed meetings.

The committee wants 10,000 brochures printed and distributed before a public hearing on incorporation is held Feb. 26. It had requested a minimum of $250 of chamber funds to pay printing costs.

But several members protested that such an expenditure would not be fair to those against incorporation.

"We went on record as favoraing incorporation and voted to back an education program on facts behind a city," said Lois Carey, chamber secretary.

Henry Perry, a steadfast incorporation opponent, opposed paying for the brochure.

He argued that newspapers will carry the facts if creation of a city group would open meetings.

"We can't have an education program when we have meetings and don't allow the press," Perry said.

The brochure will contain information compiled in a series of closed meetings.

Home Rule Discussion Scheduled

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — County officials and State Rep. A. J. Ryan will discuss proposals for home rule in Broward County Tuesday night at a public forum arranged by the League of Women Voters.

It will be held in the commission meeting room at City Hall at 8 p.m.

Mrs. M. C. Dearden, league president, said it will be "sort of a town hall meeting" on the subject of "what people are talking about when they say 'home rule.'

"Home rule means many things to many people," she added. "Are they talking about Metro government, or something else? It's important that people know."

Services Set Friday

R. G. Snow, Mayor During 20s, Dies

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE—Services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Friday in Fannin Funeral Home chapel for Russell G. Snow, 75, former Fort Lauderdale mayor, who died here Wednesday.

The Rev. Mr. George Foster of Park Temple Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. Snow, who served as mayor in 1925-26, had lived in Fort Lauderdale since 1911. He built a home on Sea Island No. 5 in 1926. The storm that year left it standing but did nearly $6,000 damage. It was the only home on the island for nearly 30 years and in it Mr. Snow reared a family of four sons and three daughters.

Recently he lived at 1014 W. Las Olas Blvd. Mrs. Snow was killed in an automobile accident in Vero Beach in 1936. The accident left Snow with an arthritic condition which restricted his activities.

He was a seed and fertilizer merchant for many years and an ardent amateur horticulturist.

In addition to serving as mayor, Mr. Snow was chairman of the School Board, chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board for 20 years, a member of the Okeechobee Flood Control Board, and a past president of the Rotary Club.

Survivors include four sons, Perry, Russell, Ralph and Morris, all of Fort Lauderdale; three daughters, Miss Julia, and Mrs. Madelyn Stark, Fort Lauderdale; and Mrs. Rosemary Frasch, Philadelphia; three sisters, three brothers and 14 grandchildren.

Suspect Held In $155 Stickup

FORT LAUDERDALE — James W. Mohan, 30, of 2550 SW 54th Ave., West Hollywood, was booked at county jail Wednesday for the Jan. 6 armed robbery of Peter Kappesser, shoe store manager.

Deputy Sheriff Al Topel made the arrest in a bar at State Rd. 7 and Hallandale Beach Blvd. Mohan is an unemployed sheet metal worker.

Kappesser was robbed of $155 and some checks as he was making a night deposit at the Citizens Bank, Topel said.

"He (Kappesser) positively identified the suspect," the deputy reported.

Dairyman, School Board Swap Tracts

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — The School Board Wednesday gave Dairyman J. N. McArthur the 10-acres he had deeded it for a football field at McArthur High School in 1957.

In return the board accepted a different 10-acre plot.

The mixup all began when the philanthropist gave the board a tract in the rear of the school, Board Member John O. Calvin said.

Inadvertently, the school's tract was sold to developers who sold it to other developers who recently discovered the error, he said. It had been included in the large parcel changing hands.

McArthur now has given the school as a replacement a 10-acre plot fronting 360 feet on Hollywood Blvd. It is of much greater value than the first grant, Calvin said.

'Rashomon' Weaves an Oriental Charm

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK — There is a fantastic, fairyland quality about "Rashomon," the Oriental bedevilment which opened this week at the Music Box Theater on Broadway. It has charm, enchantment and enticement. Each quality you must interpret yourself.

With a diamond embellishment of stars including Claire Bloom, Rod Steiger, Oscar Homolka, and Akim Tamiroff, this exciting production by Peter Glenville, surprisingly, begins to make sense as it moves further into the story by Fay and Michael Kanin.

You have to get into the mood of the drama, with accompanying bells and music, to understand it. Appreciate is probably a better word than understand, for the analysis of the play has to do with the emotional reactions of four people who are caught in rape and murder in a sacred place in Japan.

This was in Kyoto, Japan, about 1,000 years ago.

The story has to do with a ruthless bandit (played with ruthless vigor by Rod Steiger) who comes to rob a Japanese family. Instead, he chooses the gentle wife, as played with wistful tenderness by Claire Bloom, as his booty.

The dignified husband is tied up, and he is given several chances to cut his bonds and save his wife's honor. Each time his dignity will not permit him to do so. The wife is then free to choose her future love, and that is the bandit.

While this realistic tale is being spoken, sung and performed, there is a side scene in which a priest, a woodcutter, and a wigmaker are making commentaries about the problems of husband, wife and more attractive (to the wife) bandit.

"Rashomon" is a beautifully performed treasure land of theater, and Glenville has given it the suave touch in direction.

With the splendid players, this production in particular should be saluted for the settings of Oliver Messel, lighting by Jo Mielzeiner, and music by Laurence Rosenthal.

Although "Rashomon" is a play with music, there are no musical numbers from which you can sing a tune. But there are plenty sword duels which clash with thunder and bang.

School Board May Fine Teachers Who Quit Work

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — School Board members voted Wednesday to ask Attorney General Richard Ervin for an opinion on whether they can impose a monetary penalty against teachers who break teaching contracts without a just cause.

In calling for a "get tough" policy, Board Member John Calvin said present contracts, issued by the state, give school boards "little protection."

Board Member Dean Dessenberger also referred to the contracts as "one-sided deals."

Calvin said several teachers have broken their contracts "just because they didn't want to teach here any longer."

He contended the practice is detrimental to children and works an unnecessary hardship on school officials.

In other action the board:

VOTED to reinstate a teacher, Mrs. Claudia Holland, who had been fired after being on probation several years. Circuit Judge Otis Farrington recently decreed that the teacher is entitled to a continuing contract.

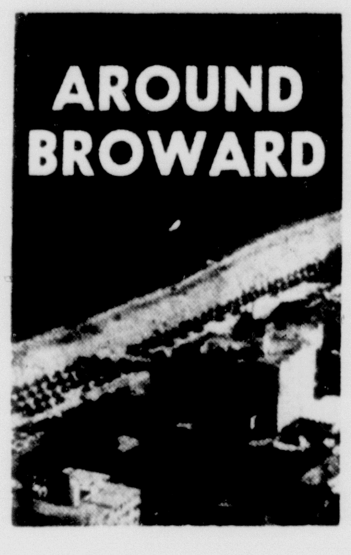
VOTED to change the name of Amante Elementary School to Stephen Foster, as recommended by the school's Parent-Teacher Association.

TABLED plans to advertise for bids for the construction of six portable classrooms at Sanders Park Elementary School in Pompano Beach. The board indicated it would do the job itself.

Western with Sound

Meanwhile, Back On the Bridge--

Mrs. Barbara G. Steinke, HALLANDALE BEACH Blvd. bridge tender, got real sound effects with the western yarn she was reading 2:30 a.m. Wednesday.



A car plowed into the small frame bridge tender's building, knocked her off her seat and shoved the structure off it's foundation.

"I was reading a good western and didn't see the car coming," said Mrs. Steinke. She was treated for lacerations at Memorial Hospital.

Police charged Anthony T. Vam Vaks, 23, of 213 SE Ninth ST., FORT LAUDERDALE, with reckless driving and causing an accident.

How Come?

Vice Mayor Russell Wilson of HALLANDALE said Wednesday he will ask today why Industrial and Agricultural Fair promoters have not paid for their occupational license yet.

The fair, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled to run Feb. 23-28, and is promoted by private backers from an office at the the site on Federal Hwy.

Wilson said the City Commission, with assurance from the chamber to "act as watchdog," okayed a $1,000 license fee. But promoters hadn't applied for the license up until Tuesday evening.

'We'll Try'

The State Road Department has promised to repair State Rd. A1A north of 18th St. and make further efforts to quiet sounds of traffic on the SE Ninth Ave. bridge, FORT LAUDERDALE, City Manager William J. Veeder said Wednesday.

However, Winston Carlton, district engineer for the SRD, wouldn't promise complete success with the bridge. "There are two things I can't do," Carlton said, "stop pile drivers from making noise or take all the noise out of a wooden deck on a steel bridge, but we'll try."

Crane Victim

The condition of Arthur Allen, 46, of 942 NE First Ave., injured when a pile driving crane he was operating near Boynton Beach tipped over, was described as fair Wednesday at Lauderdale Beach Hospital.

A fellow worker, Al Allen, Pompano Beach, was killed. The 35-foot boom struck Allen as he stood atop a piling. The crane was being used to restore a seawall in front of a fashionable home facing the Spanish River Tuesday.

Demo Dinner

The Broward County Democratic Club has invited successful and defeated candidates to put aside political differences — at least for a night.

The politicians, along with retiring county officials, have been asked to the club's installation dinner at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the reef in FORT LAUDERDALE, said Mrs. Ann Cramer, chairman, of West Hollywood.

New officers are John Rozell, president; C. R. Cohen, vice president and Mrs. Martin Kindle, secretary.

Land Switch

The North Broward Hospital District will consider releasing more than 100,000 acres to the South Broward District at the February meeting.

H. C. Schwartz, chairman of to South Broward unit, said the two districts unofficially agreed on the land switch at a dinner meeting Monday. The tract is located in the extreme southwest corner of the county.

. . . The Alligator Boy offers a sample of his acting

'Alligator Boy' Ready to Rassle TV Role--Prefers Swamp Life

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — California had its nature boy, North Carolina its backwoods female, Long Sam. And now comes Florida with an alligator boy.

From Broward County and its nearby Everglades swamps, a shaggy-haired, 22-year-old youth who scorns the luxuries of civilization, has appeared.

He is Rick Hoover, who said he . . .

—Was born and raised on his grandfather's 37-foot fishing boat . . .

—Fought a shark with homemade diving equipment, wrestled a 'gator, killed a deer with a bow and arrow . . .

—Would rather sleep under a palm in the Glades than in the finest Gold Coast hotel, and refuses to sleep in beds at all . . .

—Likes snake meat and has eaten a spider.

"The Everglades are my playground," the slender, 6-2 youth said. "My grandfather and I have fished all through the Glades. I know them like the palm of my hand."

But the alligator boy may develop a soft spot for one bit of civilization—television.

Hoover was "discovered" by 27-year-old Robert Harke of 2554 Marathon Lane. Harke is making plans to cash in on the boy's Everglades background by building a television show around him.

"It'll be sort of a cops and robbers idea, but from the alligators and crocodiles angle," said Harke. "We've been given the go-ahead by an agent in Hollywood.

"The boy has had no acting experience. We believe his non-conformist personality alone will be enough."

Of Hoover's non-conformity, there is no doubt.

He wears his hair long and shaggy. Though clean shaven now, he wore a beard until he was kidded recently that he looked like Fidel Castro. His clothes are clean, and roughly casual.

Despite three years in the Navy spent traveling over a good portion of the world, he clings doggedly to his simple habits.

Here are Hoover's own comments on his non-conformities:

ON REFUSING TO SLEEP IN BED — "Our backs are made straight and strong. By sleeping on hard floors we keep them that way. (Hoover is staying with Harke and Harke says he can't make him use a bed).

ON LIVING IN THE GLADES — "I've stayed there for as long as a week at a time alone. I believe I could stay there indefinitely. Eat fish, deer, turtles, snakes, all sorts of wild life."

ON WRESTLING ALLIGATORS — I tried it once just to see if I could. It wasn't too hard. I took a six-footer, held his mouth together and tickled his belly. No trouble."

ON LONGEVITY — "I think I'll live to be 105. Grandfather died at 83, but he didn't take care of himself . . . Started eating soft foods when he got old."

ON MOVIES — "I can count on one hand how many I've been to. I don't see any use in watching a movie when I can go out and fight a shark and have my own adventures."

ON PRESSED CLOTHES — "I don't see any point in them."

ON SPIDER EATING — "I saw some kids pestering one once. They were torturing the poor thing. Finally I just picked up the spider, threw it in the root beer I was drinking, and swallowed it."

ON SHARK FIGHTING — "I've only come across one. I was skin diving with my homemade knife and spear. I hit the shark across the mouth and it ran."

Asked if he will eat better if he should successfully penetrate the hard outer shell of show business, the youth answered:

"Better? Sir, I couldn't possibly eat any better than I am now!"

Year's Profit: $100,000

Dollars Winging In At Broward Airport

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Money is rolling in at Broward International Airport, and some day—but not soon — the county may be faced with the problem of what to do with it all.

For the first quarter of this fiscal year, it showed a profit of $47,000. There was an earned surplus of $200,468, of which $161,978 was a cash balance.

Profits for the year probably will go over $100,000. The prospect for succeeding years is almost dizzying, as more business firms, airlines and concessionaires make use of its facilities.

Then the problem of how to make use of the money may arise from a restriction which the government placed on the deed. It requires the county to put back all revenue from the field into maintenance and improvements.

The county has embarked on a $2,500,000 improvement program. The first phase, construction of a terminal building, tower, access road from Federal Hwy., parking lot and loading ramps, should be completed by Feb. 15. This will account for $725,000 of which the federal government is paying nearly half.

After that will come lengthening of two main runways and better runway lighting. Lee E. Wagener, county aviation director, feels the new terminal building will need an addition within two years, and it has been built to accommodate one.

He has prepared a master plan for development of the airport that will take several years to complete, so the problem of what to do with the money won't be pressing for some time.

Although profits from the airport operation are still far from astronomical, the rate at which they're rising gives some idea of what they may be in five or 10 years.

Profits last year were approximately $65,000. Five years ago they were $20,000.

Landings and takeoffs in 1955 numbered 56,000. Last year they were 121,000.

As more business develops and more facilities are built, more sources of revenue are added.

When the new building opens next month, the county will start getting income from the various concessions—parking, restaurant, trip insurance, gift and newsstand—and from airline space.

These will add a minimum of about $3,500 a month. Each concession holder must pay a minimum or a percentage of his gross receipts, whichever is greater.

The airport is now collecting $1,000 a month from rental car operators and has been getting a minimum of $200 a month from a limousine service.

Airlines will pay $2,000 a month for terminal space.

The government is expected to pay half the cost of future improvements, which means the county will be getting them at a bargain and probably won't have to go into debt for them.

Wagener expects profits from the airport in the next two years to more than pay for the county's share of the cost of the terminal buildings, ramps and access road.

Barefoot Mailman? He Couldn't Have Made It in Pompano Beach

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — Just because you have a Pompano Beach mailing address doesn't mean you live in Pompano Beach.

You may live in Margate, or Hillsboro Beach, or Lighthouse Point — but your address will still be Pompano.

As a matter of fact, you can live anywhere along a three-quarter mile stretch of State Rd. 7 in Palm Beach County, and still get mail delivery from Pompano.

This post office serves an estimated 38,000 mail patrons (year round) spread over a 90-square mile area of North Broward County, said Postmaster Sam Wallace.

People living as far away as Broadview Country Club Estates, about eight miles southwest of here, live in Pompano Beach, so far as the post office is concerned.

Some of the 26 city delivery routes deliver mail right up to the edge of Deerfield Beach.

For all practical purposes, you live in Pompano as far south on SR A1A as 21st St. On Federal Hwy., it's as far south as McNab Rd.

North, the local mail territory goes to the Deerfield limits, except for that area along SR 7.

To serve this area, the main post office and a beach branch office are supplemented by five contact stations. They're located in Margate, Pompano Beach Highlands, Lighthouse Point, Hammondville Rd. and Pompano Isles.

Wallace has made a request for two additional contract offices — one at Shopper's Haven and another at the Beachway Shopping Center, both on Federal Hwy.

Some real estate developers have profited by Pompano Beach's farflung mail delivery service.

They have been able to advertise their subdivisions with a Pompano Beach mailing address — giving the impression to newcomers that the property is in the city.

Some promoters have been so brazen as to mention in their large advertisements that the development is "in beautiful Pompano Beach" while it may be a half dozen miles away.

And in these same ads, the promoters play heavily on the fact that "there are no city taxes."

The Chamber of Commerce has become concerned about such misrepresentation.

Chamber president Lloyd Cassels says you can't stop a developer from including his Pompano Beach mailing address in the advertisement. "But they're going too far when they deliberately claim their subdivision is in Pompano Beach," Cassels said.

City officials have also expressed concern. They are frequently questioned by newcomers who live out of town, who want to register to vote for the municipal elections, or use city recreational facilities because they have a Pompano Beach address.

He Gets Break Out of Breakage

Thermometer Down--Income Up

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

DANIA — When Mom gets panicky over Junior running a temperature and accidentally shatters a fever thermometer on the terrazzo floor . . .

When the thermometer flies out of the inexperienced hold of a student nurse trying to shake the mercury from it's salt reading . . .

Then Tom Joynes' business goes up.

Joynes, of 310 NE First Ct., makes fever thermometers. His shop is a large room at the rear of his house.

Thermometers, Joynes says, will last for more than 100 years if they are not broken.

"Breakage is what keeps me in business," said Joynes who has been making thermometers since 1933.

He moved to Dania in 1945 from Nashville, Tenn. He and his brother, Malcolm, had their own business here, then Malcolm moved back to Nashville in 1952.

But distance didn't change their working arrangement.

Malcolm still does the glassblowing (in Nashville). He mails about eight gross (144 thermometers in a gross) weekly to brother Tom who "locks the mercury, sets the mercury levels (high and low temperature points) and seals the bore (at the top end of the thermometer)."

Outlet for the brothers' merchandise is the Eisle Co. in Nashville, where Joynes, now 50, got his start. The firm engraves temperature scales on the thermometers, puts them through rigid accuracy tests.

Profitable business for Tom Joynes?

"I've managed to make a living, nothing more," he said.

The highly-skilled work demands steady nerves and good eyes, he said.

You can pick up a thermometer in a drug store for $1 to $2.50. Joynes gets about 10 cents each. Breakage and rejects bite heavily into earnings, as do mailing costs, which run an average of $18 per month.

Joynes has never sold a thermometer to any company other than the Eisle firm, despite offers. His loyalty to the firm remained steadfast even after 1949, the year the company president, Logan Eisle, mysteriously disappeared on a fishing trip, leaving the business to his son.

"I could have contracted with somebody else," said Joynes, "but Mr. Eisle kept me working constantly even in hard times and I feel that I owe it to him to keep supplying the company."

Joynes' workshop looks more like a swap shop.

There's a freezer, an ice crusher (ice is used for temperature control), gas burners for glass blowing, boilers, a machine to force mercury into a thermometer.

Joynes said his occupation fascinates neighbors and guests but it's unpopular in his own home.

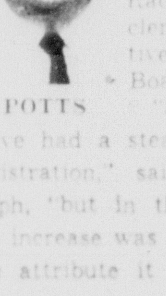
Son Bob, 23, and Linda Ruth, 16, said their father's job is "boring, too confining and nerve racking." A married daughter, Mrs. Jo Holiday, never took to thermometers either.

"She does call me to take the baby's temperature reading though," said Mrs. Joynes, who helps her husband when he gets behind.

13,175 Felt Draft in 1958

Rolls of Selective Service Boosted by 'War Babies'

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer



POTTS

FORT LAUDERDALE — "War babies" who have reached draft age are now swelling the rolls of registration at the local draft board.

"But the actual number we're drafting isn't increasing accordingly," said Mrs. Rachel Rudolph, clerk of Selective Service Board 44 here.

"Since 1955, we've had a steady climb in registration," said Mrs. Rudolph, "but in the last year the increase was much larger. We attribute it to the 'war babies' of World War II who are now reaching draft age."

She said that in 1958 there were 13,175 registered for the draft, an increase of 1,647 over the 1957 total.

The number of men drafted in Broward has varied from as low as four to as high as 14 monthly. About 12 men are drafted in an average month.

Mrs. Rudolph said the board here is now taking men born in 1936, making the average age of the present draftee 22.

"At our present rate a boy can finish high school and go through college before getting drafted — without even getting a college deferment."

Fathers are not being drafted now, but no priority is being given married men, she said.

Mrs. Rudolph also said that the local board has now been given the job of handling standby reservists and determining who should be called in under the standby program.

"Before now the standbys have been handled on a national level. There was a lot of criticism of the way men were called in during the Korean conflict, and I believe it stemmed from the fact that it wasn't done on the local level. Now that we are handling it from the local level, we should be able to determine more properly who should be called in."

She said there are about 900 standby reservists in this area. Men in this category can be called to active duty only in the event of a national emergency.

WILTON MANORS — Boy Scout Troop 115, which last year bought a bus for a camping trip, is now busy forming a drum and bugle corps.

The boys did a multitude of jobs to pay for the bus. They went about their music project the same way.

Starting last September, they earned $1,500 to provide each of the 40 scouts with his own instrument

Now they're practicing regularly under the expert tuition of Lee Kirkpatrick. Fancy drill is part of the curriculum.

They're hoping to be in fine form by the time Boy Scout Week comes along next month.

The troop is sponsored by the Wilton Manors Kiwanis Club. George Lee is the scoutmaster.

Mrs. Lee said the boys are hoping to make another camping trip this summer—this time to New York and Washington.

"They've got a new ambition," she said. "They want to see the President."

4 Intersections Fail To Pass 'Light' Test

POMPANO BEACH — A traffic survey of four Hammondville Rd., intersections showed none met minimum traffic requirements for installation of traffic lights.

Police Chief James E. Boggs told a group of northwest section representatives at a special commission meeting that an intersection must show a 750-auto average per hour during an eight-hour survey, and at least 175 autos per hour must enter from the sidestreet before the State Road Department will consider a traffic signal.

At Fourth St., the survey showed a total 631 cars with 48 entering onto Hammondville; at Sixth, 565 and 42; at Seventh, 531 and 18; at 10th, 535 and 26.

Committee To Hear Wyrtzen

FORT LAUDERDALE — Evangelist Jack Wyrtzen and his team will speak at the Friday noon meeting of the Christian Business Men's Committee at Park Temple Church.

The Wyrtzen team — consisting of Norman Clayton, organist, and Ken Nanfelt, soloist —is here to conduct the "word of life rally" at the armory, Thursday through Saturday.

Approximately 350 businessmen and city officials are expected for the luncheon.

Indications are that the event will be a sell-out, but all businessmen are urged to attend.

Bank Names Attorney

POMPANO BEACH — William G. Miller Jr., Fort Lauderdale attorney, has been elected director of the Farmers Bank of Pompano. His late father, W. Gerry Miller, was one of the bank's founding directors.

Other directors for 1959 are R. C. Kester, Bruce Blount, Mrs. Jane Archibald, C. O. Stubbs, Robert L. Kester, G. Hughes Archibald Jr., C. R. Mayes Jr. and S. R. Kester.

Reelected as officers were R. C. Kester, board chairman; Robert L. Kester, president; C. O. Stubbs, executive vice president; Stanley E. Stubbs and Samuel L. Geer, assistant vice presidents.

Register Deadline? It's Friday

POMPANO BEACH — If you have not registered to vote at City Hall by 8 p.m. Friday, you will not be eligible to cast a ballot in the Feb. 10 primary, or Feb. 17 general elections.

Mrs. Winifred Sharp, city clerk, has maintained extra office hours (to 8 p.m.) each evening this week to accommodate voters.

By city ordinance, all voters had to reregister prior to the upcoming election, even though they may have been registered voters in previous city elections.

Women Find Answer to Par

HOLLYWOOD — When more unusual methods of arranging golf tournaments are devised, the Hollywood Women's Golf Association will get into the act.

This Friday's play is "made" for the gals who have particular trouble with Orange Brook CC's par four holes.

Contestants will count only the par three, five and six tests. They can use half of their handicaps in figuring net scores.

Last Friday's tourney was a low gross affair over nine holes, with the respective Class A, B and C winners being Marcella Harris, Dot Frederickson and Helen Michalak.

Begorra! 8th Irish Fair Set

By RICK TUTTLE
Hollywood Bureau Chief

HOLLYWOOD—The City Recreation Department has started planning its eighth annual Irish Fair to be held March 14-17, Director Patrick Heneghan said Wednesday.

"We are putting the emphasis on youth as we have in past years with 55 events for the youngsters," Heneghan said.

A freckle contest will also be held along with a doll show and a cake bake, he said.

Some 900 awards will be presented.

Athletic events will include a swimming meet, tennis tournament, golf tournament, sailing regatta and field events.

One highlight of the four-day celebration will be an Irish musical, "Kilarney," with direction and choreography by Eileen Wall. Miss Wall said the show will have a cast of 160.

Tryouts are being held at Hollywood Teen Center this Saturday and next. Auditions will run from 1 to 3 p.m.

"You don't have to be Irish to be in the fair, but it helps," said Heneghan.

13 Years of Study And He's an M.D.

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Dr. Donald C. Bullington has been studying for 13 years. Now he's going to begin practicing his profession.

Dr. Bullington is one of five Broward County doctors who recently received their licenses to practice in Florida. The others previously practiced elsewhere.

Dr. Bullington, 31, was born in Detroit and received his bachelor's and medical degrees from the University of Michigan, where he also took his residency in general surgery, just completed last June.

He moved to Florida with his wife and their three children, Dick, 13, Mary, 6, and Lynn, 5, to join Dr. Gordon Carver, also a Michigan man, in Hollywood.

The Bullingtons live at 420 S. 57th Ter., Hollywood.

Dr. Bullington has been working at the South Florida State Hospital since he arrived here in September. Of the other four newly licenses (in Florida) doctors, three are also on the hospital staff. They are Dr. Ephraim Horland, Dr. Irving L. Breakstone and Dr. Mordecai Haber, clinical director of the hospital.

The fifth is Dr. William P. Mimnagh Jr., Pompano Beach.

The Scots To Parade Saturday

HOLLYWOOD — The Scotch Day program will get under way here Saturday at 2:30 p.m. on the David Park Lawn Bowling Green with a dedication address by Mayor Edmond L. McMorrough.

A girls soccer game will be held at 3 p.m. at Dowdy Field. There will also be pole vaulting competition between McArthur and McNichols schools.

The parade will begin at 4:30 p.m. at the FEC railway and travel east down Hollywood Blvd. to Young Circle.

Units will include a drum and bugle corps, majorettes, city officials, kilted fifth and sixth grade students from West Hollywood, Highlanders float, Scotch picnickers, McArthur High band, and Boy and Girl Scout units.

At 6 p.m. a dinner honoring James Donn will be held at Switzerland restaurant. Donn, a Scotsman naturally, is a civic leader here. He will receive an appreciation plaque.

The day will climax with a show at Young Circle bandshell at 8 p.m.

Boat and Sports Show To Boost Youth Fund Of Downtown Kiwanis

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Downtown Kiwanis Club hopes to net $10,000 for its youth work through sponsorship of the sixth annual Boat and Sports Show.

The War Memorial Auditorium show, Feb. 5-8, is expected to attract 20,000 visitors, and the TTTT ("ten thousand total take") goal is based on that supposition. Tickets are available for club members.

Net show proceeds revert to the club's projects on behalf of worthy boys and girls.

The 1958 show raised $8,265, and the money was used for 11 major purposes, including a scholarship fund, a summer camp expenditure for eight boys from broken homes, help in operation of a Negro YMCA summer day camp, and milk for farm migrant children during last winter's cold spell.

Show general chairman Ken King said that in addition to next Sunday's decorated boat parade showing off Safe Boating Week a downtown street motorcade is being set up for next Thursday.

The boat parade, in the Intracoastal Waterway between Brook Memorial Causeway and Sunrise Key, will begin at 1 p.m., the motorcade at 10 a.m.

Six finalists in the "Miss Dreamboat" beauty contest will ride atop a lead car in the Thursday parade, to begin and end on E. Broward Blvd.

Pencil Makers Raise a Point

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Pencil manufacturers are giving ball point pen makers stiff competition with 350 different kinds of pencils good for writing almost anywhere but ON TOP of water.

The Lead Pencil Manufacturers Association claims that 90 per cent of all writing still is done with the old-fashioned style pencil, which consists merely of a stick of lead encased in wood, with the point at one end and an eraser at the other.

That was the original type of pencil, introduced only a little more than 100 years ago, according to the association.

But there are all sorts of lead writing instruments to choose from today.

with a few drops of moisture

There is a jumbo pencil, for kindergarten and first grade students. There are standard general-use pencils with lead in six degrees of hardness, to suit all writing tastes.

There are colored pencils in 36 different shades. Some are made with water-soluble leads, so they can be used for drawing colored pictures and then converted to water color with a few drops of moisture applied in the right way.

Other pencils are water-resistant. These are useful for labelling phlox and petunias in the garden or for writing junior's name on his rubbers, boots and raincoat.

One new pencil development is the pencil that writes on glass, cellophane, plastic or any other slippery surface.

That means a housewife can label her jars of preserves merely by writing on them, instead of going to the trouble of using stickers. The same pencil also can be used to mark freezer packages.

No Blues In Budget

LIGHTHOUSE POINT — This city's doing well so far on its budget.

Treasurer Paul W. Jacobus reported that expenses are about eight per cent less than budgeted and receipts are nearly 10 per cent higher than anticipated.

Because of the "liquidity" of the city's assets, Jacobus was authorized to invest another $20,000 in two different savings and loan institutions.

Stable Fees Still Unpaid

POMPANO BEACH — Sam Rayburn, supervisor of the city-owned Sand and Spurs Stables, reported to the City Commission this week that only about half the people have paid their monthly rental fees.

Deadline for payment is Jan. 30, Rayburn said, and only 21 of 49 have paid.

The commission told him to follow terms of the city agreement, and order evacuation of those who fail to pay.

Directory Adds 10,000 Listings

FORT LAUDERDALE — Approximately 110,000 new telephone directories are being distributed to homes and businesses.

Delivery of the new books is expected to be completed by today. The book contains 10,000 additional listings this year.

7 Artists Rewarded

HOLLYWOOD — Awards have been presented to seven artists who displayed their work in the eighth annual Hollywood Arts and Crafts Guild exhibition at City Recreation Department.

They are: Oils, Edythe McCowan, first; Marie Kresge, second; Paul Rachman, third; other media, Lada Blacker, first; Kay Frain, second; crafts, Vera Rowland, first; Kitty Jarvela, second.

4 Babies Win Honors

HALLANDALE — The Industrial and Agricultural Fair's baby contest ended in a three-way tie. The fair will be held here Feb. 23-28.

David Wayne Carper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Carper of West Hollywood, Gregory Lee Coole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hardol Coole of Hallandale, and Randy Guento, son of Mrs. Eleanor Guento of Hallandale, were the winners.

Deborah Chapps, daughter of Mrs. Anne Chapps of Hallandale, won the girls' division.

Farmers Get Tax Reminder

FORT LAUDERDALE — Saturday is the deadline for farm operators to file reports on social security taxes paid to 1958 employes, Paul L. Byrley, manager of the Fort Lauderdale district office of the Social Security Administration, said Wednesday.

Byrley said reports must be filed if an employe earns more than $150 a year, or performs jobs in at least 20 different days of a calendar year.

Beth-El Elects Mailman

HOLLYWOOD — A. L. Mailman has been elected president of Temple Beth-El.

Mailman, of 914 S. Lake Dr., received unanimous approval from the membership.

MAILMAN

Milton Forman, 1205 Adams St., was named executive vice president.

Other officers include: Dr. Harry Permesly, Henry Kest and Sydney Selinger, vice presidents; Dr. Morton Abram, secretary; Dr. Maurice Samuels, treasurer, and Malcolm Neuwahl, financial secretary.

Samuel Z. Jaffee serves as congregation rabbi.

Night Beach Patrols Rejected

POMPANO BEACH — A survey by the Police Department and lifeguards has disclosed there is no need for additional beach patrols at night for the south portion of the public beach, said City Manager James Hughes.

Hughes did recommend to the commission, however, that some floodlights be erected in the area.

Residents of the Ever April cooperative apartments had complained there was too much activity at night in the area and they felt it should be better patrolled.

Countywide Board OKd

POMPANO BEACH — The City Commission went on record as favoring a countywide zoning and planning board, but they're not in favor of creating a new tax district to support it.

They approved a resolution this week endorsing the idea, but pointed out they're more anxious to have a coordinated county board to work with local municipalities.

They also felt that municipalities should have representation on the board.

Time for Decision On Topic of Today

MAKING IMPORTANT decisions has always been difficult for me.

Like today, for instance.

I don't know what to write about.

There are so many intriguing subjects.

I could, for example, tell you about a quilting bee the 18th Ave. Sewing Circle is having this afternoon. But I've been warned not to.

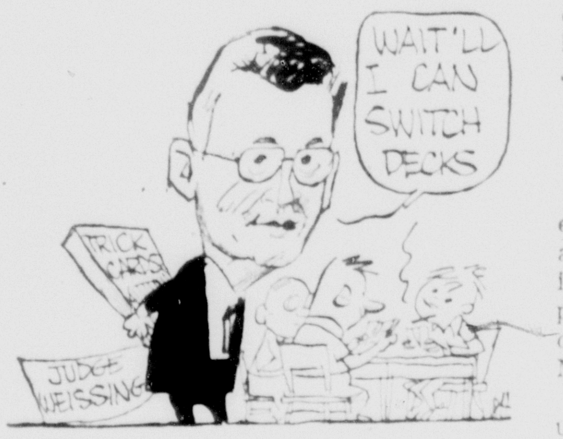
Or about a young man who is leaving an important job here to marry a Vero Beach widow with five kids. But again I've been threatened with decapitation.

I could caution some card-playing friends of Judge Louis Weissing that the judge is acquiring a deck of trick cards which he plans to use against them Saturday night. But that wouldn't be fair to the judge.

* * *

Hail to Old IU

DURING THE breakfast hour this morning a radio disc jockey played "Stardust" and I could tell you how Hoagy Carmichael happened to write it while a student at Indiana University. But Forrest Crane and Mel Kenyon say they'll stop reading me if I ever mention Indiana again. So that's out.



County Commissioner Vivian Saxon would appreciate, I think, another column on my Aunt Lidell—the woman who waits tables at a veterans hospital by day and sells corsets at night. Every Tuesday afternoon Vivian greets me by asking: "How's Auntie?"

I could use this space to remind my boss that I will be eligible for a five-year service pin next month, and that I have my acceptance speech ready for the printer.

* * *

Embarrassing Answer

OR I COULD use it to answer a young lady who stopped me in a restaurant a few weeks ago and asked, in a loud voice, if the stuff I write is true. Most embarrasing.

An explanation also is due a young Pompano Beach woman who recently asked one of our neighbors, Betty Maloni, if she and her husband are on speaking terms with the Joneses.

Said she never sees Betty's name in my column, and wondered why.

Bill Drainer, supervisor of elementary education in the county, passes along a note annoucing that Mrs. Sara Syrygley of Florida State University will speak to school principals and librarians here next month on "The role of the Material Center in Modern Grade Schools."

And here I am—out of space—and still undecided.

National Defense Week Won't Be Recognizable

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — National Defense Week will be observed here in two weeks, but you probably won't recognize it as such.

Instead of parades, demonstrations of firepower, or open house at military installations, emphasis will be placed on educating residents on "the need for effective reserve strength capable of reinforcing the active military force."

"We're emphasizing that national defense is everyone's responsibility," said Lt. Herbert E. Lutz, USCGR, president of the Broward County Chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association.

Lutz said civic, veteran, patriotic, religious and other groups will be asked to join in the 36th annual national observance.

He pointed out that there are more than four million reservists in this country, and said they "play an important role in defending the U.S. and the free world."

Chairman of the local observance is Lt. Col. Frederic A. Kibbe, USAR, former chapter and state president of the Reserve Officers' Association.

Dividends Readied

STOCKHOLDERS of the First National Bank of Pompano Beach are to receive a 20 per cent stock dividend and a new issue of $500,000 is to be offered to them Feb. 25, said President Walter Hobbs.

The dividend will boost the capital stock of the four-year-old institution from $500,000 to $600,000, and the new sale at $25 a share will produce an additional $500,000. This will bring the total assets to $1,425,000.

Hobbs reported to the stockholders that earnings during 1958 amounted to $5.26 a share for 50,000 shares. Resources now total $28,500,000, and deposits $36,733,437. There are 14,358 depositors.

In elections last week, W. Kenneth Pittman was elevated from vice president to executive vice president. Robert H. Bateman, one of the founders, became a vice president. Robert S. Smith was made assistant vice president, Andrew B. Becton and Mrs. Carol Miller assistant cashiers.

Other officers, headed by Hobbs and Board Chairman Arthur H. Ogle, were reelected.

WEST HOLLYWOOD

Incorporation Look? Good, Maybe . . . Dead

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

HERE'S HOW the stakes stack up (this week) in the wide-open incorporation race.

FRAN

West Hollywood — Definitely going ahead and has a well-planned campaign, but may face a setback if it attempts to include Pembroke Pines.

Driftwood Acres and Miami Gardens — A lot of action. Favored to fall in with West Hollywood.

Pembroke Pines—Good odds that a concentrated incorporation move, backed by the powerful Homeowner's Association, will bring home a winner in the Feb. 28 election.

Carver Ranches—Scratched, after the second effort to form a city failed this month.

Miramar Eyes Bell Franchise

IF MIRAMAR'S political storm subsides Monday night, the city council will discuss an item that should be of interest to every taxpayer in the community—the Southern Bell Telephone franchise.

It has been placed on the agenda but a few doubting politicos say there may not be time to discuss it because of a continued hassle over municipal appointments.

However, severl members of the new council appear ready to cast aside personal feelings in the heated debate around recently resigned Mayor Charles Knapp, to get on with town business.

One close observer predicted that the two sides may temporarily bury the hatchet. Many residents, including Knapp, say the resulting publicity has been harmful to the community.

Meanwhile, the franchise with Bell, which has been hanging fire for nearly two years, may affect the pocket books of homeowners.

The telephone company is not required to give Miramar more than one per cent of the profits, according to acting City Clerk Marion Fischer. Anything above that must be collected from the users.

The figure of three per cent has been unofficially mentioned. But the council has given on indication what percentage it will seek—if any.

Highway Death: A Monument

THE DEATH last week of a pedestrian, hit by a jeep as he attempted to cross State Rd. 7, is a tragic monument to West Hollywood Chamber of Commerce efforts to get additional traffic lights along the busy boulevard.

For the last year, the chamber has complained periodically to the County Commission about a lack of lights in congested areas.

"It's almost impossible to cross the boulevard in the early evening hours," said Lois Carey, chamber secretary.

RR to Move Warehouse?

POMPANO BEACH — The Florida East Coast Railway has indicatedd it may agree to move the warehouse from between First St. and Atlantic, on Flagler Ave., if the city would pay for the relocation.

Removal of the building would allow for a continuance of Flagler Ave. through to Atlantic Blvd., or provide additional off-street parking.

City Manager James Hughes said the matter is being given further study by FEC officials.

George S. Barrett, Left, Gets Badge
. . . from Hallandale Police Chief Robert R. Aiken

Guard of Kings Now Protects Golden Isles

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

HALLANDALE — Retired northern detectives don't fade away, they come to South Florida and find new jobs.

George S. Barrett is no exception.

The veteran sleuth has 25 years of Philadelphia police work behind him. He is security chief at H. B. Layne's canal-laced Golden Isles development.

His office is not a musty old Philly precinct, but the ultra-modern sun-bathed entrance of Golden Isles.

Elegant surroundings are not new to Barrett, however. He was with the security detail for King George and Queen Elizabeth when the royal party made its famous 1939 tour of the U.S.

A linguist, Barrett won other assignments guarding visiting foreign dignitaries. He speaks Spanish, French and Italian.

The seasoned detective also supplemented federal security agents of Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower during their visits to the City of Brotherly Love.

Hoods found the going particulary rough while the ex-Philadelphia policeman was around. He won six citations for crime busting, and headed the investigation that cracked the big construction payroll robbery at Philadelphia General Hospital several years ago.

A break in the case came when Barrett spotted a porter furtively leaving work before quitting time one day.

He trailed the porter to Wilmington, N.C., and with the aid of police there arrested four men. The five-day old case was closed.

An elusive thug who plagued Philadelphia merchants with "once-a-week" robberies was captured the hard way. Barrett saw the thief enter a store, and subdued him with a flying tackle. The offender was sent to prison.

In an off-beat assignment, Barrett saved a Brazilian military officer from prison after the Philadelphia detective proved the officer had been framed. He received glowing tribute from the Brazilian government.

Collins Advises Caution

IIF Defers Action On Bulkhead Line

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund deferred action Tuesday on a move by a Fort Lauderdale man to restore with a fill riverfront property he gave the state for highway improvement.

The City of Fort Lauderdale applied for approval of a bulkhead line it has fixed in the north fork of New River, abutting the Broward Blvd. bridge.

Director Van Ferguson said the bulkhead line was drawn to permit Grant E. Wenkstern, an attorney, to rebuild his riverfront property to the size it was before he gave a sizable chunk to provide right of way for improvement of the highway.

Ferguson said the fill that was proposed would extend no farther than 95 feet in the river and would be 187 feet long.

"I don't like the looks of this," Gov. LeRoy Collins said. "This fill would abut a bridge, possible interference with the view from the highway and I think we should proceed with great caution."

The trustees decided to make no decision until they can study an aerial photograph of the area to determine the effect of the proposed fill.

Novelist Zvi Kolitz To Speak

HOLLYWOOD—Zvi Kolitz novelist, columnist and motion picture producer, will speak at the initial gifts breakfast of the Jewish Welfare Federation of Hollywood Sunday at 10 a.m.

The breakfast will be held at the Hollywood Beach Hotel.

Kolitz is author and executive producer of Israel's first major motion picture, "Hill 24 Doesn't Answer."

He has been a contributor to top Israeli dailies.

The breakfast will be the last formal meeting before the annual fund-raising dinner Feb. 8, at the hotel.

In addition to supporting the United Jewish Appeal and 25 other national and world-wide charities, the JWF allocates funds to local institutions such as Memorial Hospital, Mt. Sinai Hospital in Miami Beach and Douglas Gardens Home for the Aged, Miami.

The Loehr Family Commuting From Bimini on Kismet

By GRIFF PRESTON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—The George Loehrs have become Bimini commuters these days. Docking their new Kismet at the Big Game Fishing Club, the Loehrs wing back and forth between their home in Ft. L. and their floating home aboard the yacht.

After 10 days of fishing and entertaining their boat guests, the Palmer Jones of Chicago and Pompano Beach, the Loehrs winged in for the Opera Ball, picked up the Robert Daniels from Columbus, Ohio, and flew back to Bimini Wednesday for a cruise to Cat Cay and some bone fishing.

Next guests to be welcomed aboard the Kismet will be the Alan Loehrs with their young Lisa and Nickey to enjoy Bimini's balmy breezes, and get a deep coat of tan just like the tourists. The Kismet with the George Loehrs aboard will be back here late in February.

DAR to Model At Luncheon

By MARY RUNYAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Himmarshee Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its annual fashion show and luncheon, "Fashions Around the Clock," by Dagmar at 12:30 p.m. Feb. 4 at Galt Ocean Mile Hotel.

Riva Arden will be commentator and, in addition to professional models, members of the organization will appear in the fashion parade, which is under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. A. Ermatinger.

These members include Mrs. Roy C. Jones, Mrs. J. W. Cummings and Mrs. Ermatinger. Representing the Francis Broward Chapter will be Mrs. E. Webb Painter, Mrs. William Wolfe and Mrs. J. Morgan McJunkin.

The fashion collection will include formal evening gowns, high fashion afternoon dresses and comfortable play clothes appropriate to the winter and spring seasons.

Fabrics will range from king cotton to the most popular domestic and imported silks in plain and printed designs.

More than 500 guests attended the 1958 show and an even larger attendance is anticipated this year.

Assisting Mrs. Ermatinger are Mrs. Guy A. Loomis Jr., Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Calhoun H. Young, Mrs. S. Byron Downing, Mrs. William Allen, Mrs. J. C. Calhoun, Mrs. James A. Graham, Mrs. John W. Cummings and Mrs. Leo Sable.

Unmarried? Seek Role In Politics

DENVER —(UPI)— Marriage is not necessary for happiness, according to Dr. Allen Kraft, chief psychiatrist at the National Mental Health Center here.

He urged unmarried women to go into politics as one of several substitutes for the time-honored role of housewife. Teaching, he said, is another way for a single woman to fill the marital void in her life.

"Singleness itself is not a good or bad state," Dr. Kraft said. "Singleness is not necessarily an indicator of a sick or neurotic mind.

Single people can be happy or unhappy as individuals, just as married folk can be happy or unhappy as individuals."

FOR CHILDREN, EMOTIONAL INSECURITY

Transfer Student: A Problem

By MARY RUNYAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — South Florida's transfer students are causing an acute case of emotional insecurity among school-aged children.

The late entrant is thrown among strangers, while the regular student — the one who enrolls in September — is constantly being forced to move over and make room for the out-of-towner, whether he be transient or permanent.

With the economy of the state based on tourism, real estate and construction, this is a natural problem which educators and psychologists alike are pondering.

Raymong Maxwell, superintendent of Broward County schools, is so concerned over the problem that he has proposed a special school plan that would care for not only the late entrant but the regular student as well.

He said, "The emotional adjustment hits not only the newcomer but the student who began in September. I know from my own children — they don't even know the names of many of the students in their classrooms."

It is his proposal that the registration cutoff date in the county be Oct. 1. All those enrolling after that date would be instructed in their own classrooms, where they would more or less be among their own.

Maxwell also said that if teachers had to devote less time to the emotional adjustment of their students, the problem of scholastic achievement would be lessened.

This all comes about from the survey taken last year in Broward County by Dr. Walter D. Smith, professor of psychology at Florida State University.

He found through his testing that students coming into South Florida's classrooms after December are still strangers by April.

"This does not help their grades," said Dr. Smtih, whose co-investigator in the survey was John S. Demming, guidance director of Palm Beach County schools, also included in the poll.

"Late school entrants will show a marked anxiety incumbent upon their struggle to adapt to and find a position in the already formed group. These differences will be evidenced both at the time of entering school and at the end of the school year."

The survey report also states that "late school entrants taught by teachers with greater insights and knowledge about children will tend to make greater gains in social status and personal adjustment during their stay in the classroom than will late entrants with teachers of less insight and knowledge.

". . . For the major social force operating within the classroom may well be the teacher."

And, indeed the teachers are concerned with the great increase in population, which last year brought 508 additional students into Fort Lauderdale High School alone by the time the middle of the year rolled around.

Their concern stems from the time needed to acquaint the newcomer with the year's performances and the fact that every day there are new faces in the classrooms.

"It's difficult for any teacher to retrace her footsteps while still going ahead with work," said Dorsey Maynard, guidance director of Fort Lauderdale High School.

"They are supposed to help as much as possible but, with Florida classrooms as crowded as they are these days, they can't be expected to devote the majority of their time to the newcomer."

And, it's not only the fact that the student enrolls later in the season that causes a problem. According to Maynard, the State of Florida has a stringent stabilized credit system which does not coincide with many other states.

"This means in many instances that a student has to make up a lot of credits to be graduated," he said.

But while the system remains as is, Maynard feels that a lot of the initiative should be up to the student. Especially the older student who knows, without a report card, in what field he is behind. He should try to make an effort to catch up to his class level.

Shopping Deer Tries Grocery

WARSAW, Va. —(AP)— A heavy snow here revealed a deer's shopping habits.

The animal went window shopping, pressed his nose against a grocery window so hard he bloodied it, then stood on his hind legs to inspect an appliance store.

Personality Portrait Artist Rosli Gelfer
... former fashion editor settled in Fort Lauderdale

She Fashions Portraits

By MARGARET WALKER
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Rosli Gelfer has had a successful career writing about and interpreting clothes and their relationship to the individual.

For more than 12 years she was fashion editor of Modes Royale, a nationally distributed high-style magazine, in which she wrote a column, "Chart Your Personality in Dress."

Trained also as a portrait artist, she has settled recently in Fort Lauderdale where she plans to channel her talents through various mediums. As she puts it, "to capture and understand the personality of women."

In the pursuit of getting women "at their best" in styling, and reflecting their personality in clothes, Miss Gelfer has learned to apply the same principles in drawing personality sketches.

Working in pastel charcoal, she accents a person's best features while diffusing the rest. However, she still retains the true personality she sees as people sit for her at the Escape Hotel or at her studio in the Atlantiques, 1 S. Atlantic Blvd.

"Looking right" has been the American woman's preoccupation, consciously or otherwise, since she was old enough to be aware of herself, commented Miss Gelfer, a pretty, dark-haired woman.

As an expert on the subject (she has written countless fashion analyses in columns, commentaries and booklets), Miss Gelfer believes that more emphasis should be placed on "feeling right" first from the inside, then projecting this feeling in the selection of styles. "Dressing the mind," she calls it . . . "If you feel right you will look right," she said.

After graduation from the American School of Design in New York as a scholarship student, she wrote and illustrated for The Los Angeles Examiner. While in California she was also fashion coordinator for a department store. Returning East, she represented a famous cosmetic firm. She has also lectured and styled for women throughout the country.

TEENS TALKING

LHS, Stranahan to Exchange Students

By MARY RUNYAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — With foreign exchange and exchange among states comes a student exchange program right in our own backyard.

The student councils of Lauderdale High School and Stranahan, according to Reporter Vicki Fuhrer, are sponsoring a "turn-about" Feb. 11-13 to stimulate a spirit of comraderie and to promote a closer relationship between the two schools.

Six LHS and six Stranahan students will attend their prescribed classes and participate in athletic, club and campus activities — only in opposite schools.

Representing LHS at Stranahan will be Barbara Hepp and Bill Dunifon, seniors; Sandy Aanes and Frank Clarke, juniors; Susie Rablen and Tarzie Pardue, sophomores.

Those from Stranahan who will become LHSs for three days are Sally Stout and Pete Rainey, seniors; Frank Harwell; and Eddie Beinfohr, juniors; and Agnes Atohi and Dennis Lynch, sophomores.

The 12 exchange students were selected on the basis of scholastic achievement and character.

Barb Roman reminds all LHS femmes not to forget the Saturday night stomp and chomp, which is part of the school's twirp season. Tickets for this barbecue and dance may be purchased from members of the Navigator staff.

A sort of "after exams" party was given Thursday night when senior Harriat Adams entertained for a few of her friends. Seen popping balloons and just being lazy were Ginny Frykman, Norma Combs, Jan Jackson, Bob Lewis, Larry Buchanan, Cary Griffin, Leo Mizell, George Bonham, Marilyn Etheridge, Dave Zwick and Bill Sanders.

Big Switch At Pompano

OPERATION BIG SWITCH followed exams with the Pompano Beach clan. Ray Johnson reports that the sophs and juniors dropped typing for a semester of world typing while the sophomores, juniors and seniors exchanged advanced English for a general English course.

Feb. 7 is the date for the Allied Youth-sponsored dance after the game with Stranahan. Before this event, the Ayers will post signs on the campus of Stranahan to advertise the deal.

Senior Reigns At Home Show

SENIOR NANCY MILLER has been reigning as queen of Hollywood's Home Show at the Armory, where Tuesday night the South Broward band made a guest appearance.

Just Relaxing After Exams

JOANNE DE FLORA'S birthday party served as an after exams affair for McArthur High students. After that a group met at the school and took a picnic lunch to Greynolds Park, followed by a shindig at Sandy Gokey's.

TEENAGERS OF WEEK

JUDY MONTGOMERY goes down as this week's teen from Pompano. Judy, who is active in all class functions, is a senior and a member of Keyettes and the cheerleading squad.

* * *

McArthur's choice this week is BETTY RAE NEMESEK, a junior. She is co-captain of the Drill Corps, treasurer of her class, and active in campus clubs.

* * *

From Lauderdale we have DIAN SCOTT, a senior. Dian, who is a Navigator reporter, is president of the Juniorettes, a member of Press Club and the Inter-Club Council. Last year she lent her voice to the Choristers.

* * *

PAUL HOFFMAN, South Broward senior, makes his bow this week as a top teenager. He was picked on his all-round personality and because he still is able to keep up high grades and his basketball interests.

American Musical Program Set

FORT LAUDERDALE — A program of American music will be presented for members of Morning Musicale and their guests Wednesday in the Woman's Club at Stranahan Park.

Musicians will be soprano Mrs. Douglas Guy; Pianist Carl Anderson; and a trio, Mrs. Rupert Hyde and Jan Wolanek, violinists, and Miss Helen Ovendon, pianist.

Miss Doris Quinn is chairman of the February program and Mrs. Hyde is program chairman.

CLEANS CRUSTED PANS

New Dishwasher Ends Scrubbing

LOS ANGELES—(UPI)—A new dishwasher automatically cleans sticky plates and crusted pots and pans.

A 17-minute cycle includes a pre-wash period which eliminates hand scrubbing and scouring of cooking ware and non-heat resistant plastics.

If no pans are to be washed, a three-minute pre-wash cycley rinses dishes and glassware.

Detergent is automatically released. Dishes go through two final fresh, hot-water rinses. The washer comes in a mobile convertible model and table model with a Formica dropleaf top.

Front panels are available in colors, copper, stainless steel or natural wood and plastic.

A Murray-Go-Round With a Grandma, 52

NEW YORK—(UPI)—Can a 52-year-old grandmother find happiness while swinging on a chandelier before a nationwide TV audience?

In the case of Mrs. Kathryn Murray, 52 years old and five times a grandmother, the answer is an unequivocal yes.

The diminutive wife of Arthur Murray, the dance maestro, Mrs. Murray performs on hubby's Monday night half hour show. Those who watch her dance, mime and prance about wonder if she might not have been the one who swiped Perry Como's energy pills.

With "The Arthur Murray Party" a tumultuous Terpsichorean success on NBC-TV, Kathryn can crow. She explains the show's popularity in these words: "We draw viewers from among women my age. I was 52 last September. I'm always quick to tell my age because otherwise, people would think I was 62.

"Old women see themselves doing what I do. It makes them feel young to know a woman with five granchildren can do the can-can, or be airplaned around by a young man. They like my swinging on a chandelier and it has a great impact on them," said the swingin' Mrs. Murray.

The show also books Broadway and Hollywood stars.

"Arthur hires the stars as dial-drawers because we tape the show on Sunday nights, when most of them are off. Viewers have become blase, you know. They've seen stars doing everything on TV, but we give the stars a chance to do something different — dance. It may be more exciting to the viewer to see a Helen Hayes dancing instead of acting.

"Arthur may be a shy, hesitant man, but he's a very canny businessman. He knows how to attract viewers," said the proud wife.

Mrs. Murray is undismayed by critics who inveigh against her acting ability and the fact that a number of advertised guest stars haven't appeared on the show.

"We book them in good faith," she explained about the missing guests, "but if they catch cold or discover they can't make it, what can we do? It happens on other shows, too," she said.

About the personal criticism, Mrs. Murray said, "The boss's wife always has two strikes against her at the start. It was like that when I went to work for Arthur 20 years ago and it's like that now on TV. I know many people resent the fact that I'm an amateur who has her own show.

"They feel I'm 'breakin in' the easy way. But they should bear in mind I make no pretense at being a professional performer. I just try to enjoy myself and put on an entertaining show.

"I guess I can't help being a bit of a show off. As a young girl, I used to show off to cover my own self-consciousness. Now, I'm too old to be self-conscious, but I still show off a little, I guess," Mrs. Murray added.

"Anyhow, I wouldn't trade places with anyone. I shudder when I think of my mother who lives in a hotel and doesn't have enough to occupy her mind. I have so many things to do. It makes for a happy life. I'm happy to get up in the morning."

Bouche Quitting at 78

Last Curtain's Fallen On 'Papa's' Beauties

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

HALLANDALE — "Everybody knows me for the beautiful girls in my shows."

Albert (Papa) Bouche, tall, neat, heavy-set man of 78, spoke with pride. A nightclub owner 44 years, Papa Bouche wined and dined customers with expensive beauty-spiced productions that were the rage 20 years ago.

The old man says he's through. His Villa Venice here is up for sale for 125 grand.

"It costs too much money to run it the way I want to — the best way. Besides, I'm getting old."

The aged nightclub owner unrolled the past and spoke of Papa Bouche — connoisseur of food and wine, impresario, judge of beautiful women and lover of gaiety.

"The name Papa Bouche is known in the best nightclubs in the country today," he said.

"I opened my first nightclub in Rochester, N. Y., in 1907, and the first theater restaurant, the Rainbow Garden, in Chicago in 1915."

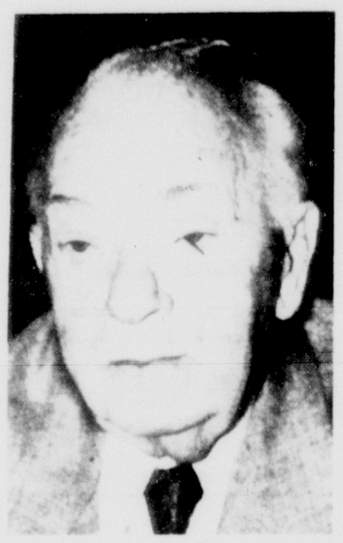
In 1917, Papa Bouche fled the restraints of prohibition ("I couldn't be bothered.") and opened Bouche's Blue Bird in Montreal.

"I gave Helen Morgan her first singing job there. Yes, I discovered her, nobody else but me."

The old man thumped his chest with pride.

In 1920, Papa Bouche moved to South Florida, operated a nightclub in Coral Gables, but shifted quickly to Miami Beach where the thirst for beauty, music and wine was insatiable.

"I had the only place on Miami Beach where you had to dress formal to get in."



Papa Bouche
. . . connoisseur retiring

Back in Chicago in 1927, Papa Bouche, with new show ideas, looked for a combination emcee-comic. Struggling young Bob Hope auditioned.

"Sorry, you won't do, but have a steak on me," a Chicago columnist quoted Bouche as saying. Bouche put the musty newspaper clipping back in the cellophane case.

The old man thought hard, then continued: "I introduced Sally Rand's first nude job." Villa Venice was the name of his Chicago nightclub and restaurant.

"On July 22, 1934, I bought the first full-page color ad in The Chicago Tribune for $4,000 to advertise my show."

In 1942, the government took over Papa Bouche's Miami Beach villa for an Air Force school. He moved northward to Hallandale, where he operated the La Boheme from 1943-47, the wide-open gambling years.

"I had nothing to do with gambling. I didn't bother with it. I leased the concession."

In 1948, Papa Bouche opened the Latin Quarter on Miami Beach. "I had my public. They came where they saw the name Bouche. I gave them the show they wanted.

"After my shows my people called for Papa Bouche to dance. I introduced the rhumba in the U.S., and demonstrated. They loved it."

Papa Bouche was born in a frontier town near Nice, France, in 1881. His mother was Italian; his father, a government worker, was French.

With the curtain practically drawn on his nightclub career, he spends his days trying to sell a French show to hotels and his Villa Venice to investors.

"At night I visit the nightclubs . . . They all know Papa Bouche."

Macbeth Hardest, Gielgud Says

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sir John Gielgud regards Macbeth as the toughest Shakespearean role he has ever performed.

"The most difficult roles of all to play are ones in which the character has no sense of humor," the English star declares.

"That is why Lear and Macbeth are difficult — but to me Macbeth is the most difficult."

Puts 'Starch' in Limp Script

Witty Celeste Holm: Good Show Insurance

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Celeste Holm's father is in the insurance business, and there are times when it seems that she is too.

At least she is about as near insurance as you can come to in the theater, if you have a comedy that needs a star to prop it up.

The vivacious, witty blonde star currently is displaying her ability to starch a somewhat limp script in "Third Best Sport" at the Ambassador Theater. The situation is remindful of the time a few seasons back when she dominated a tepid piece called "Affairs of State" and turned it into a long-run hit.

Celeste Holm
. . . skillful

"We still don't know how we will make out with this one," she said. "But business has been climbing steadily in daily box office sales, and we still have a number of houses sold to theater parties. We should know after about six weeks if we've really caught on."

The critics were not kind to this lampoon of big business and the "organization man" by Eleanor and Leo Bayer, but as usual, they expressed great admiration for Miss Holm's skill at playing comedy.

"As a matter of fact," said the forthright star, "I don't think the critics are right to regard this play as a lampoon or an exaggeration. I doubt if they are familiar enough with the workings of the world of big business to realize how much truth there is in 'Third Best Sport.'

"Certainly we play it for comedy! I can imagine that had this same material been used for a serious drama, it might have impressed the critics more, but I have a feeling that such a play would have closed almost overnight."

Miss Holm has the role of the recent bride of a rising young manufacturing executive, and part of their honeymoon gets involved with an industry's national convention. She learns the hard way that she is supposed to have married the business as well as the man.

Her efforts to conform result in some gross "mistakes" that eventually turn out all right and get across the idea that it is possible to be successful in business without abject surrender to "organization life."

"The thing that has impressed me," the star continued, "has been the audience reaction as we played around in various cities before opening here. One woman came back to thank us after a performance. She was the wife of a big executive. 'This,' she said, 'is the story of my life. I've been fighting this regimentation ever since I've been married.'

"But I think the prime accolade came in Cincinnati. A very important executive and his wife got up and walked out on us after the second act. We heard they were quite miffed."

Lessons for Kim

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — Kim Novak is not idling her time away in New York. She's been dropping by Actors Studio for sessions.

Another Lodge Tries Acting

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — Lily Lodge, daughter of Ambassador John Lodge and Francesca Lodge, is playing in stock in Dallas. Critics have reported she is doing a "terrific" job.

LOUELLA PARSONS

'Cheri' to Star Perkins

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(UPI)—That amazing girl-friend of mine, Anita Loos, finished "The Lady Mendl Story" for Helen Hayes.

Five minutes later she was at work on "Cheri" which she is writing for Tony Perkins. This, Anita told me as we chatted on the phone from New York, is one of Colette's greatest stories about a boy 18, who has a love affair with a woman 46.

"We are trying to get Irene Worth, British actress, for the woman's role," Anita said. "Roger Stevens and Bobby Lewis are the producers and Lewis will also direct 'Cheri.' I had several meeting with young Perkins and I think he's perfect for the role."

Anita first brought "Gigi" to the stage before it was made into a motion picture.

THOSE JOLLY Englishmen, James Mason and David Niven, are set to co-star for top British Producer Michael Powell in "The Reason Why," come summer time.

The picture is anything but a comedy. Based on Cecil Woodham - Smith's London best-seller, the story concerns the scandals in high places during the Crimean War when it was possible for Englishmen of means to buy commissions in the army.

The picture calls for locations in Spain and Ireland as well as London, which should please both David and James, who like to get around and have a change of scenery.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that SEALED BIDS will be received by THE BOARD OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION of Broward County, Florida, at the County Superintendent's Office (Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of Broward County, Florida), in the School Administration Building, 1320 S. W. 4th Street, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, up to 2:00 p.m., the 18th day of February, 1959, for all materials and labor necessary for the construction of Sanders Park Portable Elementary School 800 N. W. 16th Street, Pompano Beach, Florida.

Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of the Director of Schoolhouse Planning, School Administration Building, 1320 S. W. 4th Street, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, upon the deposit of $50.00 for each set of plans. Said deposit on the first set of plans will be returned to the contractor upon the return of the plans and specifications in good condition within ten days after the opening of bids, providing that said contractor has presented the Board of Public Instruction with a bona fide bid. For each additional set of plans and specifications, a portion of the deposit in the amount of $25.00 may be returned, the remainder used to offset the cost of printing of the plans.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a Certified Check or Bid Bond in the amount of 5% of the bid, payable to the Board of Public Instruction of Broward County, Florida, as evidence of good faith and guaranteeing that the successful bidder will execute and furnish to the Board of Public Instruction of Broward County, Florida, a bond issued by a Surety Company approved by the U. S. Treasury Department and licensed to do business in Florida, for 100% of the contract price, said bond being conditioned for both performance and payment, within ten (10) days after being awarded the contract, said bond guaranteeing the performance of said contract; the premium of said bond to be paid by the said contractor.

All bids should be placed in an envelope sealed and addressed to The Board of Public Instruction, Broward County, Florida, c-o County Superintendent, 1320 S.W. 4th Street, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and the name of the project should be placed on the outside of the envelope and words indicating that the envelope contains a bid for said project. Should the bid be mailed in, the sealed envelope containing the bid and so marked shall be placed inside another envelope to be delivered by registered mail.

The contractor will be required to build and complete said project within the time set forth in the special conditions.

The successful bidder, if any, will be notified within five (5) days after the bid is accepted. No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for Receipt of Bids for thirty (30) days.

The Board of Public Instruction of Broward County, Florida, reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any informalities.

Smith Tournament Fails to Attract Top U.S. Net Stars

By DICK MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Ranking U.S. stars are snubbing the Austin Smith Tennis Tournament, which starts Monday at Holiday Park, but foreign players are anxious to play here.

EVERT

Campaigners from Sweden, Australia, Chile, Brazil and Canada are "saving the day" for Jimmy Evert, tournament director, as he scans the entry list for somebody to seed in the important men's and women's single divisions.

Classy native born netters customarily are top seeded in the city's No. 1 winter meet. Not so this time—and it has Evert wondering why.

Evert is trying to land Jerry Moss and some of his University of Miami teammates, but isn't sure they can attend. Gardnar Mulloy, who has made a habit of retiring Smith silverware, won't be on hand.

The parks and Recreation Department, sponsor of the 15th annual Smith competition, can't offer much in the way of expense money.

"But this doesn't bother the foreign amateurs," Evert said. "They make the Florida circuit of local tournaments anyway—they are anxious to gain tournament experience, and I suppose their own tennis associations are willing to help meet their expenses."

Sweden's Birger Folke, a finalist in the Coral Gables Invitational; Tim Cawthorne of Melbourne, Australia, and Rudy Mikowitz of Ottawa are well regarded. Others on the men's singles list include Stephen Gottlieb and Don Thompson of New York City.

Probable No. 1 seed in women's play is another visitor from Melbourne (Australia—not Florida), Marie Martin, who upset Karol (Golden Girl) Fagoros in Coral Gables last week. (Karol will miss the meet here.)

Other gals entered in the week-long event are Alicia Heegwaldt of Chile, Mary Eileen Habicht of Brazil, Margaret Babbitt (Coral Gables), and localites Lynn Kernwein and Gretchen Sommerfeld.

Miss Habicht will try to continue a dominance by Brazilian girls of the distaff end of the seasonal play. Maria Bueno, now in Australia, has two legs on the J. R. Terhune Trophy.

There are 45 entrants in the five divisions — which also list men's and women's doubles and senior men's singles. Earl Myers, a holiday "regular," is the probable No. 1 seed in the last-listed division.

The Austin Smith honors one of the founders of the old South Side courts who died on a court there in 1944. Austin Smith Jr., of Plainfield, N.J., has donated a third challenge cup in memory of his father, the first two having been retired by Mulloy.

First matches will begin at 1 p.m. Monday through the following Sunday, when finals are tentatively slated.

He Won't Hide Proof

Surgeon's Happy Over Dead Patient

By DICK MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Surgeon Alva R. Taylor didn't figure he would "operate" on a 350-pound jaguar when he and four Fort Lauderdale companions went to Colombia on a hunting trip. But things worked out that way.

Dr. Taylor used two hunting knives, with five and four-inch German steel blades, to skin the eight-foot cat by way of preparing it for the taxidermist.

After the hide is stretched on a frame at a hunting camp near the Magdelena River, the animal will reach here next month. The hide will be sent on to Denver to be converted into rugs for Dr. Taylor's home.

"Never dreamed I'd ever do that kind of operation," Dr. Taylor remarked to fellow safari members H. C. Mathews, H. A. Jackson and W. P. and Jack Smith. The sportsmen all fired on the jaguar, and three of the shots finished him.

The party helped Dr. Taylor, realizing that the skinning job had to be finished before 100-degree heat would spoil the carcass.

Under the surgeon's direction, the skin was protected from excess "buttonhole" cuts, and the work required only an hour and a half.

"There can be no analogy with any operation on a human I ever have performed," Dr. Taylor said. "It certainly was the opposite to skin-grafting."

As they were near headhunter country everyone worked fast. Indian guides finished the work with deft swipes of machetes.

"It's remarkable how these primitive fellows handle those knives," the surgeon concluded.

Net Winners Listed in Hollywood

POMPANO BEACH — Winners in the junior tennis tournament staged here last week have been announced by Recreation Director Tom Miller.

Nearly 90 entries were recorded in the competition.

Winners were:

Boys doubles, 15 and under: Speicher and Bob Harris.

Boys doubles, 18 and under: Jerry Stetson and Bob Perrin of Hollywood.

Boys doubles, 13 and under: Bill and Bob Speicher.

Girls singles, 18 and under: Betty Harris, Palm Beach.

Girls doubles, 18 and under: Harris and Stephanie de Fina, Hollywood.

Girls doubles, 15 and under: Faith Stewart, Pompano, and Jayne Fox, Del Ray.

Rangers Coming

POMPANO BEACH—The Dallas Rangers baseball team is due here March 8 to begin spring training at the field vacated by the Buffalo Bisons.

The team will be quartered at the Barefoot Mailman Hotel while here, according to Stanley McIlvane, general manager.

Fencing Series To Open Feb. 6

POMPANO BEACH — A series of instructions in fencing will begin Feb. 6 at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

The new series, to be taught by Mr. and Mrs. Bela de Tuscan, is co-sponsored by the Pompano Recreation Department and the Chamber of Commerce.

The eight-week classes will be free except for a fee to cover equipment use and transportation for instructors.

Kennedy Says Measure Goes Too Far

Stiff Curbs on Labor Asked by Eisenhower

20-Point Proposal Would Put Unions In Goldfish Bowl

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Eisenhower urged Congress Wednesday to enact a sweeping labor reform bill to compel unions to operate in a spotlight of public scrutiny in an effort to rid the labor movement of racketeers and corrupt leaders.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), the author of a more moderate measure, promptly declared that the President went too far in demanding that the Taft-Hartley law be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts and to outlaw coercive picketing.

"For 12 or 13 years, we've tried to do too much and have accomplished nothing," Kennedy said. He said the proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley act would lessen the chances of passage this year of any bill to require unions to follow more democratic procedures.

Kennedy said his Senate labor subcommittee will consider basic changes in the Taft-Hartley law after it finishes work on his labor reform bill, which received the endorsement of the AFL-CIO at the opening of hearings Wednesday.

But the President told Congress in a special message that "complete and effective labor-management legislation, not a piecemeal program, is essential . . ."

He said his 20-point bill would eliminate union abuses exposed by the Senate Rackets Committee, "protect the public interest, and insure the rights and economic freedom of millions of American workers."

At the same time, he said, it would not impose "arbitrary restrictions or punitive measures on the legitimate activities of honest labor and management officials."

His proposals, virtually the same as the ones he made last year, would require labor unions to make public their financial operations, to elect officers by secret ballot, and to operate otherwise in a goldfish bowl to protect the interests of rank-and-file members.

The President recommended that Taft-Hartley be amended to impose tighter curbs on secondary boycotts, to extend the non-Communist affidavit requirement to employers as well as union leaders, and to outlaw "blackmail" picketing designed to force an employer to recognize a union as bargaining agent against the wishes of his employes.

He also demanded that Congress enact criminal penalties for such "wilful violations" of the law as "bribery between employers and employe representatives" and "embezzlement of union funds." He asked that the Labor secretary be granted subpena powers to enforce the law.

Unions found to be violating

U.S. Inches Toward Big 4 Talks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday nudged the U.S. a step closer to a Big Four meeting with Russia that might head off an angry May 27 showdown on Berlin.

He told his news conference such talks would be useful if they "deal fruitfully" with East-West differences. He said the U.S. long had sought a broad agreement with Russia that would serve as the framework for specific pacts later.

His statement followed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remark Tuesday that a Big Four conference this spring on European problems would be timely. Dulles warned Wednesday, however, that the U.S. never would accept Russia's terms blindly.

The President gave his views after he was reminded that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan had indicated Russia might postpone or withdraw its May 27 deadline for turning East Berlin over to the German Communists if East-West talks were under way by then.

If Russia should go through with its threat, the U.S. might be faced with the problem of crashing through a Red blockade. The President has said this country will fight if necessary to maintain its position in West Berlin.

Asked if he favored starting East-West talks before the Soviet deadline, the President praised the value of talks if they promised to lead to a solution of Soviet-American differences. In effect, he took a positive attitude toward an early Big Four meeting.

Discussing GOP politics, Eisenhower said that like everyone who took a "middle of the road" position he was attacked from both sides.

He added that anyone who

Fidel Reported Ordering New Trial for Sosa

By ROBERT GRUENBERG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

HAVANA—Fidel Castro was reported Wednesday to have ordered a completely new trial for Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who was sentenced to death last week.

An aide close to the rebel leader said Castro wants the retrial because the atmosphere created by radio-television coverage of Sosa's trial "did not constitute a full measure of justice."

Sosa, who last Friday was sentenced to be executed, had complained that the trial was a Roman circus.

About 30,000 persons jeered and shouted at him during the trial in the Havana Sports Palace.

Castro is reported to have said that the radio-TV coverage was "unfortunate" because it stimulated witnesses to become actors.

Castro was said to have acted on the principle that a new trial for Sosa under different circumstances would be favorable to the Cuban people. No date has been set for the retrial.

Another showcase war crimes trial of Batista army officers was postponed Wednesday for celebrations of the 106th birthday of Jose Marti, Cuba's George Washington.

Ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes, also is expected to appeal the death sentence given him Tuesday.

The foreign diplomatic corps delivered a serious rebuff to Cuba's revolutionary government Wednesday for its refusal to live up to existing international agreements concerning the right of diplomatic asylum.

The entire diplomatic corps boycotted a scheduled meeting with Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Castro Hit On Right Of Asylum

HAVANA, Cuba—(UPI)—In the first major departure from the friendly editorial attitude Havana newspapers had maintained so far towards Fidel Castro's revolutionary government, the leading dailies Diario de la Marina and El Mundo took the government to task Wednesday for not respecting the right of diplomatic asylum.

El Mundo said in an editorial that it supported the foreign diplomatic corps' insistence that the government live up to its agreements in the matter of asylum.

The government announced last week that the cases of 86 persons still refuged in foreign embassies here will be reviewed and decided on their individual merits. The action brought a formal protest from the diplomatic corps.

"This is not a question between right and wrong," El Mundo's editorial said. "We either comply fully with our international obligations or we turn our back on them with all attendant consequences . . . Cuba is bound to honor its international obligations."

Diario de la Marina also supported the position of the foreign diplomatic corps. "The solution of this unnecessary problem should not be delayed," it said. "Cuba should restore the full right of asylum, in conformance with existing treaties . . ."

Havana newspapers without dissent have supported the revolutionary government's trials and executions of Batista "war criminals."

The nearest any daily had come to expressing any dissent with the revolutionary government was a front-page editorial in Avance, signed by Editor Jorge Zayas, saying it was time the revolutionaries start on the less spectacular but no less necessary task of getting the administrative apparatus of government under way and giving

All Ready For Work But No Job

WASHINGTON — (AP) — James A. Johnson Jr., 14-year-old Negro, arrived here Wednesday from Chicago to accept a page-boy job to which, the head of the House Patronage Committee said, he had never been appointed.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), head of the three-man committee which doles out patronage in the House, said he regretted that Johnson had made the trip.

"His race had nothing to do with it," Walter told a reporter. "We didn't even know what his race was. There are many Negroes on the patronage rolls. There just wasn't a vacancy for the Johnson boy because the Chicago appointment already had been given to a boy recommended by Tom O'Brien (Rep. Thomas J. O'Brien of Chicago)." There is only one page position available for the Chicago area.

Johnson had the endorsement of Rep. Barratt O'Hara, a Chicago Democrat.

"I told O'Hara not to send the boy here because there was no job open for him," Walter said.

Miss Ethel Payne, an aunt with whom Johnson had planned to live while in Washington, said she asked the boy's parents to send him here after O'Hara told her the appointment had been approved.

Castro's No. 2 Foe Hides Here

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Rolando Masferrer, most feared man in the old Batista Cuban regime, was in hiding in Miami Wednesday along with two brothers and a pair of henchmen.

Masferrer arrived here from a U.S. detention camp at McAllen, Tex., where he had been held for safekeeping after fleeing Cuba by boat on Jan. 1.

Allowed to travel at will, Masferrer and his buddies still are "on parole," according to U.S. Immigration officials, and remain "on call" if and when the government wants them.

At Houston, en route here, Masferrer said Fidel Castro could best begin social reforms "by shaving and taking a bath."

"Perhaps after he gets himself cleaned up, I will return to Cuba," he told reporters. Masferrer said he "might be away from home for a year or two, but I'm willing to pay that price to see him shaved and clean."

There's little likelihood, however, that Masferrer or any member of his family will return to their homeland while the new revolutionary government is in power.

Rolando Masferrer is No. 2 on the Cuban rebels' wanted list, topped only by former President Fulgencio Batista himself. He's one notch ahead of Col. Esteban Ventura, former Havana police chief, more familiarly known as "The Butcher."

Masferrer was the leader of a private army known as the "Tigers," and was regarded as Batista's private executioner.

Publisher of Havana and Santiago newspapers, Masferrer's power was second only to that of Batista himself.

He claimed Wednesday that both newspapers were looted and burned by the rebels and that machinery from one had been turned over to the publishers of Havana's newspaper Hoy, which he called a "Communist periodical."

Masferrer also operated, without license or payments to other than Batista himself, a chain of "penny gambling" casinos and grew wealthy on the nickel-and-dime losses of the low-income Cuban workers.

With Rolando are his brothers, Raimundo and Rodolfo, a former Army Col. Julio Laurent and Alcides Perez.

Rodolfo was attacked in Havana last spring by three young rebels who beat him and sent him screaming to refuge in a department store.

No-Mixing Pressed In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. asked the Legislature Wednesday for a state tuition grants program to permit Virginia parents to choose immediately between private schools or sending their children to racially-mixed classrooms.

And underlying Almond's address to a special session of the General Assembly were indications that Virginia may later attempt a private schools program rather than accept racial integration. But he saw no way to stave off re-opening of schools with mixed classrooms next week.

Almond told the lawmakers that public schools in Virginia may have to be abandoned because of the integration crisis.

For the present, however, he asked only for tuition grants and repeal of compulsory school attendance laws. Federal courts have ordered integration in schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville, Arlington and Front Royal, and Virginia's earlier "massive resistance" laws, which closed some schools, have been struck down.

Almond laid a brief emergency plan before the legislators, then gave broad hints that a drastic overhaul leading to a system of private schools might be the state's long-range answer to integration orders.

Almond emphasized that Virginia has not given up its fight to maintain segregation.

"She has not surrendered and she does not surrender now," he told the hastily-summoned special session. This vow drew the biggest ovation from the lawmakers.

The governor's basic plea was for an immediate system of tuition grants for the students who do not wish them to attend integrated schools.

Commissioners Divided

Lake Worth Mayor Deadlock Looms

More Palm Beach News, 234, 1B, 2D

Herald Bureau

LAKE WORTH — City Commissioners appeared headed for a deadlock Wednesday on the choice of a man to fill out the term of outgoing Mayor Robert T. O'Connor.

O'Connor announced last week he is resigning effective Feb. 1 because of ill health. His two year term would have expired in April.

The selection of an interim mayor falls to Commissioners James A. Stafford, Lynn F. Myers Jr., "Zell" Altman and Phil Lobsinger.

Under the city charter, a decision is mandatory, even though barely three months remain before a municipal election on the mayor's post.

Myers and Lobsinger are said to favor naming a man outside the commission. Altman reportedly feels a commissioner, already familiar with city business, should be given the job. His choice is Stafford, who comes up for reelection this spring anyway.

In a conference this week, commissioners decided to offer the mayor's post to Mahlon Hall, a former Chamber of Commerce president. Hall turned down the job.

The present commission has been divided into two camps with O'Connor the "swing" man. Altman and Stafford form one faction, and Lobsinger and Myers, the other. Thus, the possibility of a deadlock looms unless a compromise candidate comes into the picture again.

Lobsinger and Myers have another year to serve before they face reelection. For this reason it is considered impractical for either of them to take the mayor's post and have to face an election in three months.

If Stafford were given the job, commissioners would have to name another man to fill out Stafford's term.

Lobsinger and Myers are said to favor letting the decision ride until the municipal elections, contending the charter sets no time limit on a successor's choice.

Meanwhile, after Feb. 1 Lake Worth will be without a mayor.

Ike Going To Mexico

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday accepted an invitation from Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos to visit him in Acapulco Feb. 19-20.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles relayed word of the President's acceptance to Antonio Carrillo Flores, the new Mexican ambassador to Washington.

Dulles emphasized that the visit between the two presidents at the famous Mexican beach resort would be informal.

This will preclude the ceremonies which would be involved in a state visit to the Mexican capital, Mexico City.

Tried to Get Him Insurance, Witness Says

Hoffa Pal Aided Dio, Probers Told

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Chicago insurance man who handled Teamster Union policies tried unsuccessfully to buy life insurance for Gangster Johnny Dio, a Senate investigator testified Wednesday.

The testimony was given by John P. Findlay as the Senate Rackets Committee dug into activities of Allen Dorfman, friend of Teamster Boss James R. Hoffa.

Findlay said Dorfman even paid the first premium—$684—in an attempt to persuade Union Casualty Life to issue the policy on Dio.

But, Findlay said, the company refused the policy on grounds that Dio was a bad credit risk.

He testified that Dorfman gave the insurance company a high recommendation for Dio although Dio's check to Dorfman for the life insurance premium had bounced three times.

Findlay said another man with a criminal record got life insurance through Dorfman but never made any premium payments. The man was identified as Gus Zapes. Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Zapes had served time in the Indiana Penitentiary, had a record of 45 arrests, and was hired as an organizer for the Indiana Teamsters.

Findlay also testified that Dorfman paid premiums for Hoffa and other Teamster officials on occasion — in violation of an Illinois insurance regulation against payment of premiums for clients without charging interest. He said Hoffa and the others were expected to repay about $3,600 paid as premiums by Dorfman.

The committee was told earlier by Findlay that Dorfman deposited in his own bank account $51,461.66 of union welfare fund insurance premiums.

Findlay said that not until after the committee began an investigation did Dorfman forward the money to the insurance company for which the premiums were intended.

He said that under Illinois law Dorfman was required to turn over the premium payments within 90 days.

But, he said, instead of making the payments to the Mt. Vernon Insurance Co., Dorfman used the money to meet expenses of his business enterprises.

Findlay continued that on March 11, 1957, Dorfman wrote a check to the insurance company for $39,155.35 of the premiums.

He said another check for $12,155.31 was drawn to the company by Dorfman June 12, 1957, but that Dorfman endorsed it with a rubber stamp, then signed his own name and deposited it in his insurance agency account.

"In other words, this money had been misappropriated from the insurance company?" Chairman John McClellan (D., Ark.) asked. Findlay agreed.

The money involved, Findlay said, was paid by members of Local 1031 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for welfare and pension insurance they elected to keep in effect during periods of layoff or temporary leave from their jobs.

Under that action by the workers, he said, they paid the portion of the premiums that would have been paid by employers.

Ike and Warren Deny They're on the Outs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren denied Wednesday that they were angry at each other.

The President said a newspaper story that his relationship with Warren had become "cold and distant" because of certain Supreme Court decisions was "irresponsible reporting."

The chief justice said "the story merits no comment. It is wholly without foundation."

The report attracted considerable attention because it was written by Robert J. Donovan, chief of The New York Herald Tribune's Washington staff. Donovan wrote a book about Eisenhower's first term which was considered a semi-official account.

The Donovan story said the chief justice was "pained" because he felt the President failed to take firm action to back up the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

It said the President was put out by Warren's liberal stand on recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating anti-subversive laws.

Eisenhower seemed surprised when The Herald Tribune story was brought up at the news conference, interrupting three times to make sure he was getting the sense of the questions.

But he answered quickly and in a serious tone.

"Well, so far as I am concerned, here is some irresponsible reporting," Eisenhower said.

He reminded the newsmen that he never commented on Supreme Court decisions and went on to say: "I have regarded the chief justice as my personal friend for years, and I know of no personal rift of any kind."

Battle Shapes Up In Legislature on State Printing Jobs

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE—State Rep. John E. Mathews Jr. said Wednesday that he will ask the Legislature to investigate state printing practices when it convenes in April.

Mathews lost a similar fight in 1957 when he tried to put printing under the state's central purchasing system. He said he is renewing the battle because he wants to be sure all bidders on printing jobs "get a fair shake" and that there is no waste by various state agencies.

Contracts for state printing jobs now are awarded by individual state agencies.

Mathews' chief foe two years ago was Charles Rosenberg, president of Rose Printing Co. in Tallahassee, who also has owner interests in Publishers' Press of Miami and other firms. He was a registered lobbyist for the printing industry.

The comptroller's records show that state printing costs average two million dollars a year. Rosenberg said in 1958 his company got almost $700,000 of this state business.

Rosenberg, a director of the Printing Industry of Florida (a trade association), said the group probably will discuss its position on any change in laws relating to printing bids at its meeting Feb. 1 at Boca Raton.

But he asserted that in his opinion "we have tighter laws now relating to printing bids that we would have under the purchasing council."

He said individual state agencies now are required to invite three bids on a printing job costing as little as one dollar. But, he asserted, under the central purchasing system bids would be invited only on items costing more than $1,000 and have to be advertised for only on purchases costing more than $2,000.

Mathews said he did not know what specific legislation he would propose but felt that a procedure should be set up under central purchasing to regulate printing. The lawmaker said he was not bent on criticizing any one printing firm or state agency.

Mathews referred to a check which showed that letterheads for different state agencies on the same quality paper ranged from four dollars to $17 a thousand.

"I would like to know why all of the agencies can't use the same quality of paper for letter writing and buy it at the same price," the Jacksonville legislator said.

Rosenberg said the cost differential resulted because the rate fluctuates with the volume ordered and the specifications required by the individual agency.

He added that the proximity of his Tallahassee plant and "the fact we have the largest facilities of anybody in Florida," gave his firm an edge on some jobs. He pointed to the legislative printing in which his company turns out Senate and House journals and copies overnight after each daily session.

Two years ago Gov. LeRoy Collins called for a governmental reorganization which would have set up a department of purchasing commission but would exempt printing from its control.

The governor said over the years previous attempts to set up a broad central purchasing program had met defeat because they included printing.

Mathews amended the bill to include printing. Prominent among those lobbying for the amendment was Al Block, Rosenberg's brother-in-law and former partner, who left the firm when their partnership was dissolved in a bitter legal battle.

The amended bill passed the House 67 to 9 but when it got to the Senate it was soundly defeated.

Charles Ausley, close friend and former law partner of Gov. Collins, is attorney for Rose Printing Co. and is listed as a vice president of the firm.

Ausley said he had urged defeat of the Mathews amendment because he was afraid it would kill the governor's entire purchasing program.

Rosenberg laughed at a business magazine article listing him as one of the state's most influential men and crediting him with being the capital's champion party-giver.

"We probably give five or six parties each session but there are a lot of folks who give more parties than we do. They give them year-round," he said.

the country's economic bloodstream a shot in the arm.

"In other words," Zayas said, "the glorious bearded ones can now hang their rifles, shave and become 'fruitful administrators' and no longer be 'ferocious men,' in order to bring this battered people the abundance, tranquility and happiness it is entitled to."

There has been so far no editorial discussion of what the future policies of the government should be, other than calling on it to ease the freezing of bank deposits.

Havana's noted editorial sense of humor was functioning again, however: An editorial cartoon in El Mundo depicted a citizen rubbing his chin and saying: "Now that I come to think of it, I haven't seen Fidel in 24 hours."

Another cartoon in Diario de la Marina showed a citizen on the phone asking, "What spectacle are you showing today?"

Miami Train Is Derailed

NORTH EAST, Md. — (AP) — The New York to Miami train Silver Meteor was delayed by a minor derailment. No one was hurt.

A railroad spokesman said the front wheels of the 17-car train's observation car derailed and delayed trains on another track. It was the last car of the train.

The spokesman said trains should not be running more than 20 to 30 minutes late because of the derailment.

North East is in the northeastern corner of Maryland.

Rate Hike Urged on GI Loans

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The GI Home loan program was pictured Wednesday as "practically dead."

Carl T. Mitnick, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the 4¾ per cent interest rate on government - insured GI home mortgages is inadequate to attract investment funds.

Mitnick, a Merchantville, N.J., builder, told a Senate housing subcommittee that his association favors boosting the GI interest rate to 5¼ per cent — the same as the Federal Housing Administration rate.

He also proposed creation of a central mortgage reserve facility to stabilize housing credit, particularly on lower - cost homes.

The only alternative, Mitnick said, is for Congress to provide the Federal National Mortgage Association with a billion dollars in special assistance funds for purchase of home mortgages which cannot otherwise be marketed at current interest rates.

He said that even this alternative would provide only temporary relief because the problem will arise again when the special aid fund is exhausted and if GI interest rates remain below marketable levels.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R., N.Y.), observing that the GI mortgage plan was devised as a special benefit to veterans, asked Mitnick "how would we be favoring the veterans" if interest rates were put on a par with FHA loans.

Mitnick said there still would be advantages in a GI mortgage because of no down payment and no insurance premium payment. They are required with FHA.

Launching Looked Perfect

Huge Atlas Zips Off On Mystery Errand

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A huge Atlas ICBM has been blasted on a mysterious space flight over the Atlantic.

The 80-foot rocket performed as it never has before when it shot across the black sky Tuesday night after a beautiful launching.

The mission on this 19th Atlas test reportedly was another 4,000-mile trip, winding up beyond the island of Fernando de Norhona far off the Brazil coast in minutes.

The three mighty engines of the missile appeared to burn furiously for more than 6½ minutes, much longer than on previous flights. The rocket skipped behind some clouds and then seemed to hang in the sky like a small star.

At first there was speculation that the latest blastoff signaled another sensational shoot similar to last month's Atlas satellite, but there still was no definite report on the results of the test hours later.

On previous firings the bulky intercontinental - range missile burned no longer than 3½ minutes before starting its ballistic trajectory — even the "big A" that soared into a 35-day orbit around the globe Dec. 18.

Despite the unusual performance, the best bet still appeared to be a long-range attempt. The Air Force said only that the launching was another in the research and development series.

Eisenhower also denied allegations by some Republicans that he had been copying New Deal proposals. To another questioner, he said he always had tried to meet personally with as many Republicans, and Democrats, as possible.

On other major issues, the President said:

HE HOPED the new Cuban government of revolutionary Fidel Castro "will be truly representative of the Cuban people." He refused to discuss Castro himself.

HE WOULD NOT oppose a visit to Russia by an American official, but there were no present plans for Vice President Richard M. Nixon or anyone else to go there. He said Khrushchev could not come here as informally as Mikoyan did because Khrushchev was head of the Soviet government.

UNLESS INFLATION could be curbed by self-restraint, the people eventually would demand federal controls that would be contrary to the free enterprise system. If this happened, he said, it would be "a sad day."

East-West Religious Talk Asked

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Boston bishop Wednesday advocated a series of East-West church conferences in an effort to overcome differences "in a world motivated by half-truths and half-lies."

"Churchmen from Communist nations would come to the West and churchmen from the West would go to the Communist nations," said Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord.

Bishop Lord, president of the Methodist Board of Temperance, advanced his proposal in a talk at the opening session of the board's three-day annual meeting.

"We must create world community — this is the great task of our age," the Bishop said. He added:

"We live in a world that is motivated by half-truths and half-lies. There are two main sources of the darkness that engulfs us — the first is religious and the second is political.

"We are engulfed by a religion that is routine, sterile and often irrelevant to the issues of the day. Too often the gospel we preach answers questions that people have long since ceased to ask.

"Our faith should be creative, hopeful and powerful . . . A gospel that has little leadership to give in the great corporate problems of our nation and world is unfit for the battle."

SMALL BOAT BULLETIN — Variable five to 12 mile an hour winds. Seas smooth to slight and inland waters smooth. Visibilities poor early today because of fog, otherwise mostly fair weather.

WESTERN CARIBBEAN — Easterly winds at 10 to 20 miles an hour. Widely scattered showers.

National Summary

Arctic air should carry snow into the Rockies and Plains as far south as Colorado and Nebraska and spread snow or a mixture of rain and snow on a line from New Mexico to Michigan Thursday.

Strong northerly winds are expected to cause blowing and drifting and in spite of partial clearing in the upper plains temperatures will remain near or a bit below zero in parts of Montana and North Dakota.

A warming trend will extend from the lower Plains into the mid Mississippi Valley but the advance of cold winds should trigger thunderstorms in Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley while rain or drizzle develops to the north from Illinois into Ohio by late in the day.

Increasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures will work into the East Thursday and showers or wet snow may reach as far as New York and Pennsylvania.

Otherwise precipitation in the East will be limited to a few flurries in northern New England through the next 24 hours and some rain or drizzle in parts of the Carolinas and Florida.

WPB Readies Bills for State Legislature

Annexation, Tenure of Office, Racial Measures to Be Proposed

By ROSE ALLEGATO
WPB Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—The City of West Palm Beach is getting its legislative ducks in a row.

The city will ask the State Legislature to pass at least six bills this spring. None calls for a referendum. The bills, already being advertised, range from annexation to tenure of office measures.

The tenure of office bill, first advocated by City Commissioner Sylvan Burdick, would lengthen City Commission terms from two to four years.

Several municipalities in the state now have three or four-year terms for members of their governing boards.

The change in West Palm Beach would become effective without a vote of the people.

The annexation proposal protects the city's interest in a hotly disputed tract of land lying on the western outskirts of West Palm Beach.

The bill provides for annexation of the land near Mangonia Park by direct legislative grant. The city and the Town of Mangonia Park are now wrangling over the acreage. Both want to incorporate it.

The city is using the new power of a recently-approved charter amendment which allows it to initiate annexation proceedings without action by the Legislature.

The amendment is now under attack, however, and the proposed bill would protect the city in case the court test is lost.

Two bills growing out of the race question will be submitted by the city to the legislature. These empower West Palm Beach to sell or lease city swimming pools and golf courses.

The proposed multi-million-dollar marina prompts another measure being sought by the city. Commissioners are asking for a charter amendment permitting the city to enter 99-year leases instead of 30-year leases.

This bill may be scrapped before the Legislature gets underway depending on how the marina case, now before the Supreme Court, comes out. The case involves the city's petition to validate seven million dollars in bonds to help finance a civic center-marina on the lakefront. The city owns the property and would have to lease it to the developer of the mammouth project.

Another bill the city will throw in the hopper empowers it to cancel outstanding certificates of indebtedness which are dated prior to 1929.

Other legislation may also be prepared before the Legislature convenes.

One bill might stem from the city's latest move to create "cheap" off-street parking facilites. Creation of a Parking Authority to handle the program has been suggested. This would take a legislative bill.

It has also been proposed that the city create an Off-Street Parking Department to deal with the problem. City Attorney Egbert Beall, in a curbstone opinion, said he did not believe this would call for legislative action. The commission is empowered by the charter to create new city departments.

Auction Operator In Dutch

By ARTHUR JOHNSEY
Herald Staff Writer

A claim that he tried to discourage bidding in a court-ordered sale of diamond jewelry brought a West Palm Beach auction gallery operator under fire of government attorneys Wednesday.

A petition filed by Assistant U.S. Attorney Lavinia L. Redd asked District Judge Emett C. Choate to hold Herman Kimmel in criminal contempt of court. The judge ordered Kimmel to appear Feb. 16.

The action charged that Kimmel tried to discourage bidders on about $125,000 worth of Kimmel's jewelry put up for sale by a court appointed receivership.

Receivers were appointed as a result of a controversy over efforts of the Internal Revenue Service to collect a $355,000 in back excise taxes.

According to petition, Kimmel's purpose in coercing bidders was "for the personal advantage of Herman Kimmel and the detriment of the U.S. Government.

Along with the petition, the government submitted a transscript of the testimony of Miami diamond merchant Al Levinson who said Kimmel came to his room in a New York Hotel and asked him to withdraw his bid "because Kimmel was in very dire need and he would need this merchandise to start business again."

Levinson said the bid was withdrawn, but when Kimmel and his associates didn't get the jewelry as they'd said they would, the bid was reinstated.

Eventually Ohio gem dealer Jack M. Werst, one of the nation's largest gem dealers, who submitted the bid for Levinson took the jewels for $125,000.

Fisher Helped Write It

His Trophies Record Delray History

By BILL BECK
Delray Bureau Chief

DELRAY BEACH — Frank Fisher lives in a double garage in the alley in back of the Masonic Temple. It's a little off the beaten path.

He's "Fish" to a handful of elderly cronies who daily sun themselves at his doorway and swap yarns about the days when Delray Beach was a sleepy village of 500.

His front room is a tool shop where he repairs antiques for neighbors. He lives in a trophy room in the rear.

The history of this city for the last 40 years is recorded on the walls and ceiling of this trophy room in the form of pennants, pictures, diplomas, mementoes and gimcracks.

His unique wallpaper shows that he is a registered doctor of optometry in Kentucky and an accredited optician here in the State of Florida.

Last week he made room on his wall for a commission signed by Kentucky Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chamdler making him a Kentucky Colonel.

Dr. Fisher came here from Kentucky in 1920 to die. While stationed in Honolulu during the Spanish American War he contacted Malaria. Doctors at Livermore, Ky., told him that if he came south he might live as long as two years.

While waiting to die he started the town's first jewelry store. He soon sold it to J. B. Smith, who operates it to this day.

With a partner, Tom Fisher started the first hardware store. Together they built a commercial building that today houses the areas biggest department store.

Along about 1923 the Chamber of Commerce was trying to get a newspaper to locate here. Lon Burton, a Georgia newspaperman, agreed to start one provided he was guaranteed a circulation of 1,000.

Because he had more free time than most of his contemporaries, Fisher was named to round up the subscribers. He bought the first subscription to the Delray Beach News and scoured the back country from Boynton Beach to Boca Raton to get the other 999.

In 1924 he helped to organize and was the first president of the Ocean City Bank. A year later he was made chairman of the board.

The bank went under in the bust and Fisher moved to Miami, where be bought an apartment building. His wife died there in 1933 and he returned to Delray Beach in 1941.

While trying to retire he opened the community's first optical business along with a long list of other businesses which he eventually turned over to younger men.

He's 81 now and has no family. Many people who have been here only five or 10 years have never heard of him. He reluctantly admits that he has been left behind in the rush of progress and growth.

"I was some 'punkins' in those days, but now I'm just a tired, old man," Fisher said.

Merchants Rush To City's Defense

By ROSE ALLEGATO
WPB Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The City of West Palm Beach and swank Worth Ave. merchants got their dander up Wednesday.

Ruffled by comments on business and beauty by a Palm Beach civic leader, they hotfooted forth with replies.

Alfred Kay, president of the Palm Beach Civic Association, Tuesday complained about the "homely approach" to Palm Beach from West Palm. He also reported that the exclusive resort was experiencing "one of the quietest" seasons in years with hotel and real estate business way down.

West Palm Mayor Horace E. Miller retorted to Kay's "homely" remarks with: "We're a business city, not a city of millionaires."

Jesse Newman, president of the Worth Ave. Merchants Association, countered, in effect, it's quality not quantity that counts. Besides, he added, Kay's remarks are "unfounded."

Miller, gaining momentum, elaborated, "Beautification costs money. We may not be as pretty but we don't pay as much taxes either."

Furthermore, the mayor said, other cities on the east coast do not have an approach any more favorable than West Palm.

As for Worth Ave., a street of national prestige and specialty shops, it's "doing equally as well as last year if not better," according to Newman.

Holding out a figurative olive branch, Newman added, "Unfortunately a remark like Mr. Kay's was no doubt unpremeditated. If he had thought about it, he would not have said it."

He added brief praise for the Palm Beach Civic Association but continued to take issue with Kay's statements.

Worth Ave. merchants, he said, have spent upwards of a half million dollars sprucing up the street and shops to get more business and "we're getting it."

Through its advertising and free courtesy parking, Worth Ave is drawing customers from Fort Pierce to Fort Lauderdale, the business leader said.

"These colony visitors," he added, "have supplemented the hotel guest in such a way that Mr. Kay might be counting empty rooms but he surely is not counting empty parking spaces in and around Worth Ave."

Newman, who operates two shops on the fashionable street, continued "We may not be filled quantity-wise but we're in a quality business. Quality people are here. On Clematis St. (in downtown West Palm) I needed 40 customers a day. I only need four on Worth Ave."

Worth Ave., he went on, has always set its standards so high that "crowds and mobs have never been prevalent."

Library Passes Them By

Bobbseys Nobody's Children

By HELEN Van HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — "Alone on the busy and pitiless street, with my worn old dress and my bare cold feet," begins a poem called "Nobody's Child." And that will soon by the plight of the Bobbsey twins as far as Memorial Library in West Palm Beach is concerned.

While the famous twins may be the nobody's children of the library, Doris Skidmore, children's librarian, admits, "the kids love them. Let's face it."

She says that indignant mothers who complain that they read and loved the twin series "and it didn't hurt me" are just being nostalgic. The books are connected with golden childhood memories, that's all.

Moreover Mrs. Skidmore says that librarians have been advised that Laura Lee Hope is a phantom although her name appears as author of the books. Seems the Bobbseys, the Tom Swift books and the Nancy Drew series were all plotted by one Edward Stratemeyer who passed his plots out to ghost writers and the books were turned out on an assembly line basis.

However if anyone presents the library with Bobbsey twin books, they will be accepted, put on the shelves and issued on request. The books will not be catalogued, will not be kept in repair, and will not be reordered when worn out.

Mrs. Skidmore has a list of desirable books for young readers, books with literary quality, imagination and educational value. She will gladly give this list to any mother who desires it.

As far as fairy stories are concerned, children know they are reading impossible tales about impossible people. The series books are psuedo-realistic, with the accent on the psuedo.

So as far as the library in West Palm Beach is concerned the Bobbsey twins may just go out and jump in the nearby lake. They are the unwanted children of the library.

Williams Joins Ad Board Dispute

Budget Opinion Is Cited

By ED PFISTER
Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — New fuel was added Wednesday to a controversy that has flared over the legality of the city's appropriating tax monies for use by the non-governmental City Advertising Commission.

It was provided by John R. Williams, who for a brief period last summer held the temporary municipal post of acting city attorney.

Williams joined in the new uproar by pointing out he had ruled at budget sessions last August the city could not grant public funds for the use of private organizations.

He added the City Commission must decide about the Ad Board funds "whether anybody likes it or not."

He rejected any inference that the present advertising dispute is an attack on the integrity of any member of the Advertising Commission or the Chamber of Commerce.

The present confusion and ill-feeling exists between City Commissioner Sylvan Burdick and C. Robert Burns, president of the Chamber of Commerce "because they are arguing about different things," he said.

It is "doubly unfortunate that the burden of disposing of the issue has come to rest on Mr. Burdick exclusively owing to the flabbiness of the other commissioners," he said.

His views on the new Advertising Commission hassle came on the heels of a clash between Burns, as representing the Chamber of Commerce and Advertising Board, and Burdick at last Monday's City Commission meeting.

They were contained in a three-page letter addressed to "whom it may concern," copies of which were sent to the press.

In the letter Williams said his statement was made necessary "whether it is published or not," because he had participated in and influenced the controversy," by the opinion he had given on the use of city funds at the August budget meeting of the commission.

Williams deplored the dispute, which he said developed from confusion, said he was not an expert on advertising and offered no judgment.

He wrote, "The ultimate question is whether we are to have an organized city government proceeding according to established law, and in the control of the electorate at large or whether we will have only a series of warring communes grappling with public issues on a piece-meal basis and resting on nothing more than personal arrangements, however productive such arrangements must sometimes be. These are the questions for the people to weight and decide."

Written in on the copy of the statement was a notation, "I am not a candidate."

Anti-Cat Law Urged

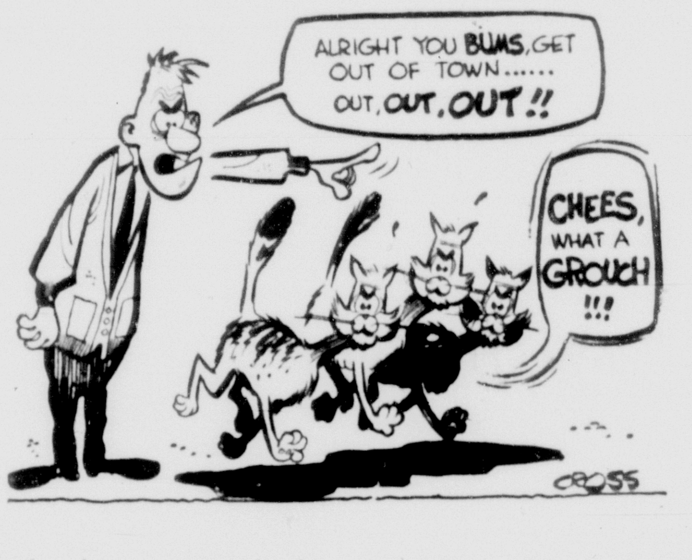
Fur Flies Over Felines

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Alley cats are in the doghouse in Palm Beach.

Hunt Dickinson, a Barton Rd. resident, claims the Town of Palm Beach needs a law on its books to cope with "wild alley cats. I captured four of the ferocious beasts with help from the Animal Rescue League," Dickinson declared.

The cats, he said, have been a problem for years. Some residents even say the birds have skipped town in flight from felines or have been swallowed by a sleight-of-paw that proved quicker than a bird's eye.



ALRIGHT YOU BUMS, GET OUT OF TOWN...... OUT, OUT, OUT!!
CHEES, WHAT A GROUCH !!!
CROSS

Dickinson calls it a "serious matter" even though he makes light of it. "I found three dead cats in my back alley," he said. "People are taking action on their own, and it is not good."

Not all are trying the trapping technique but are resorting to poison, he said.

Even the dogs are deprived of their day. Eleven canines, Dickinson reported, have recently been treated for poisoning. Residents in the Willow Way area also reported dog deaths, including a poisoned poodle.

According to Town Clerk Hugh C. Bruce, Palm Beach has a dog leash law but not a syllable on cats. Under the law, dogs aren't allowed off their master's premises without a leash. The town has no dog catcher. The leash law is enforced by the Police Department.

There's no cat catcher in town either, and police are powerless to act on stray cats.

Dickinson has lodged his plea with the Palm Beach Civic Association. The association plans to ask the Town Council to take some action on the matter.

Loans to Go To Boat Builders

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The Department of Interior has announced a new program of federally insured loans to build modern fishing vessels, sixth District U.S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers announced Wednesday.

The congressman said the loans will be available to Florida's fishing industry.

Under the program the government would guarantee the repayment of mortgages and loans up to 75 per cent of the cost of a vessel, Rogers said.

In return, the owner will pay the government an annual premium of one per cent on the amount due on mortgages and one-half of one per cent on the loans.

The program, when launched, will be operated by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Rogers said the proposed regulations governing the loans will be published in the Federal Register and interested parties will have 30 days in which to submit comments.

Murder Suspect Loses Insanity Plea Move

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A 17-year-old Ohio youth Wednesday lost a legal move that might have permitted him to plead "temporary insanity" to a murder charge.

Circuit Judge Culver Smith denied a motion by counsel for Kenneth Thiery — suspect in the Oct. 23 bludgeon murder of Watchman Joseph K. Brown — to extend the time in which an insanity plea could be filed.

Judge Smith held that the time for filing motions in the first degree murder case had expired Jan. 15.

He added that the court may "on good cause shown," permit the introduction of evidence related to insanity, but said nothing had been present to warrant such a course.

Thiery is scheduled to go on trial Feb. 10 for the downtown Guarantee Bldg. slaying. The motion on the insanity issue was argued before the court Tuesday, after the expiration of the deadline.

Meantime, the state's attorney's office took steps to bring here from Norwalk, Ohio, the child-bride of the suspected killer, who is expected to be put on the stand by the prosecution.

Police charged Thiery, who was unemployed, committed the slaying while attempting to steal funds to support himself and his wife.

Lake Worth Man Dies

LAKE WORTH — Edwin E. Walpole Sr., 76, died at his home, 14 Canal Rd., Tuesday.

2,096-Acre Tract Sold

WEST PALM BEACH — A 2,096-acre tract of land west of Lantana has been sold for $930,100, according to a warranty deed filed Wednesday in Circuit Court.

The property was sold by Mr. and Mrs. Ira I. Miller, Queens County, N.Y., to Sam B. David, as trustee, Hollywood.

It was the second big land transaction recorded in the past 24 hours in that area.

Tuesday a warranty deed was filed indicating the sale of 780 acres for $1,142,800. The property west of Lantana airport was sold by the Mission Co., Inc. to Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Kintz and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan C. Hunt.

Paving of Roads Slated Feb. 8

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — The Road Department said Tuesday paving of some five miles of State Rd. S-68 in Okeechobee County is slated to get under way Feb. 8.

The project, to cost $149,588, will extend from Taylor Creek east to U. S. Highway 441.

Contractor is J. D. Manly Construction Co., Leesburg.

Ex-Manager Dies at 67

LAKE WORTH — Edward W. Greb, 67, former city manager in 1946-47, died Tuesday at a local hospital. He lived at 1117 N. Ocean St.

A native of Waukeisha, Wis., he came to this area in the 1940s from Freeport, Ill. He was a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict.

Survivors include his wife, Beulah; a son, Donald, Santa Monica, Calif., four brothers, and three sisters. Barton Memorial Chapel is in charge.

Steiger, Claire Bloom Star in Enchanting Drama

'Rashomon' Weaves an Oriental Charm

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK — There is a fantastic, fairyland quality about "Rashomon," the Oriental bedevilment which opened this week at the Music Box Theater on Broadway. It has charm, enchantment and enticement. Each quality you must interpret yourself.

With a diamond embellishment of stars including Claire Bloom, Rod Steiger, Oscar Homolka, and Akim Tamiroff, this exciting production by Peter Glenville, surprisingly, begins to make sense as it moves further into the story by Fay and Michael Kanin.

You have to get into the mood of the drama, with accompanying bells and music, to understand it. Appreciate is probably a better word than understand, for the analysis of the play has to do with the emotional reactions of four people who are caught in rape and murder in a sacred place in Japan.

This was in Kyoto, Japan, about 1,000 years ago.

The story has to do with a ruthless bandit (played with ruthless vigor by Rod Steiger) who comes to rob a Japanese family. Instead, he chooses the gentle wife, as played with wistful tenderness by Claire Bloom, as his booty.

The dignified husband is tied up, and he is given several chances to cut his bonds and save his wife's honor. Each time his dignity will not permit him to do so. The wife is then free to choose her future love, and that is the bandit.

While this realistic tale is being spoken, sung and performed, there is a side scene in which a priest, a woodcutter, and a wigmaker are making commentaries about the problems of husband, wife and more attractive (to the wife) bandit.

"Rashomon" is a beautifully performed treasure land of theater, and Glenville has given it the suave touch in direction.

With the splendid players, this production in particular should be saluted for the settings of Oliver Messel, lighting by Jo Mielzeiner, and music by Laurence Rosenthal.

Although "Rashomon" is a play with music, there are no musical numbers from which you can sing a tune. But there are plenty sword duels which clash with thunder and bang.
